Red Army Attack Threatens UN Force Offensive

SEOUL, Nov. 27—(AP)—Bugle-blaring Chinese Communist attacks today threatened complete collapse of the big United Nations end-the-war offensive. Elements of two Chinese Communist armies—more than 100,000 men—rolled back the Allies' entire northwest Korean front. The characteristic bugle calls of the Chinese Reds pierced the cold night air as enemy troops swarmed to the attack. The U.S. 24th Division, its right flank imperilled by infiltrating Red forces, pulled back from Chongju near the west coast.

It was the second time this month that the battle-hardened Americans were forced to give up without a fight the rail and highway city 51 miles south of the Manchurian border.

Surprise Attack

In the northeast, a surprise tank-led Red attack forced back South Koreans advancing north of Chongjin, some 55 miles south of the Soviet Siberian border.

Stiffening Red resistance was reported elsewhere in the northeast. U.S. Marines, pushing westward in a drive from Chongjin reservoir, were halted by dug-in Chinese four miles west of Yudam.

On the ROK (Republic of Korea) 1st Division's right flank, the U.S. 25th and 2nd Divisions battled the Chinese fiercely throughout Monday.

A U.S. 1st Corps spokesman said the 25th was hit hard in the major area, six miles northeast of Yongbyon. He said the situation there was critical. Reserve units of American, British and Turkish forces were rushed up to bolster a sagging 30-mile eastern section of the winding, 80-mile front stretching inland from the Yellow Sea. The front runs from 40 to 60 miles south of the Manchurian border.

An estimated 130,000 Reds, most of them Chinese in quilted winter uniforms, began the counter-assault late Saturday night.

South Korean troops and the U.S. 2nd and 25th Divisions bore the brunt of the attacks, which continued with increasing fury Sunday night.

AP correspondent Leif Erickson said the American divisions stopped the second series of night attacks in the centre of the line after earlier withdrawals of several miles.

Withdrawals

The situation on the eastern flank, manned by the South Korean 8th and 6th divisions, was not clear. Fighting withdrawals of four to 11 miles in the South Korean sector were reported Sunday.

Field dispatches indicated heavy Allied casualties. An indirect censorship settled over operations as a security measure.

Guay's Helper On Trial For Plane Murder

QUEBEC, Nov. 27 (CP)—Genereux Ruest goes on trial today for murder.

The grey-haired watchmaker who hobbles about on crutches is charged with "deliberately helping" J. Albert Guay kill his wife by manufacturing a time-bomb detonating device which caused the mid-air explosion of an airliner over Sault au Cochon, Que., Sept. 9, 1949.

All 23 persons aboard, including Mrs. Guay, died when the Canadian Pacific Airliner plane crashed into a rugged mountain top after the explosion.

A total of 150 prospective jury members have been called, and it is expected that the selection of the 12-member jury will take up at least most of today's business.

Delayed

Ruest's trial was originally scheduled for Nov. 20 but the date was pushed back to allow Crown Prosecutor Noel Dorion to complete his case. Ruest is represented by Irenee Simard.

There has been no indication how many witnesses will be called or whether Guay himself will be called to testify. Ruest was arrested June 6 as an accessory before the fact, almost four months after Guay, 33-year-old Quebec jeweler, was found guilty of his wife's murder.

Ruest's arrest came after the attorney - general's department studied a statement Guay made from his death cell in Montreal's Bordeaux jail.

Guay was convicted of masterminding the murder of his wife through the destruction of the airliner on which she was a passenger.

Trains Smash Three Injured

SCREVEN, Ga., Nov. 27 (AP)—A troop train smashed into a freight train at a small town depot today and both burst into flames. Three persons were injured, but none was reported killed.

The troop train, carrying about 200 soldiers, was en route from Savannah, Ga., about 75 miles northeast of here, to a camp in Alabama.

C. W. Collins, a resident of Screven, said he heard the crash and was at the scene in a few minutes.

"The freight train was parked at the depot," he said. "The troop train was coming from Savannah. The trainmen told me they saw the freight, and tried to stop.

"But the brakes wouldn't hold. The trainmen jumped and the train crashed into the freight."

Burning oil from the Diesel engines spewed over the depot and cars of both the troop train and the freight. The depot and several cars of both trains were destroyed.

Mrs. W. H. Wooten, a telephone operator, said "there's a terrible fire. The depot is burning. Both engines are burned. I don't know if anyone is killed, but I was told there are some injured. Every body's at the wreck."

Lost Belleville Woman Hunted By Police

BELLEVILLE, Nov. 27 (CP)—Police are conducting an extensive search for Rachel Fox, 44, missing from her home since Saturday night.

Miss Fox, who had been living with Mrs. William Bamford, left the house some time Saturday night driving her late model sedan. Her disappearance did not cause alarm until midday Sunday. Police were notified and the car was found early last night near Rossmore. The car was unlocked.

Police stated that Miss Fox had left her purse and other personal possessions at home.

She was employed as cashier with the income tax division of the Department of National Revenue at Belleville where she had worked for approximately eight years.

Two Winnipeg Fires Kill 2 Boys, Man

WINNIPEG, Nov. 27 —(CP)—Two week-end fires in Winnipeg claimed three lives.

Two small boys died in their burning home in suburban Fort Rouge. A night watchman was suffocated in a factory blaze in the national Tent and Awning Co. building.

George Miller, 66, was found overcome by smoke on the second floor of the building.

Robert William Heywood, 6, and Daniel Gordon Heywood, 4, were trapped by flames. Police held the boys' parents in custody for an inquest set for today. Detective Inspector David Nicholson said the children were alone in the house when the fire broke out.

Wild Storms Sweep All East Kill 11, Cause Wide Damage

Wind, Waves Force 300 Flee Homes

Screeching Gale Blasts Beach Area 125 People Injured

HAMILTON, Nov. 27—(CP)—The screeching gale from the east that lashed the Crescent-Van Wagner's Beach areas for more than 12 hours Saturday left a trail of wrecked and damaged homes, injured upwards of 125 persons and forced more than 300 persons to flee their homes.

Termed one of the worst storms ever to strike the district, it caused damage expected to reach into the hundreds of thousands of dollars.

A relief fund was set up immediately to ease the distress left in the storm's wake.

At the gale's height, power and telephone lines were cut, roadways rendered unusable and the mountainous waves were threatening to break through the dikes hastily thrown up by thousands of volunteers.

Weathermen said the blow was of "near hurricane" proportions and gusts in excess of 80 m.p.h. were reported. For a time it seemed the combined onslaught of wind and water was winning the battle for the beaches, but a sudden 180-degree shift in wind direction late Saturday night ended the threat.

Hamilton and district volunteers poured into the stricken area by car, truck, bus and on foot. Other volunteers came from Toronto, Brantford, London and several other towns and cities.

Disaster and relief organizations took over the task of billetting evacuated persons and Hamilton hotels and homes joined the YMCA and YWCA in sheltering the homeless families.

At the peak of the storm, an emergency transit service was set up by the Hamilton Street Railway. Trucks were sent by firms and individuals to join the fight against the waters and taxicabs and private cars were offered.

In command of operations was Brig. P. A. S. Todd, head of the Hamilton Street Railway. Assisting him were Deputy Chief Constable J. W. Thompson and Deputy Fire Chief Jerry O'Connor. Also on the scene were Mayor Lloyd D. Jackson and Maj.-Gen. Chris Vokes of central command, Oakville.

NEAR THE MANCHURIAN BORDER in North Korea, where an all-out United Nations offensive is now taking place against North Korean and Chinese Red troops, these soldiers of the US Seventh Division fan out as they cross a small frozen stream. They are fighting in zero and sub-zero temperatures.

Storm Kills 226, Smashes U S

NEW YORK, Nov. 27—(AP)—Life for most of the millions on the eastern seaboard of the United States was getting back to normal today, 48 hours after the great Appalachian storm spread death and destruction from South Carolina to Maine. At least 226 deaths were blamed on the devastating winds along the Atlantic Seaboard and the heavy snow which fell as far south as Mississippi and Alabama. Damage in New England alone was estimated at $100,000,000, with threatened floods expected to add to the coast.

Most power, traffic and telephone service torn up by the storm was restored yesterday, but many areas still were cut off.

Thousands still shivered, and met the darkness with candles.

The storm moved away from the coastal region Saturday night, leaving behind a cold wave that hovered just under freezing.

Perverse Path

Contrary to all normal weather movements in the northern hemisphere, the storm's centre turned northwest instead of continuing northeast. It left New York only to swing over Lake Erie, then down on northern Ohio, and then northwest again over Lake Huron, where the Weather Bureau said it was blowing itself out today.

This was the storm centre only. Around it on all sides were raging snow-laden winds whirling out nearly 600 miles in every direction and hitting from Maine to the Mississippi river at their widest span.

Winds 108 Miles

On the storm's earlier northeast passage, the shore areas were ripped by winds with gusts up to 108 miles an hour, and drenched with rain.

In upstate New York, the rain turned to snow and imperilled at least 100 hunters in the Lake Placid-Saranac Lake region.

Storm deaths came from many causes. Many were electrocutions from fallen power lines. One man was killed by a falling cornice in

Socialists Win In Bavaria Oppose Rearmament Issue

MUNICH, Germany, Nov. 27—(AP)—West Germany's Socialists—bitter opponents of German rearmament for western defence—scored big gains in Sunday's Bavarian state elections. With returns still incomplete, the Socialists were running a strong second to the pro-rearmament Christian Democrats in the balloting for members of the state parliament.

The surprising Socialist showing in this traditionally-Conservative state is certain to be interpreted as a third protest vote within a week by German voters against rearmament.

Hesse and Wuerttemberg-Baden rolled up Socialist victories Nov. 19 in elections widely regarded as a slap at the Christian Democrats, who control the Federal government, for their support of German rearmament.

Federal Chancellor Konrad Adenauer, the Christian Democrats' leader, already has agreed to take West Germany into the projected western defence system. He must obtain approval from the Federal parliament, however.

Bavaria has been a Christian Democratic stronghold since 1945. In the election that year, the party received more than 50 per cent of all votes.

This year the Socialists challenged the Christian Democrats in Bavaria solely on the rearmament issue. They argued that the Germans should refuse to take up arms again until they have full independence and enough allied troops in Germany to repel any Soviet attack.

The Christian Democrats countered that the danger of Soviet aggression is imminent and therefore Germany should not delay in agreeing to rearm.

In every previous Bavarian election since the war, the Christian Democrats have easily outdistanced the other parties.

The Socialists are certain to hail their strong showing in Bavaria as a further vote of no confidence in Adenauer's federal government.

Reds Beaten In Austrian Vote

EISENSTADT, Austria, Nov. 27 (AP).—The Communist party took a terrific beating in Soviet zone municipal elections in Burgenland province yesterday. But the Communist press hailed the results as a victory.

Final figures showed the Communists received 4,612 votes, or 2.87 per cent of the total and won only 39 of the 2,683 contested seats in municipal councils.

The Peoples (Catholic) Party won a little more than 53 per cent of the popular vote and 2,039 seats.

The Socialists won slightly more than 42 per cent of the popular and 543 seats.

Burgenland probably is the only Russian-occupied or Russian-dominated area in the world where free elections can be held. For reasons known only to the Kremlin the Russians chose to live up to their agreements with the west as far as the Austrian elections are concerned. This was the first free election of local officials in the province in 18 years.

Gale Force Winds 85 mph Fallen Trees Cause Death Of Five Driving In Cars

Storm Originates In United States Whistles From Great Lakes To Ocean Leaving Path of Destruction In Wake

By The Canadian Press

Walloped by a week-end of weird weather, Eastern Canada today counted a toll of death, widespread property destruction and untold injury in the wake of one of the worst November storms ever to strike that part of the country. The deaths of eleven persons in Ontario and Quebec were attributed to the storm which rode into Canada from the United States with winds which reached a velocity of 85 miles an hour in some places and were still of gale force even at their lightest.

Whipping across the Great Lakes in gusts that stirred up tremendous waves, the storm left its mark on communities all through Southern Ontario and Southern Quebec.

But it took by far its heaviest toll on the low-lying beach communities near Hamilton in the wedge at the western end of Lake Ontario.

There, revised estimates placed the damage toll at $200,000, wreaked upon lake-front homes which were battered by waves 30 and 40 feet high. Twelve homes at Van Wagner's Beach were swept right into Lake Ontario during 12 hours of buffeting by the raging winds.

300 Homeless

Some 300 persons were left homeless as cottages were smashed and flooded. At least 200 were injured.

A call for aid to surrounding communities was quickly answered and Saturday night 4,000 volunteers battled to hold dykes against the swelling waves.

One of the workers, 21-year-old William Ness, was unaccounted for late Sunday night. He was last seen at Van Wagner's Beach early Sunday morning.

Later, he was located at the home of a minister who had taken him in, exhausted and running a temperature. After a long sleep, Ness was able to return home.

Traffic Accidents

Others of the storm's victims were killed in traffic accidents, most of them the result of windglazed roads. Three men were killed near the Ontario-Quebec border when a car struck a tree which had been blown down. Two women were killed in an automobile accident near Val Morin, Que. A car striking a tree near Oakville, Ont., resulted in another double fatality and other deaths occurred at Toronto, St. Thomas, Ont., and Strathroy, Ont.

The storm, which finally lost momentum over the southern shore of Lake Erie Sunday, struck an area from the Maritimes to Lake Superior.

Chimney fires were numbered in the hundreds in widely-separated centres as winds ranged

Supply Problems May Stall Reds In Tibet

NEW DELHI, Nov. 27 (AP).—A reliable observer at the India-Tibet border city of Kalimpong reported today that supply difficulties may force China's invading armies to seek conquest of Tibet through negotiation and the fifth column rather than with arms.

This source said the Communist invaders have had to carry with them the bulk of their ammunition and food, as well as food for mules and other transport animals, and therefore are making slow progress.

The latest runner to reach the India-Tibet border after a 12-day journey from Lhasa said the Reds have been advancing at a rate of less than 50 miles a week, and still are nearly 200 miles from the Tibetan capital.

The runner had heard no news of any recent fighting, but said the country's ruler, the 16-year-old Dalai Lama, has rallied a force of 10,00 reasonably-well-armed men to defend Lhasa.

Latest information from Lhasa said much internal opposition to the governhment had vanished when the Dalai Lama assumed ful. powers of his office on November 17. At that time he ousted the aged Regent, who has been accused of ordering the execution of many of his personal and political enemies within Tibet.

Ilse Koch Tried By Germans

AUGSBURG, Germany, Nov. 27 (AP)—Ilse Koch, the witch of Buchenwald, went on trial before a German court today, accused of instigating murder.

A portly red-head of 43, she sat stony-faced during the trial preliminaries. The prosecution accused her of instigating the murder of 45 inmates of the Nazi concentration camp at Buchenwald, attempting to instigate the murder of 135 others and acts of brutality to still others.

It was the second time she has been on trial for her actions at the infamous concentration camp which her late husband commanded. A U.S. war crimes court sentenced her to life imprisonment at trials in Dachau. The term later was commuted to four years and she was released amid a storm of protest. The Germans picked her up immediately for another trial.

Ford Workers Win 10-Cent Wage Increase

WINDSOR, Nov. 27 (CP). — Wage increases of 10 cents an hour were granted yesterday to 11,500 Ford of Canada employees, with an extra five cents an hour to certain groups of skilled tradesmen and foundry workers. The increases were retroactive to Sept. 1.

The agreement opened the way to negotiation today of the last remaining differences between the company and Local 200 of the United Automobile Workers (CIO).

Layoff Problems

Officials of the company and union are scheduled to meet in an effort to settle a month-old seniority dispute arising during a series of layoffs caused by a change-over to 1951 passenger models.

The Sept. 1 date for the wage increases is almost the date on which the union made its first demands for pay boosts to supplement the existing one-year contract. A union official estimated each employee will get from $40 to $60 in back pay, to be paid before Christmas.

7,000 Present

The wage settlement, reached in two days of closed negotiations last week following a wildcat strike that closed Ford operations for one day, was approved at a membership meeting yesterday of the Ford local. An estimated 7,000 members were present.

The union made one concession which Rhys M. Sale, Ford president termed an "important feature." It agreed to bargain for a two year contract when the present contract expires next May.

The union had opposed a long term five-year contract which was offered by the company during earlier negotiations in September.

Non-Union Boost

The company hoped settlement on wages would be reached shortly in negotiations with UAW Local 240, representing office workers, Mr. Sale said. Announcement would also be made "within a day or two" of wage boosts to non-union employees and supervisory staff in the Ford factory and office.

The dispute arose when the union charged that the company was not following seniority rules in its layoff of some 5,600 men during the model changeover. Company and union got an umpire's decision by Mr. Justice Ivan C. Rand of the Supreme Court of Canada, but were unable to agree on interpretation of his decision.

Strange Vegetable Believed Kills Woman

TORONTO, Nov. 27 (CP). — What a detective described as a "strange-looking vegetable" was believed to have caused the death last night of Mrs. Margaret Lee.

Her husband, Harry M. Lee, remained unconscious in hospital after eating some of the strange vegetable. Their two children and the children's grandmother refused servings of the vegetable at dinner and were not affected.

"It looks a little like sweet potato, or perhaps like chickory," said a detective, describing the vegetable.

No Trouble At All

Did You Ever Get Seasick?

ABOARD HMCS SIOUX OFF CHINA COAST, Nov. 27 (CP).—It's because a destroyer is so narrow, you see.

I came jauntily up the Jacob's ladder of the Sioux, tied at buoy 18 in Hong Kong harbor. Yes sir, that good salt air. Makes a man want to breathe again.

I found a place to sit down — no easy matter on a destroyer — and in a few minutes the ship was under way.

First Step

It wasn't long before it started to get too warm. Must be near the engine room.

The ship began to roll from side to side. But it also began to roll endways, too, bow to stern.

A bulb in a light wasn't screwed in tight. When the ship rolled, it blinked on and off

Going

Then somebody switched on the overhead fan. It rotated slowly.

Now the ship seemed to be rolling diagonally, as well as across and endways at the same time.

I noticed I wasn't answering questions put to me. In fact, I couldn't hear anything being said.

Going

A picture seemed to be joggling back and forth on the wall.

Then some instrument on the wall began to rotate like a ferris wheel.

The pressure was building up; the ship going up and down and rolling diagonally and across; the light flashing; the fan rotating; the picture joggling; the ferris-wheel whirling.

Gone

"Ready for lunch?" somebody said.

Even the good salt air was no help.

TORONTO, Nov. 27 (CP)—One of the highest decorations of The Netherlands, the Commander's Cross of the Order of Orange Nassau, was presented today to Dr. F. W. Routley of Toronto.

Netherlands Ambassador A. H. J. Lovink, who made the presentation, said it was conferred in recognition of the part Dr. Routley played as national commissioner of the Canadian Red Cross Society in the work of the Canadian United Allied Relief Fund for the people of the Netherlands after the Second World War.

Dummer Driver Gets 7 Days

Lawrence E. McCracken, 60, of Dummer township, was today sentenced to seven days in jail when he was convicted on a drunk driving charge by Magistrate W. R. Philp. McCracken had pleaded not guilty.

McCracken was picked up the night of August 14, after Provincial Constable Roy A. Feeley had followed accused's car for about three-quarters of a mile on Highway 28 near Lakefield. The officer testified today that McCracken was driving in "an irregular manner."

"There was a strong aroma of liquor in the car when I stopped him," Constable Feeley told court. "He had a passenger with him who also smelled of liquor.

"I asked him to walk along the highway, and he did, for about 15 feet. He staggered like a drunken man," said the officer."

McCracken said he had only taken four glasses of beer in a Peterborough hotel that day, and that his passenger was drunk. "He fell against me half a dozen times between Peterborough and Lakefield, and I had trouble keeping him awake and away from me."

Stopped To Clear Glass Other Car Bangs Up

When a westbound motorist stopped on Highway 7 Sunday night to clean off his windshield it caused a two-car collision totalling $75. The accident was 15 miles east of Peterborough.

Aubrey McNaughton of Whitevile P. O., was driving toward Peterborough and found his windshield covered by snow, he stopped his car to clean it off and a second west bound car, driven by Harry Woods of Oshawa, struck the rear of his parked car.

The left front fender, headlight and the grill of Woods' vehicle were damaged, while McNaughton's auto had the trunk dented.

Provincial Constables D. W. Coffey and J. G. Healey investigated.

Prices Decline On Stock Market

TORONTO, Nov. 27 (CP). — Prices declined steadily as the session progressed on the Toronto Stock Exchange today.

Industrials sagged with a wide list of issues lower. Losses ranged to more than a point and there were more than twice as many losses as gains. Steels, utilities and papers lost the most with a solid list of leaders lower. Agricultures, refining oils and retail stores showed a majority of losses.

Base metals opened lower and then continued downwards with declines ranging to $1.50. Consolidated Smelters dropped 1½ and Hudson Bay was down $1.25 Other key issues that were lower included International Nickel, Quemont, Waite Amulet and Steep Rock.

The gold decline was a complete reversal of their strong gains of the past two sessions. Senior producers dipped up to 35 cents while junior producers traded actively for a wide list of penny losses.

Western oils sagged up to 35 cents.

from 50 to 85 miles an hour. Arrival of five navy ships was delayed at Halifax overnight by the rough seas whipped up by the winds, although there was little damage throughout the Maritimes generally. Chimney fires were the chief worry in Saint John, N. B., but other communities reported the winds did little but make a lot of noise.

The Quebec area suffered some damage, mostly minor. Low-lying docks along the St. Lawrence were battered and windows broken. The Franconia docked at Wolfe's Cove, Saturday night with no difficulty, although pilots remembering how the ship went aground in the St. Lawrence a few months ago, took special care.

Disrupt Hydro

Montreal felt the force of heavy gale winds and driving rain which disrupted power supply in some outlying areas. Firemen answered 30 fire alarms mostly chimney fires. But a two-alarm fire caused heavy damage to a large wooden shed at Dominion Glass Company Saturday night.

The Ottawa Valley was hit hard, with power and communications lines snarled, trees snapped and many buildings damaged.

Vessels on the St. Lawrence and Great Lakes had a difficult time against the winds, but only three reported real trouble. The Canada Steamships Line freighter Weyburn limped into Toronto harbor early Sunday, listing 40 degrees to port after her cargo shifted in the gale. No one aboard was seriously injured and the cargo of steel plates was intact despite the battering.

Freighter Rammed

In Lake Michigan, 85 miles south of Sault Ste. Marie, the super-freighter Enders Voorhees, of the Pittsburgh Steamship Company, was rammed by the ore carrier Elton Hoyt. Both ships took cover in Mackinaw, Mich., to be repaired. The Voorhees was left with an 18-degree list.

Cities along the St. Lawrence and Lake Ontario suffered damage of varying proportions. Cornwall saw its 40-year-old grandstand demolished when the roof was tossed 100 feet by the wind.

Trees were blown down in every section of Cobourg and a large part of the town was blacked out from 5:30 p.m. Saturday until late Sunday afternoon.

Tug Broke Loose

At Port Stanley, the tug Dungil broke loose from its moorings and was battered against the side of the J. M. Loder.

At Kingston the coal carrier Coalhaven reached port after a heavy battering by the waves.

Lake traffic through Welland Canal was slowed to almost a standstill. Only three vessels cleared Lock 8 Saturday.

Western Canada didn't feel the effects of the storm, which also missed Prince Edward Island, Newfoundland and parts of the Maritimes. In the west the weather was normally cold for this time of the year.

RECEIVES WORD

Edgar E. Wood, 186 Lake St., received word recently of the death of his mother, Mrs. F. Wood, 92, of Rugby, England. She leaves three daughters and two sons in Rugby, Mr. Wood, and Hubert Wood of Lyon Falls, New York.

CAMPBELL ROWATT of 400 Dublin St., was elected secretary-treasurer of Zone Five of Ontario Federation of Anglers and Hunters in Toronto on Sunday.

In Tokyo, Gen. MacArthur's spokesman said the Chinese counter-blows were expected. He said that the U.N. offensive, which MacArthur hoped would end the war by Christmas, was halted "temporarily" but "is continuing".

The spokesman described Sunday's withdrawals as limited, and added that, in any general advance, the foremost spearheads can be expected to be pushed back. That is what is happening now, he said.

Advance In Northeast

Only in the northeast were allied advances reported. But Red resistance in some sectors there was stiffening.

In the north-central sector, U.S. Marines drove westward from the big Changjin power reservoir toward a Red redoubt in snow-mantled mountains.

It was too early to see whether, and to what extent, the Marine drive would help U.N. forces falling back on the northwest front.

From U.S. Eighth Army headquarters, correspondent Erickson reported at least 10 Chinese Red divisions—numbering 8,000 to 10,000 men each—were estimated to be on the eastern half of the northwest front.

The Reds evidently were trying to turn the entire right flank of the Eighth Army in the Tokchon area. They wrested Tokchon from the South Korean 7th division Monday.

Penetrate Koreans

The Reds, moving with small arms and mortar fire, penetrated South Korean positions around the rail and highway city in regimental strength. Tokchon was the main anchor of the east part of the U.N. line.

An Eighth Army spokesman said U.S. First Cavalry troops, held in reserve since early November when another Red counter-attack rolled back the northwest line, were rushed to bolster the South Korean 7th division.

Also moving up to the dented allied line were the British 27th Brigade and the Turkish Brigade. There was no information as to where these forces would be thrown into the battle.

The heavy Communist blows on the centre and east flank of the line forced the U.S. 24th Division, at the west end, to throw up defensive positions north and west of Chongju.

On the 24th's right flank, the South Korean 1st Division fell back two miles after heavy Red infantry attacks west of Taechon.

AP Correspondent Don Whitehead said the Red drive in that sector and in the centre of the line was aimed at Anju, Allied bridgehead on the Chongchon River, 20 miles to the south.

East of Taechon and five miles northwest of Kujang a battalion of the U.S. 25th Dvision was cut off Sunday. It was reported still isolated Monday. Attempts to air drop ammunition and supplies were called off when encircling Reds occupied the drop zone.

On the 25th Division's right flank, the U.S. 2nd Division pulled some elements back across the icy Chongchon River north of Kujang. And, by Monday morning, began a counter-drive toward high ground northeast of Kujang.

A strong Red force was reported attacking the South Korean 8th Division at Maengsam, 11 miles south of Yongwon. Another large Communist force was reported trying to outflank it farther east.

Civilians said the flanking force appeared to be headed for Songchon, about 30 miles south of the front. By-passed Red guerrillas seized the town last week but were driven out by a South Korean regiment.

Northeast of the UN main line, the U.S. 1st Marine Division pushed off in the teeth of subfreezing winds in a drive toward a reported mountain fortress of Chinese and North Koreans.

MORE ABOUT—

New York City. Others were drowned, died under falling trees, from exposure, in storm-caused traffic accidents, or from heart attacks brought on by exhaustion and strain.

Land Hurricane

The Weather Bureau said the storm was nearly a "land hurricane," and rated it the worst ever recorded in the North-eastern United States.

All along the coast today were the signs in its passage—smashed beach houses, flooded flatlands, washed-out bridges, broken trees, windows, and a perfect harvest of television aerials. Boat owners took extra heavy losses — greatest since the 1938 hurricane.

Even Manhattan's stone and steel yielded to the winds. Some whole blocks still were roped off where cornices and parts of the building roofs and windows had ripped away or seemed about to give.

In Ohio, the blizzard was blowing itself out after having set a record as the worst in 37 years.

But in the snow-clogged cities and rural areas, thousands could not reach their places of employment. In many cases it did not matter. Many firms were closed "for the duration."

20 Inches of Snow

Stilled by snowfall reaching as high as 20 inches were many of the steel mills of Youngstown and Cleveland, the world's biggest rubber plants in Akron, the electrical plants at Dayton, and the auto assembling works near Cincinnati.

Neighboring Pennsylvania was hard hit, too, with the great steel centre of Pittsburgh shaking itself loose from a record 27-inch snowfall.

All schools remained closed in Pittsburgh, and Mayor David Lawrence declared a state of emergency in the city. He appealed to all but essential workers to stay off their jobs and help clear the city's side streets. United States Steel Corporation, Western Electric Corporation and the H. J. Heinz Company told their thousands of employees to stay home.

Buses Snowbound

All bus service in the city was snow-bound and only partial trolley service had been resumed today.

With more snow forecast for today, Governor James H. Duff declared an emergency in 17 western counties and declared today and tomorrow legal holidays there so that the banks could remain closed.

Farther west the effects of the storm were less severe, but all through the northern states there was winter on the land.

Warden Wilson Being Opposed

For the first time in 10 years of municipal politics Reeve Norman Wilson of Burleigh-Anstruther, warden of Peterborough county, is being opposed for an elective office.

This year, as he seeks his seventh term as reeve, he is being opposed by Norman Bolton, a former township councillor. Besides the two candidates for the reeveship there are five candidates for the four offices of councillor.

The three members of the school board were returned by acclamation.

Mr. Wilson was acclaimed for four terms as councillor, six years as reeve, and in 1950 was elected warden of the county—each time without opposition.

The five candidates for the four offices of councillor are Earl Trotter, Andrew Young, Gordon Lane, William Staples and Albert Bolton. Messrs. Trotter, Young and Lane were 1950 councillors; Mr. Staples is a former councillor and Mr. Bolton is a newcomer.

Chesel McColl, 1950 councillor, did not allow his name to stand this year.

The three members of the Burleigh-Anstruther and Chandos township school area, returned by acclamation, were Joseph Tucker, 1950 chairman, and James Reynolds and Roy Hall. The other two trustees, not up for election this year, are Donald Fowler and Ernest Tanner.

The election will be December 11, 9 a.m. to 5 p.m.

Bowmanville Workers Given 12-Cent Raise

BOWMANVILLE, Nov. 27—(CP)—An hourly wage increase of 12 cents across the board was accepted last night by members of the United Rubber Workers (C.I.O.) employed here by Goodyear Tire and Rubber Company.

The boost affects 680 workers and follows negotiations started Saturday.

Certain wage irregualities will be corrected so some workers will get a top increase of 19½ cents an hour while others get only 10½ cents. Included in the contract is a five-day week, instead of the present 5½ days, and time-and-a-half for overtime worked by shift workers.

Road Accidents Kill 15 In Wild Storm

By The Canadian Press

Three multiple fatalities were among the 15 violent deaths in Eastern Canada during the weekend, all from traffic accidents.

A compilation by th Canadian Press showed that 13 died in the Central provinces, and the majority of those were attributed to highway conditions caused by a storm which lashed through Ontario and part of Quebec.

Only two deaths were reported from the Maritimes. Joseph Dunagle, Sr., 69, of Stellarton, N.S., died in hospital from injuries received when his motorcycle collided with a truck. Colin McPhail, 43, was crushed in the cab of his truck at Pictou, N.S., deliberately driving it into a bank to avoid hitting someone after the brakes failed on a hill.

5 Die In Quebec

Quebec's fatalities were three men killed at Rigaud, on the Quebec-Ontario border, where their automobilie struck a tree blown across the highway, and two women, victims of a two-car collision near Val Morin, 30 miles north of Montreal.

The Rigaud victims were Real Filion, 37, of Lachine, Que., and Herve St. Amour and Rene Couture, both of Fournierville, Ont. Victims of the Val Morin crash were Mrs. Honore Bernard, 49, of Montreal and Mrs. Aurele Charron, 48 ,of L'Abord-A-Plouffe.

Ontario fatalities: William Fiscus, 40, and Jonathan Loftus, 50, both of Kitchener, at Oakville where their car crashed into a tree; Jack Given, 19, of Humber Bay in a car-train crash at Islington; Albert Townsend, 40, Toronto garage man struck down while preparing to tow an auto up a hill; Metaldi Lumanus, 55, Toronto pedestrian knocked by a taxi into the path of another car; Robert Gordon Boughner, 12-year-old cyclist knocked down by a car at La Salle, near Windsor; Mrs. Marion Louise Squire, 17, of Strathroy, pinned beneath an automobile when it overturned in a ditch, and Clifford Arthur Wentworth, 48, of St Thomas, in a car-tree crash near Strathroy.

Navy Checks All Junks On Korean Waters

ABOARD H.M.C.S. SIOUX OFF CHINA COAST, Nov. 27 (CP)—One of the main jobs of the Canadian flotilla operating off Korea has been investigating junks.

All the junks sighted—most of them carried South Koreans but some were pirate or smuggler ships—have been boarded and investigated.

The boarding parties have run into no trouble. "There are peaceful people aboard them," said LS. Joe Mayo of Winnipeg. "But who wouldn't be, looking into the wrong end of a rifle barrel?"

In a lot of cases, the destroyers have fed those aboard the junks. Some junks carried small children, their stomachs bloated by hunger.

Costly Deer

FORT FRANCES, Ont. (CP).—Getting a deer was expensive for Les Busby. Hi struck killed a big buck 10 miles north of Emo and the truck had to be towed back for repairs costing $200. Game officials said he could keep the deer.

GEN. DOUGLAS MacARTHUR (centre) tours the Ninth Corps' command post near Sinaju, Korea, after flying to the front to direct the all-out assault. MacArthur predicted the big offensive would end the Korean war by Christmas. With him are Gen. Walton H. Walker (left) and Gen. John Coulter (right).

Bad Wind Storm Blows In Windows

CAMPBELLFORD, Nov. 27.—(ENS).—Winds of gale force lashed the Campbellford area on Saturday, accompanied by a driving snow. Tree branches littered the streets of the town, and traffic moved slowly.

A large Manitoba maple tree on George Street was blown down by the winds, narrowly missing two houses, one occupied by Miss Stella Keir, and the other by Don Montgomery. Wires were torn down by the tree in its fall, and workmen from the Public Utilities Commission and the Bell Telephone Company were called out. No one was injured, but one awe-struck pedestrian stood rooted to the spot when the tree fell. He was just passing the trunk of the tree when it toppled with a roar, away from him.

Windows in at least two business establishments on Front St. were blown in, an overhead sign was ripped from the building to which it it was attached, and a chimney on the Reindeau block on the west side of the river was blown down. Mr. Robert McGregor, who operates a sports shop in the building, said he thought it was an earthquake, as everything on the shelves of the store rattled and shook.

No accidents were reported, probably because motorists heeded the warnings to drive carefully.

Contests For Reeve, Deputy Take Form In Otonabee

This year will be a two-way battle for both the offices of reeve an deputy-reeve in Otonabee township. Council and trustees were returned by acclamation.

Candidates for Reeve will be Harry Reeve, reeve for the last two years, and Dick Stewart, deputy reeve for the last two years. Mr. Stewart, who together with Mr. Reid represents Otonabee in the county council, decided to make his bid for the senior office in 1951.

Mr. Reid was defeated in his bid for the reeveship in 1948 by W. W. Dawson; next year he turned the tables by edging Mr. Dawson in a strongly-controversial election. He was returned unopposed in 1950.

Mr. Stewart was also returned by acclmation in 1950 after defeating Percy Davidson for the deputy-reeveship in 1949.

Roy Spears and Dave McIntyre, both prominent in Otonabee politics for a number of years, are the two candidates contesting the 1951 deputy-reeveship. Mr. Spears and Mr. McIntyre were both councillors in 1950.

The three councillors returned by acclamation were Peter Mather, former reeve of Otonabee and warden of Peterborough county in 1943; Norman McConkey, 1950 councillor, and William Chambers.

Mr. Mather voluntarily dropped out of the municipal picture at the end of his 1948 term of office as reeve. His return is one of the features of the 1951 campaign.

Wellington Sutton and Frank Savigny were acclaimed as trustees on the Otonabee School Area Board. Mr. Sutton was a trustee in 1950 but Mr. Sevigny is replacing Fred Hall who decided not to run for office this year.

Two other nominees for the board—Arnold Sexsmith and Willan Hutchinson—did not qualify.

The election will be December 4, the polls open from 10 a.m. to 7 p.m.

REEVE HARRY REID, LEFT, and Deputy Reeve Dick Stewart, RIGHT, are contesting the 1951 reeveship in Otonabee township. Both were elected to their present offices in 1949 and were returned unopposed in 1950. But this year Mr. Stewart is trying for the senior office.

The candy table, with Mrs. O. Reid, Mrs. A. Beebe and Mrs. N. Beebe in charge; the fish pond, with Misses Marilyn Barnard and Joyce Atcheson in charge, did a thriving business; as did the "touch and table table" in charge of Mrs. L. Finnie and Mrs. Earl Wilson. The bazaar table with pillow covers, tea towels, patterns, socks, mitts, etc. brought over thirty dollars and was in charge of Mrs. E. Westington and Mrs. Robert Dawson.

"...the Austin was magnificent!"

From the far north comes this unsolicited letter praising the performance of the Austin A40 Devon. The above excerpt is perhaps typical of the many comments of Austin owners who have proven to themselves that for economy, comfort, safety and dependability, Austin is the car for Canadians.

Mill Rates Lie

Peterborough folk are bemoaning the tax rate: 49.5 mills on the dollar of assessment this year, the highest in the city's history. Next year it is expected to rise to 52 or 53 mills. It is a high rate, but any such rate should be considered on the basis of assessment. Peterborough properties are assessed far below their actual value. A proper gauge of taxation is the amount per capita—how much actual tax money is paid per head. For instance, Toronto had a mill rate in 1949 of 30.5—almost 20 mills below Peterborough's rate. Yet in actual tax per person the rate was $61.62. Peterborough people paid $46.24 last year. These figures are computed on a basis of total population, not on the number of ratepaying persons. The significance of these dollar rates is affected therefore, by the proportion of ratepayers to non-ratepayers in the community.

* * *

How does the real tax in Peterborough compare with the tax in other cities of relative size? Here are the 1949 tax rates of eight Ontario cities, according to the tax per person. The mill rate is shown in brackets following: St. Catharines $51.55 (50 mills); Kitchener $50.83 (49.5 mills); Brantford $47.97 (49 mills); Peterborough $46.24 (45.5 mills); Sarnia $45.64 (48 mills); Oshawa $42.88 (36 mills); Kingston $42.14 (52.5 mills); Guelph $39.78 (59 mills).

* * *

These figures show, first, that mill rate figures, read by themselves, do not tell the truth about taxes—for instance, the lowest tax in the group (Guelph) has the highest mill rate. Secondly, it shows that while Peterborough's actual tax rate is high, so are the others, and Peterborough is in the middle of the group.

An Advertisement That Went Too Far

Taste and discretion are as necessary in advertisement as in anything else. A company which manufactures and sells television sets found this out recently when it printed the following advertisement, full-page size, in a number of leading U.S. newspapers:

——"Aw gee, pop, why can't we get a television set?" You've heard that. But there's more you won't hear. Do you expect a seven-year-old to find words for the deep loneliness he's feeling?

He may complain—"The kids were mean and wouldn't play with me!" Do you expect him to blurt out the truth—that he's really ashamed to be with the gang—that he feels left out because he doesn't see the television shows they see, know the things they know?

You can tell someone about a bruised finger. How can a little girl describe a bruise deep inside? No, your daughter won't ever tell you the humiliation she's felt in begging those precious hours of television from a neighbour.

When television means so much more to a child than entertainment alone, can you deny it to your family any longer?

An advertisement is, by definition, a paid announcement that goods or services are for sale, and the seller is allowed great latitude, and uses great ingenuity, in presenting his announcement in the most advantageous way possible. But an advertisement like the one above is not persuasion—it is an attempt to black-jack the public by working upon the love which parents have for their children. It is good to know that a large number of educators, parents and clergymen protested against this attempt to exalt a fancy toy into a social necessity, and that the advertiser dropped it in a hurry, and found a more legitimate way of selling his goods.

South In The Saddle Again

During most of the years of modern Democratic Administrations in the United States, the "Solid South" has possessed sufficient power within the party that it has managed to get its own way in most things. The Solid South, however, received a substantial setback in the last Presidential election, when Mr. Truman's impressive victory over rebellious Southern politicians—as well as over the Republican Party—was interpreted as meaning that the power of the South was broken. There was much talk of party discipline; there were a few predictions that the Southern legislators would seek restoration of friendship with the President.

Instead, the Southern legislators who were elected or re-elected in the Presidential year continued to carry on their feud with the President. They united with Republicans to defeat Presidential legislation on a number of occasions. Mr. Truman, for his part, was equally unyielding. He offered no compromise of any description, but adhered to the legislative program he had promised the voters during his election campaign.

This month's election in the United States, however, placed the Administration in a position in which it may be forced to compromise with the Solid South in order to get any legislation passed. The Democratic Party has a nominal Senate majority of forty-nine over forty-seven Republicans, but twelve of the Democrats unreservedly oppose the President's domestic program, so he can only be sure of thirty-seven Democratic votes. On some issues, he may expect with confidence the support of seven Republicans, bringing the vote in the Senate to forty-four—five less than the required majority. On the other hand, a minimum of forty Republicans may be expected to oppose all of the "Fair Deal" program except the "civil rights" legislation; if these are joined by the twelve rebellious Southerners, the union would produce three votes over the required forty-nine majority.

At the moment, the South has clearly regained its dominant position within the Democratic Party. It would seem hopeless for the Administration to attempt to carry on without first establishing a compromise agreement with the rebels. It will be interesting to see what form it will take, and when.

What's Wrong With Being Difficult?

When Bertrand Russell and William Faulkner were awarded the Nobel prizes in literature for 1949 and 1950 there was surprise in some quarters. Apparently there were a great many people who had never thought of Russell as a writer, but only as an opinion-mill and idea-factory; there were many more who thought that William Faulkner must be a bad writer because his books are not easy to understand.

Bertrand Russell presents a fine example of first-rate literary style because he puts forward unusual and often difficult ideas and opinions in such a way that they are comprehensible to any attentive, intelligent reader. This is very hard to do. Many writers can write clearly about trivialities, but to write clearly about involved and elusive ideas requires the pen of a master. It is the glory of Russell's style that it attracts no attention; it is a vehicle for brilliant and complex trains of reasoning. We feel that the Nobel award to him is a happy recognition of one of the finest writers of our day, whose literary gifts have been overlooked because he is primarily a philosopher.

The case of William Faulkner is not greatly different. Of him the Montreal Star (usually a very intelligent paper) writes that his "pathological studies of the deep south are clothed in a prose style which has to be read twice before the discovery is made that it is not worth reading once. This appears to us to be an intemperate judgement. Is it so very dreadful to have to read a thing twice to understand it? Is the quality of being readily understood the first one that we should look for in a novelist? It is the opinion of many able critics that Faulkner's difficult and involved prose style is the most suitable vehicle for the stories he tells and the atmosphere he seeks to communicate. These stories are not aways pretty, and the atmosphere is not always a bracing and salubrious one. But literature is not to be judged by its easiness of understanding or its cheery moral tone, or Mr. Thornton W. Burgess would be awarded the Nobel prize year after year. Faulkner is a great literary artist, and that is what the Nobel committee values.

NOTE AND COMMENT

A heading in the New York Times reads, "Communism Called Threat To Women". That will finish it! Women are the biggest vested interest of all.

At a cocktail-mixing contest in San Francisco, where three prizes were to be awarded, the judges chose five winners. That's a kind of judging which makes a man generous.

Now that barbers in some parts of the U.S.A. are charging $1.50 for a haircut, the term "longhair" will probably cease to be a reproach directed by oafs at persons of cultivated taste, and will become a synonym for a fiscally conservative citizen.

A Chicago woman complains to a judge that her husband "slapped her with a salmon, hit her with a quart of milk, pelted her with eggs and filled her bed with macaroni". Well, having provided her with bed the honest chap was making sure that she got board, as well.

Musical Notes

By PETER PIPER

MUSICIANS as a whole are law-abiding people, yet there is one law which is being continually infringed. I refer to the law of copyright. Every time that copies are duplicated for choirs or extra parts written out for instruments of copyright works there is an infringement, and the perpetrator of the offence is liable for damages. Public performances, too, whether live or recorded, must have the permission of the owner of the copyright, and a fee is usually payable for this. On the other hand cafe proprietors and the like are free from restriction in respect of their juke-boxes under the Canadian Amendment Act, 1931, as amended in 1938. There was a case in 1945 which went to the Privy Council. The wording of the account before me is quaint: "A firm carried on business installing and providing service for electrically operated gramophones which, on the insertion of a coin, performed musical selections from one or other of the records placed therein". The law is involved, and there are many exceptions and special cases. In case of doubt it is advisable to consult a lawyer.

◆ ◆ ◆

THE average layman may well question the necessity of laws of copyright. Why can't a man sing or play what he wants, without all these restrictions and fees? The answer is that a composer, by an arrangement of melody and harmony, establishes as it were a patent in his composition, and has the right to sell it. Without this protection the composer and publisher would be at the mercy of unscrupulous publishers and would receive even less reward than he does today. If a composer wishes to "market his goods" he must have them published. There are three courses open to him. He may have the work printed at his own expense. In this case the burden of selling devolves on him, as all royalties on sales would be payable to him. He may find a publisher who will offer to buy the copyright outright from him for a lump sum. This used to be done in years past, but has been dropped by reputable publishers nowadays. The third, and most satisfactory possibility is for an arrangement with the publisher whereby the composer grants the publisher the sole rights of publication subject to "royalty" payments on each copy sold. Rights of mechanical reproduction, broadcast and live performance are usually handled by the Performing Rights Society or ASCAP. I would strongly advise budding composers and authors to steer clear of publishers who are unwilling to publish on a royalty basis and undertake the task of publication themselves. If the publishers are unwilling to buy the rights of a work it is unlikely that the composer will be able to recover his expenses. There is the great lure of seeing one's own music in print, and many are unable to resist it. The best plan is to deal only with publishers who have a reputation.

AN additional complication of copyright is the fact that different countries have their own laws on the subject. Fortunately an international agreement has been reached between most of the leading countries whereby protection is secured, subject to local deviations. The only country of any consequence that has not subscribed to this agreement is the United States, which has its own extremely complicated set of regulations, which are a stumbling block to other countries. Through her proximity to the U.S.A. Canada is particularly affected by this isolationist legislation. There have been efforts made to bring the U.S.A. into the international agreement, but so far all have failed, owing to lobbying by influential American publishers, who are favoured by the status quo.

IN the eighteenth and early nineteenth centuries "pirate" editions were rampant. Nor were composers too scrupulous at times. Handel "borrowed" large chunks of works by Stradella and other composers for some of the choruses in "Israel in Egypt", a procedure that would almost certainly have landed him in serious trouble if he lived today. But before we allow surprise and righteous moral indignation to get the upper hand it is as well to observe that his borrowing is not a slavish copy — in fact he constantly makes adaptations and improvements to the prototype, transmuting the base metal, the common small-talk of minor eighteenth century composers into pure Handelian gold by some flash of musical insight. It is true that the bare bones remain much the same, but Handel manages to stamp even his borrowings with his own authentic genius. This is possibly rather reprehensible from a modern standpoint, but it also throws a new light on what constitutes originality in a composer. The only reasonably secure means of ensuring copyright in those days was to keep all copies in manuscript and to guard them jealously, like the Miserere by Allegri which was sung in the Sistine Chapel in Rome. Even this was not enough, for when the youthful genius Mozart visited Rome he copied out the whole composition after one hearing.

THERE is one point about copyright which is worth mentioning. An arrangement of a work which is no longer copyright acquires a copyright of its own. For instance, if somebody makes an arrangement for violin and piano of the theme from Tschaikovsky's Piano Concerto it becomes copyright in that arrangement. Of course, anybody else is at liberty to make another arrangement for the same instruments so long as it does not follow the lines of the first arrangement in such a way as to indicate copying. In this instance the melody and harmony, being by Tschaikovsky, should not be altered, but the actual lay-out should not correspond too closely with that of the first arrangement in order to avoid possibility of plagiarism.

CONGRATULATIONS to Mr. W. R. Potter, who has just completed 21 years of faithful service as organist and choirmaster of Knox United Church. A notice of this appeared last Wednesday in the Examiner, and I hasten to add my own felicitations. Mr. Potter's length of service is exceeded at the moment only by Mr. F. G. Mann, who has been at St. John's Anglican Church 27 years. We wish them both many more years of useful service, and in view of the longevity of most organists (all that pedalling keeps them fit!) there is every possibility of our wish being fulfilled.

How Good Are Russia's Doctors?

By EDWARD CRANKSHAW

THE dramatic flight of M. Maurice Thorez, the French Communist leader, critically ill, from Paris to Moscow, ostensibly to enjoy the superior benefits of Soviet medicine, has set people wondering how good the Soviet doctors really are. From all the available evidence, including my own vivid personal experience of being seriously ill in Russia, if I were M. Thorez I should prefer to take my chance in France.

This does not mean that there are no superlatively good physicians and surgeons in the Soviet Union. There are at least a handful of these, though some of them, including the genius Sergei Yudin, vanished during the purge which followed the new States Secret Act in 1947, presumably as a result of being too friendly with their Western colleagues. But men like Yudin are rare in any country. (Yudin, famous for his treatment of duodenal ulcers and for pioneering the preparation of blood plasma from the bodies of the newly-dead, performed nearly 2,500 battle operations during the war in visits to the front snatched from his main duties at his Moscow hospital.) What differentiates Russia from the West, in medicine as in so many other things, is the small number of really first-class men and the immense gulf between them and the rank and file. This is so great that a first-class doctor will often have to rely for assistance on a man or woman barely to be trusted with a hypodermic syringe.

IN other words, while the Kremlin is well looked after, and while the new upper-classes—ministers, factory directors, lawyers, writers and dancers, party functionaries, and so on — are ministered to by good doctors, who, usually holding some teaching appointment, neglect their duties in order to earn more roubles in private practice, the medical treatment given to the masses is erratic in the extreme.

Erratic rather than simply bad. In Russia you never know. You may find yourself in the hands of one of the many skilled and devoted physicians or surgeons—very often a woman—who wear out their lives, keeping somehow more or less up to date, alone, overworked, unaided except by oafs, in fighting sanitary conditions reminiscent of the Crimean War, and forced to use instruments which will not function and medicines put up in the wrong form. Or you may find yourself in the hands of the crudest 18th century sawbones, or a woman doctor not fit to be a probationer in a modern Western hospital, or a man who missed his vocation when he decided to go into medicine instead of being a fifth-rate Government clerk. It is purely a matter of chance.

The trouble is that the medical profession is not a first priority, and is most inadequately paid. This means that the rank and file are too often well-intentioned bunglers who would be weeded out if there were a greater supply of men and women of real ability, and, worse still, the sort of people who always, everywhere, go in for the worst paid Government jobs. On top of that there are the "political" doctors—men and women in the higher categories who are perpetually inventing miracle cures for the greater glory of Soviet science, and, in the lower categories, obediently bowing to the party requirements of the moment.

Thus, during the war, for reasons best known to itself, the Soviet Government decided that it would not admit the existence in the Soviet Union of typhus. There are many areas where typhus is endemic, and delousing stations are a feature of every Soviet town in time of peace. During the war it reached, in places, the proportions of a major scourge. But the Government had said there was to be no typhus, so there was no typhus; and nobody knows how many thousands died because the political doctors refused to recognize typhus when they saw it. A friend of mine was saved from dying from it only because he was a distinguished foreigner, with British and American doctors to call on, after the most macabre battle over his prostrate form.

More characteristic of normal behaviour was my own experience when, also critically ill, and in a condition calling for frequent blood counts; the doctors of the Soviet clinic withdrew in a body and refused the use of certain apparatus, because the English doctor would not allow them to pursue a certain course of treatment which would have been the end of me.

APART from the inferior doctors, the worst aspect of Soviet medicine and one which has lately been attacked a good deal in the Soviet Press lies in the faulty instruments and inaccessible drugs, as well as in the appalling delays caused by over-centralization. "Shops dealing with medical instruments", wrote a woman doctor from Krasnodar "refuse to take back bad quality goods, of which I instance from my own experience leaky hotwater-bottles, faulty syringes, quartz lamps with no burners, surgical instruments from which the plating peels, scapels too blunt to cut and, needle-holders which will not hold a needle". The same writer blamed the Pharmaceutical Trust for the fact that sometimes there are plentiful supplies of the most modern drugs and sometimes none at all, while she also revealed that many regional hospitals do not even have X-ray installations.

Russia has a long way to go. Most of the population have now some sort of a doctor available, which is progress in a quantitative sense; but the general quality has enormously declined, and it was officially admitted as recently as three years ago that between half and three-quarters of all the diagnoses made in Soviet hospitals are wrong.

Bible Message

(From the Authorized Version)

Rejoice in the Lord, O ye righteous: for praise is comely for the upright....By the word of the Lord were the heavens made; and all the host of them by the breath of his mouth. He gathereth the waters of the sea together as an heap: he layeth up the depth in storehouses.

Let all the earth fear the Lord: let all the inhabitants of the world stand in awe of him. For he spake, and it was done; he commanded, and it stood fast....

Valentino Role Worries Family Says New Actor

By BOB THOMAS.

HOLLYWOOD, Nov. 27 (AP) —Anthony Dexter is worried about what his family thinks of the to-do surrounding his portrayal of Rudolph Valentino.

Dexter is the luck lad chosen from an estimated (by press agents) 75,000 applicants for the role of the famed screen idol Dexter's stage name was Walter Craig. Before that he was Walter Reinhold Alfred Frederick Fleischmann.

Now the Fleischmanns are a German-Scottish family who lean to the clergy. Anthony's father, grandfather, great - grandfather and uncle have been ministers in Nebraska, Iowa, Kansas and Colorado. His parents, Rev. and Mrs. Walter Fleischmann, now live in Loveland, Colo.

"I'm concerned about what the people in the congregations and my family might think about the things they see about me," he remarked. "You know, some people believe what they see in print is gospel. They don't realize that some of the things that come out of Hollywood are far from the truth. I didn't either—until recently."

Arousing Mystery

Anthony himself is sometimes amazed at the things he reads about himself. Trouble began when the Valentino picture was filmed with no outsiders allowed on the set. That is a standard stunt to arouse mystery over a picture. But some correspondents resent it.

Although many will disagree with him (including myself) Anthony doesn't believe he is a ringer for the greatest of all film lovers. "The resemblance can be achieved by makeup, costumes and lighting," he argued.

As Walter Craig, the Nebraska-born actor played a number of roles on Broadway. It was Katharine Cornell and her manager, Gertrude Macy, who recommended him for the Valentino role.

U.S. Investigates Stock Sales Of Uranium Company

NEW YORK, Nov. 27—(AP)—Attorney-General Nathaniel L. Goldstein said Friday he had opened an investigation of the sale of stock in New York State by the America-Canadian Uranium Co., Ltd., headed by Paul V. McNutt, former governor of Indiana.

The company was incorporated in Delaware for the purpose of locating and developing uranium mines in Canada, Goldstein said.

He has opened the investigation under the state's Martin Act or "Blue Sky Law," providing for regulation and suspension of the sale of stocks, bonds and other securities for the protection of the public.

Had Gone Ahead

Goldstein said the company has "now gone ahead and advertised the stock issue" despite his questioning of some of the firm's promotion aspects.

Under the company's present setup, Goldstein said, "the public is being invited to put up $1,750,000 but will only get—at best—a 17 per cent interest in the company. The insiders have put up $90,098 and control at least 8[illegible] per cent of the stock."

No claim is being made "that any proven or probable ore reserves have been developed or that the existence of any commercial ore body has been established on parcels of land now owned by the firm in the province of Saskatchewan," Goldstein said.

Goldstein further charges that the company's mining engineer survey head, Maurice E. Young, "has a record of conviction and jail sentence in Canada for fraud and conspiracy in connection with stock manipulation."

Argos Slog Through Mud To Football Championship

By JACK SULLIVAN

TORONTO, Nov. 27 (CP). — The old-time two bucks and a kick Canadian football returned to Canada for 60 minutes Saturday. And to a wind-chilled 27,100 Grey Cup crowd the sight was uninspiring for one reason: mud.

Forced by the swampy conditions of Varsity Stadium field to revert to a game played by line-smacking giants—before the days of 1931 when the forward pass came to Canada via the United States—Toronto Argonauts and Winnipeg Blue Bombers were forced to play it the old way. Argos had too much know-how and they carted home the trophy with a 13-0 shutout.

Canadians Star

That was it, except for the glaring fact that Canadian-born players—overshadowed by American imports during the regular east and west league schedules—carried a big load in this No. 1 Canadian sports spectacle. It was the game of the year and the home-brews did themselves proud.

American imports such as Argos' brilliant quarter Al Dekdebrun, linecoach John (Moose) Kerns, snap Ed (Buckets) Hirsch, half Billy Bass and Winnipeg's snap John Brown, outside Joe Aguirre and middle Glenn Johnson played their part, too. But for one game in the year it was Canadians who hogged the headlines.

Dekdebrun, who adapted his signal-calling to playing conditions, got the only touchdown of the game—a quarterback sneak from Bombers' one-yard line in the third quarter — and paved the way for another third-quarter single when he intercepted a forward pass by rival quarter Indian Jack Jacobs.

Varsity Grads

But two University of Toronto Blue grads, Ted Toogood and Nick Volpe; old reliable Joe (King) Krol; and two Winnipeg home - brew second - stringers, George MacPhail and Pete Petrow caught the crowd's eye.

Toogood, 26-year-old freshman backfielder, topped all other running backs on both clubs with 79 yards gained from scrimmage. His name didn't appear on the scoring record but his plunges and superb skirts around the ends in the goo kept Argos in Winnipeg territory.

Volpe, one of the country's most accurate place-kickers, miss a convert attempt in the heavy going but was the game's top scorer with six points from two field goals. And it was Volpe who robbed 22-year-old MacPhail of a sure touchdown with a shoestring tackle when the Ottawa-born youngster was in the clear.

43-Yard Run

MacPhail had gone around the end for 43 yards—easily the longest run of the day—before Volpe sprinted across from his safety position to nail him.

Krol, a Winnipeg nemesis since 1945 when he embarked on a three-year one-man career of robbing the Bombers of Dominion honors, was up to his old pay-off tricks.

The old pro from Windsor, Ont. kicked a masterful game, taking advantage of the fickle wind which veered in all directions.

He kicked a 58-yard single when the ball was still relatively dry for Argos' first point, and drove a nail deep into the Bomber coffin in the third quarter by hoisting a soggy ball for 39 yards deep behind the line in the last scoring play of the game.

Petrow Takes Over

Petrow, who came east in the shadow of Jacobs, took over quarterback duties in the final quarter when the former Green Bay packer couldn't get his highly-publicized passing attack to click.

The 25-year-old Winnipeg native promptly completed the longest pass of the day — a 27 yard fling to fellow Winnipegger Bud Korchak, who snatched it out of the hands of two Argo defenders. On the next play, he sent MacPhail sloshing around the left end for his long gallop.

The game, billed as one of the greatest of 24 east-west clashes, was robbed of the expected aerial duel between Jacobs and Dekdebrun which the largest crowd ever to watch a Canadian football game had hoped to see.

Passes Difficult

The wind and the mud ruined most passing attempts. Jacobs completed only two of 11 tries and had two intercepted—equalling the total number of interceptions against him over the entire season's play.

Dekdebrun tried three, completed one, and gave up his aerial attack for the afternoon. Young Petrow fired three unsuccessfully after his long toss to Korchak.

After the game—Argos' eighth Grey Cup victory over the Bombers in as many meetings—club officials from Edmonton to Ottawa openly criticized the state of the playing surface, and the apparent lack of efforts to protect it from the elements.

Pig Sty

"That stadium was nothing short of a pig-sty," said Jack Grogan of Calgary, president of the Western Interprovincial Football Union.

"If this game means nothing to Toronto . . . then let's have it in western Canada where it will be appreciated."

He saw no reason why people should travel 3,000 to 4,000 miles to see a "schemozzle."

Tom Brook, president of Calgary Stampeders who slithered on an ice-covered gridiron in the 1949 final, termed this year's field "the lousiest football field I've seen in my life." He promised to buy a tarpaulin and "give it to Varsity if they are that cheap," as his donation to future Grey Cup finals.

Bomber president Ralph Misener said before the game that the field was a "disgrace," and promised that he would "have something to say about it later."

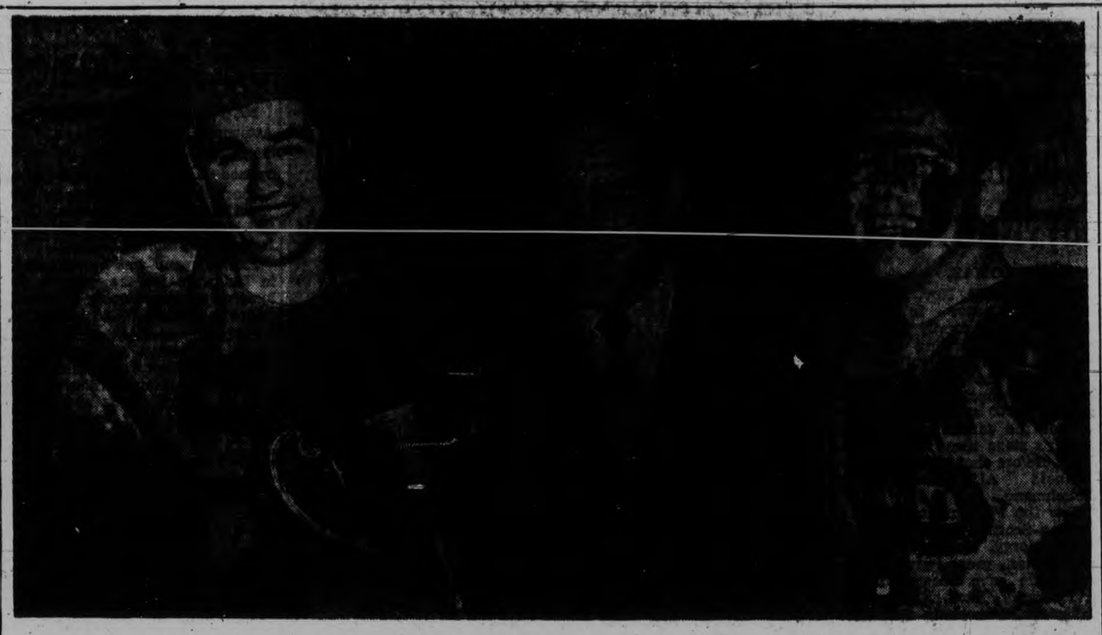
Field Not Fair

Eric Cradock of Toronto, president of the Big Four, said the condition of the field "wasn't fair to the fans and to the teams," and added that something must be done—and would be done—for the future.

Athletic director Warren Stevens of Varsity disclaimed responsibility for the lack of protective measures.

"It is the Canadian Rugby Union's ball game," he said. "They rent the stadium for the Eastern Canada final and the Grey Cup. It's their baby."

CRU president Tom Alison of Toronto said "actually the field would have been all right if we had sun." He added that if the CRU wants to do anything about purchasing a tarpaulin, the matter will have to be brought up at its annual meeting in Winnipeg next March.



GREY CUP CHAMPIONS—Joe Krol, coach Frank Clair, and quarterback Al Dekdebrun forget the mud as they take the Grey Cup back to the dressing-room after Toronto Argonauts downed Winnipeg Blue Bombers 13-0 in Saturday's East-West football classic at Toronto's Varsity Stadium.

Cobourg Ghosts Get Title Over Montreal

COBOURG, Nov. 27—(ENS)—Cobourg Galloping Ghosts, playing on a muddy field in a driving rain and buffeted by a 60-mile-an-hour gale, plus the Montreal Flyers, won the Dominion intermediate rugby title on Saturday afternoon when they defeated the Flyers 2-0. Bob Cooper, coach and quarterback of the Ghosts, kicked both points.

A large crowd turned out for the game and stuck it until the end, although most of them were half-frozen and three-quarters drowned. Cobourg, with its fast backfield and expert passers, and with two powerful kickers in Cooper and Art Jones, had to play a strictly ground game. The wind was of such velocity that a kick well to windward usually ended up on the far side of the field. The ground was muddy and slippery and the white sweatered Ghosts with their white helmets looked like miners before the game was well-advanced.

Kicked A Point

In the third quarter, Cooper kicked a long low punt over the Montreal line for a single point. Montreal fumbled and recovered on their own 35-yard line after Cobourg missed a good chance to fall on a loose ball. Montreal kicked short. Cobourg worked the ball closer and on a Montreal kick the ball was carried off the field by the wind.

In the final quarter, Montreal kicked on their third down but Cobourg blocked it on the Montreal 20. Two ensuing plays failed to make yards and Cooper booted a low one from the 30-yard line for a single point. A Montreal penalty put them back 10 yards to their 30-yard line. Montreal advanced to their 38-yard line and an interference penalty put the ball on Montreal's 48-yard line. Yards were lost on the next two plays and the kick on the third down was short.

Final score was 2-0, and for Cobourg its third Dominion title since 1937. Following were the line-ups:

Montreal—Quarter, Tremblay; halves, Doherty, Johnston, O'Hagan; ends, Leroux Labelle; middles W. Young, Bartlett; insides, Harrison, B. Young; flying wing, Latchmore; centre Wilkinson; alternates Rock, Doley, Dudley, Doyle, Cornforth, Parson, Dunn, West, Forget, Iredale, Marusha, Farrington, Chakins, McCullough.

Cobourg — Quarter, Cooper; halves, Bevan, Darragh, Medhurst; ends, Hawkins Smith; middles, Burdick, Lees; insides, McNally, Seale; flying wing, McConvey; Admiston; alternates, Longhurst, Poynton, Jarvis, Holman, Sanders, Ross, Lewis, Douglas, Brandwood, Martin, Jones, Hamilton, Campbell, Currelley, Forster, Quigley, Jamieson and McGuire.

SPORTS SHOW WINDOW

By CEC. PERDUE, Sports Editor

The Grey Cup grid hullabaloo is over for another year, with Argos again proving superior to anything the west could offer. A huge crowd viewed the mud bath, and many more took it over the radio. A pretty fair football tussle, we guess, for the wretched weather conditions. Les Ascott, who played for Orfuns here before the war, was mentioned different times as doing the kicking off for Argonauts. Friday, Ted Reeve of the Tely, said that "this is one day in a way that we'd like to see get frigid, even if only to freeze some of those clucks (mainly dames) who grab a ticket just because it is the thing to do . . . the selfish people who deprive a real fan of his chance at the final to show how much drag they have give us a pain."

* * * * * *

We can't go along entirely with that. After all, Ted is one of the main drum beaters all autumn to build up interest in this classic and then he beefs because everyone gets the fever and tries for ducats. Blame the CRU for distribution, if you want to—or even the scribes who act as Grey Cup press agents—but don't blame the ordinary person for wanting to see what it is all about. A lot of folks many miles from Toronto take in quite a few Big Four games and you can't blame even those who don't for wanting to see the big playoff. No, we didn't go nor did we even apply for a ducat.

Ports Play The Links

Port Hope and Oddfellows tangle tonight at 8.30 in an OHA junior "B" fixture in Civic Arena, and we hear the Hopers have a hustling team good enough to beat the league-leading Lindsayites. Hence, Bun Kingdon's speedy IOOF-ers will have to give it all they have this time if they hope to down the Ports. A lot of streamlined action in junior hockey and these games rate much bigger crowds. While Lindsay leads the way at the moment, we don't believe that condition will continue long, as there are several other up-and-coming crews in the group, including the Triple Links.

* * * * * *

Petes are away Wednesday and Eagles at home in senior "B" play. Arn Dugan is taking up in hockey where he left off in lacrosse, being leading scorer so far for the Petes with 18 points in eight games, nine goals and nine assists. Chum Fryia has 18 points, and Honey Tompkins and Jake Wade 11 each. Bill Crowley leads the Eagles at bat to date with five goals and six assists for 11 points in seven scraps. Speedy Bill looks to be in for a good season. Dependable Bob Parnall is up there in second place with 10 points as he works himself into condition, while Joe Rochetta and Andy Milne are tied with nine apiece, Dooteh Vitarelli having eight.

* * * * * *

But Queen's Can't Add

Queen's and Nylons mix it tonight again in an all-Kingston senior struggle. Their last meeting was Friday and darned if Queen's didn't vindicate our high esteem for the squad by defeating the haughty Nylons 4-0. Yeah, Queen's 4, Nylons a goose egg! 'Twas a close-checking and bumping affair all the way, with Goalie Boivin starring in the winners' cage. But, alas, Nylons have protested the tilt on the grounds (or ice) that Queen's dressed 15 players, with no extra goalie. Rule says a squad cannot dress more than 15, including the spare goaltender. Somebody should teach these chaps in the higher halls of learning how to count—as we noted Queen's had one player too many in their last game here, also.

* * * * * *

Out hearty congratulations to the Galloping Ghosts of Cobourg upon winning the Dominion intermediate "A" football title over Montreal Flyers. Did it by a 2-0 count Saturday in the lakeshore town before a big crowd of frostbitten and half-drowned rooters. The high wind made tall hoists go haywire, so the Ghosts wisely stuck to a ground attack and went after the single points. Two from playing coach Bob Cooper's educated toe paid off to bring Cobourg its third Canadian grid crown since 1937—a most enviable record. Manager Fred Dufton, the team and the executive have every right to feel proud of the achievement.

Mike Rodden Disgusted At Grid Fray

By M. J. RODDEN

TORONTO, Nov. 27 (Special). —Winnipeg Blue Bombers will never be bluer than they were here Saturday when the vaunted Toronto Argonauts vanquished them by 13 to 0 and captured the Grey Cup in a setting so weird and ridiculous that it could properly, and without malice, be called disgraceful. Over 27,000 fans who had roared in delight when they managed to buy the precious tickets for the widely advertised national extravaganza, shivered and moaned as cold winds, rain and snow belabored mud-stricken Varsity Stadium and the last hasn't been heard about their howls of protest against conditions that made the so-called national final an unexcelled shambles.

But even the said handicaps did not erase the very plain fact that the Bombers were the most over-rated of all over-rated Western Canada challengers and in any kind of going would have been sitting ducks when facing an Argonaut team, which, believe it or not, wasn't nearly as potent as its boosters had claimed. The ballyhoo artists emerged as the real "champions" without doubt.

"Rowed" To Win

Those allegedly mighty and invincible oarsmen "rowed" to a somewhat convincing victory only because the Bombers did their exploding in reverse in their own end of the field. Their errors of commission were disastrous but of equal importance were their errors of omission and their utter futility.

Indian Jack Jacobs, former United States professional, came out of the west hailed as being the greatest punter and forward passer in the history of the Grey Cup frolics and he looked the part when during the warm-up he consistently booted the ball for 60 or more yards and threw passes that were out of this world But in the test of stern competition Jacobs became just another player who was destined to have his reputation buried in the water and the mud.

If Jacobs had been the dynamic and inspirational player he had been rated he might have sparked the Bombers into their alleged Western Canada form but instead of growing better he grew gradually worse and to such an extent that he seemed to be the most mystified actor in the most lamentable and ridiculous final ever inflicted on a gullible public. And staggering along with Jacobs were those Winnipeg wingmen who were submerged so completely that the plunging or lunging Bombers registered only three first downs throughout the farcical show.

What It Needs

It is true that conditions were all detrimental to football but they did not serve as an excuse for the shortcomings exhibited by both teams in most departments of play. The expose of futility as registered on this observer was so drastic that opinions expressed by veteran observers were sought and all those interviewed were in unanimous agreement that, 1—both teams were over-rated; 2—the status of the Big Four has been blotched; 3—efforts should have been made to make the gridiron playable under any weather conditions; 4—too much emphasis has been placed on the ability of United States imports; 5—the term "end run" should be deleted from Canadian football and be replaced by "wide plunge confined to one man"; 6—the Canadian Rugby Union should surrender to the nearest policeman; 7, no attention should be paid to anyone, even eastern scribes, who call any team east or west, great; 8—Canadian coaches should be employed to teach teams the tricks about ex-

Hurricanes Windless 10 Straight, Downed Again

By The Canadian Press.

When Waterloo Hurricanes broke into Ontario Hockey Association Junior A company this year the hometown fans didn't expect too much of the team. They were ready to agree that building a hockey team, even with the help of Boston Bruins' scouting system, was no overnight job.

But they couldn't have expected things to be as bad as they have to date. Bob Kinnear's kids lost their 10th straight game on Saturday when Toronto St. Michael's beat them 8-5 at Waterloo.

The setback was the 14th of the season in 15 games. Closest the Hurricanes have come to winning was more than a month ago when they tied St. Catharines 7-7 for their only point.

Marlies Win Five

But if things are tough for Waterloo, they're just the opposite for the Toronto Marlboros who haven't lost a game in two weeks and have come through their last five undefeated.

Marlboros are right on the heels of the league-leading Barrie Flyers as a result of a 6-4 victory Saturday over Galt Black Hawks and a 1-1 tie Sunday with Windsor Spitfires. The Spits aren't doing so bad either. They pulled within two points of the Marlboros as a result of the tie and an 8-5 win over the fifth place Oshawa Generals at Oshawa on Saturday.

The Generals split in their two week-end games, defeating Toronto St. Michael's 8-5 in the first half of a Sunday twin-bill at Maple Leaf Gardens.

Flyers Lead

Barrie Flyers, who weren't scheduled on the week-end, still lead the league with a two point margin over Marlboros. But the Toronto team has a game in hand. The tightly-bunched standings could easily change Wednesday when four games will be played: Galt at Windsor, St. Catharines at Waterloo, Marlboros at Oshawa and Guelph at Barrie.

Sunday hockey got a bit of a boost at Toronto when 4,322 fans turned out for the doubleheader. They saw a rough Marlboros-Spitfires game which ended in a tie without overtime being played because of the 6 p.m. curfew on Sunday sports.

Six Penalties

A couple of fights and some heated arguments with the officials resulted in six major penalties and two misconducts. Even Art Hall, Windsor goalie, made the penalty summary with a minor and misconduct, the latter for arguing.

Earl Johnson scored within two minutes of the first faceoff and Marlboros didn't tie it up until the five-minute mark of the third period when Ron Stewart beat Hall.

The St. Mikes-Oshawa game was quiet by comparison. The Irish got away to a 2-0 lead in the first few minutes but the Generals tied it up before the end of the period and were never headed after scoring three in a row in the middle session.

Lou Jankowski tallied twice for Oshawa, Bill Berwick, Alex Delvecchio, Gordon Boniface, Stan Mills, George Samolenko and Rio Caron getting others. Murray Costello with two, Bob Sabourin, Jack Weldrake and Willy Marshall were the St. Mike's scorers.

At Galt, the Marlboros had to come from behind after the Hawks took a 4-2 first period lead. They outscored Galt 2-1 in the second period and added two unanswered in the last period.

In Oshawa Sunday it was another meeting between the two Detroit Red Wings farm clubs. Windsor built up a 6-1 lead before the Generals turned it on with three last period goals, all in the space of 95 seconds.

PAT FLANAGAN, above, who tangles with Abe Zvonkin in the opening bout of Tuesday's mat card at the Brock Arena. Flanagan's success with larger opponents than Zvonkin, makes him a favorite to take the match. Chief interest is in the main bout which features for the first time here the titled Englishman, Lord Athol Layton, against rough, tough Wee Willie Davis. Layton is an outstanding grappler and will probably make Wee Willie say "uncle" before the night's over. The semi-final will have Lee Henning opposing Bobby Nelson. It is a well-balanced card.

Leafs Edge Rangers 3-2 Hawks Blast Wings 5-0

By The Canadian Press

With right-winger Tod Sloan rapping in goals at an average of more than one a game and Al Rollins kicking 'em out like a veteran, Toronto Maple Leafs appear well away on another winning streak.

Sloan, the National Hockey League's leading goal-getter with 13, bagged the clincher at New York last night as the Leafs edged Rangers 3-2 for their fourth victory in five days.

It was the 23-year-old Falconbridge, Ont., player's fifth goal since last Wednesday, when he tallied twice as Coach Joe Primeau's charges started their latest victory skein. He also scored two Saturday night at Toronto in a 4-1 victory over Montreal Canadiens.

Rollins Unbeaten

Meanwhile Rollins the six-foot-two thin man from Vanguard, Sask., has maintained his record as the league's only unbeaten goalie while substituting for the veteran Turk Broda. He took over last Wednesday.

The Leafs have won six and tied one of the seven starts the lanky rookie goalie has made.

Another goalie attracted attention in Chicago last night when the Hawks walloped the Stanley Cup champion Detroit Red Wings 5-0, gaining a split on a home-and-home weekend set. The Wings won 4-1 at home Saturday.

Lumley Triumph

For the Hawks, Sunday's victory was especially sweet to Goalie Harry Lumley, whom the Wings shipped to Chicago in a five-for-four player deal last July. It was Lumley's first shutout of the current campaign, as well as the worst defeat inflicted on the second-place Detroit club.

In other weekend games—both at Boston—the cellar-entrenched Bruins tied Rangers 3-3 Saturday and were whipped 3-1 by Canadiens Sunday.

Lead By Seven

The result of weekend action saw the Leafs extend their lead to seven points over the Wings in the league standing. The Leafs have 31 points, Detroit 24; Chicago and Montreal are tied for third place with 20 each; Rangers have 12 and Boston 11.

At New York Sunday, 12,584 fans saw the Leafs take a 2-0 lead on goals by Max Bentley and Sid Smith. Ed Harrison shaved the margin by tallying New York's first goal just before the penalty-filled first period ended.

Tony Leswick knotted the count in the middle frame, setting the stage for Sloan's winning effort.

Sloan's first goal at Toronto Saturday also was the winner, breaking a first-period 1-1 tie. Cal Gardner had counted Leafs' first goal which was nullified by Vern Kaiser's for Montreal. Sloan travelled the length of the ice alone to tally after taking a pass from Bentley deep in Toronto territory.

Double Relay

His second goal came after a double relay from Sid Smith and Captain Ted Kennedy. John McCormack closed out the scoring.

At Chicago, the Hawks were paced to their first victory in four starts against the Wings this season by veteran Doug Bentley who fire home two first-period goals.

His linemate Bill Mosienko fired in another late in the second period ond Roy Conacher and Gus Bodnar completed the route in the finale.

On Saturday, the Wings had had things pretty much their own way, slapping in three goals within 11 minutes in the third period before 10,393 fans.

Jim McFadden tallied for the wings in the first period and Pat Lundy tied it up for the Hawks in the middle session. Then George Gee, Marty Pavelich and Ted Lindsay scored in that order to sew up the decision.

Canadiens were delayed seven hours in reaching Boston Sunday because of bad weather conditions in Canada and eastern United States. A crowd of 8,239 waited 90 minutes before the game got under way.

Weekend Stars

By The Canadian Press.

Maurice Richard, Montreal, whose goal and assist broke a scoreless streak and aided the Canadiens to a 3-1 decision over Boston Bruins.

Harry Lumley, Chicago, who blanked Detroit as the Hawks won over the Wings, 5-0.

Tod Sloan, Toronto, whose second period goal gave the Leafs a 3-2 victory over the hapless New York Rangers. Sloan also got two goals and an assist Saturday to pace the Leafs to a 4-1 win over Montreal.

Top Jockeys Duel In Special

BOWIE, Md., Nov. 27 (AP).—Wee Willie Shoemaker, the wordless wonder from the West, and Joe Culmone, a cocky immigrant kid from Sicily, put their battle for 1950 jockey honors on a personal basis today.

The two little giants of horse racing will ride against each other in the Bowie Special, a $1,250 winner-take-all match race especially tailored for them.

Going into today's program, Culmone had ridden 344 winners this year while competing in the East. Shoemaker, performing on the west coast and in Mexico, had booted home 341.

Until last Monday, when Culmone pulled ahead at 332-331, Shoemaker was leading in the duel for the national riding championship.

Both had surpassed Alberta-trained Johnny Longden's modern record of 319 in 1948, and are gunning for the all-time of 388, set in 1906 by Walter Miller.

Today's mile-and-a-half special is an added feature, sandwiched between the seventh and eighth races on the regular program. There will be no parti-mutuel betting, but the fans will have plenty of opportunity to support either Culmone or Shoemaker in the other eight events. Each has mounts throughout the routine card also.

Here and There In Sport

By The Canadian Press

Sugar Ray Robinson has become the toast of the Paris sporting world without throwing a punch.

Since arriving there 107 days ago the world's welterweight boxing champion from New York has attended so many luncheons, dinners and receptions that his biggest problem has been finding time to train.

Robinson meets French middleweight Jean Stock today at the Paris Palais de Sports in a non-title match.

Sugar Ray and his party have visited various Paris night clubs, stopped at Georges Carpentier's bar, and lunched with Maurice Chevalier one day at a meeting of boxing writers.

The champion's training methods have baffled French experts. He spends much time shadow boxing, rope skipping, and bag punching. In addition he plays some golf and does roadwork, but has spent very little time in the ring with sparring partners.

At Cambridge, England, Oxford girls defeated the Cambridge girls on Saturday in a boat race, but no one ever will know the time for the event. The official timekeeper rode a bicycle along a towpath trying to keep ahead of the boats. He glanced over his shoulder to watch the race and fell into the river.

A round-robin playoff, embracing the clubs finishing in the first three positions, has been announced by Al Pickard, president of the Western Canada Senior Hockey League. The playoff was agreed on after a request from Edmonton Flyers. The Edmonton club sat on the sidelines for almost two weeks last spring while the semi-final was being decided. The new set-up will see 12 games to decide the league champion. Each team will play the other two clubs two games at home and two away.

Forward Steve Black, suspended Thursday by Detroit Red Wings for refusing to spend more time at their Indianapolis farm club, said Saturday he intended to ask the National Hockey League team to trade him. Black was fined an undisclosed amount and suspended after he declined to spend a third week at Indianapolis, where he had been sent to bolster the injury-riddled Caps. He served two weeks with the farm team before returning to Detroit.

North Bay In 2nd Spot Dump Cornwall 4-3

NORTH BAY, Nov. 27 (CP). — Hill Dwyer set the pace for North Bay Black Hawks Saturday night, scoring two goals and an assist as Hawks vaulted into second place in the Eastern Canada Hockey League over Cornwall Calumets with a hard-fought 4-3 victory.

Hawks opened with a two-goal lead in the early minutes of the second period after Ralph Orlando and Dwyer scored, but Jim McEwen tallied for Cornwall before the period ended and Gilles Genereux tied the count for Cals early in the third.

Hawks came back with Dwyer's second goal and a breakaway marker from Frank Ringler put the game away, although Pete Payette reduced North Bay's lead to a single goal just before the final whistle.

Bad Weather Cancels Ottawa Baseball Talks

OGDENSBURG, N. Y., Nov. 27 (AP).—Bad weather forced postponement of a Border League meeting Sunday to act on a request by owner Thomas Gorman of Ottawa that the franchise of the Ottawa Nationals be transferred to Cornwall, Ont., for the 1951 season.

John G. Ward, president of the league, said that because of storm and travel conditions directors could not come here for the meeting.

President Ward said league directors will meet as soon as possible to get a definite decision on the Ottawa owner's request.

Hockey's Big Seven

By The Canadian Press.

Toronto's Max Bentley continues to pull away from the pack in the National Hockey League's individual scoring race, racking up the odd goal and chalking up the assists at an amazing rate to set the pace with 28 points.

Teammates Ted Kennedy and Tod Sloan hold down second place with 22 points each, while two more Leafs — Cal Gardner and Sid Smith—come next with 18 points apiece.

Bentley's total is made up of seven goals and 21 assists, a department in which he has a wide margin. Sloan has 13 goals, the record to date, and nine assists for his 22 points, and Kennedy six goals and 16 assists.

Toronto's Turk Broda continues to lead the league in shutouts with four to his credit, while another Torontonian, Gus Mortson, has the dubious distinction of being the most penalized player. He has spent 52 minutes in the penalty box. The leaders:

FDR Could Handle Premier Stalin

NEW YORK, Nov. 27—(AP)—Franklin D. Roosevelt wrote Winston Churchill in March, 1942, that "I think I can personally handle Stalin better than either your foreign office or my state department."

"Stalin hates the guts of all your top people," Roosevelt wrote. "He thinks he likes me better, and I hope he will continue to do so."

President Roosevelt and Britain's prime minister had—in Churchill's own description in his new book—an "intimacy of collaboration." But they had trouble extending this intimacy to Moscow.

Churchill's book, "The Hinge of Fate," is the fourth volume of his account of the Second World War. It will be published today by Houghton Mifflin Company.

The volume covers the period from January, 1942, through May, 1943, a period in which, says Churchill, "for the first six months all went ill; for the last six months everything went well."

The "Hinge of Fate" was the battle of Alamein, which began Oct. 23, 1942, and marked the start of Britain's successful offensive in North Africa.

Weed Kills Livestock

SALT LAKE CITY, Nov. 27 — (AP).—A Russian weed transplanted in the U.S. is threatening the west's livestock industry, says the chairman of the Utah Agricultural Committee. Tracy R. Welling, commission chief, said Saturday that the weed, halogeton, "has been killing sheep and cattle by the hundreds, with financial losses running into the hundreds of thousands of dollars."

Full Military Honors

NIAGARA FALLS, Nov. 27 — (CP).—Full military honors will be accorded Gnr. Robert William Manley when he is buried today. The 18-year-old soldier died in the troop train wreck at Canoe River, B. C., last week. His body was brought here under military escort.

Colony Returned

LAKE SUCCESS, N. Y., Nov. 27 (AP).—A U.N. committee voted overwhelmingly Saturday to place Italy's last former African colony of Eritrea under Emperor Haile Selassie of Ethiopia, one-time victim of Italian aggression.

One Still Critical

EDMONTON, Nov. 27 (CP). — Hospital authorities said Sunday only one man injured in the Canoe River, B. C., train wreck remains on the dangerously-ill list. Condition of the other 41 persons being treated here was said to be improved.

Law Society Lectures

TORONTO, Nov. 27—(CP)—A series of special lectures will be given to Ontario lawyers next spring as part of the program sponsored by the Law Society of Upper Canada for continuing education of lawyers. The 12 lectures will deal with conveyancing and real property and surrogate court practice. They will be given during the first weekends in March by prominent Toronto lawyers.

Truckers Still Strike

VERNER, Nov. 27 (CP). — There doesn't appear to be an early end in prospect for the truckers' strike which started last Tuesday. Twenty-one independent truck drivers are out, protesting that the 60 cents offered by J. H. MacFarland Co., of Picton for each ton of gravel hauled from a highways department pit was too little. The truckers claim they can't make a profit at that rate. They want 90 cents.

ONE FOR THE ADMIRAL—HMCS Athabaskan became the first Canadian ship to fly the flag of a US Admiral when she carried Vice-Admiral A. D. Struble, Commander of the 7th Fleet in the Korean theatre. This Navy photo shows LS Harvey Symington of Edmonton hauling down the banner after the Admiral left the destroyer.. The flag was presented to the ship as a memento.

Roseneath Cites Canon Spencer On Retirement

ROSENEATH, Nov. 27—(ENS) The members of St. James' Anglican church held a social evening in Roseneath township hall on Thursday evening in honor of Canon and Mrs. C. R. Spencer, rector of the church. Canon Spencer has resigned from active work in the Anglican ministry owing to ill health.

Games were played. Miss Elizabeth Coyle was pianist for community singing.

Mr. James L. Timlin, rector's warden, read an address, voicing the appreciation of the people for the unselfish labour done during Canon Spencer's ministry and sincere regret that his health would not permit him to remain longer as Rector. Mr. Herbert J. McCracken made the presentation of a purse of money on behalf of the congregation.

Canon and Mrs. Spencer replied, thanking their parishioners for the many kindnesses shown them both in the eventide of his ministry.

Lunch was served by the ladies.

Xmas Turkey Stolen

ORILLIA, Nov. 27 (CP). — Thieves operating in this district apparently have an eye to Christmas profit. They have been stealing turkeys from the Ontario Hospital School on the outskirts of Orillia. The birds were being fattened for Christmas.

Washington Disclaims Jurisdiction In Canada

WASHINGTON, Nov. 27 (AP) —The United States Air Force said Saturday that "any indication on maps or otherwise that the U.S. has jurisdiction" over a large section of eastern and northern Canada is incorrect.

The statement was made in response to questions about a U.S military map which is the subject of diplomatic inquiries from Ottawa.

An air force spokesman speculated that the northeast approaches to the U.S., along which the U.S. maintains military units, may have been outlined on maps for the convenience of military personnel.

External Affairs Minister Pearson, told reporters in Ottawa yesterday that Canada has been making inquiries about a map of that area.

Pearson himself took the matter lightly but said the map might cause misunderstanding among non-military people.

Newsprint Plant Plans Rushed In NZ

WELLINGTON, —(CP)— The New Zealand government plans to speed up an $84,000,000 project for development of a newsprint industry in the dominion. The scheme aims at the utilization of the Kaingaroa state forest, world's largest man-made forest now reaching maturity in the north island.

The project promises to be a major factor in the country's economy within a few years and should also prove of wide significance to the sterling area. The export surplus will not be large enough to upset the huge North Amercian industry, but it may make possible diversion of some supplies to other markets.

Tests and trials over many years have produced a plan to develop a sawmill with a capacity of 70,000,000 feet of timber a year, a pulp mill with an output of 15,000 tons, and an newsprint plant capable of producing 100,000 tons a year. About 10,000 tons of other types of paper would also be produced. All these targets are well within the capacity of the forest.

Of this output, about 55,000,000 feet of timber, 10,000 tons of pulp and 65,000 tons of newsprint would be available for export. Most of this would go to Australia but some might be shipped to other Pacific countries.

Build Big Town

The plan provides for the building of a town for 10,000 people at Murupara, centre of the project, the construction of a railway linking the area with the main system, and construction of a deep-water port on the east coast of the north island.

Kaingaroa forest was planted about 25 years ago chiefly with pine native to California and the trees have flourished, growing and maturing much more quickly than in their native habitat. Some areas are already ready for cutting and others will be ready within a few years.

The government is confident that production can begin by 1954 and be expanded considerably in future years. It says exhaustive tests have shown the essential economic soundness of the scheme and that currency revaluation has converted the industry from a marginal profit earner of the order of about six per cent after taxation to over twice that amount.

Lengthy tests, including full-scale production trials with New Zealand timber at a mill in the United States, have shown the suitability of the forest to produce acceptable grades of sulphate pulp, newsprint and various grades of printing and writing paper.

The government will be responsible for the railway, port construction and much development work at the project, but it wants to see the sawmill, pulp mill and paper plant operated by private enterprise.

Great Harpist Entrances Concert Audience

By T. J. ALLEN

Mildred Dilling, one of the great harpists of this era, proved to her audience which filled the Collegiate auditorium Saturday evening that the harp and its music have a rightful place in the concert hall, as well as the grace for a drawing room and the romantic elegance for a court. It was Peterborough's first concert in the Community Concert series of this season. The audience was both spellbound and thrilled by Miss Dilling's consummate art and her instrument. She was called on to give, all told, five encores.

It was in the music specially written for the modern harp, and not in the adaptations from Bach and Mozart and scored for other instruments, that Miss Dilling was best able to reveal the virtuosity of her technique and harp, and to bring both into full play. The final number on the program, "Legend," written by her famous French teacher Henriette Renie, was magnificent. It is an unusual word to apply to harping, but there it was: interesting and splendid as a composition, powerful in the variety of rhythms, subtle in its evocatios and requiring the technical ability and interpretation of a great artist. Other music idiosyncratic to the harp was also received with enthusiasm: for instance "Impromptu Caprice" by Gabriel Pierne (which concluded the first of the four sections of her program), "The Fountain" by Albert Zabel, harpist to the late Czar of Russia, "Fireflies" by Alphonse Hasselmans (here was witchery indeed), and descriptive pieces like "Rain in the Garden" by Jacques de la Presle, and "Forest Pool" by Marcel Tournier with its arpeggi and glissandi.

Two encores which greatly delighted the ears were the rhythmic gay "Le Bon Petit Roi d'Yvetot" by Beranger, and "Dance Orientale" by Cady.

Favourites of Charm

In paying particular tribute to the music written for the harp and no other instrument, this listener must not fail to mention the delight with which folk songs and other favourites like Liebestraum and the Mozart allegro from the sonata in C were received. The Bach Arioso was exquisite.

Miss Dilling has a warm stage presence. The lighting which silhouetted the harp, and the sheen of gold from the spotlighted instrument interested the eye. Her brief historical talk on the harp, with museum-piece instruments to illustrate it, was informative, bright and intimate.

The artist is in the authentic lineage of modern harpists. Her teacher was Renie, whose teacher was Hasselmans whose teacher was Godefroid, who with Sebastian Erard was the early nineteenth century father of the concert harp.

3 Men Spent Night On White Island

ROSENEATH, Nov. 27 (ENS)—Three men spent Saturday night and Sunday morning on White's Island in Rice Lake, three miles west of Roseneath without any ill effects.

Arthur Ward, of Dartford, George Ward and Ed Miller of Cameron St., Peterborough left Sandercock's Point on Saturday morning in a rowboat to bring back two goats belonging to Arthur Ward which were on the island. They were able to row to the island by breaking through the ice, however when they were ready to return the wind was too strong to make a safe crossing.

The night was spent in a cottage owned by George Ward on the island. Food was scarce, but the three were able to offset the freezing temperatures with a fire.

Telephone wires were down as a result of the storm and Mrs. Ward was unable to contact anyone in the district until 8 a.m. Sunday morning. At this time she phoned Delbert Sherwin who lives two miles from the lake. He contacted Clarke Sandercock on the shore, who reported that he could see the men and that they were alright.

By Sunday noon, the wind had subsided sufficiently to make the trip back possible.

The men were only able to bring one of the goats back with them. The other one was shot.

Minor Damage To Six Autos

Slippery roads were blamed for two of three accidents Sunday in which only minor damage was done to six autos.

Henry Henwood, 264 King George St., was driving west on that street, and started to slow down to clean snow from his windshield. A car travelling behind him, driven by Clinton Stockdale, R.R. 4 Peterborough, skidded into the rear of Henwoods' car.

The left front door of a taxi driven by J. Leahy, 317 Burnham St., was sprung Sunday evening when it was struck by an auto driven by Jack Worral, 302 Braidwood Ave. Leahy was parked by the King St. bus terminal and had opened the door. Worral tried to stop, skidded, and his car hit the door.

Cars driven by Lorenda Kearney, Chemong Park, and Keith Smith, 246 McDonnel St., were slightly damaged Sunday afternoon when they collided at Hunter and Reid Sts. Smith was driving east on Hunter, and stopped at Reid. He backed up slightly and bumped into the Kearney auto.

Storm Blacks Out Cobourg Damage Heaviest In Years

COBOURG, Nov. 27 (ENS)—Cobourg suffered the most damage in many years from the weekend storm. Whole sections were without light or heat as circuit after circuit was blacked out when falling trees tore down wires. Aged people stayed in bed, bundled up in extra blankets, and waited until Sunday when the power finally came on at evening.

It was a nightmare for hydro workmen. Their job started Saturday morning when falling limbs nipped off wires but the trouble really started around 5.30 p.m. when a large tree crashed on Division St., taking a set of 4,100 volt transmission lines with it.

A car bearing three people stopped short just as the big tree fell across the road. They were going to get out when a passerby, noticing the broken hydro wires, warned them to stay in the car lest they be electrocuted. They took the advice and stayed there until hydro workmen shut off the current.

The short-circuiting of the line caused a power surge that popped electric light bulbs in houses in the immediate vicinity. Several transformers went also.

Cuts Off Power

On Ontario St., another tree cut off transformers when it took down electric wires Saturday evening. As a result of these two major breaks most of the town was in darkness and immediately oil burners and blower furnaces ran into trouble. The houses with the regular furnaces had heat but still had to do without light until late Sunday afternoon.

Trinity United Church and St. Michael's Roman Catholic Church on Division St. were without lights or power Sunday for the organ but they had a certain amount of heat. St. Andrew's Presbyterian Church was unable to hold services, due to the Ontario St. power cut-off. The Baptist Church had heat but no lights but was better off than St. Andrew's which had neither. St. Peter's Church on King St. east was not affected by the power black-outs. The General Hospital, located in a circuit that was not cut off, was all right but the Ontario Hospital, in the black-out area, was without lights.

Lieut. D. Rea of the Salvation Army, who helped people away from broken wires on Division St. and also drove town employees to the emergency area, had troubles of his own while he was helping others in trouble. At his home a large tree knocked the corner off his verandah and tore away the eave-trough and the edge of the front part of the roof.

Weather Towed Down

At the centre pier, the wind early Saturday morning bent over the 40-foot weather tower until it was leaning at a 50 degrees angle over the water. The wind on Saturday night finished the job, collapsing the tower until it was dipping into the water at an angle of 45 degrees. Nobody knows how strong the wind was at the time, except that it was strong enough to blow it over.

The water pumping station had to use its gasoline engines all Saturday night up until 8:20 p.m. Sunday had no electric power. The result was that water pressure was low all day. The sewage disposal plant had no power and the emergency overflows were used, by-passing the sewage instead of putting it through the electric-powered filters and clarifiers. All in all it was a nightmare of a weekend for most Cobourg citizens, and for hydro men a 24-hour work day.

Zone Anglers Choose Officers

Peterborough sportsmen were well represented in the executive bracket at a Sunday meeting of Zone Five of the Ontario Federation of Anglers and Hunters in Toronto. Hugh Plowman was elected chairman of the zone and Cam Rowatt, past-president and present director of the Peterborough Fish and Game Protective Association, was chosen secretary-treasurer. L. P. McGillen declined the presidency but was elected to the board of directors.

Of the 5,000 affiliated members of the Ontario Federation, 80 representatives from 28 clubs attended the meeting. Jack Hambleton was the retiring president. The busy day was given over by various clubs' problems and Oshawa and Brampton seemed to have held to longest discussions about their successes in the raising and releasing of pheasant poults.

Bark Is Worse Than Bite As Wind, Snow Hit District

Saturday's violent wind storm which caused 11 deaths in Ontario and Quebec and millions of dollars of property damage passed Peterborough lightly. Its bark locally was worse than its bite.

Falling trees had power companies on the jump for 24 hours from Saturday until Sunday noon. In the city a total of 17 poles were broken and a tree across lines at Charlotte and Albertus streets Saturday afternoon burned out a transformer and shut power off primary lines for one hour.

In the evening on Reid between Charlotte and Murray, there was a tangle of five broken poles which set another transformer on fire and shut power off in that section for about 12 hours. Utilities maintenance men worked for 24 hours. There were more than 100 phone calls through the PUC switchboard. In reviewing the whole situation general manager Ross Dobbin said, "Peterborough got off a lot easier than we anticipated. It was not very expensive."

Trouble In Country

The Peterborough rural operating area of the Ontario Hydro Commission had quite a lot of widespread trouble with snapped poles in Otonabee and Emily township and less grief in Douro and Smith. Heavy trees across the rural line one and one-half miles north of Keene caused the greatest trouble to this department. It made extra work for district farmers who had to return to the labor of hand-milking their herds. A wedding reception of the Jackson-Hope nuptials at the home of Mr. and Mrs. William J. Hope was turned into a candle-lit ceremony. Assistant to manager Bruce Servos said that a dozen transformer were blown out and more than that number of pole broken. Their 12 service men worked on the storm damage for almost 24 hours.

Cottages Little Touched

A survey showed little or no damage to cottages on exposed western shoreline of district camping colonies. Several trees were uprooted and broken off but none of the falling timber has been reported to have done damage to buildings. This was in the Chemong-Clear Lake areas. Communications to Crowe's Landing and Bewdley were unserviceable until noon today and it was not possible to find out the extent of cottage damage at either Stony or Rice lakes.

Only three minor car accidents were reported in the city during Sunday's blizzard which indicates that the public heeded radio storm warnings and kept their cars off streets and highways, the police say.

MAIN ST. TOPICS

SUSPENDED SENTENCE

Isaac Taylor of Lakefield pleaded guilty before Magistrate W. R. Philp today to a charge of assault. He was given two years suspended sentence and ordered to pay $6 costs.

DIES IN TORONTO

Magistrate R. J. Browne, senior magistrate of York County, and a veteran of the First World War, died in Toronto hospital Sunday night following a brief illness. He was 66. Surviving are his widow and two daughters, Mrs. W. G. Winter of Toronto and Mrs. P. J. LaBranch, Peterborough.

FIRE IN CLOSET

Spontaneous combustion started a fire in the home of Mr. and Mrs. Norman Edwards, Regent St., Lakefield, Sunday night. The couple awoke early this morning to find the house filled with smoke. They immediately placed a fire alarm, but after an investigation found that the fire was a burning dust mop in a closet. The mop was carried outside, and the danger eliminated before firemen arrived. Little damage was done.

LUCKY TO BE ALIVE

Gordon Thomas Thompson, a recent Peterborough resident and one of the Special Force soldiers involved in the train wreck at Canoe River in the Rockies, was the only soldier in his railway car to get out alive. So he informed Mrs Fern Berry, Sheridan St., in a letter received by her today. Thompson who is recuperating in hospital, Edmonton, after suffering burns, said:

"I was the only one in the coach to crawl out breathing." Thompson, formerly a CGE employee, spent his embarkation leave in Peterborough.

Escaping Sewer Gas Makes Life Miserable For Apartment Residents, Baby Grandson

Escaping sewer gas is making life miserable for six residents in an apartment at 215 Hunter Street. Saturday night Mrs. James Rosebush, all by herself in the apartment, was nearly overcome and telephoned the fire Department for assistance.

"I had a headache and felt sick," Mrs. Rosebush told the Examiner. "And I thought the best thing to do was call the Fire Department."

Today the odor is still strong in her apartment — occupied by herself and her husband, her 14-year-old daughter Yvonne, her two-months-old grandson Larry, and two boarders.

Larry, son of Mr. and Mrs. Howard Rosebush, is staying temporarily with his grandparents while his mother and father look for an apartment. So his health won't be endangered, his grandmother has had to keep him in a room distant from the main sources of the odor.

Mrs. Rosebush says the smell is still strong near the bathroom and in the hall, and if the water taps are turned off it is almost overwhelming.

Frank Scott, assistant plumbing inspector, is investigating later today. His department was not informed until well after 1 p.m. today.

Infant Daughter Infected, Dies

Sharon Orline Harran, four-month-old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Orville Harran, 739 Water Street, died in Civic Hospital on Sunday. While reports spread through the city that the cause of death was similar to that which took three-year-old James Mason last week, hospital authorities definitely said that the symptoms were not similar and the course of the infection different.

The child was taken to the hospital at 11 o'clock Saturday morning and died shortly after midnight.

The child is survived by its parents, two brothers and two sisters, Raymond, Ronald, Florine and Barbara.

The funeral will be held on Tuesday at 2 p.m. at the Kaye Funeral Home, with Rev. A. A. Mathews officiating, and burial will be in Little Lake Cemetery.

460 GE Office Workers Get CIO Certification

Local 599 of the International Union of Electrical, Radio and Machine Workers (CIO-CCL) has received certification from the Ontario Labor Relations Board covering 460 office workers at the Canadian General Electric plant in Peterborough.

The Local also received information that the IUE has been certified as the bargaining agent for 205 office workers at the Davenport Works, Toronto.

At a meeting Wednesday night it will be explained which job classifications have been disallowed by the Board. Ratification of the union's proposals to the company will also be discussed. It is expected that the two locals will request immediate joint negotiations with the company.

Two In Mayoralty Contest 12 In Aldermanic Field Five For Board of Education

With two candidates contesting the mayoralty, 12 the five vacant seats on the city council and five for the four vacancies on the board of education, along with two money bylaws Peterborough voters will have on December 4 a municipal election which is expected to bring out voters in record numbers. On Friday night at the nomination meeting 21 names were placed in nominations for the various offices. Fred Hills received an acclamation to the Utilities Commission and M. G. Hardill, one of the aldermanic nominees, failed to qualify. The remainder, 19, all filed their qualification papers with city clerk E. A. Outram on Saturday.

With 12 in the aldermanic field the slate is one of the largest in recent years. Four of the retiring aldermen Adam Sands, Arthur Burrows, Dr. Herbert Young and James Gillespie are seeking re-election. The others are Norman Graham, Percy Luther, Arthur R. Bennett, Harold Thomas Rehill, Percy James Harrison, Grenville Gordon Lathangue, Alfred Barber, and Orville Jeffrey Martin. On this ballot the electors must vote for four candidates and may vote for five.

Five For Board

Two of the veteran members of the board of education Frank H. Jobbitt and Dr. R. C. Honey are seeking re-election, W. B. (Pete) Gordon, a former member, is attempting a return and the two new candidates are Mrs. Blake Bell and John Sparrow. On this ballot the electors may vote for one, two, three or four. The election for board is the only place where plumping is permitted. However in recent years experience has shown that there is very little voting for one candidate alone.

In the mayoralty field Mayor Maxwell Swanston is seeking a third term and he is being opposed by Ald. Hurrell Dodds whose term expires this year along with the other four aldermen.

The ratepayers will vote on two money bylaws. One is for the issuing of $585,000 in debentures to build a second collegiate and the other is for $300,000 to pay for the completion of the Civic Hospital and to pay for the roads, sewers, sidewalks and other outside improvements. There are 20,198 persons eligible to vote for mayor and aldermen; 15,233 for the board of education and 7,500 on the two money bylaws.

Screen's Finest At Film Festival

"The Film Festival was definitely a success," stated William Graff, librarian. "Approximately 300 people attended the four programs on Friday and Saturday."

The Film Festival, which was sponsored by the Peterborough Film Council, was held at the Public Library.

Mr. Graff reported today that not only did the festival prove itself popular, but that the concensus of opinion was that it should become an annual event. If this is done, the Peterborough council will follow the lead of Kingston, Hamilton and Victoria, British Columbia, who held their first festivals this year and are planning to sponsor them every year.

Recent Releases

The films shown at the festival were carefully screened with the result that the council was able to present the most recent releases and finest documentary pictures available on a variety of topics and country.

One of the most outstanding films of the festival was the "Trooping of the Colour" shown Saturday evening. This film was obtained from the United Kingdom Service Office for special showing at this time.

"This film certainly provided an outstanding climax for the festival," stated Mr. Graff.

Murphy Fined $60, Cost On Lesser Count

A charge of dangerous driving against Charles P. Murphy, 26, of Steenburg, was today dismissed by Magistrate W. R. Philp. His Worship gave no reasons for judgment.

The charge against Murphy arose out of an accident last July 13 in which Stanley Comte, 26, of Montreal was killed. A truck driven by Murphy and a car driven by Comte's brother Pierre were involved in the crash.

Murphy was fined $60 and $33.95 costs when the magistrate found him guilty of careless driving. Accused pleaded not guilty to both charges. Murphy's case was heard a week ago, and he was remanded for judgment until today.

The accident took place at the intersection of Highways 7A and 28 at dusk. Murphy had been driving west on 7A and the Comte car was eastbound on 28.

Injured In Crash

Pierre Comte, David Adam and Allen Baldwin, the former of Montreal and the latter two of Stewart St., were all injured in the crash. Murphy was unhurt.

Murphy testified last week that he thought the Comte car was going to travel straight ahead on 7A and that when it was only 40 feet from him, swung to the north, and the collision occurred.

Pierre Comte, who was driving the car, said he first saw Murphy's truck near the stop sign on 7A, which is placed about 100 feet back from the intersection.

E. A. Richardson of Toronto, Murphy's counsel, suggested in the original hearing that the stop sign was improperly placed, being too far from the intersection. He quoted a regulation of the Department of Highways, which says that a stop sign shall be between 15 and 50 feet from a through highway.

Murphy had been driving from Renfrew to Scarboro with a load of hydro equipment.

Dry Rot of Crooks, Schemers Threatens U.S. Authority

By JACK SCOTT

These are trying times for Americans. The International situation, alone, is enough to put a balloon labelled "Gloom" over every thinking man's head. The domestic situation is almost as depressing.

A cursory glance at American newspapers is enough to convince you that the country is menaced night and day by subversives who are aiming on overthrowing authority, itself, is pretty heavily ridden with a dry rot of crooks and schemers.

Most Americans are still waving their hankies daintily under their noses to dispel the aroma of the recent elections in which some nasty hotel-room deals came to light and a large number of the candidates screamed "Red!" at their opponents, most of whom, as somebody has observed were politically, slightly to the left of Little Orphan Annie.

Life magazine, commenting from its great height on the rules and morals of American politics, observed with a shrug, "Most Americans take for granted that politics is a least a little crooked." It might have been more accurate to suggest that most Americans are wondering just how crooked politics can get.

On the minor official level the Kefauver Senate Crime Investigatinng Committee, which is prowling the nation looking under stones, has unearthed a staggering amount of graft and corruption.

Recently in Nevada they came across a number of choice specimens of that American phenomena, the small-salaried officer who drives the custom-built Cadillac.

So many police officials have been linked to the rake-off in the States in recent months that honest cops are writing petulant letters to the papers complaining that their children are losing their respect for them.

Typical of these red-blooded American boys is one Sheriff John Grosch, of New Orleans, who recently paid income tax on $105,000 "illegal income."

Sheriff Grosch confessed to the United Press with charming candor, that he had made most of it on fixed horse races while he was a mere chief of detectives. Then announced that he would be a candidate for mayor of New Orleans in 1954.

How To Succed

California has had a crime commission of its own and has learned with a sigh (and not much else) that agents of the Federal Bureau of Internal Revenue have been cosying up with the state's considerable underworld to the mutual advantage of both.

Indeed, the wedding of racketeers, mobsters and gamblers to crooked law enforcement agents and venal politicians is pretty well taken for granted.

One nationally famous writer recently wrote that racket power, as rigidly organized as a big corporation, has reached right up into the upper political stratas in both major parties. He intimated that when it came to infiltrating high government agencies the "Big Mob" could give the Communists, the ace, deuce, jack and joker and still show cards and spades.

The tax-collectors are proof that any intelligent hard-working boy can get ahead under free enterprise and have a Cadillac and swimming pool of his own on a modest civil service salary.

An interesting example of this was the tax collector in Nevada who organized a copper mine and sold a great many shares to the owners of gambling clubs, bars, night clubs and similar establishments.

The deal was simple. An investment in the mine meant that the tax agent would not be too boorishly inquisitive about the taxable income of his shareholders. One of the wealthiest gamblers is reported to have commented that the stock was the best investment he ever made, a droll remark, indeed, since there was no mine. In contrast, a Las Vegas businessman who refused to buy stock is now in the pokey for income tax evasion, the first man to have been prosecuted on this charge in Nevada in several years.

Faced with almost daily sagas of this sort the so-called average American may be forgiven for wondering if anybody at all is honest any more and if virtue is really its own reward, as daddy said.

While this average American is glancing nervously over his right shoulder for dishonest politicians and public servants he must keep a sharp lookout over his left for Communists.

Since the word "Red" has now come to mean anybody who doesn't part his hair to your liking, the newspapers are full of charges and counter-charges. It sometimes seems there are more Communists in the States than Democrats.

This has taken on a musical comedy aspect in the past and in the city of Pasadena, California, there's a current example of how far it can go.

In that city a self-appointed committee is attacking the school system as "Communist." Evidence? Well, the committee says that students in the ninth grade are given sex education and that this fosters immorality (immorality is "Red"), that the pupils are taught the problems of racial prejudice (this could lead to revolution and so is "Red," the committee charged) and that a visiting lecturer was Dr. William Kilpatrick, professor emeritus of education at Columbia (who is a member of certain organizations on the attorney general's subversive list and consequently "Red").

With this kind of thing going on a citizen never knows when he, too, is going to find a finger pointed in his direction and may be forgiven for joining nothing more inflamatory than the YM CA or, better, staying home reading the Criminal Code.

These are indeed trying times for Americans.

Canadian Special Service Squadron, composed of H.M.C. ships Magnificent, Micmac and Huron, returned to Halifax Sunday after a three-month combined training and goodwill cruise to Europe. During the cruise the ships steamed more than 9,000 miles, visited twelve ports in nine different countries. The squadron left Halifax August 23 and on arrival at Londonderry, Northern Ireland, commenced an intensive two-week anti-submarine training program in the Joint Anti-Submarine Training School at Londonderry and at sea with units of the British fleet. Other ports of call were Rosyth, Scotland; Oslo, Norway; Gothenburg, Sweden; Copenhagen, Denmark; Amsterdam and Rotterdam, the Netherlands; Portsmouth, England; Antwerp, Belgium; Cherbourg, France; Lisbon, Portugal, and Gibraltar. En route home the ships called at Bermuda.

REAR-ADMIRAL E. R. MAINGUY, of Duncan, BC, and Halifax, Flag Officer Commanding the Squadron, is shown saluting after laying a wreath on the cenotaph in Copenhagen Denmark. The ceremony was in honor of those who lost their lives in the Danish Resistance Movement during German occupation of Denmark in the Scond World War.

WHILE THE SQUADRON WAS IN OSLO, Norway, officerns and men volunteered to donate blood to replenish the city hospitals' blood banks, at that time short of supply. The Canadian sailors' response was so enthusiastic that the hospitals were unable to cope with the long lines of would-be donors. Among the volunteers was Rear-Admiral E. R. Mainguy, Flag Officer Commanding the Squadron, who is shown above making his donation. In the background, awaiting their turns, are Commodore K. F. Adams, Victoria, commanding officer of HMCS Magnificent, right, and Commander (S) Donald McClure, Victoria Rear-Admiral Mainguy's Flag Secretary.

Badly Listing Ship Makes Port Safely

TORONTO, Nov. 27 (CP) — With a 40-degree list to port, the freighter Weyburn limped safely into port early Sunday after battling a furious gale on Lake Ontario.

Capt. J. A. Lepine of St. Anne de Bellevue, Que., reported all of his 28 hands safe but he said he had expected the freighter to capsize as the list developed 55 miles out on the lake from Toronto.

He said the Canada Steamships Lines packet freighter wallowed helplessly in huge waves for 45 minutes after her 1,500-ton cargo of steel plates, builders' supplies and soap broke loose from its lashings Saturday. She was bound for Montreal.

Below decks, firemen with safety lines about their middles took turns shovelling coal while water sloshed waist-deep around them.

Soon he was at the front of the rail on the first deck—a place made for him by the other infantrymen.

Two Ring Wedding Unites Willene Hope, Robt. Jackson

White 'mums and ferns were the setting for a pretty wedding Saturday in Keene United Church when Sarah Willene, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. William J. Hope, became the bride of Robert Bruce Jackson, son of Mrs. Viola Jackson and the late Mr. James R. Jackson, all of Otonabee.

The Rev. H. B. Herrington officiated at the double ring ceremony. Mr. W. Morrow played the wedding music and accompanied Mrs. Arthur Bennett, aunt of the groom, who sang "The Lord's Prayer" before the ceremony and "O Perfect Love" during signing of the register.

The bride, given in marriage by her father, wore a gown of white slipper satin fashioned on princess lines with Peter Pan collar and long pointed sleeves. It was styled with new empire waistline and tiny pearl buttons, fastening down the front. The full flowing skirt fell into a long graceful train. Her veil was of fingertip embroidered silk illusion, edged with satin, caught to a satin bonnet which was enhanced with tiny pearls. She carried a cascade of white 'mums.

Mrs. Leslie Fife was matron of honor for her sister, and Misses Audrey and Dorothy Jackson, sisters of the groom, were bridesmaids. They wore similar gowns of bengaline in burnished copper, apple green, and bronze shades. These gowns were strapless with closely molded bodices, pouf hipline and shawl boleros. Each wore a pleated headdress and mittens of matching material. The matron of honor carried a cascade of yellow 'mums and the bridesmaids carried cascades of yellow and bronze 'mums.

The bride was given in marriage by her father and she wore a gown of heavy blush satin. The sleeves came to points over the hands and the waist was gathered into corded scallops with matching scalloped yoke of lace over satin, with high round neckline fashioned down the back with small satin covered buttons. MARY MOORE SAYS:

Tea at Esther's Much More Than an Ordinary Affair

You have heard of those $10,000-a-year roving reporters? Well I am the last quarter of that sentence.

I am having the last week of my 1950 summer vacation, down near Chicago at the home of a dear friend. She is such a generous and voluble press agent that her indulgent friends actually believe that a "personage" is coming to town, and so they plan charming parties.

Last Monday was one of the highlights of my visit, for Garny's bosom pals took us to lunch at a famous resort hotel. This was a complete success, for we all ordered something different, and some of us swopped bites and meanwhile we all talked at one—much to the amusement of ourselves and nearby diners.

After lunch I prowled in the amazing shops, but bought only a box of plain cards, size of calling cards for 15 cents.

The next event was tea at Esther's.

Now tea at Esther's is not just tea. When you have had tea at Esther's you have arrived—gastronomically, esthetically, socially, and spiritually.

Behind the scenes is Anna. Need I say more of a trustworthy staff of one with a name like that? Anna made hot biscuits and you need not worry and drool—the recipe is below, for she most willingly gave it to me.

Menu For Esther's Tea

(Remember that we still satiated with a substantial lunch.)

Fresh fast-frozen Fruits (in Esther's mother's antique bowl)

Hot Tea Biscuits

Hot Tea Lemon Cream and Sugar

Written thus it sounds simple. It was, but each item of food and china and crystal and silver and linen was perfection itself.

The bowl of fruit—icy cold—was a subject for a picture. Visualize a squarish bowl of yellow iridescent galss, hob-nailed, and fading to a creamy white scalloped edge,—filled with a medley of fresh fruits, fast-frozen in Esther's "deep-freeze". The mixture was strawberries, dark cherries and huckleberries. This was served in fruit dishes which were smaller replicas of the bowl. We were invited to help ourselves to this irresistible ambrosia. If there was a morsel or drop left it was not my fault.

Then came the biscuit—hot, small, crisp yet tender—and buttered. I wonder if anyone but Anna can produce such perfection.

Anna's Hot Biscuits

Two cups sifted all-purpose flour, 4 teaspoons baking powder, ½ teaspoon cream of tartar, ½ teaspoon salt, 2 teaspoons sugar, 2-3 cup milk, ½ cup best shortening or margarine. Sift the dry ingredients together and work the shortening, which should be room temperature, into them until it looks like crumbs. Add milk all at once and just stir enough to mix it. Pat out on floured board to one-half-inch thickness. Do not grease cookie sheet. Cut out with 2½-inch biscuit cutter. Bake at 450 deg. Fahr. not more than 10 minutes.

The tea was hot, the cups were fragile, the talk was delightful—it dawned on me afterwards though that I loved the talk because they persuaded me to make it—about my two pet topics—aged 16 and 17 years! Friends are wonderful people.

District Artists In Variety Show At Bridgenorth

More than 175 Friday evening watched the entertaining variety show sponsored by the Bridgenorth Home and School Association, held in the Foresters' Hall. The program, convened by Mrs Ray Harding of Bridgenorth, showed extreme care in arrangement of the variety of entertainment. Some guest artists came from as far as Janetville and Norwood and many were from Peterborough.

Mr. J. Johnson, as chairman, opened the program with community singing of favorite songs, Mrs. Clayton Telford accompanying on the piano. Two little Bannister sisters of Peterborough led the program with tap dancing and song. Several songs were given by Mr. George Bennett. Demure 10 year old Ann Collins, sang two favorites, "Peggy O'Neill" and "Take Me Out To The Ball Game." Judy Welch favored with pretty tap dancing routines. Seven members of the Trojan Boys' Choir, led by Mr. Lloyd Long, entertained with several humorous and excellent numbers in harmony. Eight members of the famed Barbershop Quartette of Peterborough were present to sing favorite numbers in their inimitable style. An amusing skit "The Janetville Uplift Society," by seven ladies from Janetville provided twenty minutes of enjoyment. They also presented their interpretation of a musical band comprised of kitchen utensils. They were introduced by the Rev. Mr. Kellogg of Janetville.

The Davies sisters of Norwood favored with several numbers, Shirley on the violin, Ruth singing and Barbara accompanying on the piano. Mr. Tony Seidel of Bridgenorth played a fine selection on the violin, accompanied by Mrs. Telford. Donna Doughty, Sheila Mason and Sylvia Nicholls each spoke for a few minutes on the topics spoken at the oratorical contest recently.

A sincere vote of thanks was extended to all the entertainers who donated their services in order to make this variety show a success. At the close of the show, they were served refreshments by Mrs. A. Connors and committee.

Skinkle-Fowler

The marriage of Stella Fowler, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Earl Simpson of Codrington, and Gerald P. Skinkle, son of Mrs. M. Skinkle was solemnized at the St. Andrew's Presbyterian Church Manse in Warkworth by the Rev J. M. Ritchie.

The bride was dressed in navy crepe and wore a corsage of red roses. Mrs. Everett Skinkle was matron of honor, wearing turquoise blue with a corsage of red roses.

Mr. Everett Skinkle was groomsman for his brother.

A reception was held at the home of the groom where his mother and grandmother, Mrs. Peter Jones, received.

The couple left on a wedding trip to the United States.

On return they will live on the groom's farm near Warkworth.

Policemen's Wives Hold Annual Christmas Tea

The big event of each year for the Ladies' Auxiliary of the Kawartha District Police Association is the Christmas tea and bazaar through which the members raise money for their welfare work in the city. Choosing Saturday, November 25, as the date many months ago, they hoped this time to be favored with good weather but the annual jinx went even further and produced the worst storm for the season in wide memory.

Spirits considerably dulled by the weather prospect at three o'clock Saturday were high again today as proceeds from the tea were tabulated and the sum mounted toward the $175 mark. It might be considered a tribute to the fair dealing and popularity of the law enforcement officers in this area that the tea their wives were holding should be so well patronized under adverse conditions.

Bazaar tables offered a wide variety of suitable Christmas gifts including a doll with an extensive wardrobe, stuffed animals, embroidered pillow cases and towels and warm flannelette nightwear for young folks, and the home baking and candy tables were well supplied.

Two Draw Prizes

Interest was centred in the draw prizes of the day, a beautifully decorated Christmas cake and a hamper of groceries. Lucky winner of the cake was Mrs. W. Thornton of 146 Park St., when her ticket was drawn by Mrs. W. R. Philp, and Mrs. R. F. Nott, Benson Ave., won the groceries, her ticket being selected by Mrs M. J. Swanston.

Decorating highlights were the dainty antique flower epergne with bronze and yellow 'mums artistically arranged which centred the tea table on a cloth of hand-made ecru lace, and another flower holder of antique design filled with yellow 'mums which graced a side table. The mantel and piano also were enhanced with bouquets, arranged by convener of the decorations, Mrs. W. G. Scott.

Tall silver holders held the candles on the tea table and silver tea services were provided for use of the pourers, Mrs. J. F. Reid, Mrs. C. W. Farren, Mrs. W. R. Philp and Mrs. M. J. Swanston.

Miss Myrna Swartz, guest pianist, played throughout the tea hours.

Table Assistants

Serving dainty refreshments to the guests were Mrs. S. Kellele, Mrs. P. Menzies, Mrs. E. McDonald, Mrs. W. A. Scott, Mrs. A. Edmison, Mrs E. Beatty and Mrs. J. Morrow.

Bazaar table attendants were Mrs. P. Morris, Mrs. E. Crough and Mrs. R. Pollard. Mrs. G. Trennum and Mrs. L. McClure were at the bake table and Mrs. V. O'Donoghue at the candy table.

Mrs. D. Farthing and Mrs. G. Samis sold tickets on the grocery hamper and Mrs. J. Hanson on the Christmas cake.

Auxiliary president Mrs. Harold Mesley was extending welcome to the guests, assisted by Mrs. M. Shadgett, police matron. Mrs. W. Amos was taking the tickets.

Women Urge Enforcement Legislation on Gambling

TORONTO.—Resolutions urging stricter enforcement by the provincial government of existing legislation regarding gambling and protesting any amendment of the Criminal Code which would extend legalized gambling, as proposed in certain municipalities were passed at the concluding sessions of the annual meeting of the Provincial Council of Women on Saturday.

Mrs. Charles Heming of Ancaster was re-elected president. In honor of Mrs. Heming's recent marriage, Mrs. Angus Gordon made her a presentation of a Royal Doulton figurine on behalf of provincial council.

Urges Spending Curbed

Increased prices are caused by people with larger incomes than usual competing to buy goods that are in short supply, Mrs. W. R. Laing said in her economics report.

The government has attempted to control spending by its new credit-buying regulations and by some luxury taxes, with more promised. But prices will go higher unless the world surge of spending is curbed, she warned. Women, the nation's buyers, are the ones to do something about this, she said.

Parents should realize that most films are too exciting and alarming for little minds, and they should take more responsibility for supervision, said film convener, Mrs. C. L. Pearson.

Far too many mothers are glad to give their child the price of a movie to be free of his care for a few hours, she said. Films marked for 8 to 12 years old are of no more interest to children in the more important 13-15 age groups, who are finding their way into movies marked for adult entertainment.

Support Windsor

Windsor council supported Magistrate Hanrahan in regard to lack of proper law enforcement in her city, said Mrs. Gordon Kerr.

"We believe Windsor was not alone in permitting these conditions and that the whole province would suffer if they were left unchecked."

Eternal vigilance is the price of freedom from such undesirable influences in any city, said Mrs. Kerr.

That women are waking up to their civic responsibilities is evident by the increased number of women in Ontario cities who are running in municipal election campaigns, said citizenship convener Miss J. Redmond.

Slate of Officers

Mrs. Ray Lawson is honorary president of Provincial Council.

DOROTHY DIX

Post-Honeymoon Let-down Found Usual in Marriage

DEAR MISS DIX: I have been married a year. Sometimes I think I love him. Other times I regret that I married him and wish that I was single again. He has a queer disposition, becomes moody and pessimistic when things don't go exactly to suit him. It is almost unbelievable how upset he gets over a little incident that anyone else would pass over without a thought. Somehow I can't make myself cater to his moods and try to make him snap out of them. He is very intelligent and has a position with a promising future. I work in an office. We have a nicely furnished apartment. But there seems to be something lacking compatibility and understanding. Or perhaps it is real love. What shall I do?

N. Q. H.

Dorothy Dix

ANSWER: Your case is not unusual. Along toward the end of the first year of marriage most young husbands and wives go through a reaction that makes them regret their marriages and wish they were single again. The honeymoon has set. The novelty of being together and in their own home has worn off and they begin to figure on whether marriage is worth all its costs and to look at their lost freedom with longing and to wonder if they really do care enough about those they are tied to to stand them and their faults and little ways for a lifetime.

Divorce Too Expensive

If divorces grew on trees and were to be had for the taking, there wouldn't be many second but luckily they do not. Most divorces are expensive and messy luxuries in which only the rich can indulge freely. So, more or less, the married have to stick it. Also, pride comes to their aid and a sense of duty and obligation and good sportsmanship. So after a few quarrels over nothing and a few tears, most brides and grooms get their second winds and settle down to making a go of their marriages.

And their reward is generally in finding out that if their romantic love has flown out of the window, an affection far deeper and more satisfying has taken its place and they are not out of love after all, but really in love for the first time, and they are not sorry they married, they are glad of it.

Every woman who makes a success of her marriage has to manufacture the sunshine of her home and she has to get along with her husband by dealing with his disposition "as is" and not as it should be. You and your husband have youth, love, intelligence, a good start in the world, all the raw materials for making a happy and prosperous marriage, but it is up to you whether you make a failure or a success. Believe me, nothings pays such dividends in happiness as a successful marriage. Don't let yours go into bankruptcy before you have really honestly tried to make it go.

DEAR DOROTHY DIX: My fiancee takes great pride in my beautiful blonde hair, not knowing that the shade is artificial, and I think it would just about break his heart to learn the truth, so I don't know whether to tell him or not. He is bound to find out after we are married and might think me deceitful in other matters if he learns of it himself. Shall I tell him or not?

BRIDE-TO-BE.

ANSWER: A very famous man once said to me that his idea of a highly intelligent and subtle woman was one who could be married to a man for twenty years without his ever finding out whether her hair was her own or not.

There is a tip in that speech for you. It is to keep silent and keep your hair dyed. If you have been engaged to a man for six months and he hasn't found out that you owe your lovely blonde hair to the drug store instead of nature, I see no reason why he should ever be any wiser as long as the peroxide holds out.

Anyway, a woman's looks are her own business and she is not bound to reveal her secret of how she gets them to anyone. Least of all to her husband. All that concerns him is the result. However, your boy friend is probably not as unsuspicious and deceived as you think he is. He has doubtless known all about your touching up of your locks ever since the first time he kissed the top of your head and saw the little brown line at the roots.

DEAR MISS DIX: I am a young business woman in my early twenties. For eight hours of every day I mix with all sorts and types of people and when I come home after a gruelling day I want to be quiet. This nearly runs my family frantic. They think I should want to go out, to have dates, to go to places of amusement. I hate to worry them yet when I want such innocent things as rest and quiet, why can't I have them?

A WORKING GIRL.

ANSWER: I don't know. It is just the way of the world. People always think anyone who doesn't like to do the things they like to do eccentric, and this goes double for families, especially when dealing with girls.

When mothers complain of being disappointed in their daughters it isn't that the daughters have done anything wrong. It is just the old hen has hatched out a swan and she is worried to death trying to keep her out of the water.

CREAMY EGGLESS MAYONNAISE, served right after it is beaten, adds a light, tasty touch to vegetable salad.

COOKBOOK OF THE WEEK

Sauce Book Gives Recipes For 250 Sauces, Dressings

Gravies or sauces can do so much to make or break a meal that it is no wonder that everyone is scrambling to get a copy of "250 Sauces, Gravies and Dressings," twentieth title to be released in the twenty-four cookbook series currently being made available to readers of the Examiner.

The sauce Book has recipes for sauces for every course from the beginning of the meal to the end. Sauces for cocktails, meat, fish game, salads, vegetables, and desserts are all included and the recipes vary from quickies to carefully prepared culinary delights. For a vegetable or salad sauce that is well on the easy side, why not try this tasty budget-watching eggless mayonnaise:

Eggless Mayonnaise

½ teaspoon salt
½ teaspoon confectioners' sugar
1 tablespoon vinegar
1 tablespoon lemon juice
¼ teaspoon dry mustard
¼ teaspoon paprika
Dash cayenne
¼ cup chilled evaporated milk
1 cup chilled olive or salad oil

Beat first eight ingredients with rotary egg beater until well blended. Add 1-3 cup oil and beat well. Repeat. Add remaining oil and beat again. Serve dressing shortly after making. Makes 1½ cups.

A glance at the Sauce Book will show you just how much you can improve even the most commonplace dish with a tasty sauce, so why not get your copy right away. All you need do is clip a Cookbook Coupon from page 2 of any issue of this newspaper and present it with 25 cents to the Examiner office, your carrier boy, any of Braund's Home Food Markets, the Dominion Master Market. By mail send 30 cents (5 cents for postage and handling) to: Cookbook Department, Peterborough Examiner.

6—In Memoriams

DETLOR—In loving memory of Private Victor Detlor, who passed away November 26th, 1943.
Seven years have passed and gone,
Since one we loved so well
Was taken from our home on earth
With Jesus Christ to dwell.
The flowers we place upon our graves
May wither and decay,
But the love of him who sleeps beneath,
Will never fade away.
—Ever lovingly remembered by mother and father, sisters and brothers.

HEIGH—In loving memory of Norman Heigh, who passed away on November 27, 1947.
In our hearts your memory lingers,
Always tender, fond and true.
There's not a day dear father,
We do not think of you.
Oh happy hours we once enjoyed,
How sweet their memory still,
But death has left a loneliness
The world can never fill.
—Ever remembered by wife and family.

IRELAND—In memory of my mother, Mrs. George Ireland, who passed away November 27, 1948.
Two years have passed and gone
Since one we loved so well
Was taken from our home on earth
With Jesus Christ to dwell.
The flowers we place upon her grave
May wither and decay
But the love for her who sleeps beneath,
Shall never fade away.
—Ever remembered by daughter Myrtle and family.

MURRAY—In loving memory of Mrs. M. J. Murray, who passed away November 27, 1944.
Oft and oft our thoughts do wander
To the grave not far away,
Where we laid our dear mother
Just six years ago today.
—Ever remembered by daughters Gladys and Helen and son-in-law Fred.

WATKISS—In loving memory of Mrs. Florence Watkiss, who passed away November 27, 1948.
Gone from us, but not forgotten,

Records Reveal Maori Secrets 600 Years Old

By J. S. GRAHAM

AUCKLAND, N.Z. —(CP)— Secrets of Maori history 600 years old have been revealed for the first time in recordings recently made by tribal elders.

Historical details have been handed down by word of mouth ever since the Maoris arrived in New Zealand. They have never been written and Europeans have failed to coax tribal leaders to reveal them.

The Maoris had no written language when Europeans arrived at the beginning of last century, but their traditions had been handed down from father to son with meticulous accuracy.

Much of their history was pieced together from these accounts, but the sacred traditional lore was reserved for selected members of the tribes and continued to be handed on until the present day. The Maoris believed that to pass the information to outsiders would incur the wrath of the gods and even cause death.

Canoe Migration

The 600th anniversary of the arrival of the Maoris in New Zealand in a great migration in small canoes from far to the north across the Pacific is being celebrated this year, and as part of the observance some of the elders have been persuaded to put some of their secret traditions in more permanent form.

With the increasing westernization of the Maoris, it was realized these details were in danger of being lost. While still not willing to put the stories on paper, they have been willing to tell them in the traditional way in front of a recording machine.

Ancient songs and chants, accounts of the arrival of the canoes, and much other unrecorded history have been collected and the records will be of interest to experts on Maori history. They throw new light on aspects of racial history hitherto doubtful and will be a subject of close study.

OBITUARIES

ARTHUR WILLIAM GRAHAM

Another of the veterans of Peterborough's 93rd Battalion, Arthur William Graham, died in hospital Saturday after an illness that traced back to a German gas attack in World War 1. He was the youngest son of the late George N. Graham and his wife, Margaret Gage.

Arthur Graham had suffered recurrently since his return from overseas service in that First Great War. Apparently he had some periods of relief at times, but his friends had long known of his disability that had returned him often to hospital care. He displayed an edifying cheerfulness, rarely ever complaining, at least among friends he mingled with down town, mentioning only occasionally when some change of weather aggravated his condition and brought on sharper attacks of coughing.

Mr. Graham leaves his wife, and daughter, Mrs. June Rennie, Toronto; his sisters, Mrs. Thomas Reynolds of Palm Beach, Florida, and Mrs. Madge Richardson of Toronto, and his brother, Mr. Chris G. Graham of this city.

In recent years Mr. Graham was employed in the office at the YMCA and lived there during that time.

The funeral took place this afternoon from the Comstock funeral home where the service was conducted by Archdeacon W. P. Robertson of St. John's Church of which Mr. Graham was a member. Burial was at Little Lake cemetery.

MRS. REGINALD BUTLER

Mrs. Reginald Butler, 71, formerly of Peterborough, died in Welland on Saturday after an illness of five years. She was born in England, the former Mabel Strickland, daughter of the late Mr. and Mrs. Samuel Strickland.

Mrs. Butler came to Peterborough in 1912 and resided here until five years ago when she moved to Welland. She was a member of St. George's Anglican Church. Her husband, the late Reginald Butler, predeceased her in 1946.

She leaves two daughters, Mrs. T. Woodhead (Dorothy) of Welland and Mrs. Fred Hill (Nellie) of Peterborough; one sister, Mrs E. Butler (Kate) of England and two brothers, Gordon of England and Herbert of Peterborough.

The funeral will be held Tuesday at 2 p.m. from the Nesbitt funeral home to St. George's Anglican Church. The Rev. E. C. Moore will conduct the service. Burial will be in Little Lake cemetery.

Mrs. J. L. George

ROSENEATH, Nov. 27 —(ENS) —The funeral of Mrs. Joseph L. George, 67, of Morganston, who died in a Toronto hospital Thursday, was held Saturday from the Allen Funeral Home, Warkworth. The Rev. J. E. Griffith of Morganston United Church conducted the service assisted by the Rev. W. P. Woodger of Cobourg.

Mrs. George, the former Esther Elizabeth Moore, was born in Morganston, daughter of the late Richard Moore and Elizabeth Morgan. She was a member of Trinity United Church, Cobourg.

She leaves one daughter, Mrs. D. M. Finlayson of Toronto and two brothers, James R. Moore of Duluth, Minnesota and P. A. Moore of Morganston. Her husband predeceased her.

The pallbearers were Stanley Macklin, and Gordon Macklin of Bethedesa, Lorne Darling of Morganston, Clarence Massey of Warkworth, Oscar Morgan and Stanley Maybee of Brighton. The flower bearers were Junior Moore, Richard Moore, William Beggs William Davidson and Don Massey. Burial was in Union Cemetery, Cobourg.

Cleric's Funeral: Former MPP

WARKWORTH, Nov. 27 — (ENS)—The funeral of Major the Rev. James F. B. Belford, M.A., B.D., of Mount Olivet, who died at his home Thursday, was held Sunday at St. John's Anglican Church, Warkworth. The Rev. Canon H. O. Belford, a brother, of Marbleton, Quebec, conducted the service, assisted by the Rev. John McKibbon, of St. John's Anglican Church.

Major Bedford was born 83 years ago near Wooler, Ontario. He was educated in Campbellford and then taugh school in Quebec. Later he went to Western Ontario where he was ordained into the ministry of the Anglican Church in Winnipeg, Manitoba.

In First War

He served in World War 1 as a chaplain with the rank of Major. Rev. Belford also served a term as member of the Provincial Parliament for Northumberland county and was sheriff of the United Counties of Northumberland and Durham for a number of years. He was a member of the Masonic Order.

His wife, the former Mary Eleanor McCracken, predeceased him. He leaves one son, Harry at home; and three daughters, Mrs. Eleanor Gleddan and Mrs. Marjory Macivor of Cobourg, and Mrs. Mary Chiovitti, of Vancouver, British Columbia. One son was killed in World War 1.

The Warkworth Legion and members of the Legion both from Brighton village and township, were in attendance at the funeral.

The pallbearers were Robert Carr, Grant Goodfellow, Cecil Goodfellow, Harold Shepherd, Clarence Woof and Charles Ross. Burial was in Mount Olivet cemetery.

tension running; 9—coaches' opinions should be laughingly ignored; 10—Canadian players and Al Dekdebrun, Argonauts imported quarterback, were better in the mud than were the well-paid United States professionals.

As a spectacle the game was woefully inadequate, with players riding the mud they soon became non-distinguishable but they were identified by the statisticians after the towels were brought into action. Even referee Seymour Wilson picked up so much mud that on one occasion he was mistaken for a player and umpire Roseborough of Winnipeg became so confused that a punted ball struck him on the head and prevented an Argo backfielder from assaudting a potential runback record of perhaps 10 yards.

This observer, not being along the elite or in the favored circle, watched proceedings from a reserved seat and, of necessity, left the statistical business to the occupants of the press box. With newspapers and hats flying overahead in conjunction with passing aeroplanes, programs vanishing in the gale and fans expressing views that were amazing the task was a bit difficult but it was no trick at all to learn that this was the most lamentable exhibition of championship football witnessed since the turn of the century.

Audience Of Six Men Brantford Nomination

The many citizens who attended the nominations meeting here Friday night will be interested in the report from Brantford where the public assembly is held at 10 a.m.

There was no one in the council room when the city clerk opened the period of an hour for receiving nominations. He said it was the first time in 23 years that he was alone on that official occasion. At 10.30 one lone citizen had arrived; another joined him by 10.45 and at the close there was an audience of six men to hear Mayor Harold Winter begin the usual speech of acknowledgment of nomination.

Terms of two years or longer went to 18 others. One man was ordered sent to a mental hospital.

Thomson Blasts Gov't's Lethargy

NIAGARA FALLS, Ont., Nov. 27—(CP)—Walter C. Thomson, new leader of the Ontario Liberal party, in a speech here Saturday night accused Ontario's Progressive Conservative government of lethargy.

"Ontario is just plain sick of lethargy," he said in an address to the Southern Ontario Liberal Association. "The Conservative government is at an end. Its ineptitude was never equalled in the history of this province."

Three officers were re-elected by the Association — Alvin P. Cadeau of Hamilton as president, Harvey Hazelwood of Port Colborne and Elmo Riddle of Simcoe as vice-presidents. Franklin Griffith of Niagara Falls, was elected secretary and Russell Reinke of Hamilton treasurer.

Our Tourist Business Everybody's Club Told

"One of the finest tourist attractions the Kawartha Lakes has to offer is the excellent fishing, but we must not depend too much upon this gift," stated Jim Fraser, manager of the Chamber of Commerce Friday night.

Mr. Fraser was the guest speaker at the weekly meeting of the Friday Night Club at the YMCA. His topic was "The Tourist Business."

"There is a possibility that the fishing will not always be as good as it is now," Mr. Fraser remarked. We must develop other kinds of diversions too, such as tennis, riding and sailing."

He told members that the tourist busines is everyone's business.

Mr. Fraser was introduced by Bert Paul and thanked by Donald Whittaker.

RC Churchmen Tried In Prague

PRAGUE, Nov. 27—(AP) — Nine Roman Catholic churchmen were put on trial here today on charges that they conspired with the Vatican to overthrow the economic and social order of Communist-ruled Czechoslovakia.

Bishop Stanislav Zela, auxiliary bishop and vicar-general of the Olmutz archdiocese in Moravia, and eight others were charged with high treason, espionage and other offences.

Vatican sources reported last August that Bishop Zela had been arrested as part of the Communist Czech government's intensified campaign against the Catholic church.

In September, the Vatican radio reported that the government administrator for the Olmutz archdiocese, who had ordered Bishop Zela's arrest, had been found slain in a street in the city, but official Czech sources said the official died of natural causes.

Why Seagram's sells Canada first

This is an adaptation of one of a series of advertisements designed by The House of Seagram to promote the prestige of Canada and help sell Canadian products to the markets of the world.

The campaign is appearing in magazines and newspapers published in various languages and circulated throughout the world. The peoples of many lands are told about the quality of Canadian products and see Canadian scenes illustrating these products.

The advertisements are in keeping with the belief of The House of Seagram that the future of every business enterprise in Canada is inextricably bound up in the future of Canada itself; and that it is in the interest of every Canadian manufacturer to help the sale of all Canadian products in foreign markets.

A campaign such as this not only helps Canadian industries but also puts money in the pocket of every Canadian citizen. One dollar of every three we earn comes to us as a result of foreign trade. The more we can sell abroad the more prosperous we will be at home. It is with this objective that these advertisements are being produced and published throughout the world.

Dr. Adenauer Would Unite German People

By GEORGE BOULTWOOD

BONN, Germany, Nov. 26 (AP) Dr. Konrad Adenauer, the stern, elderly chancellor of the West German Republic, is one of the leaders of the European crusade against Communism.

As leader of a new country of 48,000,000, his penetrating voice has often been raised to condemn the Russian tactics that have set German against German and split his country.

Wants Backing

He claims, with Western allied backing, that his government is the only one that legally represents all Germans. When he speaks to the world he speaks also for the 18,000,000 Germans under Soviet rule.

Adenauer governs West Germany under the banners of Christianity and economic free enterprise. Through Christian ethics he hopes to wash away the taint of Nazism and extreme German nationalism. Through free enterprise he hopes to make the federal republic solvent and independent of foreign financial aid.

German Reunion

His goal is the merging of a reunited Germany into a European federation. The first step in this aim would be the ending of the ancient feud between Germany and France.

When he took office as chancellor in 1949 at the age of 73, he was known only as the efficient Lord Mayor of a German provincial city and leader of the Christian Democratic Union. The dominance of this right-wing party made him practically the only choice as chancellor.

At first some doubted the elderly unknown's ability to weld the quarrelsome politicians of the "ersatz" state into a stable government. Since then the stature of the inscrutable Adenauer has increased manyfold.

He is recognized as a powerful, if not exactly lovable, personality in his own country.

He is acknowledged abroad as a strong-willed statesman who is not afraid to speak out against the Russians. He has shown himself equally ready to give the Western allies the back of his hand.

His advocacy of economic and political union with France, his passionate support of the Schuman Plan, his successful fight to send a German delegation to Strasbourg, have made him an international figure with which to be reckoned.

Encourage Boy To Become Farmer

MARMORA, Nov. 27—(ENS)— Members of Marmora and District Chamber of Commerce listened to an interesting address interspired with humor by Ralph Banbury, Agricultural Representative for Northumberland County at the monthly dinner meeting at the Royal Hotel on Thursday evening. It was Agriculture night.

In opening remarks, Mr. Banbury showed how the Chamber of Commerce can help agriculture. Farmers coming into the movement and therein meeting those who earn their livelihood otherwise, would be able to create a better understanding of agricultural problems. Those with native ability for farming should be encouraged to stay with it. An agriculturist should not look around him for comparisons.

The boy who would like to farm should be encouraged as much in that direction as those seeking other professions. The speaker said that it hurt him to see such a boy shoved out. He should be given the same good start as boys going into other professions. In farming as in anything else, a man without spirit, running his business will not make a good job of it.

Agriculture has most complex problems, a great one being the control of the law of supply and demand. Farmers show a care for the future as evidenced in their ploughing in the fall for the next season.

Irwin McCoy, reeve of Marmora and Lake Township after introducing remarks called upon Frank Stone, assistant Agricultural Representative for Hastings County to introduce the speaker. Thomas Bateman moved the vote of thanks. Alex Fraser, president of the Chamber, was chairman.

Britons In Rush To Buy Clothes

LONDON—(CP)—From land's end to John O'Groats, Britons are buying new clothes.

Before the bells toll farewell to 1950, thousands will have added to their wardrobes. This sudden buying spree is a direct result of a sharp rise in raw wool prices.

Since June, British wool textiles have increased in price from 15 per cent for lower-grade woollens to 25 per cent for all-wool worsteds, and further increases are expected. All that now stands between the consumer and the biggest rise in clothing prices since 1939 are the existing stocks in shop and warehouse.

Although this fact is fully realized, there is no panic-buying. Stocks are good and customers are choosing with care. Men are choosing useful dark lounge suits, women favor the all-purpose blacks.

West End tailors say they have 50 to 80 per cent more orders in hand than they had at this time last year. People are ordering top-grade flannels and worsteds that will remains in the tailors' hands until late in the coming year.

This premature buying is causing much concern in the trade. Retailers predict the greatest sales resistance in trade history, when the full impact of new prices is felt around March of next year. A rise in price of nearly of £1 ($3.10) is expected on every £5 of merchandise.

"Some merchants are taking unfair advantage by increasing the price of existing stocks," said Harry Ellis, a London tailor.

Savile Row, the top street for men's tailoring, says that suits will cost at least £10 more. Presen tprices are £40 to £50.

US Charges Chinese With Aggression "Open, Notorious"

By Max Harrelson

LAKE SUCCESS, Nov. 28—(AP)—The United States today charged Communist China with open and notorious aggression in Korea and called upon the United Nations Security Council to face the consequences. In one of the most critical meetings in the Council's history, U.S. delegate Warren R. Austin spoke directly to a representative of Communist China, Wu Hsiu-Chuan, who arrived here Friday and sat in the Council for the first time yesterday.

Russia's Jakob A. Malik delayed the U.S. speech for more than an hour while a capacity crowd listened tensely.

The Soviet move came immediately after the United Nations Security Council convened to take up a general debate on both the Korean and Formosan issues. A few minutes earlier it was announced in Washington that U.S. delegate Warren R. Austin had been instructed to bring the charges of aggression.

Austin hastily revised his prepared speech to include some new sections, dealing with the large-scale Chinese Communist intervention in Korea.

MacArthur's Report

Several delegates had before them copies of Gen. MacArthur's communique calling for diplomatic action to solve the threat to U.N. forces in Korea.

Reds Silent

The Chinese Communist delegation, headed by Wu Hsui-Chuan, sat at the council table. Malik demanded that Wu be heard ahead of Austin.

A U.S. delegation spokesman said the United States had no intention at this time of submitting a resolution embodying formal charges of aggression by Red China. Instead, he said, Austin would continue to back a six-country appeal for the withdrawal of the Chinese Communist troops.

In the council Malik said the Chinese Reds were here as the plaintiff to press charges of American aggression in Formosa.

"So why should the United States speak first?" he asked.

Audience Laughs

He said it would be "discourteous" not to let Wu speak first. The "silence" signs in the crowded council chamber flashed

Crown To Prove Ruest Knew Bomb For Murder

QUEBEC, Nov. 28—(CP)—The Crown today will start presenting its case against Genereux Ruest, crippled watchmaker on trial for murder in connection with the time-bomb wreck of an airliner that killed 23 persons in September, 1949.

Just before the court rose late in the afternoon, Crown prosecutor Noel Dorion presented a summary of evidence which brought about Ruest's arrest last June.

Mr. Dorion said he will set out to prove that Ruest put together a time-bomb knowing that J. Albert Guay, awaiting execution Jan. 12, would use it to wreck a Canadian Pacific Airlines plane with Mrs. Guay aboard.

Quotes Ruest

He said one witness will tell of a remark by Ruest:

"We'll be able to see it from the terrace."

A remark to Ruest after the plane crash, said Dorion, was:

"I knew it was to happen, but not like that. Developments will show what I mean."

The formal accusation against Ruest, read when the court met yesterday under Judge Fernand Choquette, was that the watchmaker wilfully helped make a time-bomb to wreck the Quebec plane and kill Guay's wife.

Ilse Koch Denies Torture Charges

By RICHARD K. O'MALLEY

AUGSBURG, Germany, Nov. 28 (AP)—Ilse Koch denied in court today that she had ever heard of the "singing horses" of Buchenwald concentration camp.

According to charges against the widow of the camp's former commander, the "singing horses" were teams of Jewish prisoners, required to sing as they pulled heavy wagons at running speed.

The plump, red-haired woman, who said yesterday she was "merely a housewife" in the camp, insisted she had nothing to do with any of the cruel punishments at Buchenwald.

She admitted to the German court that she saw prisoners forced carry heavy building stones, but claimed she had nothing to do with the camp administration and "no influence" on the way her husband ran it.

Frau Koch is charged with inciting 45 murders and 135 attempted murders of camp inmates—Germans and Austrians—and with responsibility for scores of other cruelties.

Poured On Gasoline Set Fire To Himself

BUENOS AIRES, Argentina, Nov. 28—(Reuters)—Jose Angel Pineiro, 28, today turned himself into a human torch after police arrested his godmother—a self-styled medical practitioner.

He soaked himself in gasoline and set himself aflame. He died in hospital.

Police nabbed Pineiro's 49-year-old godmother, Catalina Savittori, in the clinic where she claimed to cure women's skin infections through the magic properties of her dog, Tito.

The woman told "patients" their ailments would disappear after Tito licked them. Police found the clinic packed with women bringing candies for Tito.

THE UNITED STATES today was still struggling to shake itself loose from the weight of snow which engulfed the eastern states during the weekend. Pictured are parked cars in Pittsburgh stranded by a record snowfall of 22 inches. All department stores were closed and virtually all other business came to a standstill.

Etna Erupts Lava on Towns

CATANIA, Sicily, Nov. 28—(AP)—A molten finger of lava, spewed up by Mt. Etna's worst eruption in 40 years, snaked its way toward the hamlet of Milo today while scores of trucks stood ready to evacuate the 600 villagers. The smoldering stream was reported moving at 130 feet an hour toward the little village on the volcano's northeast slope, shrivelling trees and vegetation in its path.

The creeping lava head measured 5,000 feet across and 17 feet high as it roared from 37 fiery holes in Etna's side. Half way down the mountain it split into smaller streams of molten rock. Part headed toward Milo and neighboring Renazzo. Another flow, moving at only 29 feet an hour, coursed down the valley of the Ox.

May Evacuate

The decision whether to evacuate towns in the lava's path will be made by authorities from Rome and the Volcanic Institute of Catania, who are keeping an on-the-spot vigil.

Sicilian peasant women continued to visit a little crossroads church barely a mile from the advancing lava stream to pray that their homes might be spared.

New explosions in the torn crater of the volcano last night—so violent they could be heard in this city 20 miles away—sent the laval flowing out with new force.

Clouds of smoke and steam through which flames of fire could be seen continued to billow out of Etna. The 10,741-foot-high peak came to life again Saturday night in the latest of more than 80 eruptions on record.

US Struggling To Shake Snow, Resume Normal Life

CHICAGO, Nov. 28—(AP)—The storm-swept eastern region of the United States, reeling from the devastating blows of weather's elements, struggled today to get business and production back to normal. The herculean job was being waged by thousands They fought to clear areas of snow from the week-end storm which struck with paralyzing fury over wide parts of 22 eastern states.

The death toll from the winds, blizzards and cold mounted, with 278 fatalities recorded in the storm-stricken region. Damage to property mounted to astronomical figures—estimated in the hundreds of millions of dollars.

There was much human misery and great hardship. Thousands of homes remained without heat; others were without electricity and telephones. Communities were isolated. Schools remained closed in many snowbound areas.

Dying Over Lake

The weather bureau had a mild note of cheer. The intense storm, it reported today was almost stationary in the vicinity of Lake Huron and was dying—slowly. Some light snow fell over parts of the middle Atlantic states and around the Great Lakes area. There were flurries in Kentucky and Tennessee.

But temperatures moderated in some areas and no below-zero cold was reported over the snow belt. However, there were below freezing in some areas.

Ohio and Pennsylvania—two of the states hardest hit by the snow and wind storm—continued their fight to remove the mountainous piles of snow.

Truman Stops Death Sentence

WASHINGTON, Nov. 28 (AP)—President Truman yesterday set aside the death sentence of Infantry Lieutenant Leon A. Gilbert, convicted by a United States military court of "misbehaving in front of the enemy" in Korea.

Instead, Gilbert, 31-year-old Negro lieutenant from York, Pa., was ordered confined 20 years at hard labor and dismissed from the service, with all pay and allowances forfeited.

He was accused specifically of failing to obey orders from superior officers to return to his post with a forward platoon of the U.S. 25th Division. He had been in the army more than 10 years, an officer more than four years.

Interviewed in a Tokyo army stockade after his conviction, Gilbert said: "I thought I was doing the right thing; I still think so."

"I did not refuse to obey the order," he said. "I was trying to explain why it could not be carried out. There were 12 men in my command then. I considered it my duty as an officer to show why the order meant certain death.

"I am not a coward and I was not afraid at the time. I would walk back to combat now if they would let me . . ."

Hook-and-Ladder Hits Streetcar, 10 Hurt

DETROIT, Nov. 28 (AP)—Ten persons were injured in a spectacular mid-morning crash of a hook-and-ladder fire truck and a streetcar today in Detroit's buy Cadillac Square.

Five firemen, the streetcar motorman and four passengers were hurt, four possibly seriously.

The fire truck was jack-knifed, the streetcar derailed.

The speeding hook-and-ladder truck was answering a call to a restaurant oven fire which was put out with hand extinguishers.

Eyewitnesses said the streetcar operator apparently failed to see the aprpoaching fire truck and struck it broadside.

United States

To Screen Visiting Diplomatic Staffs

WASHINGTON, Nov. 28 (AP)—The government today published new immigration rules designed to broaden greatly Justice Department powers for screening the retinue of diplomatic and United Nations delegations who enter the United States.

The regulations took immediate effect by their publication in the Federal Register, official government gazette. The action was taken under the new Internal Security Law, enacted by Congress last September over President Truman's veto.

Said Unworkable

Truman described the law, which sponsors said would protect the U.S. against subversion and sabotage, as unworkable because of its numerous complex provisions.

Immigration service experts who have been working on the new rules since the bulky law went on the books more than two months ago admitted that many fine points remain to be worked out in enforcement procedures.

Officially-accredited diplomats, accepted by the president, may continue to come and go with their immediate families at the pleasure of the president, but their aides may be questioned and barred by immigration officials if there is evidence of staff activity endangering the safety of the country.

May Bar Delegates

Any delegate to the United Nations, including the chief delegate, may be barred by immigration officials if his purpose is to engage in activity against the welfare or safety of the U.S.

As to the diplomatic and international organization groups, the regulations do not raise any bar to admission solely because of present or former membership in a totalitarian organization, as the law does with aliens generally.

However, in the cases of advisory experts, clerical help, reporters and photographers accompanying foreign delegations here, the Justice Department may place restrictions on their physical movements because of such affiliation, and order exclusion upon evidence of subversive activity.

For the first time, the new regulations specifically list present or former membership in the Communist party as an absolute bar to U.S. admission for the alien private citizen. The law also bars present or former members of "other totalitarian parties."

Charged Burnt Cross As Morals Warning

CORNWALL, Nov. 28 (CP). — Tyrell Waldroff, a farmer accused of burning a cross outside a neighbor's house at Newington, 15 miles northwest of here, was acquitted yesterday.

Magistrate P. C. Bergeron said there was insufficient evidence to warrant conviction on a charge of disturbing the peace.

Witnesses said that a charred cross displayed in court was the one burned last Sept. 7 outside the home of Fred Neilson.

The cross, about five feet high and three feet across, with charred cloth and rubber hanging from it, was the fourth burned in the Newington district late last summer. No charges were laid as a result of the first three incidents.

Townsfolk said at the time the burnings were believed the work of a "vigilante gang" whose members wanted to clean up "loose morals."

Czech Catholics Plead Guilty To Red Charges

By WILLIAM OATIS

PRAGUE, Czechoslovakia, Nov. 28—(AP)—A secretary of Archbishop Joseph Beran of Prague testified today that he had traded spy reports with the Roman Catholic prelate.

Dr. Jan Boukal, 44, the archbishop's first secretary, gave this testimony as the fourth of nine Roman Catholic defendants on trial for high treason and espionage. He pleaded guilty.

Two Plead Guilty

Another defendant, 70-year-old Dr. Joseph Cihak, archdeacon of the Metropolitan Chapter of Prague's St. Vitus Cathedral, pleaded guilty yesterday. Still another, Bishop Stanislav Zela, vicar-general of the Moravian archdiocese of Olomouc, testified that he had led an "illegal organization" and was "deeply sorry" for what he had done.

Dr. Boukal told the seven-judge court he began spying in 1937 on orders from Charles Cardinal Kaspar of Prague, who died in 1941.

Gave Reports

He said he gave "political reports" both to Archbishop Beran and to the Apostolic Internunciature here.

The archbishop has not been seen outside his palace since early June of 1949. The internunciature was closed by the government action last March.

On one occasion, the accused said, he gave the archbishop a file on a criminal case obtained from an employee of the ministry of education. He said he was convinced that Dr. Beran "gave reports on that to the Vatican espionage network."

Tenant "Undesirable" Did Own Shopping

LONDON, Nov. 28 (Reuters)—A London landlord yesterday accused a tenant of being undesirable because "he does his own shopping."

The landlord, M. Sabner, said he often met tenant J. McGurgan "carrying things in the street."

"He even carries bottles," said Sabner.

McGurgan asked his landlord to tell the tribunal what kind of bottles.

"Milk," said Sabner.

But, claimed the landlord, "it is detrimental to this class of house for people to carry shopping."

The rent tribunal didn't think so. It not only upheld McGurgen as a desirable tenant, but reduced his rent as well—by three shillings a week.

Facing "Entire New War" Says MacArthur, Admits Powerless To Cope

UN Must Settle Chinese Intervention, Estimate 500,000 Massed On Border Ready To Pour Across To Attack Americans

TOKYO, Nov. 29—(Wednesday)—(CP)—Gen. Douglas MacArthur today warned that the United Nations face "an entire new war" with Chinese Communist hordes crushing down on his retreating troops in Korea. Immediately after making this statement he conferred with his two Field Generals at a special meeting. The Generals were rushed to Tokyo from Korea and met with MacArthur and other members of his staff until the early hours today. No statement was made after the meeting and reporters were not permitted to talk to the Generals.

Soon after MacArthur issued his extraordinary communique, with open and notorious aggression in Korea and called on the the United States charged China U.N. Security Council to face the consequences.

MacArthur's communique said he lacked authority to cope with the undeclared Chinese belligerents who now build their massive offensives with immunity from allied air attack in Manchuria.

The commander of troops representing 53 non-Communist countries spoke out at a time of gravest crisis.

Retreat Along Line

His cosmopolitan eighth army of 110,000 battle-hardened troops was in retreat all along a flaming 75-mile front in northwest Korea.

His hope of ending the war by Christmas was a shattered dream

His hopeful "end-the-war" offensive launched only five days ago had turned into bitter reverses.

He urged that the U.N. and all governments seek a solution to the developing crisis of Chinese Communist intervention.

The high commander said Red China had hurled 200,000 troops against U.N. forces in Korea and is throwing more thousands across the border from the "privileged sanctuary" of Manchuria.

Reds Pour Through

Field dispatches underscored the developing crisis. They said masses of night-fighting Chinese Reds were pouring through a widening gap in the eighth army's right flank.

The key statement calling for a diplomatic solution to stop Red China from further aggression was made in a final paragraph issued after his personally-signed communique No. 14 was first distributed.

It said:

"This situation, repugnant as it may be, poses issues beyond the authority of the United Nations military council — issues which must find their solution within the councils of the United Nations and chancelleries of the world."

Commonwealth To Start Aid-Asia Plan

LONDON, Nov. 28 (AP)—The Commonwealth today proposed a $5,230,400,000 aid program to give 435,000,000 Asians a better life and to dam the spread of Communism in the Far East.

The six-year program—known as the Colombo plan—also calls upon governments outside the Commonwealth to help out with loans and grants. This is a clear invitation for the United States to link to the British plan its own "point four" program for aiding under-developed areas.

The plan will begin next June in the Commonwealth countries of India, Pakistan, Ceylon, Malaya, Singapore, North Borneo and Sarawak.

It suggests that another 135,000,000 people in Burma, Indonesia, Thailand and Indo-China come under the program later. This would bring approximately one-fourth of the world's population into the program.

Of the total fund, 34 per cent would go to build up transport and communications, 32 per cent for agriculture, 18 per cent for housing, health and education, 10 per cent for industry and mining and six per cent for fuel and power.

The Asian governments would put up $2,195,200,000. The remaining $3,035,200,000 would be obtained by:

1. Drawing on the £246,000,000 ($688,800,000) in sterling balances held in London to the credit of India, Pakistan and Ceylon. These balance represent credits built up during the Second World War. 2. Private investment. 3. Government loans floated among private investors. 4. Loans from the International Bank for Reconstruction and Development. 5. Gifts and loans from other governments.

Heavy Spending For Defence Seen

TORONTO, Nov. 28 (CP) — Heavy defence spending "perhaps for a generation" was predicted last night by Defence Minister Claxton.

Canada's present direct defence budget is an "almost astronomical $567,000,000 and there's no telling where defence expenditures will stop," Mr. Claxton said in an address to the Young Men's Canadian Club.

Combined military strength can prevent a third disastrous conflict, he said.

"However, it involves us in the long-term necessity of maintaining and increasing strength of our present forces. It entails steady build-up."

33 Hunter Trapped By Storm-Ripped Trees

SARANAC LAKE, N.Y., Nov. 28 (AP)—Forest rangers using chain saws yesterday freed 33 hunters trapped in the Adironacks by trees felled during the weekend storm.

They ripped through 12 miles of tangled forest to reach a group of 13 hunters from the Syracuse area.

The freed hunters reported that three or four hunting groups still were trapped deeper in the woods.

Canadians Abroad

Send Back Exotic Gifts

A UNITED NATIONS NAVAL BASE IN JAPAN, Nov. 28 (CP)—A lot of exotic products of the mystic East are on their way to Canada as Christmas presents from Canadian sailors to the folks back home.

For the officers and men of Canada's three Korean destroyers —the Cayuga, Athabaskan and Sioux—Christmas shopping is over. Most already have wrapped and sent their parcels which will be brought from Japan by RCAF airlift planes to ensure delivery in Canada in time for Christmas.

Mail To Sailors

The RCAF also is playing Santa the other way, too, taking Christmas mail to the sailors and others in the Korean area.

During the destroyers' recent visit to Hong Kong, Canadians made repeated rounds of the shops. Silken goods, curios, hand-carved chests and other items all came in for atention.

AB. Alex McIntosh, of Kitchener, Ont., and Victoria, aboard HMCS Cayuga, was only one of a number of sailors making special purchases for baby sons and daughters born since the ships left Esquimalt, B.C., last July. Aboard the Sioux there are 11 proud fathers who have yet to see the latest additions to their families.

For New Brides

Others, such as AB. Art Evans, of Mirror, Alta., serving in the Athabaskan, and LS. Joe Mayo, of Winnipeg, in the Sioux, were married just before leaving for Korean waters. Their problem was to find "just the right gift" for their brides.

At this naval base in Southern Japan, Christmas has been in the air for some time. In the post exchange ashore there are gaily-decorated Christmas trees and Santa Claus scenes, and carols echo through the loudspeaker system. The Japanese stores have also entered the spirit of Christmas and put up decorations.

Korean War May Last Indefinitely Red Troops Drive

By Relman Morin

TOKYO, Nov. 28—(AP)—Gen. MacArthur's words—"home by Christmas"—spoken last Friday in Korea have been drowned out by the roar of a tidal-wave Chinese counter-offensive.

Unless the Chinese break as suddenly as they struck — a wholly-unlikely possibility—the General's statement cannot be fulfilled.

On the contrary, the Chinese appear prepared to commit more and more division from the inexhaustible reservoir of a sub- continent.

(And MacArthur himself, in a special communique today in the face of further reverses, said the United Nations forces face "an entirely new war" as a result of the Chinese intervention.

(This had "shattered the high hope we had that the intervention of the Chinese was only of a token nature on a volunteer and individual basis as publicly announced.")

War Indefinite

The war now seems likely to last indefinitely.

These were the circumstances of MacArthur's "Christmas" statement:

He flew to northwest Korea last Friday morning to supervise the kick-off of a grand offensive. His special communique issued that morning said that "if successful" the drive should "for all practical purposes end the war."

Several days earlier MacArthur was reported to have told the members of the U.N. Commission on Korea that he expected the war to be over by Christmas. This could not be confirmed in Tokyo.

In any case, taking the verbal remarks together with the considered sentence in his communique —"if successful this should for all practical purposes end the war" —it would appear that MacArthur was convinced as of last Friday that the big drive would force a complete and final decision.

Ahead of Schedule

The offensive moved out. It was on or ahead of schedule for about 60 hours. Then Sunday night the Chinese hit back.

What happened?

It is already apparent that the Chinese moved powerful new forces into the battle area, so that they have complete numerical superiority.

Just how many more divisions have been committed is not yet clear.

The Reds can bring in new forces at will despite American command of the air, since it is only 60 miles from Antung, Manchuria, to the fighting front, a distance easily covered in the long winter darkness of one night.

Manpower Pool

The manpower pool is there in Manchuria to draw on. It is estimated by American intelligence at amounting to about 500,000 men.

Traditionally the numerical ratio of strength necessary to mount and push an offensive is 2½ to one. In the last war there were generals who did not like to move without superiority of 10 or 15 to one.

The U.N. had no such superiority last Friday.

Counting the now-almost-forgotten North Koreans, they were slightly inferior to the total communist force. But this was counter balanced by complete command of the air and superiority in tanks, artillery and heavy weapons.

The mountainous terrain, of course, aided the Communists.

MacArthur and his commanders were aware of all these factors. Nevertheless, they expected to reach the Yalu this month.

US Dollar Over $1.04

MONTREAL, Nov. 28 (CP)—The American dollar today opened at 4 1/32 per cent premium to the Canadian dollar, unchanged from Monday's close. That is, it took $1.04 1/32 Canadian to buy $1 American. The pound sterling was $2.91¼, also unchanged.

on and off as the audience laughed.

The Council finally voted down Russia's demand to hear the Chinese Communist delegate first. The vote was one in favor, eight against and two (India and Yugoslavia) abstaining.

Malik insisted that Wu came to present a complaint that the United States has aggressive designs on China, and must be heard before what Malik called "the defendant" could speak.

Trumped Up

The majority of the council is much more interested in getting on with consideration of the desperate situation in Korea than with hearing what are generally considered here to be trumped-up charges of American aggression.

The Russian also was overruled on his plea that only alleged American aggression against Formosa—without inclusion of the Korean question—be debated.

Yugoslavia's Ales Bebler, council president, said Malik "wants to put difficulties in the way of a hearing for that delegation which we have invited here." This follows the theme, first promulgated by Britain, that the Russians only pretend to want a hearing for the Chinese Reds, but fear they might lose their control of Peiping if the Chinese are thoroughly exposed to the U.N.

Red Split

Bebler's remark was part of what appears to be a concerted campaign on the part of the west to split Peiping and Moscow.

Austin's speech, besides blasting Chinese military intervention in Korea which is becoming more and more serious was expected to continue that idea.

The Chinese Communist representative appeared yesterday in a council chamber jammed to its soundproofed walls. He wore a dark business suit with a black necktie, and sat stolidly through almost three hours of procedural wrangling before he took his seat at the table.

Nationalist China's Dr. T. F. Tsiang sat impassively, with closed eyes, as Wu moved up to a seat behind a placard reading "The People's Republic of China."

"Entire New War"

The warning came as Chinese Reds in overwhelming numbers smashed for the third straight day against the shattered U.N. line in northwest Korea.

Stop In U.N.

Military observers in Tokyo interpret MacArthur's statement to mean Red China must be stopped if possible by political pressure or, as an alternative, MacArthur should be given authority, men and material to fight an all-out preventive campaign against the Chinese in their home bases.

MacArthur's communique mentioned the "privileged sanctuary" in Manchuria where Chinese Reds are staged for battle with immunity from Allied air attack.

This is taken to be his second veiled request for authority to bomb the Manchurian staging areas. Allied planes are under strict orders not to cross the Yalu river boundary., Russian-made MIG-15 jets have geared their hit-and-run attacks to take advantage of these orders on their getaways.

MacArthur summoned his two chief field commanders, Lt.-Gen. Walton H. Walker and Maj.-Gen. Edward Almond, from the Korean battlefronts to Tokyo for urgent consultation Tuesday night.

Front observers reported the Communist offensive was being carried on solely by the Chinese with no North Korean Communists known to be among them in battle formations. They described the enemy force as overwhelmingly superior to the U.N. troops in numbers.

8th In Retreat

Field dispatches said the Eighth Army — 110,000 battle-hardened Allied troops—was in retreat all along the flaming 75-mile-long northwest front.

The war had reached its gravest crisis.

MacArthur said 200,000 Chinese Communists thus far are arrayed against the Allies in North Korea.

"Heavy reinforcements now concentrated" in Manchuria were "constantly moving forward." Allied intelligence has estimated there are 500,000 Chinese troops massed in Manchuria within striking distance of the Korean front.

This mighty Communist force in Korea and in close reserve has with it the remnants of previously-beaten North Korean troops, elements of an estimated seven divisions.

In UN Council

The crisis gravely underscored by MacArthur already was before the U.N. Security Council. U.S. Delegate Warren R. Austin came up with a bitter denunciation of Chinese intervention in Korea. A Communist Chinese delegation was on hand to press its own charges of American aggression in Formosa, last stronghold of Nationalist China.

MacArthur said the strength of Chinese Red forces in Korea 'has shattered the high hope we had that the intervention . . . was only of a token nature on a voluhteer and individual basis as publicly announced."

Eighth Army intelligence has identified 14 Chinese Communist divisions along the northwest Korea front, but new Chinese divisions have swelled the number in the last 24 hours.

A Chinese division has 8,000 to 10,000 men.

Shattered Hopes

MacArthur also said the vast outpouring of Chinese Red troops had shattered his own hopes that The Korean war could be ended quickly.

Five days ago, when he personally launched the north-west front offensive, nine UN divisions moved steadily and ahead of schedule toward the Manchurian border 50 miles and more away.

The enemy was like a ghost at first. Only minor opposition was met.

Then, blaring bugles and shrill whistle blasts signalled the Chinese Reds attack Saturday night all along the north-west front.

AP correspondent Don Whitehead reported from the front that the Chinese Communists turned the tide in three savage night attacks.

Defeated Decisively

"United Nations forces have been defeated decisively in their first major attack against the troops of Red China," Whitehead said.

"Eighth Army losses have been heavy."

The Communists attacked without air and artillery support. They threw masses of troops at night against the Allied lines.

MacArthur said it was obvious the Communists had broken contact with UN forces two weeks ago to build up for a surprise assault. He expressed belief that the now-shattered Allied offensive had forced the enemy into "a premature engagement."

Correspondent Whitehead said the disaster came so quickly that it will be weeks before the whole story of it is assembled. He added:

Much Stronger

"The blunt truth is the army is being driven back by an enemy obviously much stronger than had been estimated in Korea."

He quoted one Chinese prisoner as saying they had been ordered to fight all winter "to destroy 50,000 or 60,000 Americans."

The biggest threat along the 75-mile line running from the Chongju area on the Yellow Sea to the Tokchon sector was along the right flank.

There the fury of Chinese Red attacks had crumbled three South Korean divisions, which retreated as much as 20 miles. Some units were surrounded. Others tried to reform behind elements of the US 2nd division. The Americans swung over to protect the South Korean flank while meeting stiff frontal attacks along their own sector.

Three Communist armies were trying to turn the right flank back toward Pyongyang, the former North Korean capital, about 60 miles to the south.

Fight Off Attacks

West of the South Korean positions, the U.S. 2nd and 25th divisions fought off fierce Communist attacks along the Chongchon river.

Still farther west, the U.S. 24th division, which withdrew earlier Chongju, was fighting against strong Chinese Red forces.

A Marine drive west of Changjin reservoir, in north central Korea, was stalled only four miles from the jump-off point at Yudam.

In the only Allied advance, in the northeast, the South Korean capital division regained 1½ miles of ground it lost Monday north of Chongjin, and thrust ahead another two miles.

Far behind the lines, South Korean troops attacked hold-out Red forces 30 miles northeast of Seoul, the South Korean capital. An American officer said "the enemy is defending frantically with artillery support."

Air Support

Allied air power was focussed on the critical northwest Korea front.

B-29 bombers hit Taechon with 48 tons of fire bombs early Tuesday afternoon. They left the Communist supply and troop centre in flames.

Other Superforts bombed six main supply routes from the border-marking Yalu river to the fighting front. They ran into heavy flak all along the border.

By mid-afternoon Tuesday, Allied fighter-bombers had flown 234 sorteis (single flights) in the Taechon-Tokchon area. Of these, 175 were flown in direct support of ground troops.

The planes blasted vehicle and mule train convoys, gasoline dumps, Communist troops and gun positions.

Tourists Stranded

PARIS, Nov. 28 (CP).—Twenty-two Canadian and American tourists stranded in Paris almost two weeks by the crash of the Canadian pilgrim plane, expect to leave for Montreal today. The group ran into difficulty because of the crash in the French Alps which cost the lives of 50 Holy Year pilgrims to Rome and eight other persons. Most of the pilgrims were Canadians.

Court Okays Investigation Of Possible Rubber Combine

TORONTO, Nov. 28—(CP)—An investigation of a suspected price-fixing combine among Canadian rubber companies was given the green light Monday by the Ontario Supreme Court. The Court rejected a plea from 20 rubber companies for an injunction which would have nullified investigations already made by the Federal government's Combines Investigation Commission.

(The Canadian Press reported erroneously earlier Monday that the injunction was designed to block presentation of the report on the investigation to the Federal government.)

Actually, the date when the report will be placed in the hands of the government is probably still a long way off, even though the investigation of the rubber companies was started more than three years ago.

Call Companies

Thomas D. MacDonald, appointed Chief Combines Commissioner early this year, will take the next step. He will call the rubber companies before him to show cause why they should not be charged with operating a price-fixing combine detrimental to the Canadian public.

The injunction asked by the companies was based on the contention that the new Commissioner, Mr. MacDonald, had no jurisdiction in this case since the original investigation was ordered by his predecessor, Fred McGregor, who resigned as commissioner last year.

Mr. Justice W. F. Spence of the Supreme Court said in his ruling Monday that it made no difference whether the report was completed and presented to the government by the same man that started the investigation, "so long as he himself comes to his own decision that a combine exists."

Conservative Wins NS Seat Ends Vote Chaos

HALIFAX, Nov. 28 (CP)—The provincial seat of Hants West, in political uncertainty since its creation last year, voted Progressive Conservative George Wilson into the Nova Scotia legislature yesterday in a by-election.

His victory makes the standing in the 37-seat house: Liberals 27, Progressive Conservatives eight, CCF two.

It was a straight two-way fight, Mr. Wilson polling 3,698 votes against 2,892 for Liberal W. C. Dunlop.

Opposition Leader Robert L. Stanfield called the victroy a "rebuke" to the administration of Premier Angus L. Macdonald.

First Contest

Hants West, an agricultural area of the Annapolis Valley, was contested as a riding for the first time in last year's provincial election following redistribution.

Mr. Wilson was declared the winner then over Liberal George Cole. A recount resulted in a tie and the returning officer cast the deciding vote in favor of the Liberal.

Mr. Wilson appealed to the Supreme Court and in March was again declared the winner. Mr. Cole, in turn, took this decision to the full bench of the Supreme Court and the election was declared void.

Election Quiet

Between appeals and counter-appeals, Mr. Wilson sat in the House and served on several committees.

Interest in the by-election, fought on a mixture of national and local issues, was keen.

Voting was quiet. Only two minor scuffles were reported. No arrests were made.

Red Newspapers Jubilant Over War

BERLIN, Nov. 28 —(AP)—The Soviet bloc in Europe resounded today with claims that the United States has suffered a military catastrophe in North Korea.

Russia's official occupation newspaper in East Germany summed up the front-line news:

"MacArthur's 'great offensive' ends in wild flight."

Communist editors and broadcasters throughout eastern Europe expressed jubilation.

Ohio, with the highest death toll—55—was slowly but surely digging out from the heavy falls which had buried most of the state. Most of the main highways —except some in the southeastern section—were open but traffic moved slowly. Thousands of cars remained stranded and some motorists were marooned in farm houses and villages.

Hundreds of business and industrial firms in the two states called employees back to work and expected to be back to near normal operations by tomorrow.

Pennsylvania reported 35 deaths from the storm, 14 in Pittsburgh.

New York's death toll was 33 from the wind and rain storm that hit the east coast from South Carolina to Maine. Some estimates placed the property loss at $100,000,000.

Woman To Stand Trial In Death Of Boy

Amelia Edwards, RR 2, Warsaw was bailed for trial Monday by Magistrate W. R. Philp on a charge of manslaughter arising out of the death of five-year-old Garry Faiers, 829 Lansdowne St.

At the end of the preliminary hearing, Mrs. Edwards, who had cried quietly throughout the case, said she had nothing to say. Bail was set at $2,000.

The boy died in hospital Oct. 14, the evening of the accident. The accident took place near the boy's home on Lansdowne St. near Western Ave.

PC Edward Niziol, who investigated the accident, told court he found there had been no eyewitnesses. "There were tire marks opposite 829 Lansdowne St. which turned sharply to the north. They looked like the tracks of a vehicle that had turned suddenly.

Skid Marks Seen

"North of the centre line of the road, the marks became solid skid marks, and continued for a distance of 100 feet northeast to the north shoulder of the highway.

"There were bits of glass and two pools of blood 215 feet from where the marks started. The glass was to the west of the blood on the south side of the road," the officer testified.

After completing his investigation, he said, the officer talked with Mrs. Edwards at the police station. "She said she had been the driver of the car. She seemed shaken up and I could smell liquor on her."

Came to Police Station

Sgt. Leo Murphy, desk sergeant the day of the accident, said the accused and another woman came into the police station. "They were very excited and said they had been in an accident on Lansdowne St. in which a small boy had been knocked down.

"I smelled liquor on both of them," he stated.

Mrs. Reta Faiers, the boy's mother, testified she heard the screech of brakes and went out onto the highway.

She said she saw the boy's shoes on the north shoulder of the road, west of the pools of blood. The car, she said, was stopped near the railway crossing.

"What happened to your son as a result of the accident?" asked crown counsel John A. Bradshaw.

"He was taken to the hospital. He died at 9.30 that night, and I held him in my arms all the time," she said.

Rotary Plans Santa Claus Parade Dec. 16

CAMPBELLFORD, Nov. 28 — (ENS)—Plans were formulated for the Santa Claus parade to be held in Campbellford December 16, at the Rotary Club on Monday. The club is going to sponsor the parade this year.

Wib. Kingston introduced the guest speaker, the Rev. Dr. D. M. Smith, pastor of St. John's United Church, Campbellford. Dr. Smith spoke on the relationship of the church in community service. He stated there was a great need of community service, and Rotary was one organization that was doing its best. We should not limit our community spirit to our own circle, he said, but should look beyond us to other lands, where people are in great need of help. "Religion in practice and in theory, is not one and the same thing", he said. "We do not always practice our own theories".

Dr. Smith said the basic belief in Christianity was a sense of community service. Communism is now forcing us to view the needs of others, and labor is doing the same thing.

The church still possesses the high ideal of service, said the speaker, but often falls short in this respect because of the people who are a part of it.

Archie Meyers moved a vote of thanks to the speaker, and president A. K. Loucks extended the thanks of the club to Dr. Smith.

Potato Champion Grows 607 Bushels To Acre

BETHANY, Nov. 28 (ENS)—The 500 Bushel Potato Club of Durham County held their annual banquet and presentation of prizes in the Town Hall, Bethany, on Friday.

Mr. Thomas Ward was chairman, introducing E. A. Summers, agricultural representative for Durham County, who told some of the highlights of the club's achievements since it was organized in 1944 under the auspices of the County Crop Improvement Association, and also introduced the guests at the head table. Rev. James Hamilton spoke briefly and led the community singing with Robert Sisson at the piano.

Mr. Frank Lashleigh, assistant director of the agricultural societies from Toronto, was the guest speaker.

"From the early perseverance of our pioneer forefathers who had to cut down virgin forests and build log cabins," said Mr. Lashleigh, "we have today's modern farms and homes, increasing good roads and highways, with modern means of transportation and ready markets; hydro, telephone, the various farm organizations."

The research being done through the government in plant science eliminates much of the guesswork of former years. There are of course the problems of increasing the fertility of the soil, conserving the forest and natural water resources, combating blights and disease, and a highly competitive market for produce . . . this year's low price for potatoes is one instance where perhaps legislative help is needed in the marketing program.

"We should work for better understanding of rural conditions and needs. More recreation centres are needed in smaller communities and the government stands ready to help in this instance with grants for playgrounds, arenas, open air rinks, etc. Our educational system is being changed with a view to helping those in rural communities. The government health program is being specially promoted through the country. The farm is a wonderful place on which to live and young people should be encouraged to remain on the farm where there is the best and most independent way of living. Farming is a wonderful profession," he declared.

Two minutes silence was observed in memory of the late Walter Schreiber, of Galt, a valued promoter of the Durham Club, who died recently. Regret was also expressed at the absence of Alfred Johnston, who was in hospital.

Simon Quinn, who originally comes from North Carolina and is at present staying at the home of Milton Dunbar, near Port Hope, delighted everyone with his humourous talk on "The King," keeping everyone guessing as to who was the personage described as the King of the Underworld, who travelled by every menas of transportation from plane, train, truck, wagon and wheelbarrow until he was crowned with blossome . . . "King Spud." With a delightful southern accent, he went on to describe the extensive growth of potatoes in Maine, where their acreage and yield is the highest in the United States, and relating items of interest regarding their yearly potato festival.

Award Prizes

The following prizes were awarded:

Hilton Weatherilt was the winner of the coveted gold watch valued at $75.00, growing the Sebago variety with an acreage yield of 607 bushels per acre. F. Dayno, of Port Hope, representative of the Agricultural Chemicals made the presentation. Since the forming of the club in 1944 the prize of a watch given to the grower with the highest yield has been an annual event. Actually, this year there were two growers with a slightly higher yield, but they had received a watch previously and the club ruling prevents anyone from receiving it a second time. The first year it was won by Alfred Johnson, in 1945 by Ernest Cavano, in 1946 by Henry Blakely, in 1947 by Delbert Olan, in 1948 by Melville Strong, and in 1949 by Thomas Ward. Delbert Olan, who grew the Chippewa variety, had an acreage yield of 760 bushels and was awarded a large silver tray, plus $25. Henry Blakely, who also grew the Chippewa variety with a yield of 624 bushels per acre, received a silver fruit bowl plus $20.00. In fourth place was Steve Yacynuck, growing Katahdins, acreage yeild 570, who received one half ton of fertilizer and $15.00. Fifth was Clifford Hudson, growing Sebagos, 560 bushel yield and receiving 100 lbs Dithane Dust and $15.00. Sixth was Albert Olan, growing Chippewa variety, yield 547, receiving $20.00. The sum of $15.00 each was awarded to Tedford Yacynuck, Luther Olan, Lorne Hudson and Douglas Olan. $10.00 each to Kenneth Olan, Melville Strong, Milton Dunbar, Harvey McGill and Carleton Patton: and $5.00 each to Melville Wood, Thomas Ward, John Payne, Clifford Curtis Alfred Johnston, Donald Lowes, Ernest Cavano, Fenton Fallis and Lloyd Argue. Earl Wetherilt received one gallon of Dithane Spray.

Certificates from the Crop Improvement Association were presented to all who had grown over 500 bushels to the acre.

Mr. Olan moved a vote of thanks to the speakers and to all those who had given donations towards the prizes.

Reeve Charles Chapman extended the greetings of Manvers council and Reeve Robert Armstrong, of Cavan, congratulated the club on their achievements.

The Women's Association of the United Church catered for the dinner; the tables were attractively arranged with silver candalabra, evergreens and individual favors, and a sumptuous fowl dinner was served to the guests.

Mrs. Clarence Page was requested to order material to make laundry bags and shoe packs for the next meeting which will be held at the home of Miss Beverly Pomeroy on December 7. There were nine girls present at Saturday's meeting and Mrs. Finney served a dainty lunch.

Reeve Johnston Of N. Monaghan To Be Opposed

An election for reeve and council seems certain in North Monaghan after the nomination meeting Monday night in the county building.

Willard G. Waterman, North Monaghan farmer, was nominated for the reeveship. If he stands it will be a two-way contest between him and Melville Johnston who is now completing his 12th successive term as reeve.

Mr. Waterman has been six years in municipal politics, and has served the township as councillor and deputy reeve (before parts of the township were annexed by the city). In 1948 he ran against Mr. Johnston for the reeveship but was defeated.

During his 12 years Mr. Johnston has been opposed only three times, and has yet to lose an election.

Eight For Council

Eight were nominated for the four offices of councillor. They were Walter Brown, Archibald Patterson, James S. Roberts, and Lloyd Whittington—all members of the 1950 council who indicated they would run again—and four others—Douglas Mitchell, building contractor; Bernard Preston, farmer; Fred Stenson, farmer; and Willis W. Preston, draughtsman.

Mr. Stenson and Willis Preston both indicated they would run; Bernard Preston definitely announced he would not; and Mr. Mitchell did not commit himself, though it is believed he will run.

An acclamation is likely for North Monaghan School Area, No. 1. With Mr. Stenson and Mr. Mitchell (both 1950 trustees) nominated for council, it leaves four vacancies on the board to be filled. The following indicated they would stand: Ernest Horton, Elwood Thompson, Herbert Hewitt and Charles Ross. Mr. Hewitt, an electrician, and Mr. Ross, a CGE employee, are both newcomers.

Eric Johnston, the fifth trustee, is not up for election this year.

Six were nominated for the three vacancies on the school board of Area No. 2. They were Bernard Preston, Nelson Parrington, Clarence Laird, Howard Berry, Courtland Lillico and Elwood Johnston.

Mr. Laing, completing his first term as trustee, said he would only run if a sufficient number of the others did not qualify.

The newcomers—all of whom indicated their willingness to stand—were Howad Berry, merchant; Courtland Lillico, farmer, and Elwood Johnston, farmer.

Henry Batten and George Whitfield, the two remaining trustees, were not up for election this year.

Nominees have till 9 p.m. today to qualify.

The election in North Monaghan will be December 4, with polls open 10 a.m. to 6 p.m.

Best Attendance

Bruce Johnston, township clerk and chairman for the nomination meeting, said it was the best attendance he had seen in years. Forty ratepayers were present.

There was no controversy at the meeting. Interest focused principally on that part of Sherbrooke St. running through the township. The ratepayers were disturbed by the speed of the cars and the poor state of the road.

Reeve Johnston assured them that during the coming year the county council would lay "a black top" (mulch paving) as far as Wallace Drive. And a by-law was now in preparation to limit the speed of cars through the built-up area to 30 miles an hour.

WELLINGTON, N.Z—(CP) — J. R. Marshall, minister in charge of the census and statistics department, declared that the consumer price index has risen 6.6 per cent since the start of the year but that there had been no appreciable rise in the last two months. Stability has been reached over a wide range of prices.

Peterborough Outpaced Lindsay At A Cost Of $15.68

Our friendly neighbouring town of Lindsay must be somewhat vexed when it compares its past and present with that of Peterborough. In the early 1860's Lindsay seemed destined to become the metropolis of the entire area. Its population had jumped in a few years from 1,907 to 4,049. Peterborough, which had a head start on Lindsay, was slowing down, as the current instalment of our Pammett history of this district shows. It increased in the same period from 3,979 to 4,049.

* * *

Thus, some 95 years ago, Lindsay and Peterborough had exactly the same number of people, and it was Lindsay which was growing rapidly, not Peterborough. The population of the townships south of Peterborough was falling off; townships north, and around Lindsay were increasing. It looked as if Peterborough would remain a small town, and Lindsay become wealthy and important.

* * *

Somehow, history cheated Lindsay. Today Lindsay is a town of some 9,200, Peterborough is a city of 37,000. Four times as big, and of course, therefore four times as important. (We say this with a sidelong glance at Premier Frost, a Lindsay man.) Why was Lindsay deprived of the glowing future promised by its population in the 1860's? Many of the reasons are being unfolded in the Pammett account. We might modestly point out that native Peterborough talent, vigour and character had undoubtedly something to do with Peterborough's winning of the race, in addition to the rushing waters of the Otonabee to turn mill wheels and later turbines for electricity.

* * *

Has it been a Pyhrrhic victory? The per capita tax in Lindsay last year was $30.56. In Peterborough it was $46.24. On the whole, we are inclined to believe that Peterborough got the better of history's bargain. A difference in tax of $15.68 a head is not rueful, considering how well Peterborough provides for its heads.

Paintings Sneak In And Out Of Town

The Peterborough Public Library through its energetic William Graff has been doing an excellent job of borrowing paintings for Peterborough to see. The travelling exhibit of the British Columbia Group of Painters is an example. This notable show was hung without fanfare in the Library's gallery last week and comes down Thursday. It has been preceded by other exhibits and is to be followed by a showing of the work of local painters. People who have kept their ears and eyes open for the coming of new exhibits have been amply rewarded. The present British Columbian group of paintings is as fine as we have had.

The Library, this newspaper (not always promptly we regret to say) and a few vigorously interested members of local art groups, have been propagandists for the exhibits, but we feel that the news of them should be shouted from more housetops than now give them voice. With so little to look at in Peterborough, apart from what nature has provided, it is of very great importance that people all over the town should know that such a travelling collection as the B.C. paintings has arrived. It is also important, of course, that there be sufficient people interested in getting them hung.

One of the better ways of introducing a new exhibition of paintings to the public is by holding an official opening. The opening is reported, the first-nighters spread the gospel by word-of-mouth, and, if the committee responsible for the opening are lucky enough to be able to engage a painter or art critic to discuss the newly-hung works, the public has thus a guide through the colours and patterns. An important exhibit like the B.C. show should not have to sneak in and out of town as if it were something a bit off-colour, to be whispered about by a few who are privy to the secret.

Official openings of art exhibitions require organization and work beyond the capacity or proper duties of the Public Library staff. Are there no art groups in the city who could sponsor these exhibitions, or at least the premieres? Is there need for an inclusive Peterborough Art Association to co-ordinate the various efforts, and to take up the work which the Public Library staff, almost unaided, has been carrying on with a success which hides their difficulties?

Purchasable Patri

Yesterday we commented in these columns on an unfortunately worded advertisement for television sets which had appeared in the U.S., and which implied that children whose parents did not own a television set were at a social disadvantage with their friends. Attached to this advertisement was the following endorsement from Angelo Patri, described as "Noted behaviourist and authority on child guidance":

"Youngsters today need television for their morale as much as they need fresh air and sunshine for their health. Social competence is a big force in any child's life. With it he can battle triumphantly for his place among his fellows.

"It is practically impossible for boys and girls to 'hold their own' with friends and schoolmates unless television is available to them. Of course there would be no conflict if parents brought television into the home. It would eliminate a situation that could cause great embarrassment to children. To have television is to be 'cock o' the walk'. Not to have it, well, that is unthinkable."
—Angelo Patri

We have never held Mr. Patri in particularly high regard. We see his syndicated articles about children now and again; sometimes they make sense, sometimes they do not appear to mean much of anything. From now on we shall pay no attention to them at all, for Mr. Patri's endorsement of television, in terms which suggest that a child without access to television is leading an underprivileged life, shows plainly that Mr. Patri's opinions are to be purchased. We are not impressed by "authorities" whose goodwill can be bought.

As for the notion that life without television is "unthinkable", we cannot do better than quote the angry outburst of a fellow-editor, Richard J. Needham of the Calgary Herald:

Unthinkable, eh? That's a fighting word to us. We have thought our way through two unthinkable wars, an unthinkable depression, an unthinkable inflation, and, within recent weeks, an unthinkable railway strike. Listen, Mr. Patri, we are thinking, right this very moment, about not having a television set. We haven't got one, we have no intention of getting one, and even if we did get one, it wouldn't work here. How's that for unthinkability?

But life goes on. Right across Canada, which boasts not a single television station, and only a handful of sets in cities close to the border, life goes on. Children read, play, study, and grow up to some measure, at least, of social competence. Civilization can be carried on not merely without television but—as some of us beaten-out crocks recall—without radio. A lot of people in this world got their book-larnin' without the aid of "Twenty Questions", and their moral instruction without the guidance of Superman.

"The television manufacturers must be desperate to descend to such nonsense, for that's what it is, nonsense—the kind of nonsense many manufacturers foist, or try to foist, upon the public. Their product, generally, is a good one— we bow to the genius of American industry—but it is not an essential one. It is not bread for the body or for the soul: it is merely jam. Practically all the things we have, here in North America, are jam. And that is fair enough, jam is an honest commodity—so long as it does not pretend to be something other than jam.

What is really disturbing about this advertisement is its implication of a merciless conformity. Every child must have everything that every other child has, every adult must have everything every other adult has. Otherwise, they will be "different", and because they are "different", they will be, as the advertisement puts it, ashamed and humiliated. This philosophy, is, in our opinion, a good deal more dangerous than anything brought to light by Senator Joseph McCarthy.

Explaining the U.N. Alphabet

In our Third Column today we publish the first of three articles by J. Halcro Ferguson, in which he will explain the welter of initials by which the many subsidiaries of the United Nations Organization are known. We know that these initials are often mysterious to our readers, and that they are mysterious to us, too. Mr. Ferguson's articles are of lasting value and we suggest that those who are keenly interested in the working of U.N.—and we hope that there are many such among our readers—should cut them out and keep them for reference.

NOTE AND COMMENT

A New York tap dancer is reported to have insured his legs for $25,000. Pin money.

Canadian farmers are turning once more toward sheep-raising, and the Windsor Star refers to this as "a ewe turn". Baaaah!

A fashionable woman's hat from Paris is modelled on Winston Churchill's famed demi-plug. There is nothing that women, in their frivolous passion for the unsuitable, will not imitate, and we should not be at all surprised to see one of them cavorting in a hat modelled on the Crown of Britain or the Pope's triple tiara.

The U.N. Alphabet

By J. HALCRO FERGUSON

SINCE the end of the war, newspaper readers all over the world have been bemused and bewildered by euphonious initials denoting international agencies whose functions and inter-relationship they often understand but vaguely. Even English-speaking people (and usually the initials are taken from the English names of the organizations concerned) are not always certain of the significance of such collections of letters as I.C.A.O. or I.M.C.O., and those who speak no English are in worse case. How can a Peruvian, faced over his early morning coffee with the capitalized word UNESCO, guess that it means in his language Organizcion Educacional, Cientifica y Cultural De Las Naciones Unidas?"

EVEN should the editor of his local paper go to the trouble of appending this explanation in brackets, the reader is often little the wiser. He is liable to skip the item with the mental excuse that it refers to some kind of high-falutin' talking shop, and has nothing to do with real life as far as he is concerned, anyway. But, if he does so, he will be quite wrong.

In our hypothetical Peruvian's own country, for instance, U.N.I.C.E.F.—the United Nations International Children's Emergency Fund—is spending a 295,000-dollar allocation. A two-year typhus eradication programme is being carried out, reaching three million people. U.N.I.C.E.F. provides D.D.T. and equipment, W.H.O.—the World Health Organization—provides technical assistance, and the Peruvian Government is contributing 184,000 U.S. dollars to help finance the scheme. In addition, the Peruvian people have donated 11,300 U.S. dollars to the work of U.N.I.C.E.F.

AT the other end of the world, in China, another United Nations agency is doing equally important work. F.A.O.—the Food and Agriculture Organization—has been cultivating a plant from which insecticides are manufactured: 1,400 tons of insecticide, used to protect crops, could mean an increase of 500,000 bushels in China's food production. The same agency has also rebuilt a war-destroyed factory near Shanghai and equipped it with machinery provided by another now-defunct U.N. agency—U.N.R.R.A.—the United Nations Relief and Rehabilitation Administration.

✧ ✧ ✧

ALL of these agencies span the globe with their activities. W.H.O., for instance, is active in over sixty countries, as widely separated as Italy, Bolivia, Haiti, Afghanistan and Indonesia. All in all, thirteen specialized agencies, U.N.I.C.E.F. (which comes in a category of its own), and twelve U.N. Commissions are covering between them almost every sovereign country in the world—including nations outside the U.N.—as well as colonies, trusteeship countries, and other dependent territories, providing services, equipment and technical assistance for the benefit of the inhabitants.

✧ ✧ ✧

MANY people believe that these international bodies all date from the foundation of the United Nations during the war, or at the very most from the formation of the League of Nations after World War One. In fact, the oldest of them, the U.P.U.—the Universal Postal Union—goes back to 1875. The list of countries belonging to it reads like a roll-call of all the nations of the earth, beginning Afghanistan, Albania, Algeria, Argentina...." and ending "....Vatican City, Venezuela, Yemen, Yugoslavia."

✧ ✧ ✧

WE are accustomed to regard it as only right and proper that we can slip a stamped and addressed envelope into a pillar box and know that within a few days or at most weeks it will reach its destination at the other side of the world without any other effort or payment on the part of sender or recipient. But before 1875 this was not the case. The system whereby the sender rather than the recipient paid for the transmission of a letter by affixing a postage stamp which was cancelled at the office of origin had already been pioneered by Britain for domestic mail, and adopted by other nations, but international correspondence was a very different matter. Bilateral agreements existed between pairs of countries, but these led not unnaturally to considerably confusion, owing to differing rates and methods of payment, while many countries, had no regular postal facilities at all. It was impossible, for instance, to send a letter from San Francisco to Siam.

✧ ✧ ✧

IN 1863 at the suggestion of the Postmaster-General of the United States, a meeting was held in Paris, attended by representatives of fifty nations, which drew up a set of general principles to be followed in the despatch and transmission of international correspondence, but there was no legal obligation to follow them. In 1874, therefore, at the suggestion of the Director-General of the German Postal Service, the Swiss Government convened an International Postal Congress at Berne, which was attended by 22 nations, whose delegates, on October 9 of that year, signed the International Postal Convention.

✧ ✧ ✧

THIS convention, though little known to the general public, was the first step ever taken by sovereign governments on the road to the concept of "One World". A document remarkably farsighted and comprehensive for its time, it bound countries all over the world together in "a single postal territory for the reciprocal exchange of correspondence". The signatory countries called themselves the General Postal Union, and in 1878 changed the name to the more resounding and indeed more descriptive one of Universal Postal Union.

THE U.P.U. has now survived two World Wars, and was an obvious candidate to be one of the first specialized agencies of the United Naitons. Its organization provided a valuable precedent for other agencies set up subsequently. U.P.U. works through a Universal Postal Congress, a permanent Executive and Liaison Committee, and an International Bureau headed by a Director.

The first of these bodies, the Congress, usually meets every five years. It is, in effect, the Union's Parliament, in which each member country has one vote. The Executive and Liaison Committee, which meets yearly, consists of 19 members elected by each Congress. Besides maintaining relations with member nations and with other U.N. agencies, it appoints the Director and other senior officials of the International Bureau. This Bureau, with headquarters in Berne, is the permanent secretariat, that is to say the Civil Service of the Union. Though the present director is a Swiss, the staff is international.

U.P.U. though the oldest international agency now under the wing of U.N. was not the first existing agency to take its place alongside the war-time bodies already in the U.N. This distinction belongs to I.L.O., the International Labour Office. The I.L.O., whose headquarters is also in Switzerland (at Geneva) is one of the few survivors of the international optimism of 1919, when the world believed it had just finished a war to end war and President Wilson's Fourteen Points were expected to bring peace and democracy in perpetuity. As an autonomous institution associated with the League of Nations, its Constitution formed part of the Treaty of Versailles, and its avowed aim has a ring of those cloudily hopeful days: "to contribute to the establishment of universal and lasting peace through the promotion of social justice".

✧ ✧ ✧

IN this case, however, the woolly phraseology covers a practical programme of hard and beneficient work, which has borne fruit in the 62 nations belonging to the Organization. In many of these countries it has been the influence of I.L.O. which has effected such elementary requisites of industrial justice as an 8-hour day, holidays with pay, and sickness and old age insurance benefits, and in others I.L.O. has been able to bring to an end such abuses as forced labour, child-employment and the employment of women in underground mines.

IN 1944 the I.L.O. adopted the principles of the Declaration of Philadelphia, maintaining that "all human beings, irrespective of race, creed or sex, have the right to pursue both their material well-being and their spiritual development in conditions of freedom and dignity of economic security and equal opportunity". Some of I.L.O.'s member Governments, through negligence, lack of resources, or lack of authority, have not yet put these aspirations into practice, and there are some notable absentees from the roll of members, among them the Soviet Union. But it is heartening that for over 30 years a majority of the world's Governments have been willing to contribute money and personnel for the benefit of workers all over the world, at home and abroad. Last year the budget of the organization came to 5,185,539 U.S. dollars, contributed by 60 nations.

With the U.P.U., furthermore, the I.L.O. pioneered the road for the dozen new agencies which sprung up after World War Two, and which deal with such diversified problems as nutrition, child-health, education, civil aviation, industrial loans, telecommunications, refugees, trade and meteorology. The initials of these agencies are the letters of a new international alphabet.

Letter To The Editor

FACTS ON LAKEFIELD WATERWORKS

Sir: Without bothering to examine the facts of the Lakefield Water Works and sewage proposal Miss Grace A. Young through the medium of your paper informs us where we are going to put our water mains and sewers. The fact is that the most heavily populated areas on both sides of the river will be served and not as stated in Miss Young's first letter. Furthermore I am confident that within five years the remainder of the village will be fully covered. The opponents of the proposal have taken great pains to spread the notion that areas not included will have to wait twenty years before any further extensions can take place. There is no reason why extensions cannot be made within the first year of operation provided those desiring the service make a cash arrangement with the village. In addition the village itself will be able to spend an amount equal to the capital portion of each annual debenture for the purpose of making extensions. Ratepayers who favour water works but who are disappointed because their street is not included in the present plan should not allow themselves to be exploited by those who do not want this great improvement at any cost.

The Council issued a mimeographed sheet describing the proposal and mailed it to the ratepayers. If through some misnance some people did not receive this, they should obtain a copy from the Village Clerk and if any are in doubt as to whether they will receive services immediately they should consult the maps at the Clerk's office.

Allowing $3,000.00 as the estimated annual operating expense we have calculated the total cost of this scheme to a property owner receiving water and sewer services and whose assessment is $2,000.00 will not be more than $68.70 a year. Against this sum he will save $7.80 sanitary charge which he now pays. (This sanitary charge is always susceptible to being raised as it has been in the past.) There are additional savings, such as lower insurance rates and the cost of repair and replacement of private pumping equipment now maintained by some of our people.

Miss Young is worried about maintenance cost. The figure which we have taken into consideration is one suggested by our engineer and if it proves to be conservative there are other compensating factors which will take care of it without creating any further burden. For instance our general assessment has been increasing steadily and I expect it will increase even more rapidly if the water works and sewers are installed. This will tend to reduce the cost to each property owner and I think it will more than take care of error, if any, in estimating this cost.

In an attempt to show how wrong we are with regard to operating costs Miss Young says we will have to "pay salaries of an engineer and other employees." Only one employee is needed for this purpose and the village of Delhi which has just commenced to operate a system with twice the number of properties to be served paid $5,100.00 last year.

Miss Young discusses the matter of industrial firms locating in Lakefield. It is highly possible that Lakefield taxes with the added burden of the water works and sewage debt would still be lower than taxes in some other centres. Whether this is so or not it is a fact that industrial firms will not locate in the municipality unless it can provide sufficient labour force and housing for it. Two or three years ago some of the members of our Council considered a low cost housing scheme for the village but discovered we could not entertain it since the village was unable to provide the necessary services. This situation will continue if Miss Young's view prevails.

There is nothing wrong with septic tanks if they are properly installed and provided there is sufficient room for a tile field. There are not many lots in the areas which it is proposed to serve with water and sewers large enough for a proper installation. The situation is such that the Board of Health may have to take some action in regard to this in the near future.

None of us who support this proposal are insensible of the amount of the debt to be created. We feel, however, that for the sake of the future development and health of the community that we cannot afford to be without the services which this debt will make possible.

Yours truly,
WM. C. GRANT,
Reeve of the Village of Lakefield.

Bible Message

(From the Authorized Version)

Praise ye the Lord, Praise ye the Lord from the heavens: praise him in the heights. Praise ye him, all his angels: praise ye him, all his hosts. Praise ye him, sun and moon: praise him, all ye stars of light. Praise him, ye heavens of heavens, and ye waters that be above the heavens.

Let them praise the name of the Lord: for he commanded, and they were created. (Ps. 148: 1-5.)

✧ ✧ ✧

I am the Lord, and there is none else, there is no God beside me: I girded thee, though thou has not known me: that they may know from the rising of the sun, and from the west, that there is none beside me. I am the Lord, and there is none else. (Isa. 45: 5, 6.)

✧ ✧ ✧

I will say to the north, Give up; and to the south, Keep not back: bring my sons from far, and my daughters from the ends of the earth; even every one that is called by my name: for I have created him for my glory, I have formed him; yea, I have made him....

Ye are my witnesses, said the Lord, and my servant whom I have chosen: that ye may know and believe me, and understand that I am he: before me there was no God formed, neither shall there be after me....I am the Lord, your Holy One, the creator of Israel, your King. (Isa. 43: 6, 7, 10, 15.)

Unconsidered Trifles

"Mother, shall I have a little sister one day?" "Why?" "Well it gets rather a bore teasing the cat."

✧ ✧ ✧

Friend: "You will soon forget her and be happy again."

Jilted Suitor: "Oh, no, I shan't, I've bought too much for her on the instalment system!"

✧ ✧ ✧

Sandy happened upon a fellow-Scot lying in the road after a motor crash. "Did nae one see ye?" he asked. "No." Well, I'm insured, too. Wu'd ye mind if I lay down beside ye?"

✧ ✧ ✧

Mistress (to charlady): And you think your Lizzie would make me a good housemaid, Mrs. O'Brien?

Is she an early riser?

Mrs. O'Brien: Sure, an' she is that. She's up an' has all the beds made of a morning before the rest of us is awake at all.

✧ ✧ ✧

"Answer me, Clara," he said in a moment of passion, "I can bear this suspense no longer."

"Answer him, Clara," echoed the old man in the hall, thinking of the gas and coal bills. "I can bear this expense no longer."

✧ ✧ ✧

A stern, hatchet-faced woman entered the office and demanded to see the chief.

"Is she good-looking?" the boss asked the office boy.

"Yes, sir — very beautiful," was the reply.

"Then show her up."

After the lady's departure the boss sent for the office boy.

"You're a nice judge of beauty," he said irritably.

"Well, sir," apologized the office boy, "I thought she might be your wife."

"So she is," snapped the boss.

It Wasn't Disraeli, After All

(Ottawa Journal)

Mr. J. W. Robertson Scott, one of its sub-editors, in his book "The Story of the Pall Mall Gazette" writes brightly of that London newspaper, which died years ago, and its first editor Mr. Frederick Greenwood.

Always it has been held to the credit of Disraeli, the great rival of Gladstone, that it was thanks to his vision and imagination that the British Government bought controlling shares in the Suez Canal. Some years ago a movie emphasized it. Mr. Scott declares the idea originated not with Disraeli but with Greenwood, but the politician "took all the credit, never even mentioned the editor's alertness and foresight".

The Pall Mall Gazette was founded in 1865 and its great days coincided with a literary scene that included such giants as Thackeray, Trollope, Mederich, Patmore, Barrie. All these and many others figure in the book, and Scott quotes Barrie as saying of Editor Greenwood: "He invented me, I owe almost everything to him

Across The Continent

Visits Capistrano, Finds Place Swallowless

By JACK SCOTT

There is no connection whatever between the Mission of San Juan Capistrano and the Mexican border town of Tijuana except that we went sightseeing in both places and I have some notes here about them.

The old mission is truly one of the beauty spots of America.

It is situated in the sun-drenched hills about midway between San Diego and Los Angeles on El Camino Real (the Royal Road), the old and romantic name for Highway 101, the coast route which runs from Mexico to Washington State.

This is lovely country with mile after mile of orange groves, vast cattle ranches beyond and the foaming Pacific combers a short distance away.

The mission, one of 21 such ruins at various points along 600 miles of the California coast, slumbers behind walls that date back to 1776, and to be admitted there (through a gate where no woman in shorts has ever entered) is to go into another world.

Overpowering Perfume

Flowers bloom profusely in all seasons and even now, in "winter" their fragrance is an almost overpowering perfume. The ancient walls are shawled with purple bougainvillea and the green lace of pepper trees. Jasmine and delicate roses bloom alongside thorny cacti.

Everywhere there are snow-white pigeons cooing and whispering to themselves or fluttering down to alight on the shoulders of the unsuspecting dome of visitors who may have prepared for their visit with tidbits.

We wandered as if in a dream along the mission's paths, through the long, open corridors of the original living quarters of the padres (crude cells, but marvelously cool in the hottest weather), into small, hidden courtyards and patios where the scent of the flowers hangs like a mist, and paused a moment for reflection in the long and dimly lit chapel, the oldest building in the state and a timeless place of meditation.

Swallows Gone

The legendary swallows are gone from here now, but everyone in Capistrano delights in telling you about them.

Spring begins here on Saint Joseph's Day, March 19, when the first pale blossoms are seen on the fruit trees and the return of the swallows is celebrated. They are eaves, or cliff, swallows, white-crowned and russet-throated with silvery breasts and brown-grey wings and backs.

They build gourd-like nests which hang like beads from the limestone arches and cornices of the mission's ruins and the eaves of the adobe buildings.

Two families are raised each season and the birds depart for warmer climes by the end of August, the winter rains wash away the little mud nests and Capistrano waits for their return.

"They bring the spring," as one of the townspeople puts it, "and take the summer."

Border Town

The Mexican border town of Tijuana is something else again. It is about as authentically Mexican as Coney Island or any other amusement park. We'd planned on a weekend there. The place depressed us so we spent less than a day.

Tijuana's principal industry is gambling. At Caliente race track, a lavish stucco affair outside the town, one may bet the local horses or book bets the year around on any of the American tracks. In the town itself the most imposing building is used for the sport of jai alai (hi li), that glorified game of handball, with, of course, betting.

Apart from these ornate factories, the town is grubby, crowded and a tourist trap. The main street is a series of open-fronted shops crammed with trinkets of all descriptions and with few of the real examples of native craftsmanship one finds in the "real" Mexico.

Cheap Jewelry

Hawkers with trays slung about their necks containing cheap jewelry or dollar leather wallets patrol the crowded streets. The whole town seems dedicated to serving the kind of tourist who is making a quick dip below the border and wants something with the name "Mexico" stamped on it to show the folks at home.

Tijuana appears to be the chief rendezvous for US navy personnel from nearby San Diego. While we were there one out of every four or five persons on the street was a sailor, busily buying sombreros or funny post cards or, in groups, swarming from bar to bar. It must be the only place in North America where night clubs get under way at noon.

We drove to the outskirts of town to look at the bull ring, found it open and empty and climbed up into the stands.

Sun or Shade

There are two ticket windows, one for the sunny (sol) side, the other for the shady (sombre) side, which are the choice seats.

Under the circular stands are two small adobe buildings, one a primitive-looking chapel where the matador prays for luck in the ring, the other an emergency hospital. The before and after.

About getting in and out of Tijuana: The Mexican customs and immigration men wave you on with a bored smile, the Americans on the way back ask you if you've bought anything and, if not, beckon you through.

And here's a smug little Christmassy postscript: The weather synopsis today spoke of record low temperatures through the United States and Canada and of snow and rain through the Pacific northwest. From our "front door" today, here in southern California, we watched some exciting surf board riding.

McKnight, Howard Berry and Joseph Thorne. Messrs. Bradburn, Howden and McKnight qualified immediately after the nomination meeting. Mr. Bradburn and Mr. McKnight have served two years as councillors. Howden is a new man in the field. Joseph Thorne is a former member of the council and Mr. Berry has never served on the council.

Reeve Armstrong has given the township eight years service, two as reeve, three as deputy and three as councillor. Mr. Olan has served six years, two as deputy and four as councillor.

Three were nominated and have qualified for the two vacancies on the North Cavan School Board. They are Gordon Staples who has been two years on the board and Harold Hooton and Bruce Sargeant, both new men.

For the South Cavan Board, Russell Bonner with two years service and Marshall Fallis, a new man, both qualified and the third nominated was Donald Lang.

All candidates have up until 9:00 p.m. Tuesday night to qualify.

Ex-reeve Harold Cathcart presided at the after meeting which was one of the largest in recent years. All nominees spoke and the principal item up for discussion was whether Cavan should make a grant to the Millbrook arena. Finally the ratepayers decided in motion that the council should not make a grant unless it first was approved by a vote of the people.

Oddfellows Beat Port Hope In Speedy Junior Contest

Bun Kingdon's flying Oddfellows swung back into the groove last night at Civic Arena defeating Port Hope Panthers 4-1 in a spirited junior "B" hockey clash, the first of the young season between the two well-matched clubs.

Flashing their finest form of the season from the standpoint of coordination as a team, good forechecking, tireless back-checking and a steady aggressive offensive backed by a closely knit hard-hitting defence, Triple Links outplayed their Lakeshore rivals in every period to earn their second clear-cut triumph.

A Clean Fray

It was a fast, hard, but clean game all the way, despite 12 penalties by referee Shannon of Marmora. Most miscues were for trivial offences with Bobby Wyatt the bad boy having four, including a misconduct in the third for chewing the fat.

Featuring play was the fine work of Don Clapper who turned in his best game to date as he teamed up with Army Armstrong assisted on Stewart's goal and worked hard all the way. Also Ray Douglas, hard-working centre star and Kenny Floyd who scored the neatest goal of the night in the third period on a cool duet with Ab Buckton from 15 feet out. The latter played his usual solid game. Bill Stewart clicked on the second and third goals, the second on a fast breakaway down centre from Brian Robinson. Jim Morrow and Dean West, Army Armstrong, Jim Shearer, Dean Wasson, the Robinson's and Wyatt were always trying.

Shone In Goal

Red Wasson deserves more credit than his mates in this victory that keeps Oddfellows right up there in the early hot race when he kicked, batted or threw aside everything that came his way for 39 minutes and 38 seconds of play when Panthers scored their only marker on a wild scramble in front of the cage with Campbell potting the disc from Downey.

For Port Hope, a fairly big fast team, the outstanding work of Darc Campbell, Bud Downey, Coon Medhurst, Don Goody, Bernie Flesch, Jim Freeman and Ray Hanson was worthy of mention and the entire squad showed speed and spirit throughout even in defeat.

Port Hope—Goal: Ashton; defence, Goody, Flesch; centre, McKeen; wings, Hanson, Freeman; alts., Campbell, Downey, Medhurst, Wilcox, D. McGregor.

IOOF—Goal: R. Wasson; defence, D. Wasson, Shearer; centre, West; wings, Wyatt, Morrow; alts., B. Robinson, G. Robinson, Armstrong, Clapper, Buckton, Floyd, Douglas, Stewart.

Referee—Bill Shannon, Marmora. Linesman — Pete Nigh, Peterborough.

First Period

IOOF—G. Robinson (Armstrong) 2:02
IOOF—Stewart (Clapper) 5:32
Penalties—D. Wasson 2, B. Downey, Wyatt 2.

Second Period

IOOF—Stewart (B. Robinson) 8:00
Port Hope—Campbell (Downey) 19:38
Penalties—Shearer, Armstrong.

Third Period

IOOF—Floyd (Buckton) 11:12

Canada Bettors Keep Money In Their Pockets

OTTAWA, Nov. 28—(CP)—The horses ran more often and probably as fast, but bettors were a lot more careful with the bank roll in Canada's 1950 turf season than last year.

In fact, $6,081,446 more careful.

Pari-mutuel betting this year dropped to $53,469,032 from the $59,550,478 record wagered at Canadian tracks in 1949, the Agriculture Department reported today. A total of $56,178,491 was bet in 1948. In 1949, $21,695,523 went through the mutuels.

The drop in the betting take this year occurred despite the fact that there were more races. A total of 31 racing associations held 2,761 races during 356 days of racing, compared with 29 associations holding 2,750 races in 355 days last year.

Alberta Up

Only in Alberta was more money spent on the horses this year. Betting in that province rose to $4,226,202 from $3,845,579.

More than half the money going through the pari-mutuel windows was wagered in Ontario. In that province's 145 days of racing, bettors put up $32,925,119, compared with $38,578,514 in 146 days of racing last year.

The biggest amount was in the spring meeting of the Ontario Jockey Club at Woodbine Park, Toronto, when bettors placed $2,291,640 on the line. The smallest take was at a two-day meeting at Red Deer, Alta., when only $613 was wagered.

Profit

Of the $53,469,032 bet during the year, bettors got back $42,766,286. The provincial governments collected $5,924,933 in parimutuel taxes and the racing associations retained $4,777,812 as their legal percentages. Of this, the associations paid $3,003,905 in purse money to owners of winning horses, $46,595 more than in 1949.

Following are the 1950 racing statistics by provinces showing the number of days of racing, the amount wagered and the prize money, with last year's figures in brackets:

Quebec: Days 56 (56), amount wagered $3,193,592 ($3,357,339); prize money $323,200 ($321,900).

Ontario: 145 (146); $32,925,119 ($38,578,514); $1,654,700 ($1,640,550).

Manitoba: 28 (28); $4,270,010 ($4,286,980; $221,200 ($218,100).

Plato Scores 27 Points YM House Cage Loop

Chryslers crushed Meteors 42-28 Saturday night in the YMCA basketball house league, while the Fords slipped past Monarchs 57-49.

Bill Edger was the big gun for Chryslers as he ran in 23 points out of 42. Lionel Hempstead came through with 12 for Meteors as Hugh Dibben had seven. L. Butcher and Barney Dundas counted six for Chryslers while Ab Stewart chalked up seven.

F. Plato walked away with the night's scoring honors as he led Fords with 27 points, 12 field baskets and three four shots. Captain Garth Jopling whipped home 13 for his team. L. Butcher paced Monarchs with 22 points while teammates Spike Batchelor had 10, Ted Evans nine and Dick Burrows eight.

SPORTS SHOW WINDOW

By CEC. PERDUE, Sports Editor

The Grey Cup final is over, but the yelling isn't. Public, press and players are beefing plenty, and loudly, over the messy and muddy "classic" in the Varsity Stadium swamp of Saturday. Most of the blame is being put upon authorities of U. of T. who have stubbornly refused for the past two years to buy a tarpaulin to cover the gridiron when snow or rain threatened. Such a tarp could be bought for $8,000, a small item when the large rental each autumn is considered during Intercollegiate and Big Four games, and then the East-West final which drew 27,100 payees Saturday. Such a game rates far better ground conditions than was this late, lamented case.

* * * * * *

It's time Canada woke up and took its big sports seriously. They are big business and draw much attention across the country. Folks travel many miles and pay out plenty to see them, while important firms sponsor radio broadcasts for hundreds of thousands of listeners. The Grey Cup game would draw perhaps 75,000 if Toronto had a stadium that large. Yet the game is run off in mud and slush with highly-paid players skidding helplessly around and unrecognizable in the goo. Large USA grids have tarpaulins, so why not Varsity? The storm of criticism this year may force results for the '51 playoff.

Canuck Game Better

Ere leaving the subject of football, let's throw in a plug for the game as played under Canuck rules. It's much better than the highly-publicized USA brand which at times resembles basketball. Too much interference allowed and too much forward passing. Many of the American imports this year starred, but some were flops—and Canada yearly produces many fine players, too. Indian Jack Jacobs of Winnipeg—a star pro in the States—was the big flop of the Grey Cup final. He just isn't a mudder. We're all for some good USA imports in the Big Four, which is topnotch football, but let's keep the rules Canadian.

While the Petes' puckists are at Queen's tomorrow, there'll be a swell OHA senior "B" scrap here Wednesday eve at 8.30 in Civic Arena. It's between Belleville Redmen and the local Eagles. That announcement should ensure a full house, as hectic action has become the order of the day lately since the senior squads have all bolstered and are now in good condition. The husky Quinte crew will be a definite threat in the hot race from here in, and Mick Magee's top-place men are highly respected all around the circuit. Two hustling outfits, plenty of hard bumping and some fancy passing plays promised when the Redmen and Eagles tangle. Don't pass up these puck tilts, folks, if you want hard action on the ice.

IOOF-ers Hit Stride

Showing good all-around form and hustle here last e'en, the Oddfellows turned back the Panthers of Port Hope 4-1 in an OHA junior "B" tussle. The Hopers have an okay outfit but Bun Kingdon's bunch were in top form this fray to earn the duke in a speedy, rather clean showing. Goalie Wasson helped a lot to keep the count down as he sluiced hot rubber into the corners with the pressure on during the last half. Stewart notched a pair of goals for the winners, with the Robinson brothers, Floyd, Buckton, Armstrong and Clapper in on one apiece. Latter is Dit's son and shows puck promise. Whole team clicked well going both ways.

* * * * * *

Minor hockey is on tap Thursday p.m. in Civic Arena as the PMHA-ers go in half a dozen games, commencing at six o'clock. In this order, it's: Empress bantams vs. Otonabee Wolves, St. Peter's midgets vs. Marines, Clapper's juveniles vs. Oddfellows, Trojan bantams vs. SPS, Trojan midgets vs. Martin-Hewitt, and Trojan juves vs. Lakefield Lions. Referees are Leggett six to nine, Lawless nine to midnight, and Nigh working the whole evening. Plenty of keen action seen in this large, lively circuit, and there should be more fans than just the next of kin on deck each Thursday night.

Hill Prince, the bob-tailed galloper from Virginia which couldn't take the Kentucky Derby but came back to grab most other U.S. racing honors, has been voted "American champion" by the Thoroughbred Racing Association's selection board.

Hill Prince, the three-year-old son of Princequillo-Hildene, is owned by Chris T. Chenery, New York and Virginia sportsman. He is trained by Casey Hayes, and has been ridden in most of his major races by Eddie Arcaro.

Voting was conducted by the TRA, in a poll of its racing secretaries—the men who handicap the horses and see them race throughout the year. This is the first annual poll.

Noor, winner over Citation four times, was named handicap champion.

Through Nov. 20, Hill Prince started 19 times, won 13 races, and earned a total of $309,940 for two years. His earnings this year are $263,715, in winning such races as the Wood Memorial, Preakness, Withers, Jerome, American Derby, and Jockey Club Gold Cup.

Middleground beat him in the Derby, and Belmont, but couldn't touch him later in the year. Hill Prince beat Middleground in the Wood Memorial, Preakness, Withers and Jerome.

In Paris, welterweight champion Sugar Ray Robinson stopped France's Jean Stock in 1:33 of the second round of a non-title 10-rounder Monday night.

Stock, a middleweight who was put up as a sacrificial lamb so Paris boxing fans could see the famed Sugar Ray in action, was downed three times in the second round. The Frenchman was on his feet at the finish but the referee stepped between them and halted the uneven match.

Joe Louis, former heavyweight boxing champion of the world, and Cesar Brion, Argentine contender, finished heavy training yesterday for their 10-round battle in the Chicago Stadium Wednesday night. Louis, attempting a comeback at 36 after losing to Ezzard Charles in New York last September, said he expected to weigh in at 216 pounds, two pounds lighter than when he faced Charles.

Rocky Graziano of Brooklyn, former middleweight champion, knocked out Honeychile Johnson of Philadelphia in 48 seconds of the fourth round in Philadelphia Monday to record his eighth straight victory of 1950. Graziano weighed 158 and Johnson 153 for the scheduled 10-rounder.

The Illinois Racing Board has cleared Sportsman's Park of alleged "irregularities," but reprimanded an auditor of the track for his $80,000 loan to Paul (The Waiter) Ricca, a paroled extortionist. The board granted 1951 racing dates to the Cicero, Ill., half-mile plant, including April 28-May 14, and Oct. 15-Nov. 3. At

Demarco Tops Sullivan Second In AHL Scoring

NEW YORK, Nov. 28 (AP). — Ab Demarco of Buffalo Bisons continues to lead the American Hockey League scoring race with 40 points in 21 games.

The veteran centre had 18 goals in games through Sunday, and tied with team-mate Grant Warwick with 22 assists.

Red Sullivan of Hershey was second with 29 points, followed by Ray Laplante of Providence and Jackie Gordon of Cincinnati, tied with 27.

Ray Gariepy, although he added no penalty time last week, still led the bad-boy parade with 61 minutes.

Gil Mayer of Pittsburgh allowed four goals in the one game last week, raising his average to 2.32 on 44 goals in 19 games. Harvey Bennett, of Providence had the most shut-outs—two.

Culmone Wins Jockeys' Duel

BOWIE, Md., Nov. 28—(AP)—Fortified with a new lead in his duel with Willie Shoemaker, Joe Culmone went back today to the routine business of riding the pants off the best jockeys in the Eastern United States.

He tried to give the same treatment yesterday to Shoemaker, the sensation from the west—and he did.

In a whirlwind program witnessed by 8,588 fans at Bowie racetrack, the 19-year-old Sicilian won just about everything but the paddock. He booted in six winners, including James Jenkins Jr.'s Chiloi II in his match race with Shoemaker, who was aboard Mrs. Tilyou Christopher's favored Curruhuinca.

After piloting D. H. Adams' Parkie, a 2-to-1 shot, to victory in the first race, Shoemaker failed to score the rest of the day. So when it was all over, he trailed Culmore in their battle for the year's riding championship, 350-342.

Pine Ridge Louie Wins Featured Race

DUFFERIN PARK, Toronto, Nov. 28 (CP)—Pine Ridge Louie, owned by Gid Litt, of Sebringville, Ont., and driven by C. Champion, won the featured fifth race at Dufferin Park Monday.

In the initial heat, Pat B., owned by Wells and Hess of Morrisburg and guided by Percy Robillard, in a hard stretch drive outlasted Miss Della B who came fast to finish second. Pine Ridge Louie was third.

Pine Ridge Louie, in the final heat, made a break as the field was sent on its way, gradually picked up his field to win in a driving finish.

CITY CARPETBALL

The results for the past week show close scores with two exceptions and some leaders downward in the standing. St. Luke's Midgets were at home for the visit of the Legion No. 7 and the Big Bens' inner works were running smoothly as they swept both games 11-7 and 21-8. The Midgets try to kill their opponents' shots and are not coming through with any wins.

The Orange-Squeezers paid a visit to the Old Citadel and hooked up with the Sons in two swell battles. The first game saw the teams deadlocked three times and that is the way it finished with the Sons coming from behind in the last two ends to square it all up at 9-9. The second encounter saw the two teams again tied at 5-5 going into the 6th frame—then the Sons went ahead 7-0 in the next four ends and finally took the game 13-7 and three out of four points for the match.

St. George's No. 10 had as their guests the Glens' No. 6 and the Southend Saints swept to four points and dropped the Glens out of lead position. The first game was a humdinger, every end was won by one ball except the 7th frame when a two was scored by the Glens to break ahead of a deadlocked 3-3 game—but the Saints grabbed three singles in the last three ends to win by 7-6. The second game resulted in the Sons being routed right out of their foxholes as the South-enders grabbed every end but three and also the game 20-5.

Quaker's No. 4 were guests of Legion No. 5 and the Full-O-Pep's team were leading the Old Sweats 4-0 going into the 4th frame when the Old Soldiers took over, and while the Quakermen tried hard, they could only win two more ends as the Old Sweats took the rest and game 14-7. The second game was tied three times—the last time in the 8th end. In the last four frames the Full-O-Pep's team scored in three of them, to take the game 10-7. Two well-fought games.

The battle of the week was fought at the Legion Hall between Father and Son on the Legion No. 3 vs. Fire Hall No. 9, and finished as two tie games, 9-9 and 13-13. The first game saw the firefighters come from behind in the 12th frame to score a two and deadlock it 9-9. The second was also well fought and the Smokeeaters had to take the last two ends to tie the Legionnaires 13-13. Showing again, no game is lost until it is completed.

Schedule for the week of Dec. 4: LOL No. 2 vs. St. George's No 10; Legion No. 7 vs. Glen's No. 6; SOE No. 8 vs. Quaker's No. 4; Legion No. 5 vs. Fire Hall No. 9; St. Luke's No. 1 vs. Legion No. 3.

Your attention is drawn to a situation that occurred last week, an end had to be played over because there were too many vice-skips trying to decide who had won the end and all the balls were removed except the two disputed shots and seemingly they were tied and no one could agree which team had had the next closest ball. The rule says: "Only vice-skips measure and determine who the winner is." Enough said.

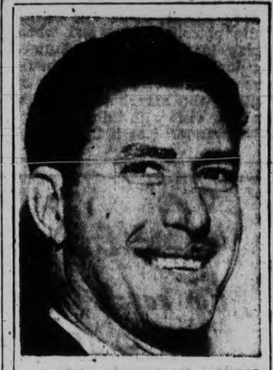
If you have not turned in your draw books and cash to A. Pilling, do so before Wednesday, Nov. 29.

St. George's have paid their entire entry fee. How about the rest? Some teams are not filling out their cards re their players' names. Also, your secretary must have the names of all your players, as the draw for the doubles takes place right after Christmas. "It is later than you think."

Standing to Nov. 25:

	W	L	T	Pt	Av
Quakers 4	7	4	1	15	58
SOE 8	7	4	1	15	56
Fire Hall 9	5	3	4	14	55
Glens 6	7	5	0	14	50
Legion 5	6	4	2	14	48
LOL 2	5	4	3	13	49
Legion 3	4	4	4	12	49
St. George's 10	5	6	1	11	55
Legion 7	5	7	0	10	41
St. Luke's 1	1	11	0	2	40

This is the tightest race the league has enjoyed in many seasons. Five points is all between ninth position and leadership.



LORD ATHOL LAYTON, above, outstanding grappler, who takes on Wee Willie Davis in the main bout of tonight's wrestling card at the Brock Arena. With both men scaling over 6 feet 6 inches in height and Wee Willie noted for his rough, tough, unethical style of grappling, and Lord Layton with a string of over 116 victories without a loss, a whale of a match should be in store for the fans. The semi-final features Lee Henning again popular Bobby Nelson, while the opener has flying Pat Flanagan against Abe Zvonkin.

Giants Will Win Pennant Durocher Claims

By JOE REICHLER

NEW YORK, Nov. 28—(AP)—Manager Leo Durocher, of the New York Giants—never accused of lacking for words—told today in 2,000 well chosen sentences why his club will win the 1951 National League pennant.

"I'd like another good starting pitcher and a little more strength on the bench," Leo said. "Then I'll be all set. As it is, I've got a very good club.

"I know this much—we had the best club in the league the last three months of the season. Once we got rolling nobody could beat us. And we are going to be better next year."

Baseball Meeting

The Giant skipper stopped off here en route from his Los Angeles home to attend the winter baseball meetings in St. Petersburg, Fla., next week.

Leo couldn't explain why his charges changed from a drab, sorry-looking outfit to an almost-unbeatable team practically overnight.

"I've had two months now to think about it," he grinned, "and I still can't figure it out. It all began on July 19 after we had taken a double licking from the St. Louis Cardinals. We whipped them badly that day. Then again the next. All of a sudden we began to look like a good club. We started to hustle like hell. As we continued to win, the boys began to believe for the first time that nobody could lick us. It was right then and there we became a good club.

"We never had a meeting after that. Never even talked over the hitters or anything. It seemed they just knew they could whip any team alive."

Toronto Leafs Lead League In All But One Department

MONTREAL, Nov. 28 (CP). — Toronto Maple Leafs hold just about all the laurels in the National Hockey League to date, from the prize top position in the team standing to the dubious honor of being the most penalized club.

Statistics show that: four consecutive victories during the week helped the Leafs increase their lead to seven points over Detroit Red Wings; they hold down the first five places in individual scoring; they have scored the most goals; they have the most penalties; and they are the only team not to have been shut out.

Sloan Top Sniper

In addition, Toronto's Tod Sloan, with 13 goals, is the league's top sniper. Max Bentley has the most assists with 21 and Gus Mortson has spent 52 minutes in the penalty box to lead in that department.

The Toronto squad missed out in the goal-tending average although they have four shutouts. Detroit's sensational freshman, Terry Sawchuk, has had 33 pucks get by him in 18 games for an average of 1.83.

Al Rollins, who shares Toronto's netminding with Turk Broda, played in all four Leaf wins last week and has yet to lose a game in seven starts. Broda has the most shutouts with four.

Leading scorer Max Bentley picked up two goals and four assists during the week for a total of seven goals and 21 assists. Sloan is next with 22 points. Last week he tallied five times.

Hawks, Habs Tied

Chicago Black Hawks and Montreal Canadiens are tied for third spot with 20 points apiece although the Hawks have played two games less than Canadiens. They trail Detroit by four points. New York Rangers are next with 12 points and Boston Bruins occupy the cellar, one point behind Rangers.

Lou Boudreau Goes To Red Sox

BOSTON, Nov. 28 (AP). — Boston Red Sox announced today that Lou Boudreau, manager of the 1948 world champion Cleveland Indians, has accepted terms and will join the team as a player.

Boudreau was replaced recently as manager of the Indians by Al Lopez.

The Sox' announcement gave no details.

The Sox added that to make room for Boudreau pitcher Gordon Mueller's contract has been sold outright to the Louisville farm team of the American Association.

Boudreau, 33, was understood to have been offered $45,000 a year as a player by Chicago White Sox after his release by Cleveland. This would indicate that the Red Sox offer was higher. He is not coming to Boston as a player-manager, a role which he filled with the Cleveland club.

The handsome shortstop broke into the major leagues with Cleveland in 1939 and was made the team's manager after the 1941 season. He was voted the American League's most valuable player in 1948.

Boudreau probably will play third base for the Sox and Johnny Pesky will move back to shortstop. That would put the Sox in position to make further trades.

William Bendix Back On Stage Born Yesterday

By BOB THOMAS

HOLLYWOOD Nov. 28 (AP)—Some folks around town are wondering why William Bendix is playing before local footlights.

It's not that Bill needs the money. His stage pay is a pittance compared to the money he gets from the movies. Certainly the novelty of the play didn't do it. He is performing in "Born Yesterday," which Paul Douglas established on Broadway and which Broderick Crawford recently played in the movie version. (In fact ,the film was previewed the night before Bendix opened on it.) So I asked him why his leaning to the legit.

"It presents a challenge," he confessed. "I haven't been on the stage since 11 years ago, when I was in 'Time of Your Life.' You forget a lot in that time."

Academical

The Academy faces another dilemma this year: What to do about George Sanders? The Briton is getting raves for his work in "All About Eve" and will undoubtedly be up for Academy contention. But what category will he be in—star or supporting player?

He is given star billing in the picture but some might argue that his role supports Anne Baxter and Bette Davis. (Also, he might have a better chance of winning in the supporting race, which is less hotly contested.)

The dilemma has arisen many times. Six years ago, it produced an absurdity when Barry Fitzgerald was nominated for both the starring and supporting Oscar for "Going My Way." (He nabbed the supporting one and Bing Crosby with the other.)

Russian Interference

TORONTO, Nov. 28 (CP). — A. H. J. Lovink, Netherlands Ambassador to Canada, said Monday that Russia, by interfering too much in Chinese affairs, may bring about the downfall of Communism in China. But the traditionally-realistic Chinese will not give up Communism until the democracies prove themselves on the road to peace, he told the Canadian Club.

Won't Sell Reserve

SARNIA, Nov. 28 (CP).—Telford Adams, chief of the Sarnia band of Indians, last night denied reports the Indians had decided to make their 4,000 acre reserve available for sale to incoming industry. "It is not true," he said, "that we are going to put the reserve on the block to the highest bidder. Where would we go if we did?"

Customs Auction

MONTREAL, Nov. 28 (CP). — Articles running the gamut from eyebrow tweezers (1,480 of them) to a lady's corset and three stuffed alligators were sold Monday at a customs auction here. Dummer Council Given Acclamation

Reeve, councillors and trustees were returned by acclamation so there will be no election in Dummer township this year.

Stewart Clysdale, who succeeded William Darling in 1949, was returned for his second successive year.

All of last year's council were also returned: Allan Olver, Walter Sloan, Gordon Hamblin, and John Gallagher. The trustees also went in by acclamation.

A small crowd attended the nomination meeting Monday afternoon in the Warsaw town hall.

Need Social Workers

MONTREAL, Nov. 28 (CP). — The work of Canada's welfare agencies is "threatened by the shortage of social workers," the Board of Governors of the Canadian Welfare Council was told Monday. A report of the personnel committee of the council, presented by Dr. John J. O. Moore, director of the school of social work of McGill University, urged "substantially increased grants by the Federal government to aid schools of social work.

To Recognize Spain

WASHINGTON, Nov. 28 (AP) —Diplomatic officials said Monday that the five-year diplomatic snubbing of Spain by the United States will be ended by the naming of Stanton Griffis as ambassador. The formal announcement of Griffis' appointment to the long-vacant Madrid post will be made some time in December, they said.

McAuliffe To Go To Supreme Court

TORONTO, Nov. 28 (CP). — Joseph Herbert McAuliffe, 32, sentenced to be hanged Dec. 19 for the murder of Arthur Lierman of Langton, Ont., will apply Friday through his counsel for leave to appeal to the Supreme Court of Canada.

The lawyer, Arthur E. Maloney, said Monday that if the application is successful, the case will not be heard by the Supreme Court until late January or early February.

McAuliffe, who lived in North Bay and Windsor, Ont., was convicted of the machine-gun slaying of Arthur Lierman, one of two men who chased McAuliffe after a $23,000 holdup of a Langton bank last June 21. The other, William Goddyn, also was slain.

The death sentence was pronounced Sept. 14. Last week the Ontario Appeal Court dismissed McAuliffe's appeal.

This is Mr. Chapman's third term as reeve. The deputy reeve is Allan Beer of Bethany and the three councillors, are Orme Miller, Pontypool; Robert Wright, Janetville, and Earl Argue, Pontypool.

Plan Canadian Opera Season

TORONTO, Nov. 28 (CP). — With a $18,000 fund for a start, a group of private citizens announced last night they have arranged another operatic season here featuring Canadian-trained talent.

The announcement said that Dr. Edward Johnson of Guelph, Ont., former general manager of the Metropolitan Opera, agreed to be honorary chairman of the committee, and that the $18,000 was raised in 48 hours.

It is hoped the new organization would form the framework for an eventual National Opera Company.

The festival will run from Feb. 8-17. It will be conducted by Nicholas Goldschmidt, with Herman Geiger-Torel as stage director.

NY Proposes Bounties To Encourage Births

NEW YORK, Nov. 28 (AP). — New York City's welfare commissioners yesterday urged study of "baby bounties" as a possible means of encouraging young married couples to have children.

"Society must find a way to overcome the economic barriers to healthy marriage at ages under 25 years, with financial ability to rear children while the parents themselves are young," Commissioner Raymond M. Hilliard told the New York State Welfare Conference.

He said a study should be made of the experience of Australia, Canada and other areas "which in effect to provide assistance to all children at birth."

Hilliard said a wage differential in industry for workers with dependents might be wise and

Truck Transport To Boost Rates

TORONTO, Nov. 28 — (CP) — Increases in freight rates probably will be announced within a few days by a number of truck transport companies in Ontario, it was learned last night.

The boosts, a reflection of generally-increased costs, including a recent wage hike for some 4,000 union truck-drivers, likely will be from 10 to 20 per cent.

Joseph Goodman, general manager of the Automotive Transport Association of Ontario, confirmed reports that increases are in the offing.

"There may be certain areas of the province in which there will be no boosts," he told the Canadian Press. "The impact of the agreement signed last month with the Teamsters' Union (AFL) has been felt most in Southern Ontario and that's where the adjustments are most necessary."

The pact signed last month between the teamsters and general freight carriers in the Toronto, Hamilton and Windsor districts provided a general wage boost, eight statutory holidays instead of six and provision for another three-cent hourly hike next March 1.

It means, Mr. Goodman said, that wages paid by trucking companies now are about 125 per cent higher than in 1946.

Hamilton Refuses Winnipeg Help

HAMILTON, Nov. 28 (CP). — When Winnipeg suffered severe flood damage last spring, Hamilton pitched in with the rest of Canada in providing millions of dollars of aid.

Yesterday, Winnipeg offered to return the favor in part, but the offer was declined with thanks.

Acting Mayor C. E. Simonite of Winnipeg sent a telegram to Hamilton offering assistance to the victims of the storm which battered homes at suburban beaches during the weekend, causing thousands of dollars damage.

Mayor Lloyd D. Jackson replied that with individual offers pouring in from all parts of Canada, he didn't think the general aid from a municipality would be needed.

A campaign set up to give aid to the victims of the storm which wrecked many houses at Van Wagner's Beach has already received pledges for $12,000.

Belmont Votes For 1951 Council

HAVELOCK, Nov. 27 (ENS)—Voters in Belmont and Methuen townships will have two candidates, ex-reeve William E. Griffith and Donald Anderson, a member of the 1950 council contesting the reeveship.

Five candidates will be in the contest for four seats on council. Three of them are 1950 councillors, George Newton, Morris Whitney and Robert Wrightly. The new candidates seeking election are Gardiner Gawley and Randal Quackenbush.

Mr. Newton is the veteran member of council and is concluding ten consecutive years of service in that capacity. He was the only member of the council to retain his seat in the elections for 1948.

Mr. Wrightly was a new member on the 1946 council, was elected by acclamation in 1947 Was defeated in 1948 but was re-elected in 1949 with the second highest vote. In 1950 he was given another acclamation. Mr. Whitney has been a member of council since 1948.

Trustees for School Area No. 2 were elected by acclamation, there being only two nominations for two seats. They are Stewart Barrons (re-elected) and Harold Russell who takes James McGowan's place.

The election date for Belmont and Methuen townships is December 4. The polls will be open from 9 a.m. until 5 p.m.

Horse Still Best On Milk Routes

TORONTO, Nov. 28 (CP). —A baker told the milkmen today the great automobile industry hasn't come up with a good substitute for the horse—at least as far as door-to-door delivery is concerned.

Fred Stohge, representative of the bakery industry, addressed the Ontario Milk Distributors Association and predicted that the trusty milk and bakery wagon horses would stick around until an economic delivery vehicle is produced.

And this, he said, was despite the fact that horse-drawn wagons cause 80 per cent of the traffic accidents in the milk and bread delivery business.

"Horse and wagon delivery is 30 years behind the times," said Mr. Stohge. "Yet Canadian and American manufacturers have given us as an alternative only a glorified car, unsuited to a house-to-house route."

He said the closest to an answer so far is a British-made delivery truck, four feet shorter than a standard car, which can operate at a cost of two cents a mile. It wasn't in general use yet, however.

Industry Must Explain Milk Price Increases

TORONTO, Nov. 28 (CP)—The dairy industry stands in danger of government control unless distributors make clear what is causing the production and price problems in the industry, Mrs. W. R. Walton, national president of the Canadian Association of Consumers, told the Ontario Milk Distributors' Association Monday.

"The milk industry has put itself in a vulnerable position due to its poor public relations job," she said. "All the scientific improvements of the last 15 years have overlooked the information and education of the consumer. In this you are still geared to the horse and buggy era."

Milk is of prime importance to every consumer and an unexplained price increase hurts everyone, she said.

Library Exhibit Of BC Paintings Among Best Yet

The most impressive exhibit of painting which Peterborough has had the opportunity to see in five years is now hanging in the gallery of the Public Library. It is a travelling exhibit of 35 canvases by the British Columbia Group of Painters. Local persons who have not seen it yet and who want to do so must be quick; this reviewer has been slow to call attention to it, and the show comes down Thursday morning.

Painters well-known from coast to coast, and some famous ones are represented: Lawren Harris, Orville Fisher, J. L. Shadbolt, E. J. Hughes, and so on. There are others whose names through such exhibitions as this will be lifted from the confines of the Rockies, and made deservedly notable across the country.

Group Unity

What makes the show impressive is not merely the range of subjects, the scope of some of the canvases (even physically; there are several very large), and the obvious technical skill. It is this: There is unanimity of group feeling—it is a group and not just a haphazard collection—and this unanimity lies in, first, the continuum of mountain and sea which undertones their interpretations (the city backstreet has its horizon of hills); and secondly, the sincerity of their work. There is no hint of the charlatan, the phantasy-form for the shock's sake. These painters have something to say and are saying it.

So there is E. J. Hughes with his big, precise "street Scene," with its stylized primitive touch; P. Ustinov's "Fraser Valley Boathouse," a fresh, painting; Molly and Bobak with her satiric impression of people "doing" an art gallery; Lionel Thomas' memorable subtly simple, "Impressions" —paint which breathes and has meaning beyond representation; T. Blair Robertson's study in blue and pattern—"Rampart;" Orville Fisher's propellers, anchors and gulls in disturbing perspectives, the whole pattern called "Marine Ballet;" the sweep of "Coast of Vancouver" by Dorothy Bell. There are a dozen other names which we in the East should come to know better.

This is an important exhibition. Toronto and Montreal will have to look to their work and livers if the painters across the Rockies are not to leave them barren parodists of their greater days, or purposeless splashers of pigment.

STORM HITS RESORT — Nearly 200 volunteer workers were injured in a storm at Hamilton, Ont., that destroyed this summer cottage at suburban Crescent Beach. Damage caused by waves from Lake Ontario was estimated at hundreds of thousands of dollars.

Cheese Patrons Ask Protection Disposing Extra Milk

Cheese factory patrons should get some effective protection against surplus milk from other branches of the dairy industry which at times use the cheese channel "as a safety valve."

That was the motivating sentiment behind a resolution at the annual meeting here Monday of the Peterborough county section of the Ontario Cheese Producers Association.

Two ideas were combined in the proposal that is to be forwarded to the resolutions committee of the provincial association: "That the Ontario cheese producers marketing board strive to bring about conditions whereby only 'bona fide' cheese producers' milk be accepted by cheese factories, and also that the marketing board try to develop a plan for marketing cheese at two prices, one for export and the other for the home market."

Fred Crowe of Warsaw presided, and among those present were C. N. Heath, secretary of the Ontario Cheese Producers' marketing board; W. E. Bateman, of Tweed, a director of the Ontario association; and W. P. Moore of Campbellford, district dairy instructor.

Cheese Men Took Licking

The flood of milk in the spring of 1949 that spilled its surplus quantity into the cheese factories was recalled in the discussion, with the result that the cheese industry, Mr. Crowe said, started the season of 1950 "with 19 million pounds of cheese hanging over our heads." And it was the cheese industry and its patrons "who took the licking."

One of the comments was that "if we are always to be the safety valve for the dairy industry, then the other branches of that industry should bear part of any losses."

It was an old grievance in new expression. Linked in discussion of remedies for that situation of excess milk production was a proposed milk pooling system by which the entire volume could be directed into channels where extreme surpluses could be avoided, with their embarrassing backlogs and consequent price reverses.

Golden Andrews remarked that "they'll use the cheese factories as a dumping ground for surpluses just as long as we take it. There should be a concrete law set down for the benefit of our factories and patrons."

Re-Elect President

Fred Crowe was re-elected president and with him: Stuart Clysdale, vice-president; Frank C. Paterson, secretary - treasurer; directors, Golden Andrews and Harold Van Volkenburg of Norwood; Ralph Garbutt and Bruce Dunford, Lakefield area; R. E. Thurston, Bobcaygeon; Gordon Fitzgerald, Smith.

Delegates to the provincial convention Jan. 3-4, Toronto; Ralph Garbutt Bruce Dunford, Harold Van Volkenburg and Stuart Clysdale.

Havelock To End This Year With Surplus

Reeve E. J. Leeson of Havelock is able to report that the village is ending this year under his direction with a surplus estimated at $288. In a year when other municipalities are spending beyond their budgets, this is an achievement to be greeted with satisfaction, one of his keen supporters for re-election points out.

The Examiner story on Saturday and Monday's noon edition contained the contradictory statements that Havelock was ending its year with a balance of $288 and also a statement attributed to Mr. Leeson that he felt "the deficit would be lowered next year, though not completely wiped out." There is no deficit; there is, instead, an estimated surplus. The statement should have read that "Mr. Leeson believed that the net capital indebtedness of the village (through debentures) would be reduced next year."

Mr. Leeson has been reeve of Havelock for the last six years, during which the village, like other communities across Canada, has had to meet unprecedented post-war demands and has expanded its services in keeping with the times.

Association Urges More Money For Roads

TORONTO, Nov. 28 (CP). — The Canadian Good Roads Association yesterday urged that top priority be given expenditures on road building in all public works programs.

Discussing the outlook for 1951 a meeting of the board of directors and executive committee estimated that expenditures for new highways and bridges and maintenance of existing rural roads will exceed $310,000,000, an increase of 11 per cent over 1950.

The association recommended:

1. No curtailment of provincial road and bridge building programs in the foreseeable future, rather an intensified drive to speed the development of the country so essential in time of peace or war;

2. Completion of the trans-Canada highway within the maximum seven-year period as laid down in the contract."

Two Women Die Of Asphyxiation

TORONTO, Nov. 28—(AP)—A young woman found asphyxiated in a midtown apartment Monday was identified as Mrs. Robert McLaughlin, 23, of Trenton, Ont. Her body and that of Mrs. Elizabeth McWilliams, about 70, were discovered in the elderly woman's Gloucester Street apartment.

Police said they believed Mrs. McWilliams turned on a gas stove accidentally. The women apparently had been dead about 24 hours when found.

Identification of the young woman was made through a pawn ticket found in her purse. They established that she had pawned her wrist watch in Trenton a few days ago and had come to Toronto to visit her friend, Mrs. McWilliams.

Smart Deer Steals Rifle From U.S. Hunter

MANISTIQUE, Mich., Nov. 28 (AP)—This deer really outsmarted the hunter. He stole his gun.

Harry G. Thompson and Charles F. Massey, both of Grand Rapids, Mich., were hunting Sunday north of this upper Michigan city. Massey brought down a buck.

As they approached the animal, Thompson noticed it was still kicking and thought he had better shoot it in the head.

'Don't do that," said Massey. "The head will make a fine wall piece for the cottage."

So Thompson laid his rifle on the deer's antler's and got out his knife to slit the throat.

But the buck snorted, jumped up and dashed deep into the forest—bearing the gun aloft.

Provincial Lab. To Be Moved To New City Hall

Ald. J. A. Dewart reported incidentally to the board of works Monday night that Dr. C. B. Waite had expressed complete approval of plans for transfer of the provincial laboratory from the old to the new city hall.

Because much of the work of the laboratory was of benefit to a large area beyond the city, and because the city people were paying for it, Ald. Dewart suggested that both the province and the county should pay something toward its maintenance.

"After Ald. Dewart's success with Dr. Waite," said Ald. P. J. Anglesey, "I think we ought to ask him to interview the county council about a grant".

"Dr. Waite not only approved the plans, but is quite pleased with them," Ald Dewart said.

Some time ago it was suggested that the provincial laboratory might be accommodated in Civic Hospital, but opinion within the council estimated that cost would probably be less in the new city hall.

Dr. Waite's premises are on the third floor of the present city hall on Simcoe St.

Detailed Plan Ordered

Because space had been left for the laboratory in the new building until decision as to its use was determined, it was decided Monday night to ask the architects to prepare a detailed plan of that part of the building which is to be occupied by the laboratory.

Ald. Dewart said that the city might not have to buy much new equipment for that section. "Dr. Waite said he thought most of his present equipment could be used in the new hall".

Prospect of the welfare department getting increased space just about vanished in that discussion. The board decided to get information as to furnishings required for the new municipal buildings, in details of cost, types and so on. That job was turned over to Ronald Winter, who has been advising the council chiefly on main aspects of construction.

Certain work as to drainage, taps and so on, which had been help up until the laboratory matter was settled, will have to be done on the basis of the supplemental plans, and a price obtained from the contractor.

PRINCESS PATRICIA'S LEAVE FOR KOREA — The 2nd Battalion of the Princess Patricia's Canadian Light Infantry left Seattle Saturday bound for Korea. This marked the first time in history that an entire Canadian battalion has gone overseas into a theatre of action during peacetime. The American troopship, above, loaded with the Canadian troops, is pushed slowly from the pier by tugs and the "Patricias" wave farewell to the band of the Royal 28nd Regiment as they play "It's a Long Way to Tipperary."

Wild Parsnips Blamed For Woman's Death

Harry W. Lee, 48, a former resident of Bethany and now a Toronto real-estate broker, is still critically ill in a Toronto hospital after eating poisonous wild parsnips.

His wife, the former Margaret Rintoul, died Sunday night shortly after eating the deadly vegetable. Dr. Harold Gold, provincial pathologist, performed an autopsy that showed death from asphyxiation caused by food particles in the larnyx.

The Lees returned Sunday from an out-of-town trip during which they are believed to have bought some of the wild parsnips. Because of Mr. Lee's condition police are still unable to find out where he bought them.

Sunday Dinner

The parsnips were served for Sunday dinner. Mr. Lee collapsed 10 minutes after eating some and her husband collapsed five minutes later. An inhalator crew from the Toronto Fire Department worked on Mrs. Lee for some time but failed to revive her.

The Lees' two children—Billy, 16, and Nancy, 14—and his mother-in-law, Mrs. Alex Rintoul, tasted the poisonous serving but would not eat it. They complained of a bitter taste. Their fastidiousness is credited with saving their lives.

Mr. Lee ate only a small helping of the vegetable and then, after being violently sick, lapsed into a 16-hour coma from which he did not emerge until Monday night.

Probe Ordered

Crown Attorney W. O. Gibson has ordered an investigation into the poisoning, and Prof. Joslyn Rogers, provincial analyst, as well as botanists from the university of Toronto, have been called in for consultation.

One police officer described the fatal vegetable as looking "a little like sweet potato, or perhaps like chicory."

Mr. Lee was brought up in the Bethany district and his illness has stirred the interest of the community. His sister, Mrs. Harvey Fallis, lives in the village.

Who's To Lift Hospital Snow? 2 New Tractors

Somebody will have to remove snow from the roads and parking space at Civic Hospital, and it will likely be the parks department.

Purchase of a new tractor, plus a smaller one to be obtained on a trade-in, was authorized in a motion by Ald. E. C. Braund and Ald. J. E. Gillespie.

There was some transient suggestion that board of governors might take on some part of this work, but that idea was routed by the practical reminder to the effect that the money comes from the same purse, and operation of the machines should be carried on by those who maintain them.

So the parks department was elected, and it was understood that, when conditions permitted, the snow-plowing tractors would be available in summer for parks work here and there—and maybe.

Line of Demarcation

That faint glimpse of next grass growing inspired another suggestion that "it is about time we decided where the hospital property ends and where the proposed park begins." It was lightly anticipated that board of governors might get the notion that the whole area was hospital property. So there is to be a "line of demarcation."

Council Asks Ald. Dodds To Explain 'Deals' In His Nomination Address

Use of the word "deals" by Ald. Hurrell Dodds at the municipal nominations meeting Friday night might have been unfortunate he said at the conclusion of the board of works meeting Monday night when pressed by members of the council to explain whatever he meant by that term. "About the city hall," he said as mayoralty nominee, "I've heard murmurs from merchants and others. If elected I'll get the facts of any deals which they think might have been done otherwise."

Board of works was ready to adjourn when Ald. Hugh Waddell said he wished to raise a question as to whether any member of the council knew of any deal in connection with the new city hall which the rest of the members should know about.

"If there is any matter in which all the facts have not been brought out, I for one do not know what it can be," he said.

Not Retracting a Word

Ald. Dodds, acting as chairman of the meeting, said: "I guess that's hitting at Dodds? I'm not retracting a word. There have been murmurs about different things. I don't think the majority of people really know anything about it, but you can't stop them from talking."

Ald. John A. Dewart bluntly asked: "What is going on?", and Ald. A. B. Burrows repeated it in substance, and almost the same words.

Ald. Dodds in reply mentioned a matter that is not related to any phase of the contract for the new city hall and the purchase of the site, something that has been entirely out of the hands of the city council.

It has been for months a confidential matter, and Ald. Dodds declared that he himself had been faithful to the confidence which the council naturally assumed in the circumstances of their trusteeship.

"That's not 'one of the deals' you talked about very vaguely," said Ald. Burrows.

"What Ald. Waddell is asking us is who knows of any deal that Ald. Dodds could possibly have meant?" said Ald. E. C. Braund.

Ald. Doug Miller said he was not taking sides with anybody. He had heard Ald. Dodds' remarks. "I did not take it as meaning the council up to the present. I thought he meant that if there were any future deals about the city hall, they should be divulged to the public."

Said Ald. Braund: "This matter is not a deal."

And Ald. Dewart: "If it constitutes a deal in any man's mind, it is an extraordinary conception of the meaning of the word deal that smacks of the underworld".

Expected in Near Future

The incident which Ald. Dodds mentioned was referred to again with the special circumstances which have so far advised waiting in silence for a result which is expected in the near future.

An Examiner reporter was invited to a luncheon some months ago, probably in June, at which this matter of confidence was explained to the council. The reporter did not attend it because by its nature it was obviously in the interests of the public that the trust be honored.

And as Ald. Dodds said in regard to himself and this most unusual situation he, too, had kept faith with that luncheon communication.

As to Ald. Dewart's statement: "I resent this term deal. I have been on several committees since I have come into the Council, and I don't know any matter that is to be given the name 'deal'." Ald. Dodds said it was all right for an enlightened man like Ald. Dewart to make objection and it might have been an unfortunate word.

"I don't know one fact that has not been freely discussed in this Council," Ald. Dewart said.

Benefit to Citizens

Ald. Braund said the matter was something of benefit to the citizens, and they would be told about it when it came out.

Ald. Dewart said that everything down to the smallest change order in the progress of construction had been brought before the Council.

"Is that all you have?" Ald. Burrows asked Ald. Dodds.

"It would take too long," Ald. Dodds replied.

Ald. Braund: "If you've got anything else, I'm willing to stay here till breakfast."

Ald. Burrows: "If it shouldn't have been said, then there is no defense."

Ald. Dodds: "What are you going to make of it?"

Ald. Braund: "It should be reported to the public through the press that there are no deals."

Ald. Dewart: "I want to go on record as stating that there are no 'deals' in the Council regarding the city hall that are not known and available to every member."

Strictly Confidential

City Solicitor Huycke was asked his opinion of the importance of the matter. He said that in such negotiations it appeared to him to be something that should be treated as being strictly confidential.

"And it has been kept the way it was wanted," said Ald. Dodds, declaring his own silence as a trusted member. "But that doesn't keep people from asking and talking," he added.

"The reason I mentioned this question was because I thought it rested on us as a moral obligation to clear the air. If there is nothing more to it, let's forget about it," Ald. Waddell said.

"I straightened out the plumbers this morning," Ald. Dodds told the committee in regard to another matter which had to do with some questioning by at least one local firm of alleged effects on bidding by a change order in the progress of the work. No further reference was made of it.

Mayor Swanston said there was no 'deal' relating to the city hall that was not known and discussed at Council meetings.

"You should say the whole city business, Mr. Mayor," was the remark of Ald. Gillespie.

Ald. Doug Miller: "I've been here three years, and I don't know any alderman who would have a guilty conscience pertaining to the city's business. I don't hesitate to question things, and I have a right to do so."

Ald. Burows: "I feel the way Ald. Dewart has expressed himself".

The incident had trailed off to seriously calm repetition of attitude and protest, and appeared to end without adjournment.

Student Suffers Back Injuries, Car Hits Truck

The condition of a 26-year-old student, Robert Schultz, of Toronto, remains critical following a car-truck collision six miles east of Havelock. He is in Sunnybrook Hospital, Toronto, reportedly paralyzed from the waist down.

Two of his vertebrae have been dislocated and his spinal cord has been severed.

The accident was six miles east of Havelock on Highway 7.

Three other occupants of the small English-model car in which he was riding received only minor injuries or a shaking up. They are John T. Ward, Lansing, driver and owner, a cut right eyebrow and cut upper lip as well as abrasions on the left hand; Dalton Cross, Toronto, no apparent injuries; and Edward Spencer, also of Toronto, forehead cuts.

All four are students at the University of Toronto.

Schultz, who was riding in the front passenger's seat, got his injuries when the car smashed into a truck ahead and he was thrown forward against the dashboard.

Both vehicles were going west. The truck, driven by James Feeney, of Tweed, slowed down to make a left turn, and the car driver was unable to stop before crashing into the rear of the heavier vehicle.

The front end of the small car was demolished. The windshield was knocked out and the dashboard—presumably where Schultz hit it—bent.

The truck was undamaged.

Provincial Constables Jack McKendry and T. H. Fitzpatrick investigated.

Struck By Car Leg Fractured

Seven-year-old Richard Kemp 624 Downie St., suffered a broken right leg Monday night when he was hit by a car in front of Civic Arena on Park St.

The boy had been skating at the arena and ran across Park St. to catch a bus. He did not look for traffic, and a southbound auto, driven by Edward Young, 657 Braidwood Ave., struck him.

Before hitting the youth, Young said he applied his brakes, but that the car skidded and went on to hit a tree on the northwest corner of Lake and Park Sts.

Dr. Robert Young was called, and the boy was taken to his home. Besides the injury to his right leg, his left leg was scraped and bruised.

THERE WITH BELLS ON

Nearly every candidate for municipal office will attend the Candidates' Meeting sponsored by the Study Group on Civic Affairs, tonight at eight at the YWCA. Two or three with previous engagements promised to come in later. As one of the principal aldermanic candidates said: "I'll be there with bells on". It seems as if they are eager to get their points of view before the people, if not to have questions thrown at them.

Rink Folk Block Church People

With no ill feeling against the Civic Arena, the board of Park St. Baptist Church has written the council that its members would like to have access to parking in their vicinity.

Parking for hockey games and other affairs at the rink surrounds Park St. Church, preventing members from a facility to which they feel entitled by long use. To some extent it has become detrimental to the life of the church, and it was felt that the sports public would not wish to cause that kind of inconvenience. Tuesday to Thursday evenings were specially mentioned in the church program of midweek activities. City council was requested to try to obtain suitable arrangement for the church services.

On Mayor Swanston's motion Monday night, seconded by Ald. J. E. Gillespie the letter was sent on to the special traffic committee.

Kawarthas Said No Haven For Hay Fever Sufferers

The Kawartha Lakes district can not be advertised as a mecca for hay fever sufferers. This information has been received by Jim Fraser, manager of the Chamber of Commerce from replies to letters sent out to the medical officers of health in this district asking if sufferers from hay fever would find relief in the Kawarthas.

Thirteen letters were sent and seven replies have been received, all agreeing that the Kawarthas are not hay fever free.

This local investigation was the result of a letter received by Mr. Fraser from the Department of Travel and Publicity, Toronto. This department is considering advertising areas free of ragweed as tourist refugees from hay fever.

Enclosed in the letter was the information that relief from hay fever can be confidently expected from the line Muskoka-Haliburton-Renfrew northward. Even south of this line the wooded lakeland of central Ontario is much sought as a refuge by hay fever victims. Many also find relief on the shore lines of Lake Huron and Georgian Bay.

Caused By Pollen

Doctors agree that hay fever is caused by or much aggravated by the pollen of the common ragweed. This weed is chiefly found in agriculturally developed areas and as a result the dividing line in this province is generally the beginning of the Pre-Cambrian Shield area.

The Ontario Department of Health, in co-operation with the Department of Lands and Forests and McMaster University, Hamilton, initiated this year a survey of the province with the object of adding to the known data on the hay fever allergy. The survey will be continued possibly for two years.

Despite the fact that doctors in the district agree that the Kawarthas are not hay fever free, several of them state in their letters that this district is perhaps better than average in this regard.

Emotions Play Big Part In Human Actions

"We are all predominantly emotionally controlled rather than controlled by logic and reason," stated Dr. Thomas E. Currie at the luncheon meeting of the Rotary Club at the Empress Hotel Monday. Dr. Currier gave an address on the topic, Mental Health.

The speaker grew up in Ottawa. After graduating from Queen's University, Kingston, he spent five years as a medical officer in the RCAF during World War II. He then took post graduate work at the University of Toronto. Two years ago he became affiliated with Dr. Raymore Scott's clinic in Peterborough.

Actions Come First

Discussing the role that emotions play in human actions, Dr. Currier explained that actions always tend to come first and the reason for them afterwards.

"All of us at some time or other and to some degree or other suffer emotional upsets," stated the speaker. "However, when one is mentally ill, he is predominantly controlled by emotions and doing things in opposition to normal life and progress."

Dr. Currier sketched the development of psychiatry from the middle ages until the present day —from the time when the mentally insane were burned as witches to modern day programs for mental health and the solving of emotional problems.

"We have reached the point today where a person is not considered crazy if he goes to a pyschiatrist, nor do psychiatrists deal only with insane people," stated Dr. Currier.

Parents First Teacher

The speaker explained that a great many of our emotional problems are the result of what has been acquired from our first teachers—our parents. Various types of fears produce the greatest number of emotional problems.

"Many of the fears that most of us experience and assimilate in our childhood may be perpetuated into our adult life that make for chronically anxious and chronically worried people," stated Dr. Currier.

In mental ill-health, physical disorders are not the result of injury to the actual structure of parts of the body, but rather the functioning of these parts of the body are influenced. Such emotions as anxiety or fear quite often disturb our bodily functions and even cause severe bodily pain.

"The job of pyschiatrists," stated Dr. Currier," is to sit down with people and try to help them to attain a better state of health by sorting out their emotions for them. Health is a state of complete physical, mental and social well-being and not merely the absence of disease or infirmity."

The speaker was introduced by the Rev. Ivan Morgan and thanked by Dr. R. A. Kelly.

Dr. Russell Morgan spoke briefly to Rotarians on why a new collegiate in Peterborough is a necessity.

The visiting Rotarians, George Allin and Dr. Foster Graham, both of Fenelon Falls were introduced by Ernie Young.

Cut gashes in top crust to allow for escape of steam, then place on top of filling. Trim ½ inch beyond rim of pan; Seal by folding top crust under bottom crust and flute edge. Bake in a very hot oven, 450°F., for 15 minutes; reduce oven temperature to that required for filling (e.g. 350°F.) and continue baking until filling is cooked.

FOR SINGLE PASTRY SHELL . . . Divide recipe in half and combine as directed. Roll out; fit into pie pan. Fold edge and flute. Prick entire surface of crust. Bake in hot oven (450°F.) 15 min.

MARY MOORE SAYS:

Nourishing Casserole Dish Aid to More Protein Food

If all of the brain power and know-how that is possessed by the farmers' wives who create the magnificent cakes that we see at Fall Fairs were applied to economical, nourishing casserole dishes—the main dish cookery of this country would improve by leaps and bounds.

The great cry for high protein diets should not be ignored. Every thinking cook should put her mind to crowding more protein foods into the family meals.

With meat prices still soaring this idea is unpopular with the folks whose budgets cannot be stretched.

Some of you will ask me to outline the protein foods, so a quick over-all list is in order right here: all lean meats; eggs; cheese; fish; fowl; milk; nuts; peas, beans and lentils.

Thus I have established reason Number One for the topic of today's column. Reasons Number Two and Three are: One of our readers laments all of the play and space that are given to fancy cakes,—and I have a peach of a casserole dish which calls for four proteins and is on the economical side too. The combination of flavours is remarkably good.

Noodle And Tuna Casserole

Make a cream sauce by melting 4 tablespoons butter and stirring in 4 tablespoons flour, then 2 cups hot milk until it is thick. Add 1 teaspoon salt. Arrange in layers in a large casserole 2 sliced hard-cooked eggs, 1 7-oz. can tuna fish flaked, 2 cups cooked packaged noodles, ½ pound package pimiento cheese sliced, and if desired 1 small can or ¼ lb. sauteed mushrooms. Pour sauce over all sprinkle top with crumbs and bake at 350 deg. Fahr. about 1 hour.

Ham Casserole Special

(Double these quantities for a dinner party for ten people)

One-half pound ground left-over ham, 1 small onion, one-quarter green pepper, 1 tablespoon butter, ½ tablespoon flour, ½ teaspoon salt ⅛ teaspoon pepper, 1 cup cream style corn, ½ to 1 can condensed mushroom soup, ¼ cup milk, one-half of an 8-oz. package of medium sized noodles—cooked, one-half cup crushed buttered corn flakes. It speeds this dish up if you grind the onion and green pepper with the ham, using coarse knife. Saute these in the butter a minute or two. Add to them the flour, stir it in, then add the salt, pepper, corn, mushroom soup and milk and noodles. Place in largish casserole and sprinkle top with the buttered crushed corn flakes. Bake at 350 deg. Fahr. about 35 or 40 minutes.

If you do decide to double this and use when you are entertaining a crowd all you need with it is a very generous tossed green salad and hot rolls besides an elegant dessert.

Party Chicken Casserole

(One five-pound boiling fowl will serve ten people generously.)

Boil a 5-lb. fowl in water just to cover until tender. Remove meat from bones when it is cool enough to handle and cut in coarse pieces with a knife, do not chop or grind. Saute in 4 or 6 tablespoons butter or margarine 1 lb. fresh sliced mushrooms (or if none are available use drained canned mushrooms). Break in coarse pieces one-half pound of packaged potato chips. In large buttered casserole put a layer of chicken, then chips then mushrooms and pour over one-third mushroom soup and on e-third part of 2 cups previously prepared chicken gravy made with part milk. Repeat these layers 3 times. Sprinkle top with buttered crumbs. Bake for three-quarters hour at 350° Fahr. Be careful when adding salt as both the mushroom soup and chips contain quite a bit.

I recommend this dish very highly—especially to ambitious hostesses who yearn for the reputation of being good cooks.

Please send me your best or favourite casserole dishes.

Swedes Take Lead in Survey Made on Sex Education

LONDON —(Reuters)— The countries of northern Europe are blue-printing the facts of life for their children. In the south, however, it seems they don't need to.

A survey by Reuters News Agency shows the Swedes in the lead when it comes to telling junior about the birds and the bees. The Danes and Norwegians are close behind.

Only the Netherlanders raised shocked hands at the suggestion that sex is a subject to be discussed in school classes. The French and Italians seem to think it isn't necessary.

Swedish children start getting lessons on birth at the age of seven. Offical handbooks guide teachers in both primary and secondary schools. For adults the Swedish Association for Sexual Information has advice centres in all big towns.

Denmark starts its sex lessons when children reach their teens. Unlike Sweden—where teachers do the explaining—the classes are addressed by doctors. Adults also have a "school for marriage" started last year by a pastor.

Norway is starting on a similar program for children. Youngsters from 12 to 14 now are required to receive instruction in the schools.

Opponents of System

The Norwegianplan is still new enough to arouse protests from parents and religious leaders. One village school board declared such teaching was "morally degenerative" and refused to undertake it. Another village school said its teachers felt they were too old to tackle the job.

In Britain sex education is being gradually accepted after a long struggle between parents, doctors, education authorities and churches. So far there is no standardized system. In some schools children are told everything: In others, nothing.

Belgium recently appointed a commission to consider whether sex is a subject for school children. An educational official said the present attitude of reticence was "outdated" and "from an exchange of information abroad we have learned of the benefits to be gained by the frank teaching of sex matter to school children in their teens."

Italian parents say the youngsters learn fast enough anyway and don't need special teaching. Communist organizers who tried to set up after-school classes on sex were branded in the Catholic press as "corrupters of youth." The church says it's a matter for the parents.

French parents are divided about 50-50 on whether sex is a suitable school subject, it was shown in a recent poll.

The Case of the Part-Time Mother

SHAMEFACED, the lad stood quietly waiting for the judge to deliver a verdict. Jane Williams looked at her son through tear-filled eyes.

True, the offence was minor . . . the judge almost certain to suspend sentence. But the hard fact was that there he stood . . . her son Tom . . . charged in a courtroom. How could this have happened? Tom had always bee good boy . . . the dependable one in the family. It had been Tom who cared for the other children when she had to go to work, after her husband died.

Jane Williams realized now that Tom had needed care, too . . . the constant, watchful care of a parent for a growing boy. But she never saw him during the day . . . and the younger children took every moment she had after her day's work downtown.

If only Tom's father had provided for their future. If only he had foreseen the essential need for a continuing income while the family was growing up. She would have been able to stay home then — where she belonged — and give Tom all the loving care he deserved — and needed!

Think! Could this happen to your wife?

Social Register "Ins" and "Outs"

NEW YORK, Nov. 28—(AP)—Society's 1951 scratch sheet—the New York social register—came out Saturday with the names of people it considers important.

Among the new "ins" is a 23-year-old model from Maryville, Wis., Jayne Blodgett. She married Gordon Murray, already listed, during the year.

The "outs" include Mrs. Henry Ford II's brother, Gerard McDonnell. He married a contractor's daughter.

And Mrs. Pinna Tew Hinton Hart divorced a Wall Streeter and married an inkeeper.

She was dropped, too.

Among the still-ins is Mrs. Winthrop (Bobo) Rochefeller, the coal miner's daughter whose cinderella marriage is reported on the rocks.

One newcomer probably won't be too excited.

He's the Marquiss of Milford Haven, a cousin of King George VI. He married an American woman and that got him in.

But he's already in another little catalogue of notables — Burke's Peerage.

Mr. and Mrs. Ralph Mulligan and daughter Corinne of Orono are visiting with Mr. and Mrs. Gervin Mulligan.

Her brother, Mr. Harry Lee, is also reported in critical condition in hospital. There have been few particulars received here, but, according to reports, the death of Mrs. Lee and illness of her husband were caused by ptomaine poisoning.

Mrs. Margaret Jemison has returned to her home in the village.

Mrs. Milton Fallis, Millbrook, visited with her mother, Mrs. Richard Johnston, on Friday.

Cottons Highlight Sportswear Of Fashion Week

MONTREAL, Nov. 28—(CP)—Cottons for fun highlight the current collection of spring and summer sportswear being shown during fashion week in Montreal.

Novelty cottons from denim to burlap share the fashion spotlight, and a three-piece outfit of bright yellow burlap sets the theme for holiday clothes.

The collection by Fairway stresses the personality possibilities of indivdual items. Co-related styles in shorts, pedalpushers, slacks, skirts, blouses, camisole tops and coats—all in vibrant colors—lend themselves to "mix'n match" ensembles. A new cotton fabric—playtone—which requires a minimum of ironing, makes its appearance in a purple skirt with summerbund waistline, topped off by a yellow blouse with drawstring sleeves.

Alfandri, French-born Montreal designer who has always worked against sensational or exaggerated clothes, endorses the slim line for daytime. One of his afternoon dresses of wheat-toned surah has cartridge pleating to encircle the curved neckline and emphasize the hipline pockets.

The current collection of the tunic suit and the cocoon coat are two of the most revolutionary silhouettes for spring. The tunic suit, in fine grey worsted, has a tapering flare and tiny back belt with flange seam detail at the waistline to give an illusion of height. The cocoon coat, in one instance done in blue charmaine, falls in a graceful back flare with elbow length full sleeves tucked into stiffened cuffs.

For the younger set, gay togs use every conceivable bright color. Patterned corduroy is mated with plain in a number of sets for both brother and sister, and these feature berets that sport pom-poms.

Guides' Scroll Reaches Capital For 3-day Visit

OTTAWA, Nov. 28—(CP)—A small uniformed welcoming committee will be on hand at Uplands airport Wednesday—and this time the occasion won't be the arrival of a visiting dignitary.

Instead, the group, composed of Girl Guide heads in the area, will receive a hand-painted illuminated Scroll of Friendship.

The Scroll, which carries the greetings of British Guides to the Guides of each of 28 member countries of the World Association, has passed through the hands of Guides and Brownies throughout Eastern Canada.

Trans-Canada Air Lines has arranged that its stewardesses on each of the planes carrying the Scroll will act as custodians. They make the presentations to local Girl Guides and accept the Scroll for transport to the next stop.

After three days in the capital—including a visit to Government House—it will proceed to North Bay, Ont. From there it will be flown to Kapuskasing and Fort William, Ont., Winnipeg, Brandon, Regina, Saskatoon, Edmonton, Calgary, Vancouver and Victoria.

Eventually when it has completed its trip it will return to the Dominion headquarters of the Girl Guide Association in Toronto.

There are 73 pages in the log book of this message of friendship. Some are accompanied by pencil sketches, others by snapshots. But all hold true that first rule of guiding "a Guide is a friend to all and a sister to every other Guide."

They discovered Aluminum!

AN "INSIDE STORY"

1900—It wasn't only Grandma's cooking that drew the crowds. She had the first aluminum saucepan in town! In many other Canadian homes, too, this was the beginning of a bright, new era of better cooking utensils.

1925—When mother got married, she already knew how to enjoy life with aluminum. She brewed Dad's coffee in an aluminum pot... cooked those big family meals more easily in quick, even-heating aluminum.

1950—Today, daughter's kitchen belongs to the "aluminum age". She enjoys a larger selection of aluminum utensils. This "food-friendly" metal also protects the flavour, quality and purity of the foods she buys.

HINTS TO THE HOUSEWIFE

Whenever you see aluminum on the outside of a food or a drink, there's an "inside story" of cleanliness and purity.

Aluminum utensils clean easily. To remove natural deposit left by foods and water, use a tablespoon of vinegar in boiling water.

Aluminum has been friendly to food for 50 years!

DOROTHY DIX

Opposites Sure to Attract Can Marriage Be Happy?

DEAR MISS DIX: Do you believe that two people who are diametrical opposites can ever get along in peace and harmony? The girl I am engaged to and I have not a single taste, thought nor habit in common, yet we love each other. What do you think of the future of such a marriage?

ARTHUR.

ANSWER: I think it is mighty likely to be a stormy voyage that will end in the divorce court. Maybe the physical attraction that you have for each other will be strong enough to enable you to survive the cyclones of temper and temperament that you will encounter almost continually, but I doubt it.

Dorothy Dix

It is one of Nature's ironic jest to draw opposites together, because Nature is concerned only with the good of the species and not the happiness of the individual, but the very differences that attracted men and women to each other before marriage rend them apart after marriage.

Just Different

If you will think of the disgruntled husbands and wives you know, you will find that at the bottom of all of the trouble is uncongeniality. There is nothing wrong with either the husband or the wife. They are just different from each other. He or she has just done something that the other doesn't like to do.

There are millions of homes in which there is a daily spat over the coffee, the children, the neighbors, the dog, the cat, over everything from politics to pie, and for no earthly reason except that the husband thinks one way and the wife thinks another.

And, conversely, the happy homes, the successful marriages are those in which the husband and wife like the same things, enjoy the same people, have the same point of view, ride the same hobbies. This is but natural, for the people we enjoy most are those who agree with us, not those who argue every point with us.

Congeniality is the one and only indispensable thing in marriage. Having that, you have everything. Without it, you have nothing. For her sake and for your own sake, don't marry a girl who is antagonistic to you.

✧ ✧ ✧

DEAR MISS DIX: You tell the men that they should be affectionate to their wives. What about wives being affectionate to their husbands? A worried man does not think to be as affectionate as he should, so don't you think his wife should meet him with a smile and loving words and help him forget his worries? He would be more in love with her if she would do her part of the love-making, instead of being so silent and hard with him. Also, don't you think that when a husband and wife are separated that they should settle their differences alone without other people interfering?

ANSWER: I agree with you that it is just as important for wives to keep up the courting and love-making after marriage as it is for the husbands to do so. Also I think that the wife who expects her husband to take her affection for granted makes just as big a mistake as the husband does who expects his wife to be mind-reader enough to know that he loves her and thinks her the greatest woman in the world, although he never gives her a kiss that isn't like a flabby pancake on her cheek or pays her a compliment.

But how about it if the husband comes home grumpy and cross and grouchy, and if he kicks the cat as soon as he opens the door, spanks the baby, finds fault with the dinner and never even notices how hard his wife has worked taking care of the children and making a comfortable home? No woman is going to kiss a husband who comes in looking like a graven image and who turns the back of his head to her lips. Maybe if you would be a little more responsive your wife would be a litt more demonstrative.

Certainly a husband and wife should settle their own differences without anyone refereeing their fights. If they did, a lot more of them would end in a draw instead of a divorce. Family squabbles should be strictly private.

✧ ✧ ✧

DEAR DOROTHY DIX: A boy and girl were engaged to be married, but before they were married the boy died. The boys parents want the girl to come to live with them, but they do not want her to have any young friends or go anywhere. The girl is only 20. What should she do?

A FRIEND.

ANSWER: She will make a big mistake if she goes to live with her fiance's parents, because without intending it they will enslave her. They will expect her to spend the balance of her life grieving over her lost sweetheart and she is too young for that. It is nature that she should get over her sorrow and fall in love again and marry.

COOKBOOK OF THE WEEK

Mouthwatering Wine Sauce Spruces Up Swiss Steak

Have you seen the Culinary Arts Institute series of twenty-four cookbooks which are currently being made available to readers of the Examiner? Each cookbook covers a single phase of cooking completely with new and different recipes, tried and true recipes, colorful, imaginative ways of preparing foods, and exciting photographic illustrations which suggest attractive ways of serving food and introduce you to many of the recipes that you might skim over otherwise.

This week's title, "250 Sauces, Gravies and Dressings," is a perfect gem of a cookbook. It contains the key to sprucing up the most commonplace foods from the beginning of the meal to the end. For instance, everyone makes Swiss Steak now and then but here is an easy way to vary it and make it an outstanding meal—and with an inexpensive cooking wine it need not be considered a meal that is too steep for the average budget.

Wine Sauce for Swiss Steak

3 medium onions, sliced
1 green pepper, diced
1 cup celery, diced
1½ cups red wine
1 cup tomato juice

Add the vegetables and half the wine to 3 pounds of steak which has been dredged in seasoned flour and browned in hot fat. Cover and bake in a hot oven (400 deg. F.) for ½ hour. Add remaining wine and tomato juice and bake 1 hour longer. Serves eight.

You will surely want this wonderful Sauce Book to discover for yourself how to dress up poultry, salads, desserts, fish, vegetables, or anything you might be serving that has developed a lonely naked look. All you need do to obtain your copy of the Sauce Book is clip a Cookbook Coupon from page 2 of any issue of this newspaper and present the coupon with 25 cents to The Examiner office, your carrier boy, any of Braund's Home Food Markets, or the Dominion Master Market. By mail, send 30 cents (5 cents to cover postage and handling) to Cookbook Department, Peterborough Examiner.

God knows how much we miss you,
He counts the tears we shed,
And whispers, he's only sleeping,
Your loved one is not dead.
So we'll be brave dear daddy,
And pray to God each day,
That when He calls us home to you,
Your smile will guide our way.
—Sadly missed by your loving wife and family.

Fishing Remains Chief Occupation Labrador Coast

ST. JOHN'S, Nfld. —(CP)— People on the coast of Labrador still depend mainly for their livelihood on the salmon and cod fisheries, although there is some exploitation of forest resources and a whaling station has been established at Hawke's Harbor.

The Newfoundland Department of Fisheries has just released a report on a survey into working and living conditions on the coast of Labrador.

The people can generally be divided into three groups. First are the permanent residents of the coast whose winter homes are situated inland. Often they spend the summer fishing on the coast or on outlying islands. During the winter they augment their income by trapping.

Inshore Fishing

The second group is made up of the "stationers," migratory teams of men and women from Newfoundland who go north in the summer and settle on an island or in some mainland cove from which they carry on inshore fishing.

Third are the floaters, schooner crews which do not operate from the Labrador coast but remain on their vessels all the time they are away from their homes in Newfoundland. The floaters, more mobile than the other groups, move wherever the fishing is best.

Summer fishing and winter trapping provide the main income of the residents of the Labrador coast. Here and there the food supply is varied with wild game, and there is limited exploitation of the forests.

Canon Spencer Ends Ministry

ROSENEATH, Nov. 28—(ENS)—Canon C. R. Spencer concluded his active ministry Sunday, by preaching his final sermon in St. James' Anglican church. Although superannuated four years ago, Canon Spencer continued with his ministry until failing health would not permit him to continue longer.

Canon Spencer is 69 years of age and had begun his 46th year in the ministry since being ordained. In his long ministry he had only been in six different parishes: Haliburton, Young's Point, Millbrook, Shanty Bay, Bowmanville and Roseneath.

During World War I he was in France and a chaplain in Canada in World War II.

Canon and Mrs. Spencer have moved to 13 Church St. Port Hope.

PCVS Fan Break Down Causes Trouble

Chilly rooms sent 135 PCVS commercial department students home Monday for nearly a full-day holiday. Fast work for long hours over the weekend by workmen prevented a three or four day layoff.

Saturday morning a large fan, key to the heating of the commercial section, broke down. Most of the rooms of this department are dependent upon the fan to circulate warm air to heat the rooms. A few have single radiator boosters. Without the fan the air pressure is low resulting in no heat for the classes.

The bearings and the shaft of the fan required attention. This job usually requires about four days to complete. The maintenance staff assisted by a machine shop teacher began early Saturday afternoon and worked all day Sunday so the students wouldn't lose any time from their studies.

Monday morning the fan was ready to go and the heat was put on but it had to operate at half speed. The air pressure was still low resulting in the chilly rooms. The temperature in the commercial rooms varied between 52 and 56 degrees and the students were sent home for the morning.

C. S. Browne, principal, reported today that everything was fine. The coldest room this morning was 66 degrees at 9 a.m.

Struck Wrong Man Fight Then Started

A charge of causing a disturbance against Donald Collins, Donegal St., was today dismissed by Magistrate W. R. Philp. Collins pleaded not guilty.

The charge arose out of a fight in a Charlotte St. cafe in which Collins and Ivan Matthews, RR 2, Lakefield, were involved. On Monday, Matthews was fined $15 and $2.50 when he pleaded guilty.

Collins told court the fight started because Matthews mistook him for another man. "He came down to the booth and punched me in the face, and I hung onto him," he said.

Matthews told PC Douglas Farthing at the time that the fight had started at a dance hall, and Collins denied he had been at the dance hall. The magistrate decided Collins should be given the benefit of the doubt.

Business Booms Five Years After War's End

By FORBES RHUDE,
Canadian Press Business Editor.

One of the wonders of our times is the way post-war prosperity has stood up.

Perhaps it shouldn't be a wonder, but scarcely anyone at the close of the war envisioned that a virtual boom would still be in progress five years later.

Rhys M. Sale, president of Ford Motor Company of Canada Ltd., analyzed this situation yesterday to a meeting of the directors of National Sales Executives. He asked "Where did this great fat market come from?" and gave the following reply:

Deferred Demand

Part of it stems from the depression of the '30s. An enormous deferred demand was built up when millions of people had to put off buying what they wanted.

The depression tapered off in 1937-38, but before these people could get back on their financial feet the second world war came along.

Then they had money with which to buy, but their demand was again deferred because a gigantic part of our productive capacity was diverted to war requirements.

Much of the deferred demand created in the depression years was still there when peace came, and on top of it had been erected another huge backlog of demand.

Wanted Everything

Is it any wonder that we entered the post-war period with people clamoring for everything we could make?

There were few business men who were smart enough to appraise accurately the dimensions of that backlog of demand. We never dreamed that the automobile-buying boom, for instance, would last so long. . . .

People are ready and willing, but able only if we make the things they want at a price they can pay. Runaway prices could upset their readiness and willingness to buy.

Less For Civilians

Against the continuing demand for civilian goods, Mr. Sale presented the new demands of defence programs and forecast that as these get under way there will be a falling off in civilian production.

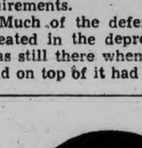
The process would be gradual, since it simply was not possible, in most industries, to stop making civilian goods one day and start in making military items the next.

The first effects upon the civilian economy would not result from a change-over of productive capacity to defence orders, but from a gradual diversion of strategic materials from peacetime to defence needs.

Something to remember

This is one of a series of words and expressions whose origins and meanings are published in the interest of a better understanding, use and knowledge of the English language.

"THIMBLE"



"Thimble", meaning a protective cover for the finger used when sewing, derives from the Anglo-Saxon thymel, a thumb-stall, from the Anglo-Saxon thuma, thumb. The le indicates the instrument itself, and is used commonly in our language, as in handle, from hand.

The early "thimble" was a leather covering, while the Old Norse thumall was the thumb of a glove. Thus the word "thimble"—so called because it was originally worn on the thumb.

the same time, two of the board's three members suggested that the National Jockey Club which operates Sportsman's Park dismiss Hugo Bennett, the auditor. Bennett last Friday testified before the board that he loaned the $80,000 to Ricca for "farm improvements" because of an old family friendship. That hearing was launched following suspension of Sportsman's Park from its membership by the Thoroughbred Racing Association.

$350 Damage To Two Cars

About $350 damage was done to two cars Sunday afternoon when they collided at Hunter and Stewart streets.

D. O'Connell, 302 Margaret Ave., told police he was driving north on Stewart St., stopped for the stop sign, and started across Hunter St.

He had barely started across when his car was struck on the right side by an auto driven by Frank O'Brien, RR 8, Peterborough. When police came to investigate the accident, O'Connell told them he had told the other driver to go on, and that he didn't know the driver's name or license number.

Police later discovered the other car had been driven by O'Brien.

Damage to the O'Connell car was estimated at $200 and to the O'Brien auto at $150.

New Wage Boosts

TORONTO, Nov. 28 (CP)—A drive for supplementary wage boosts for 7,000 steelworkers in the Toronto area was mapped Monday by the presidents of 31 locals of the United Steelworkers of America (CIO-CCL). The Toronto district council contended that any local which signed new agreements more than three months ago had lost part of its gains because of increased cost of living.

Fewer Sweets, More Chewing, Parents Told

Immaculate Conception Parent-Teacher Association heard a talk on dental health by Dr. Cliff McKee when members met for their monthly meeting Monday evening. Preceding his talk, a film "Something To Chew On" was shown in which the necessity of early attention to children's teeth was stressed. Dr. McKee outlined the need for thorough and frequent brushing of teeth as the first means toward healthy teeth and gums. Visits to the dentist should be made about every six months for inspections.

Candy and other such sweets as soft drinks should be given children in limited quantities or, better still, not at all, Dr. McKee said. Special attention should be given a child's first permanent teeth which come in about the age of seven and he suggested the use of spacers for gums in which teeth are missing but which will be filled later with permanent teeth. This would keep teeth on either side from taking up some of the space in which new teeth are to grow.

In lighter vein, the speaker explained that tobacco chewers invariably have good teeth because of the exercise the gums receive. Children should be urged to chew on raw carrots, apples, celery and so on that their gums would become toughened and capable of resisting diseases of the gums.

Dr. McKee's talk was given in a humorous and informal manner to about forty members of the Association. He was introduced by Bert O'Toole and thanked by Berk. Boyle.

"Love Comics"

Father J. O'Sullivan announced a drive among parents to look through some of the comic books brought home by children for a type of so-called "love comics," in which sex was emphasized. He said a case was being prepared to submit to the publishers of these books and that evidence to be effective should not come from the news stands but from homes in which these books were found.

Four Canadians Win Honors In Grain Show

CHICAGO, Nov. 28—(CP)—Four Canadians yesterday won major grain titles in the International Livestock Exposition's hay and grain show.

R. P. Robbins, of Shaunavon, Sask., picked off the premier award of wheat king in an upset victory.

John Wendell, of Neudorf, Sask. won the oats king title.

Chris Morck, of Dickson, Alta., won the rye king title with the same sample of Pictus rye that earlier this month at Toronto won for him the world's rye championship. Albert Kessel, of Rosetown, Sask., 1949 rye king, was third.

King Grower

Robbins was also chosen champion of champions in the final selection from champions in classes for red hard spring wheat, durum, white spring wheat and soft red winter wheat.

Wendell's Larain oats, an early maturing oats which yesterday scored the first mapor win for the variety weighed 40 pounds. Standard weight for oats is 34 pounds to the bushel.

Robbins' prize-winning wheat weighed 63.7 pounds. The standard bushel of wheat weighs 60 pounds.

Barley

Eliuk's barley exhibit was a sample of six—rowed Montcalm, a strain perfected by Professor A. B. Lods, of Macdonald Agricultural College, an affiliate of McGill University. Its victory here was expected to increase growing interest in Montcalm at a prime malting barley.

The other major grain contests were won by U.S. competitors. The corn king for the second straight year is Charles M. Fischer of Shelbyville, Ind., and the flax winner is Chris Larsen of Bardger, S.D.

The victory for Robbins with his Mindum variety of durum wheat was only the second time since 1919 that the hard red spring wheat winner has not also won the wheat king title.

Favorite Loses

Mrs. Amy Kelsey, of Victoria, wheat queen last year and also in 1946, won the hard red spring division and had been overwhelmingly favored for a third grand championship and permanent possession of the Union Stockyard and Transit Company trophy.

Robbins' victory is the 24th for Canadian competitors in the 28-year history of wheat competition here. Albertans have won 15 times, Saskatchewan six and British Columbia three.

Canadians also won prizes in the following competitions:

Alfalfa—Mac Gibbons, Admaston, Ont., reserve champion.

Timothy—Roy C. Chambers, Fenwick, Ont., first; Landsdell Brothers, Brampton, Ont., second.

Boy Robbers Sought

VANCOUVER, Nov. 28 (CP).—Two boys today are sought by police for questioning in connection with a $1,920 cafe robbery Sunday in downtown Vancouver. Police said one or both boys have squeezed through a 6½ inch air space above a partition to gain entrance to the office. Stock Exchange today.

Mrs. George Fletcher offered to make a Christmas cake again this year, for which tickets will be sold and a draw made before Christmas.

A vote of thanks to the speaker was given by Mrs. Alex Watt and to the hostess, Mrs. James Whittington, by Mrs. Frank McKay.

Protest Nazi Anthem

BERLIN, Nov. 28 — (AP) — Forty Germans walked out of a right-wing political party meeting in West Berlin Sunday in protest against the playing of "Deutschland Ueber Alles" by a string quartet. More Jobs Seen For Old People In Canada's Near Future Says Gregg

By FORBES RHUDLE
Canadian Press Business Editor.

The older man of woman looking for a job may find the way easier from here in.

For one thing, defence programs are likely to cause a scarcity of workers. For another, a smaller working force is coming up because of the low birth rate of the depression years.

For still another, a considerable campaign has been going on to teach firms the advantages of hiring the older man or woman.

Labor Minister Gregg has this to say:

"I would advise any industry which now is having difficulty obtaining skilled workers to examine the possibility of obtaining these from among the older age groups. They are generally willing, able and dependable."

Show Film

The Labor Department, as part of its campaign for the older age groups. They are generally willing, ablel and dependable."

Mr. Gregg says its showing has had outstanding success and that many companies are revising their age-hiring policies.

The older-worker problem, while it becomes more cute in the 60s, really starts in 40s for people woh for some reason often beyond their control, have to change employment.

The problem is not all one of attitude of employers; sometimes the person seeking employment expects too much, especially if he has been in the executive bracket.

As one employment official put it, a man who has been, say, the comptroller of a firm, too often expects to step into another firm with the same position, forgetting that it has its own emn coming along.

The American Comptrollers Institute gives advice to comptrollers and accountants seeking jobs, which has general interest. It says:

Medium-sized corporations offer the best prospects, because larger corporations are usually well-staffed.

Address your letter to top executives only. Follow-up letters are as important as the application. Don't stay too long at interviews. Don't fail to send a thank-you letter after an interview, no matter how it turns out. The employer may not hire you, but because of a good impression he may recommend you to someone else.

Don't be impatient because you are not hired immediately after an interview.

Prepare an outline of past experience. Present your qualifications without regard to employment chronology. Then list past jobs, putting the most recent employment first. Gove a reason for leaving each job. Never omit an unfavorable experience—any break in sequence arouses suspicion as to cause.

American Forces Escape Across River Hope To Set Up Defense

200,000 Reds Swarm South Led By Tanks
Americans Retreat From Trap
No Sign Negotiations Will Stop Chinese

SEOUL, Nov. 29—(AP)—United Nations forces escaped across the icy Chongchon river in northwest Korea today under swarming attacks mounted by 200,000 or more Chinese Communists. AP correspondent Tom Lambert, with the United States Eighth Army, reported at 6.43 p.m. (4.43 a.m. EST) that the withdrawal in the eastern sector was all but complete. But fresh Red attacks from three sides threatened the escape gate at Kunu, road centre south of the Chongchon. Communist tanks rumbled on the city from the west. They were the first reported in the Chinese drive.

Chinese Communists sweeping in from the northeast still threatened to trap the two American divisions around Kunu and two other Allied divisions.

There were no immediate reports on the fate of the U.S. 24th and South Korean 1st divisions on the western flank.

The 24th Division, first American outfit to fight in Korea, last was reported in the Pakchon area north of the river, holding open an escape route across the Anju bridge.

Back To River

The South Korean 1st Division was fighting on the 24th's right flank, with its back to the river.

It was from this bridgehead north of the river that a 110,000-man Allied force launched Gen. MacArthur's proclaimed "end of the war" offensive only six days ago.

The offensive stalled after two days when U.N. forces ran into masses of surging Chinese Communists.

MacArthur warned Tuesday: "We face an entirely new war." He called upon the U.N. and all governments to seek a solution to the growing crisis.

There was hope of salvaging enough Allied manpower and material to set up a winter defence line and hold off the Chinese somewhere in North Korea.

Tank Threat

Military authorities considered such a defence could hold with Allied superiority in the air and in firepower against Chinese who had depended at the outset on the swarming weight of their lightly-armed foot soldiers. But now Red tanks are reported in battle.

There was no indication on the battlefronts, in the UN or in Western diplomatic capitals that the Chinese Reds would be stopped by negotiations.

An end sweep by the Red Chinese hordes, through the Tokchon gap which was torn on the right flank when three South Korean divisions crumpled, had threatened to trap the four Allied divisions north at the Chongchon River.

Lambert said it was hoped that the last troops of the two divisions in the Kunu sector would be

4 Children Die In Oshawa Fire, Condemn House

OSHAWA, Nov. 29 (CP)—Four small children died Thursday when fire swept through an upstairs kitchen and tiny bedroom in a crowded rooming house twice condemned by municipal authorities.

The four, unattended at the time, were children of Mr. and Mrs. Gordon Burns.

Marie, 11 months, was burned to death in a high-chair beside a stove. Joan, 3, and Linda, 5, were asphyxiated before firemen could reach the bedroom. Bobby, 2, died on the way to hospital.

A fifth child, Donna, 6, was outside.

Tried To Rush In

Mrs. Burns, expecting another child in a month, was at a neighbour's house to borrow a clothes-horse when fire started. When she returned and saw flames and smoke pouring from the second floor, she tried to rush upstairs but was restrained by Steve

US Living Costs Hit Record High

WASHINGTON, Nov. 29—(AP)—The United States government's cost-of-living indext today rose to an all-time high.

The new index, covering prices as of Oct. 15, was 174.8 per cent of the 1935-39 base—100—an increase of 0.6 per cent since Sept. 15.

It was 0.2 per cent higher than the previous peak of 174.5 in August and September, 1948.

Nearly 1,000,000 workers whose wage contracts are tied to the rise and fall of the index will receive a pay increase of two to three cents an hour.

General Motors Corporation, first of the major auto manufacturers to adopt the cost-of-living formula for its workers, announced immediately 357,000 hourly-rated workers will receive an additional three cents an hour. The boost will be effective with the first-pay period beginning after Dec. 1.

Approximately 80,000 G.M. salaried workers will receive an additional $15 as their allowance for the period between Dec. 1 and next March 1, to be paid at the close of the quarter next March.

Poses As Boss's Son Charged With Fraud

TORONTO, Nov. 29 —(CP)—A factory watchman was suspicious when "the boss's son" showed up last night asking $237 to cover a worthless cheque he had issued in payment of a drinking bill.

John R. Dempster, 21, whom the boss had never seen, was arrested on two charges of fraud, one of attempted fraud and one of theft.

Police said he gave a worthless $40 cheque for board and room, stole $20 from a fellow roomer and ran up a $23.55 bill at a downtown cocktail lounge—all in one evening—before approaching the watchman.

Hydro Comes To City At Voltage Of 44,000 Transformers Cut It To 110 For Homes

Following is the method used to step down power for use in Peterborough homes and in stores:

Hydro lines deliver power at 44,000 volts to the substation.

Transformers there step it down first to 22,000 volts, and then to 2,300 volts.

At this pressure it passes through the bus-bars in the switch panel in the substation.

Then it moves out along the familiar lines on poles to pole transformers which step it down to domestic voltage—110.

The substation explosion took place at the 2,300-volt level somewhere either in the bus-bars (heavy strips of copper four inches wide and a quarter-inch thick) or in the circuit switches which distribute power to the various sections of the city.

Sees Political Solution To Russian-Chinese Plot

LONDON, Nov. 29—(Reuters)—Foreign Secretary Ernest Bevin today warned that there might be "a Russian-Chinese conspiracy on a world-wide scale," but added that despite developments of the last few days he thought a "political" solution could be found in Korea that would prevent the spread of hostilities. However, he said, such a solution could only be found "if the Chinese are of a mind to co-operate."

Bevin, opening a foreign-policy debate in the House of Commons, emphasized to the crowded chamber that the British government supported the objectives of Gen. MacArthur which are "no more and no less than the objectives of the United Nations."

There had been no split between Britain and the United States on policy in Korea, Bevin added.

Bevin was opening an important debate on foreign affairs in the Commons.

Some Misunderstanding

He said there had been "some misunderstanding" about MacArthur and the nature of instructions given to him.

It had been necessary to leave control of operations very much in MacArthur's hands, providing that where his plans involved questions of general policy there was proper consultation on such matters, Bevin said.

"This, in fact, is what has happened."

Bevin said that within the last 24 hours the United States government had reaffirmed that their purposes in Korea remained the same as British aims.

Localize Fighting

These were to resist aggression, to localize hostilities, and to settle the Korean question on a basis satisfactory to the United Nations.

When the North Koreans did not respond to the UN surrender offer, it became necessary "in order that the purpose of the United Nations should be achieved, for the United Nations forces to restore peace and order in the whole of the country."

Woman Found Shot In Chest

TORONTO, Nov. 29 (CP). — Inspector of detectives Alex McCathie said today that investigation of the fatal shooting of Mrs. Joan Beck, 25, indicated that the woman committed suicide.

Leonard Elinor, with whom police said the attractive blonde woman had been living after separation from her husband, told detectives he found the woman dead about noon yesterday. She was clad in a pink nightgown and had been shot through the chest.

Elinor said that after finding the body on a bed in the couple's west-end apartment, he went to see his lawyer. The lawyer called police at about 3:30 p.m.

Officers said they found Mrs. Beck's body on the bed. She was lying on her back, a cover drawn to her chin. The pistol lay near her left elbow. There were powder marks around the breast wound.

Chief Coroner Dr. Smirle Lawson estimated Mrs. Beck had been dead 12 hours.

A note found in the room said: "I want Bobby to go back to his father. Let him take good care of him. As for me, drop dead. Yes—debt is an awful thing. There is no use banging your head against a stone wall." It was signed "Jean."

Bobby is Mrs. Beck's six-year-old son. The child has been cared for by foster parents since Mr. and Mrs. Beck separated last year.

Flying Saucers Seen 3,000 Years Ago?

LONDON, Nov. 29—(Reuters)—Maybe we moderns aren't the only ones plagued by flying saucers.

It seems the ancients saw them, too.

British archaeologists on the Isle of Cyprus reported to London yesterday that they had unearthed a ruined temple. In the temple they found a small stone seal.

Expedition leader Joan du Platt said one seal bore the replica of what was definitely a winged disk.

Age of this antique flying saucer? About 3,000 years.

New Zealand To Sell State-Owned Airline

WELLINGTON, N.Z., Nov. 29—(Reuters)—The government has decided to sell the state-owned national air services, transport minister William Goosman said yesterday. Offers are being invited from Britain, Australia and New Zealand, with Jan. 31, 1951, as the closing date for bids.

Four Gunmen Rob Bank Of $10,000

Masked Men Escape In Snowstorm; Use Stolen Car

TORONTO, Nov. 29—(CP)—Four men, masked and armed, stole $10,000 in cash from a west-end branch of the Canadian Bank of Commerce today after forcing 15 staff members and five customers to line up against a wall.

They fled from the bank, at the intersection of Roncesvalles and Wright Avenues, in a maroon-colored automobile which was reported stolen last night. The car later was found abandoned a short distance from the bank. Police believe the men transfered to a dark blue or black car that followed the one used in the holdup as it pulled away from the bank.

Police assigned all available men to track down the thieves. They pressed the hunt in a swirling snowstorm.

There was no shooting in or around the bank. Nor did the robbers try to get into the vault.

Drew Guns

The four men walked into the bank just before 10:30 a.m. and drew their guns.

Alexander Marshall, a bank messenger, said he was sitting with his back to the door when he heard a shout. He turned and saw the robbers.

"They were waving guns and each had a handkerchief over the lower part of his face. Two of them kept the staff and customers covered while a third jumped over the counter and scooped all the bills from the teller's cage. One man held a gun pressed into my back".

Lie On Floor

After forcing the staff and customers to huddle against a wall at gunpoint, the gunmen ordered everyone to lie on the floor except three tellers whom they made hand over the cash. Among those forced to lie down was the manager, E. J. Lennard.

Employees described one of the robbers as a dark man of medium height with a scar on his face. He wore blue coveralls.

Reds Imported For Toronto Vote

TORONTO, Nov. 29—(CP)—An official of Toronto's anti-subversive squad said today that a number of Communist families had been brought to the city from Northern Ontario in recent weeks in an apparent effort to bolster the Communist vote in the Dec. 4 city elections.

Sgt. Dan Mann, chief of the squad, said his men are checking the supplementary voters' list for the validity of all entries.

"We believe these Communists have been brought in with the idea of impersonating eligible voters, as has been done in previous elections," Sgt. Mann said. "It now is too late for them to be added to the voters' list."

He said the newcomers were believed to be concentrated in Wards 4 and 5, the two west-central district which customarily have the highest Communist vote. Alderman Norman Freed, a Communist, has represented Ward 4 for the last seven years.

Americans Forced To Give Rides To Reds

VIENNA, Nov. 29 — (AP) — United States military police said last night that American motorists are being forced to pick up unwanted Russian soldier hitchhikers on the international highway between Vienna and the west. Police said Soviet sentries halt American cars and refuse them permission to go ahead unless they make room for the hitchhikers.

Hydro Switchgear Operator Suffers Severe Burns At Aylmer St. Substation

Blowout of two main circuit switches at the Aylmer St. substation at 1:43 this afternoon threw the whole of Peterborough into a blackout from which it did not begin to recover for four hous. Then a few sections of the city got house lighting and gradually from 6:30 p.m. onwards other parts of the city were lighted as engineers worked feverishly to transfer circuits and repair switches. Reason for the blowout at the Utilities main substation was not known, said Utilities manager, Ross Dobbin. Harold Wilson, 60, of Sherbrooke St., switchgear operator at the substation suffered severe burns when the switches blew. He was rushed by ambulance to Civic Hospital where his condition is reported good.

All city industries were hit by the cutoff, although sections of the CGE and the Quaker Oats were able to keep operating on power supplied by their own power plants.

By 4 p.m., sections of Ashburnham and the north end of the city had lights, with power supplied from the Auburn Dam. One section centred around Sherbrooke St. also received power from the dam.

In the downtown area, traffic lights were off with the rest but police reported that there had been no accidents as a result of the lack of traffic lights.

Thick Yellowish Smoke

Seconds after the explosion, a cloud of thick, acrid yellowish smoke hung over the substation and billowed over Aylmer St. On top of the building the layer of smoke was about ten feet thick.

Utilities manager Ross Dobbin said he was sitting in his office when he heard a deep "brumph" from the substation.

"I went out and saw Harold (Harold Wilson, the injured man) being helped out the door at the rear of the substation.

"His face and hands were burned brown and all the hair was burned off his head," said Mr. Dobbin.

He said that Wilson did not have a chance to explain what happened before the ambulance removed him.

Mr. Dobbin said he believed the trouble started in the circuit switches which carry 2,300 volts. Three copper bus-bars four inches wide and a quarter-inch thick were melted and bent by the heat and force of the explosion.

Centre Section Worst

Switches most badly damaged were those which handled power for the centre section of the city, although power to all sections was cut off.

The actual fire following the explosion was short-lived. It was extinguished within half-an-hour of the blast.

The floor of the substation was littered with pieces of switches and broken insulators, and rubber mats on the floors were still smouldering an hour after the blast.

Firemen wearing respirators shuffled cautiously through the haze inside the substation, and a few curious spectators coughed as they caught whiffs of the fumes which still lingered.

Only a small crowd gathered outside the building at first, watching the be-masked firemen enter with hoses and extinguishers in search of still-smouldering wood furnishings.

Industries In City Stagger To Standstill Power Fails

Peterborough's industries staggered to a hushed standstill when the city's supply of electric power was cut off by the flash at the switchboard of the Utilities substation on Aylmer St.

An exception to the silent interruption was the Canadian General Electric Company with their steam turbine standby equipment for emergency use, and also their own power line from the company's generating plant at Nassau.

J. E. Girven, assistant works manager, said at 2.45 p.m., that some of the departments operating on the power from Nassau resumed production, but there were three or four other departments, dependent on the Hydro power, that were idle.

Quaker Oats Co., a Utilities cusomer, like CGE, for part of their power needs, was temporarily shut down when the generating source of Hydraulic Power Co. at the foot of London St., was temporarily put out of commission apparently as a reaction to the cut-off at the Utilities substation.

"When the Utilities power failed, they took us, too," said Mr. L. H. Ingram. "We had installed safety equipment not long ago, but evidently it didn't work That is a technical matter that is not easily explained. We got our own power on again, giving us the lighting system, and also operating the part of the mill that was served by the London St. power plant."

Bell Telephone Co. switched on their emergency power source, a diesel engine, operating a generator recharging batteries which produced the electric current for their local opeations.

Mr. G. Baker said it was an automatic arrangement that went into operation when the Hydro power was cut off. The emergency plant is kept tuned up from week to week.

Canadian National Telegraph's switched into a Morse relay from Toronto, equipped with a booster.

Outboard Marine and Manufacturing Co. threw in the sponge at around 2.30 p.m., deciding that the production staff might as well go home. The office employees followed them around 3.15 o'clock.

Apparently there was more optimism about getting going at Nashua Paper Company. The employees were still there at 4 p.m., and still helplessly marking time.

Canada Packers Company stalled for a while, hoping that the power might come on shortly, but finally called it a day around 3 p.m., when the main group of employees took off, leaving the worry of refrigeration possibilities to management.

Canada Cabinet Confers On Korean Issue

OTTAWA, Nov. 29—(CP)—The federal cabinet went into session today with the Korean crisis heading its agenda.

Prime Minister St. Laurent told reporters as he entered the council chamber that the international situation "looks confused".

"I can't go beyond that," he added.

External Affairs Minister Pearson, following the prime minister into the chamber, said that the Korean picture now was "not too happy."

He could not say immediately whether he would return to New York, where he had been heading the Canadian delegation to the United Nations until last week. The Korean issue now is before the U.N. Security Council and Canada is not a member of that council.

Mr. Pearson said he would go back to New York if the Korean question came before the general assembly by virtue of a Soviet veto in the security council.

While this was a regular meeting day for the cabinet, the Korean developments heightened the importance of the sessions, expected to continue throughout the day, with only a break for lunch.

Mr. Pearson carried into the chamber a bundle of official documents bearing the red governmental seal denoting secrecy.

Among them undoubtedly were reports from Canada's U.N. delegation reporting public and behind-the-scenes developments on the quickening drama being played out before the security council, where a Red China delegation is attending the discussions.

Perfume Castoff Helps Poor Hearts

By HOWARD W. BLAKESLEE
Associated Press Science Editor

SALT LAKE CITY, Utah, Nov. 29 (AP)—Perfumery has given science one of its most exciting new drugs—good for hearts, arteries and other things.

This discovery was made at the University of Utah's College of Medicine by Dr. Mark Nickerson.

The Swiss perfume firm, Givaudan, had several hundred different chemicals, left-overs from making pleasant odors. These chemicals resembled water, and were odorless. What they were was unknown because their original make-up had been changed by the essences that go into perfume.

The Utah College of Medicine received a lot of these bottles and began trying the chemicals on animals. Nothing happened until Dr. Nickerson came to No. 13. This chemical had no name, and 13 was the rotation in which he picked up this bottle.

No. 13 was placed along with several other chemicals for tests on blood pressure. Presently something appeared to be going wrong. Epinephrine, the doctor's best drug for raising blood pressure, was occasionally doing just the opposite.

Delayed Action

No. 13 was suspected, but when tested it failed to lower pressure. Dr. Nickerson then studied the records he had been keeping for weeks on the effects of all the chemicals in the pressure tests, and discovered that No. 13 had a delayed action. The living body was changing this queer chemical, and after that change No. 13 would reverse epinphrine's effects.

Thirteen was found to be chemically similar to the newest poison war gas, nitrogen mustard, but lacking the poison. It was given the jaw-breaking name of dibenamine, and then more than 300 modifications of dibenamine, with still-longer names, were made in search for medical uses.

Not A Cure

This perfumery chemical acts on the vascular system—which means both heart and blood vessels—the system whose disorders kill more than 500,000 in the United States each year. It has been used for glaucoma, which causes blindness by hardening the eyeball. In surgical operations it keeps hearts beating in rhythm. In high blood pressure it relieves bad attacks that cause partial blindness—but is not a cure. It also helps diagnose cancer.

Higher Prices Blamed

Britain To Revive Controls

By ALAN HARVEY
Canadian Press Staff Writer

LONDON, Nov. 29.—(CP). — The Labor Government, which last spring started slipping off wartime control in what was generally interpreted as a graceful bow to electoral opinion, now seems to be heading the other way.

Thre are strong indications that cabinet ministers are thinking of repealing some of the new freedoms. Oddly enough, in restoring controls they would seem to be influenced by much the same motives that resulted in last spring's so-called "race for freedom."

Loosen Controls

Briefly, the background is this: After last February's general elections left Labor with only a minute majority in Parliament, the Government appeared to loosen up a little. Gasoline was freed, the point system of rationing was abolished, fish went back into private hands. Opposition parties claimed these "concessions" were a direct result of the political stalemate.

Now the picture is different. A drastic change in the trend of world prices, largely caused by the war in Korea, has put Britain's buyers on the spot. Gold reserves have risen, but countries which sell to this food-importing island are demanding higher prices.

Increase Costs

Naturally, that means an increase in the cost of living. In many cases it means a strain on the food subsidies, which Britain is trying desperately to keep from exceeding their present level of £410,000,000 (about $1,230,000,000) a year.

The cost of living is a particularly touchy subject for Labor members. They have long contended that in a planned economy basic costs can be kept within reach of all. Now there is believed to be considerable pressure for a renewal of controls, a reaffirmation of the old Socialist belief that the forces of supply and demand can be mainpulated by legislative action.

New Treatment Found For Ringworm

SAULT STE. MARIE, Ont., Nov. 29 (CP)—A new treatment for ringworm was demonstrated before a group of mothers yesterday by Dr. Ruth Wolfe of Montreal. About 500 children are under treatment here for the skin disease.

The new method involves use of an ointment for medication and a liquid that kills fungus growth.

Public clinical treatments were discontinued last Thursday on grounds that they were unsuccessful. City council then recommended that the board of health order quarantine for the children still suffering from the epidemic that has raged here for several months.

Chinese Won't Quit Fighting in Korea Despite UN Opinion

By Tom Ochiltree

LAKE SUCCESS, N.Y., Nov. 29—(AP)—The United States wants the United Nations Security Council to put on record the "conscience of the people of the world" in a showdown today on American charges of Chinese Communist aggression in Korea. Making such a record is about all a majority of the Council can hope to accomplish in view of the expressed attitudes of Russia and Chinese Communist representatives. The Chinese Communists yesterday made it plain that they have no intention of withdrawing from Korea.

The chief United States delegate, Warren R. Austin, in his speech before the Council yesterday, foresaw a probable Russian veto of a six-power resolution demanding that the Red soldiers of Mao Tze-tung get out of Korea.

Despite the prospect of such a negative result, Austin emphasized the need for speedy Council action at a time when UN forces are being pushed back by heavy Chinese attacks on the blazing Korean war front.

Russian Veto

A Soviet veto would clear the way for consideration by the General Assembly of the grave Korean problem. The veto does not apply in the 60-member Assembly, which recently armed itself with broad powers to discover and combat aggression when the Security Council is paralyzed.

Austin first suggested that the Council meet through the night in an effort to reach a vote. He did not press the point, and the Council adjourned until (3 p.m. EST) today.

Informing the Council that he had been told Russia would vote against the Korean resolution, Austin said: "If so, we understand that means a veto of the resolution. But nevertheless, it represents the conscience of the people of the world."

Then he asked the Chinese Communist representative, Wu Hsui-Chuan, whether the Peiping regime recognizes "the conscience of the people of the world as something that it ought to give weight to."

Follows Line

Wu, seated a few places away from Austin at the horse-shoe-shaped table, answered American charges that the Chinese Communists are openly committing aggression in Korea by claiming that the United States is the aggressor there, and also has invaded Formosa.

Speaking in a high-pitched voice, Wu followed closely the arguments the Soviet bloc has constanly repeated on the Korean and Formosan questions.

A western delegation source said Wu's speech, his first in the UN, has created the worst possible impression among non-Communist representatives. The informant said the speech has had these two immediate results: It has drawn the Western countries closer together on the whole problem, and has shown that Wu is not at Lake Success for conciliation.

Dairy Industry Completed Pasteurization

One industry that struck it lucky was the dairy industry. Hydro power is used in the pasteurization and bottling of milk and cream. The largest dairies had already completed their pasteurization for Thursday when the explosion occurred.

Silverwoods did their pasteurizing in the morning, but their jersey and chocolate milk was not all bottled. Chief concern was $10,000 worth of ice cream that might turn soft if the electrical refrigeration remained out of operation very long.

Mohan-Hunter also declared they would be able to serve their customers Thursday, regardless of the power situation. The frustrating thing was that while they used coal, not electricity, for heating, the furnace blower was run by electricity. So everything had to shut down.

Campbell's had not finished bottling all their cream and their chocolate milk, but the plain milk was ready to be delivered to customers as scheduled.

Sunshine were caught in the "washing up" process, and conceded that they were "lucky." Some of their chocolate milk, however, wasn't bottled.

The upshot of this dairy survey? Well, the Peterborough housewife needn't worry about getting her regular so-many bottles of milk Thursday. Whether by truck or horse-pulled wagon, the milkman cometh.

Man Killed As Car Skids Through Rail

SUDBURY, Ont., Nov. 29 (CP)—One man was believed killed last night when the car in which he and two companions were riding skidded through the guard rail of a bridge a few miles west of here, plunging into the North River.

Sam Levigne, age and address unknown, was believed still in the car which is lying upside down in five feet of water. His companions, Ronald Bourgois and Leo Roy, escaped from the vehicle and walked several miles to notify police. The three men were on their way to a job in a lumber camp 58 miles west of Sudbury.

Hospital Uses Auxiliary Unit To Secure Power

"Everything is in excellent condition considering the circumstances," reported John Hornal, superintendant from the Civic Hospital early Wednesday evening.

Immediately after the power went off in the afternoon, the hospital's generator was put into operation which supplied all the electricity needed in the emergency.

Work in the operating room was carried on as usual and every second light in the corridors was lit. Lights were also on at all the nurses stations throughout the building.

Steam heat was used for the supper preparations and tray trucks were used to carry trays to the patients' rooms.

Only a few extra people were needed to deliver trays to the patients' rooms. The electric conveyor system was not operating.

One of the elevators was operated from the hospital power plant and was used for carrying trays as well as a passenger conveyance. The remainder of the elevators could be operated manually or automatically, and consequently were used in an emergency.

Flashlights were used when necessary in patients' rooms which remained without lights during the city's blackout.

St. Joseph's Hospital was only without power for approximately three hours during the afternoon. Inconvenience did result with oxygen tents, incubators and X-ray department, but there were no serious consequences. The elevators came to a standstill and the laundry stopped. However, by evening the power was on and everything operating normally.

French Premier Asks Confidence Vote

PARIS, Nov. 29.—(AP).—Premier Rene Pleven today asked for a vote of confidence in his badly-shaken French cabinet, declaring that present circumstances "are too grave" for him to continue unless he has the support of parliament.

"The Government must know if it can count on its majority," the premier told the National Assembly. If the cabinet does not get 311 votes it will resign.

The National Assembly vote, decided on at a cabinet meeting today, will take place Friday. Pleven submitted the cabinet's resignation last night after the National Assembly voted disapproval of Moch, but President Vincent Auriol refused to accept the walkout because of the tense international situation.

Jagoda. She collapsed and was taken to hospital suffering severe shock.

Her husband, a truck driver for the city works department, also collapsed and was treated at hospital when told the tragic news. He was realeased later.

Fire Chief W. R. Elliott called the frame building, which housed 21 persons, the "worst fire trap I have ever seen."

He said he condemned the building in a report 20 years ago.

Occupied Again

The medical officer of health, Dr. A. F. Mackay, said his department condemned the house three years ago. Repairs were made, he said, and the house again was occupied.

He said his department received another report on conditions in the house a week ago and had started another investigation.

Chief Elliott said cause of the fire had not been determined. Preliminary investigation indicated three possibilities: paper behind the stove igniting; an overheated electric hot-plate or the children playing with matches.

Collect $650,000 In Welfare Chest First 10 Years

Over $650,000 has been collected by the Peterborough Red Cross and Community Fund since it started its annual campaign in 1941, Ross L. Dobbin, president, reported at the annual meeting Tuesday night.

Every year, Mr. Dobbin said, the campaign has exceeded its objective. In 1950's campaign, with an objective of $75,000, a high of $77,000 was reached. He also reported that $1,000 of the $15,000 in Dominion of Canada bonds were used this year.

Balance Reported

T. A. MacKay, treasurer, reported a bank balance at the end of October of $862.08, with an additional $14,000 in bonds; $10,000 is due the Canadian Red Cross on the 1950 allocation, and there were nearly $11,000 in unpaid pledges at the end of October. Mr. MacKay noted that a large part of the unpaid pledges have been paid since then.

Receipts for 1950 totalled $94,695.62, the treasurer reported. This included a balance on hand on October 31, 1949, of $16,855.25, subscriptions and donations from 1949 of $11,710.46, subscriptions and donations from 1950 of $65,682.50. The interest on the bonds amounted to $426.16 and the premiums on bonds sold came to $21.25.

How Money Allotted

Agency expenditures amounted this year to $76,556.00. LIQUID SUPPLIES

Peterborough became a real pioneer city for a few hours Wednesday. When the power blackout came the 36,000 residents suddenly found themselves without the amenities that are dependent on hydro-electric power. Hardware stores and the larger groceterias were beseiged by anxious householders wanting candles, lamps, and coal oil. Many were carrying empty beer bottles, "mickeys" and whiskey bottles. One wag, after watching a jostling lineup outside Tom Ashby's store on Rubidge St. for some time remarked: "Say, it looks like a liquor store on the afternoon before a holiday."

Stock Market Skids 2nd Day Of War News

NEW YORK, Nov. 29 (AP)—A war-jittery stock market dropped sharply again today.

Leading issues lost as much as $3 a share or so before buyers could be tempted into the market on any scale.

Trading hit a fast pace with blocks of 1,000 or more shares peppering the ticker tape.

Yesterday's plunge, worst since the start of the Korean War in late June, was touched off by the ominous turn of events in Korea.

Today's relapse was preluded by tumbling prices in the London stock market.

"The smoke is thick enough in there to cut your lungs out," said one firefighter. He had been one of the first to go in before respirators were issued, and was still coughing from the effects.

Melted Brick Faces

On one wall of the sub-station the momentarily fierce heat from the explosion had melted the faces of bricks. Windows in the front of the building were not shattered, being reinforced with wire.

Slightly more than an hour after the blast a clean-up gang of about 20 men was working in front of the main switch panel in the sub-station. Glass on the faces of meters had not been smashed, but was grimed over by smoke, and the cleaners were polishing these.

Another crew was pushing brooms, moving the shattered insulators and metal parts from switches into neat piles and carrying them on shovels to the rear of the building, where a truck waited to carry rubbish away.

The clean-up operation was swift, and after another hour, three battery-fed lights had been strung up in front of the switch panel—the only lights in the sub-station.

Across the city the situation was variously bad and good. Florists said they were in a bad way, and one estimated he would lose $5,000 worth of Christmas flowers if the cut-off was for any great time.

All city dairies had completed pasteurization, and the bulk of bottling. A few minor jobs remained for some of the dairies to complete.

US Dollar Over $1.04

MONTREAL, Nov. 28 (CP)—The American dollar today opened at 4 1/32 per cent premium to the Canadian dollar, unchanged from Monday's close. That is, it took $1.04 1/32 Canadian to buy $1 American. The pound sterling was $2.91¼, also unchanged.

MOON TRAIN LATE

Because of a mechanical difficulty at Leaside today the 11.40 a.m. CPR train from Toronto was held up two hours. It arrived in Peterborough at 1.4½ p.m.

Charles Flynn Reeve Of Harvey Twp.

Charles Flynn became reeve of Harvey township by acclamation Tuesday night when Gale Elliott, who has held the reeveship for the last two years, did not qualify. The refusal of Mr. Elliott to run again is one of the surprises of 1951 election campaign in Peterborough county.

Mr. Elliott defeated Mr. Flynn for the reeveship in the 1949 elections and was returned by acclamation in 1950. This year however, Mr. Flynn decided to run and Mr. Elliott did not qualify, although he was nominated.

An election is assured as there are nine candidates for the four offices of councillor. All of the 1950 council are up for re-election—Thomas Gordon, Richard Hill, Charles Johnston and Kenneth Junkin. The other five candidates are: Wesley Doyle, resort owner; Kenneth Hunt, farm manager; James Irwin, farmer; Carl Northey, farmer; and Earl Stanfield, resort owner. Messrs. Johnston and Gordon have both completed five years on the council; Mr Junkin has completed two and Mr. Hill one.

The election will be December 4, the polling hours 9 a.m. to 5 p.m.

Trustees will be elected later in the year.

across the river by nightfall.

Withdrawal Orderly

He described the withdrawal as orderly and without panic.

Lambert said he left Kunu, eastern anchor of the shrunken northwest front, at 4 p.m. He said it was doubtful if the city, south of the river, could be held long.

Eighth Army headquarters said Wednesday night: "The situation in the Kunu area is confused." It reported Communist tanks rumbling on the road centre from the west.

Lambert said Chinese attacks from the northeast and east seriously threatened Kunu this afternoon.

U.S. 2nd Division elements fought an eight-mile delaying action into the town, blasting through strong Communist ambushes and flanking attacks.

The U.S. 25th Division fought off savage Chinese Red attacks Tuesday night and Wednesday morning north of the river while its units were being ferried across the Chongchon.

Lightly Armed

The Chinese hurled massed attacks at the 25th, but without tank, air or artillery support. They used swarms of troops armed with rifles, automatic weapons and mortars.

Five miles south of Kunu, the UN Turkish Brigade repulsed a night attack and dug in on defensive positions. Earlier it had fought its way with bayonets out of a Red Chinese trap farther east.

A Turkish liaison officer who fought through to American lines early Wednesday with remnants of his platoon said his commanding general had been wounded. The general was not identified.

AP Correspondent William J. Waugh, with the U.S. 9th Corps, said the U.S. 2nd and 25th Divisions were badly mauled.

The retreat was carried out in near-zero weather.

Remove Wounded

Helicopters shuttled back and forth removing the badly-wounded from the front.

UN forces held virtually nothing east of Kunu. Contact with the U.S. 10th Corps in northeast Korea was broken.

Besides the frontal attacks along the Chongchon, the Chinese were throwing at least three columns behind the Allied forces there.

These were streaking in from the east. The eighth army rushed up tanks and troops in efforts to hold open a corridor to Pyongyang, the former North Korean capital less than 50 miles to the south.

MacArthur's headquarters in Tokyo said the Chinese were developing a three-column smash toward the Yellow Sea south of the Chongchon river.

This threat was mounted from fallen Tokchon, former eastern anchor of the allied offensive line.

One column was smashing west toward Kaechon, four miles southeast of Kunu. A second thrust southwest toward Pukchang, 14 miles south of Kunu. The third was driving toward either Sunchon, 18 miles south of Kunu, or Songchon, 35 miles southeast of Kunu.

Masses of Communists were through the Tokchon gap in support of this triple thrust.

One Chinese Communist force, in at least battalion strength, smashed all the way to Samso, eight miles south of Kunu. U. S. 1st cavalry division foot troopers and tanks killed or wounded about 600 Reds.

BIG PAYMENT

Largest marine insurance payment is believed the $7,000,000 paid for the stranding of the Magdalena off Rio De Janeiro in 1949.

Life In City At Standstill Theatres Shut, Seek Candles

When Peterborough' electricity stopped flowing Wednesday afternoon after an explosion at the Aylmer St. sub-station, life slowed in places and stopped in others.

For most downtown shop employees the afternoon was the weekly holiday anyway. But by 4 p.m. the offices were closed.

Restaurants and hotels worked until 3.30 p.m. when many which use gas were crowded with patrons wishing to catch an early supper.

Theatres Close

Theatres with the large Wednesday afternoon audiences were forced to close. Many had waited in line for the theatres to open and had only seen several minutes of the movie. Special tickets were handed out by the theatres and in some cases the money returned.

Small stores throughout the city, cigar stores, drug stores which remain open during the Wednesday afternoon holiday, were flooded with calls for candles. The reply was "loads of birthday candles and only a few decoration."

Only a few families throughout the city enjoyed a hot supper. These were the lucky people who were fortunate enough to have candles to see by and gas to cook by. Electric stoves were cold except in isolated areas in Ashburnham and the north-end.

Radio Station Off

The local radio station was silent for nearly 2½ hours. The power shut the station off the air at 1.40 p.m. and returned at 4.15 p.m. This was accomplished by moving from the regular broadcasting booths at the Water and Hunter Streets to the transmitting station, three miles out of the city in Otonabee Township.

The city police radio hookup from cars to the Water St. station was broken. The main receiver and sender at the station depends upon the building's electricity load which failed with the sub-station explosion. This was quickly remedied by one of the cars staying at the station.

Taxis, who depend upon their radios for calls from the cab offices, were stalled momentarily also. They worked on the same principle as the police with one car stationed at the taxi office. This system for both the police and the taxis required straining to hear the weak calls.

Traffic in the areas with traffic lights was slowed to a snail's pace by the wet snow, and the fact that the stop-go lights were black throughout the afternoon. Pedestrians put their lives in the drivers' hands as they scampered across between cars. At only one corner was a traffic officer in control. The break-off came shortly before the change in police shifts. Extra police were called on for general patrol work while the downtown area was in total darkness, and especially during the five o'clock factory exodus.

Students Sent Home

PCVS students were only slightly affected by the blackout. At first a few classes were sent home from the vocational side, the woodworking classes.

The school's heating depends largely upon electric fans which circulates the warm air throughout the building. At 3:26 p.m. all students were sent home when the classrooms became dark and chilly.

The public schools were also only slightly affected. Several of the schools sent home the pupils at 3:30 p.m. Due to low water pressure the students of the southend Grove school were allowed to leave classes at 3 p.m. K. S. Wightman, superintendent of schols, reported that Prince of Wales, Confederation and Queen Mary schools depended upon stokers for the heat but believed that classrooms would be warm enough until the 4 p.m. bell.

Curling Bonspiel Stopped

Curlers found their game stopped abruptly with the explosion. Twenty-six rinks from Colborne, Cobourg, Fenelon Falls, Bobcaygeon, Haliburton, Lindsay and Peterborough were engaged in bouts in the annual Hiram-Walker bonspiel. They had completed the first draw and were partly through the second. An official reported that the rinks were being consulted about replaying in two weeks' time.

Not until 6 o'clock did the Civic Arena manager, Walter Smillie, know whether tonight's Senior B hockey game between Belleville and the Peterborough Eagles was on or off. He was assured of electricity and the game is on.

$3,000 Flowers Threatened

George Sorenson dreaded the thoughts of an all-night cutoff. He depends upon electricity for his stokers to heat his entire greenhouse. He reported that if the temperature inside the greenhouse dropped below 40 degrees most of his Christmas plants would be destroyed, a loss estimated at between $3,000 and $4,000. The mums, he said, could survive even more severe temperatures. If the inside temperature drops to freezing, all the small plants will be killed.

"If everything goes, I'll go too," he exclaimed early in the afternoon when the length of the cut-off was unknown.

The Peterborough Floral company said they would just "have to grin and bear it." Wood and coal fires would keep its greenhouse at a fair temperature but slightly colder than usual. The snow was described as a God-send, keeping the greenhouse warm as an insulator.

Open and Notorious Aggression

Canadian troops, along with those of many other U.N. nations, are now committed to a war under the brilliant American commander General MacArthur who yesterday said he was powerless to cope with it. This is a most serious situation. General MacArthur did not mean that his forces were utterly unable to cope with the Chinese armies, even though the Americans and South Koreans have been driven back by the numerically superior Chinese. He is 'unable to cope' because as U.N. commander in a U.N. war declared against only Korean Reds, he has no authority to strike against Manchuria. He can fight the Chinese south of the border, but not north, in Manchuria, whence their air support comes and where these hundreds of thousands of Chinese have been marshalling. As General MacArthur said in his extraordinary communique: "This situation . . . poses issues beyond the authority of the United Nations military council—issues which must find their solution within the councils of the United Nations and the chancelleries of the world."

• • •

At U.N.'s Security Council yesterday the United States charged Communist China with "open and notorious aggression" in Korea. There is no doubt whatsoever that the charge is true. By bitter timing, Communist China's representative had just arrived at Lake Success to charge the U.S.A. with aggression; the American delegate Warren Austin levelled the American accusation directly at the Chinese representative. Red China can take the point of view that the U.S. and other United Nations are invading North Korea, a Communist satellite state, and that the Chinese now pouring into North Korea are merely coming at the invitation of the North Koreans. The fact is, however, that U.N. and the western world have not recognized the division of Korea nor the Red Korean puppet government.

• • •

All matters of diplomatic ethics and legalistic argument are now put aside by the military situation facing U.N.'s troops. The Chinese have deliberately chosen to set themselves against the American and U.N. forces. Therefore they have foregone their right to "privileged sanctuary" in Manchuria (a sanctuary which U.N. commanders on the field have had to observe scrupulously despite the fact that Chinese Reds have big marshalling centres only sixty miles from the front).

• • •

There seems to be no other way of dealing with the situation, unless U.N. troops are to be completely routed, except to use U.N. air power against Manchuria and hit the troops, tanks, supplies depots and ammunition dumps there, before they can be used against the U.N. forces. To allow hundreds of thousands of Chinese to muster, train, and march to the fighting front in complete immunity is a military absurdity which U.N. Commanders and Councils should not tolerate.

Purcell In Peterborough

During the two last Monday evenings the Coventry Singers of Peterborough have devoted their half-hour radio programs of choral work to the music of Henry Purcell, principally his Masque in Dioclesian. Purcell (1658-1695) is generally acknowledged to be England's greatest composer but few of his compositions, religious or secular, are performed except by accomplished musicians and ensembles, partly because his idiom is now unfamiliar and his music, often simple in effect, is difficult. Without the resources of instrumentation desirable (harpichord, for instance) the Coventry Singers, an amateur group of fifteen voices, have given his seldom-heard Masque a notable and devoted rendition.

Not since the Madrigal Singers of this city under Dorothy Allan Park has Peterborough had a musical organization to explore the great store of sixteenth and seventeenth century song and chorus. This newspaper is pleased to have the opportunity to sponsor the Coventry Singers in the continuing series of six Monday broadcasts, and thus to have been associated with the production of the Purcell Masque in Dioclesian, a musical event of significance to this district, and even to the whole province.

Brighter Prospects For Reform?

The problem of how Canadians can govern themselves in their own best interest has been part of Canada's background since fifty years before Confederation. The problem is still with us; and a further step towards its solution is being sought in the present Ottawa talks (adjourned last Saturday) between the Minister of Justice and the Attorneys-General of the Provinces. The full conference of premiers and Prime Ministers begins Monday.

Every constitutional act since 1837 has been an attempt to provide ways for the self-government and self-development of this country whose parts are severed by continental distances and racial, religious and historical distinctions. The Act of Union of 1840 was an effort to lift a great developing area from provincial isolation. The union would not work. Out of its impasse came the project of federation. The Confederation of 1867 has proved manageable but the final word was not set down in the British North America Act either in that year, or in its subsequent amendments up to the present. If the political and constitutional history of the last 125 years has any one thing to teach us it is this: there is no fixed and final formula by which Canadians can govern themselves. Canada does not have and never can or should have a strait-jacket such as the 1776 Constitution of the United States of America. The process of Canadian self-government is from precedent to precedent, from change to change; adapting what is best to what is possible.

Canada stands constantly in need of "constitutional reform", in other words of adapting its political and social structure to the times and conditions of the country. In some decades the pressure of circumstances makes change, re-assessment or reform compulsive. Now is such a decade. Much change has already been accomplished in the last two years for instance, the assertion of the supremacy of the Supreme Court. The most thorny of necessary constitutional changes remain to be faced, those affecting civil rights and property in their relation to provincial jurisdiction. It is toward a solution of these that the Attorneys-General and the federal Minister of Justice have been working, on instructions from their governments, for nearly a year. When the latest two-day session adjourned Saturday it was on a hopeful note. Their statement read:

> "The committee has adjourned in order that members might consult with, and receive intructions from, their respective governments with regard to new matters arising as a result of the committee's discussions."

It seems therefore that a way out of the dilemma may have been devised; nothing thorough going and immutable, but a working hypothesis for the Dominion-Provincial conference beginning Monday. All Canadians hope that this is true, for Canada of this decade must not be hampered as a nation by notions and legislation (or its lack) of a hundred years ago.

Can Mercy Be A Mistake?

A Picton jury made an unusual recommendation, recently; in finding a man guilty of manslaughter who had previously been charged with murder, the jury said, "We recommend no mercy". It is common enough for a jury to tell a judge that they feel that mercy should be extended toward a condemned man; a recommendation that mercy be withheld is something which we have not met with before.

There are reasons for believing that in our imperfect world mercy can be overdone. We notice with interest that New Zealand has returned to the exercise of capital punishment. In 1941 hanging was abolished in New Zealand; from that time until 1948 there were 87 murders there; in the seven years before the abolition of the death penalty there had been only 54 murders. It looked to the New Zealand legislators as if the death penalty did, in some measure, act as a deterrent to murder, and so they restored it.

Mercy is one of the greatest of the virtues. There is another, lesser virtue called Prudence, which should be exercised in all aspects of life. Prudence apparently dictated a return to the death penalty for murder. And in Picton prudence influenced a jury to make an unusual recommendation against leniency for a man who had taken a life.

The Ontario Liberal leader, Walter Thompson, is described by an enthusiast as having "a heart as big as his barn." If we may judge by his recent statements, it isn't big enough to include the Tory party.

Superior Fiction

HELENA by Evelyn Waugh (Chapman & Hall: British Book Service).

EVERYTHING which Evelyn Waugh writes is of interest; his is one of the important comic talents of our day. Therefore to say that this book is not one of his best is by no means to suggest that it is unworthy of attention. It is a very good book, if it is not the best of Waugh.

It is the story of a legendary British princess, Helena, whose father was none other than Old King Cole; according to a few ill-authenticated accounts she married a man of importance in the later Roman Empire, and became the mother of that Constantine who made Christianity the official religion of that Empire. She is also credited with the discovery of the True Cross, at Jerusalem.

Waugh tells this story with a good deal of humour, which very occasionally takes on an edge of sectarian spite. It is historically indefensible to represent the Gnostics as numbskulls and charlatans; as logic-choppers and word-spinners they were no more than the Christian clergy of their day. Nor is Waugh so skillful as was Chesterton at representing wispy and wishful thinking as sturdy British common sense. But he is a masterly story-teller, and he makes it plain that he is telling the story of Helena as legend. And as legend it is well worth the attention of discriminating readers. R.D.

THE GRAND SOPHY by Georgette Heyer (Heinemann; British Book Service).

THIS is a charmingly unpretentious book. It carries no deep message nor is it composed of a series of jumpings-in and jumpings-out of beds. Conspicuous by their absence are Royal romances, plagues and slave markets and this alone makes any period piece published today worthy of notice. Georgette Heyer, who always seems to write so happily in someone else's century, chooses Wellington's days for her background and the twenty year old, Portugal-raised daughter of a British diplomat for her heroine. When Sir Horace Stanton-Lacy is ordered to South America in some diplomatic venture he decides to send Sophia, his only daughter, to live with his sister and her family in London and so, on the sedate well-ordered house in Berkeley Square Sophy descends and proceeds to reorganize everybody's affairs to suit them better. She presents the children with a pet monkey and a parrot that swears and that is the very least of her services. She shocks the head of the household by her ability with horses and guns, thrills the younger members by the ruthless manner in which she forces balls on the household, breaks the engagements already made for the elder members of her aunt's large family and re-engages them to more suitable people, and finally ends up with a very handsome match for herself. There is not much of a story here but it is nevertheless very light and entertaining reading. S.S.T.

HOME IS THE STRANGER, by Edward McCourt (Macmillan).

THIS is a Canadian novel on an admirable theme, the impact of this country upon a newcomer. In this case the newcomer is Norah Brandon, an Irish girl who has married a Canadian airman abroad. When Mr. McCourt is writing about what Norah thought of Canada and what Canada thought of Norah, his book is first-rate. His description of the landscape, people, physical climate and intellectual and cultural climate of the Canadian West is full of interest, and is plainly the result of keen first-hand observation. But unhappily as the book draws on he seems to be dogged by a feeling that these things are not enough, and he involves his characters in some rather melodramatic stretches of plot. To carry the reader along with it, a melodramatic plot must have all the author's conviction behind it; to this reader it did not seem that Mr. McCourt was fully at ease with his inventions.

The somewhat uneasy final quarter of the book, however, cannot blind us to the excellent achievement of the earlier parts of it. This is a Canadian novel of quality by a writer who is making a distinguished contribution to our native literature. If part of the task of a Canadian writer is to help us to know and recognize ourselves, Mr. McCourt is a writer of importance. J.P.S.

OFFICER AND GENTLEMAN, by J. Delves-Broughton (Faber and Faber: British Book Service).

HISTORICAL novels are many; good historical novels are few, and it is pleasant to add this one to the short list of those produced in recent years which possess real merit. It is not new, although this is the first time that it has been easily available to Canadian readers; it appeared in Britain in 1944, and has now been reprinted.

The story is that of Quinton Arrowe, born in 1823. He lives through many of the most exciting events of the succeeding decades, sees something of Tsarist Russia and Imperial Austria, and rides in the Charge of the Light Brigade in the Crimea. But his adventures are given a fine smack of probability and are not, as so often in historical novels, piled one upon another until the reader cannot contain his laughter. The love passages, also, are given a delicacy of perception and a degree of truth not often met with in this sort of fiction.

Any historical novel demands some measure of research on the part of the writer. Too often the dry bones of that research are forced upon the attention of the reader. Miss Delves-Broughton's method appears to be to find out everything she can about a historical incident, and then to reject all but the bare minimum which is needed to give her story colour. The result is a novel with a strong sense of power in reserve—that quality which comes only when an author knows more than he has put in his book.

This novel is strongly recommended for people who seek a story with plenty of incident and an accurate, discreetly-managed historical background. It would make a welcome Christmas gift. R.D.

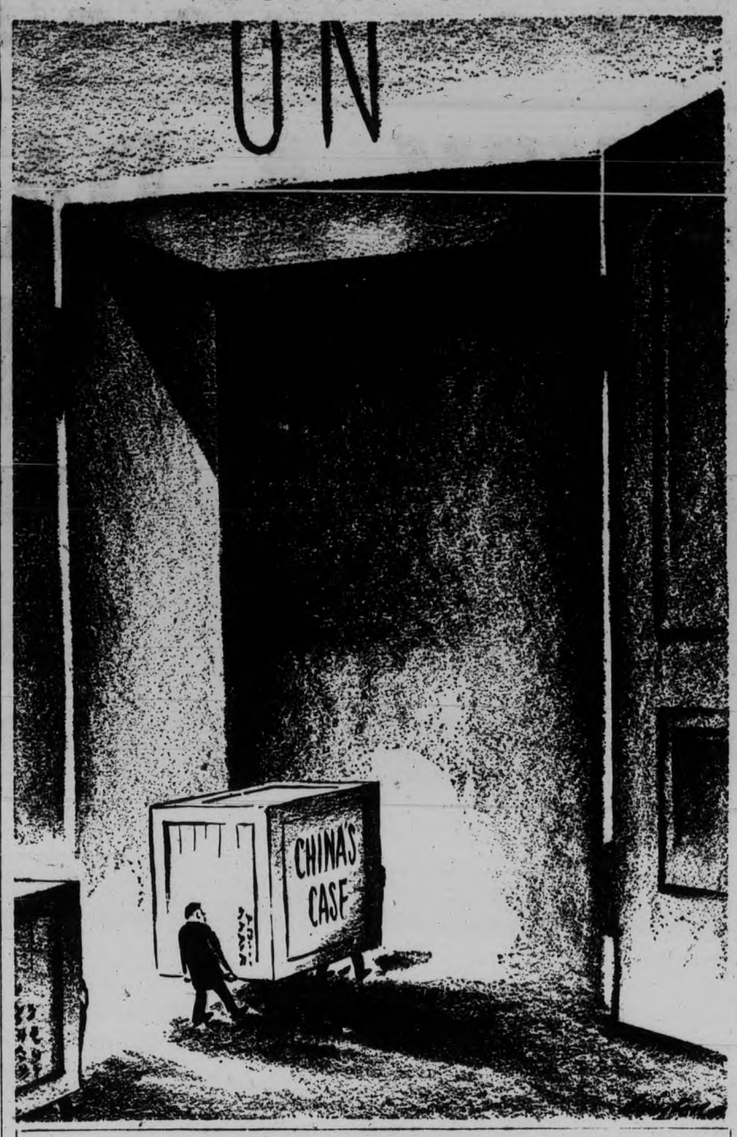
THE WRITER'S SITUATION, by Storm Jameson (Macmillan).

THIS is a collection of essays by an English novelist who has given unusual attention to the predicament of the writer in our time. There is so much in them that is admirable—so much to which one can merely say 'Amen'—that it must seem captious to express any dissent whatever from what Miss Jameson says. Nevertheless, it appears that she is unduly pessimistic about the profession of letters in our time; she berates Britain for producing no new talent when, to Canadian eyes, it appears that there are several writers of unusual gifts who have made their appearance since the war. She seems to wonder if the novel has not come to the end of its tether, although new novels of fine quality are not uncommon. She falls, perhaps too easily, into despair. Literature, which has wagged on in one way and another for centuries, will not collapse entirely under the problems of our day, even if it suffers some stultification and some sharp changes of direction.

This is not a book which you can neglect if you are concerned with what is going on in modern writing. Even Miss Jameson's fits of despondency have their stimulating aspect. The notion that a writer must in some way declare himself in the struggle between Left and Right—a belief which she presents with many qualifications and obvious discomfort—is not the only possible one: politics has never made literature before and there seems no reason to think that it will begin doing so now. Though pessimistic in tone, these essays are tonic in effect. R.D.

THE "OPEN DOOR" POLICY



Letter To The Editor

LAKEFIELD WATER SYSTEM FOR 16½c A DAY IN EACH HOME

Sir: On Thursday, November 30, 1950, citizens of Lakefield are asked to vote on a money by-law to provide money for installation of a system which will provide pure water, and modern sewage disposal for the greater portion of the village.

That portion of the village proposed to be serviced is built up almost as completely as it can be, and is, in general, low-lying land subjected to drainage from other parts of the village, and in itself very poorly drained. As a result all wells in the area are contaminated, and the ground is simply an extensive cesspool. A number of citizens have installed temporary systems of their own, but these do not provide pure water, are costly to install and maintain, and only add to the contamination, and further aggravate a serious unsanitary condition.

Personally I feel that we have been living on borrowed time as far as a serious epidemic is concerned. When will that time run out? What will be the result: deaths, permanent invalids, cripples? Who wants to be held responsible when this condition arises? Do the few of our worthy citizens who have been campaigning rather strongly against this important issue, and who apparently are so poorly informed due to their most apparent absence from meetings at which they could have become correctly informed, wish to be held so ignominously responsible? Do any of us want to be so held?

Truly, the proposed scheme does not include the whole village due to the fact that the Municipal Council is permitted to borrow up to $352,000.00 only, which sum will install a permanent system adequate for future development of the village, service the most contaminated sections, and provide the framework from which to service the remaining areas in the near future. It is all very well to say that this work should have been done in more opportune times, but very probably the future will show that this is THE OPPORTUNE TIME; so let us all get behind this important issue and put it over successfully.

16½c per day per serviced home will:

1. Meet the annual 20-year debenture payment plus the estimated cost of operation.
2. Give adequate supply of pure water, and a modern sewage disposal system to the greater percentage of homes in our village.
3. Give possibility of extending services in near future.
4. Give better supply of water for fire-fighting purposes, hence lowering the fire insurance rates.
5. Enhance the value of present village properties.
6. Provide necessary facilities for further home-building and industrial developments, which will build up the total village assessment and thereby lower the tax rate.

Most of us pay (without undue alarm or consideration) approximately $5.00 a month for hydro services, and $5.00 a month (or will be after Jan. 1) for telephone service. These are not considered a tax, but a necessary service fee. 16½c per day, or $5.00 a month is the fee that will provide pure water and sewage disposal. Can we not save 16½c per day (half the cost of a package of cigarettes) to provide such necessary services? Let us show that we can, and will, on Thursday by voting "YES".

Yours very truly,
J. L. FRASER.

Bible Message

(From the Authorized Version)

And it shall come to pass in the last days, that the mountain of the Lord's house shall be established in the top of the mountains, and shall be exalted above the hills; and all nations shall flow unto it.... The lofty looks of man shall be humbled, and the haughtiness of men shall be bowed down, and the Lord alone shall be exalted in that day....

Cease ye from man, whose breath is in his nostrils: for wherein is he to be accounted of? (Isa. 2: 2, 11, 22.)

✧ ✧ ✧

Then the Lord answered Job out of the whirlwind, and said, Who is this that darkeneth counsel without knowledge?.... Where wast thou when I laid the foundations of the earth? declare, if thou hast understanding...

Hath the rain a father? or who hath begotten the drops of dew?.... Canst thou bring forth Mazzaroth in his season? or canst thou guide Arcturus with his sons? (Job. 38: 1, 2. 4, 28, 32.)

✧ ✧ ✧

Then Job answered the Lord, and said, I know that thou canst do everything, and that no thought can be withholden from thee. (Job. 42: 1, 2.)

Truman Knows Bible

(Drew Pearson in The Washington Post)

The other day, President Truman was matching Biblical quotations with his old friend, Senator John Sparkman of Alabama. Both men had made public proposals on disarmament in which they used the phrase, "beating swords into ploughshares."

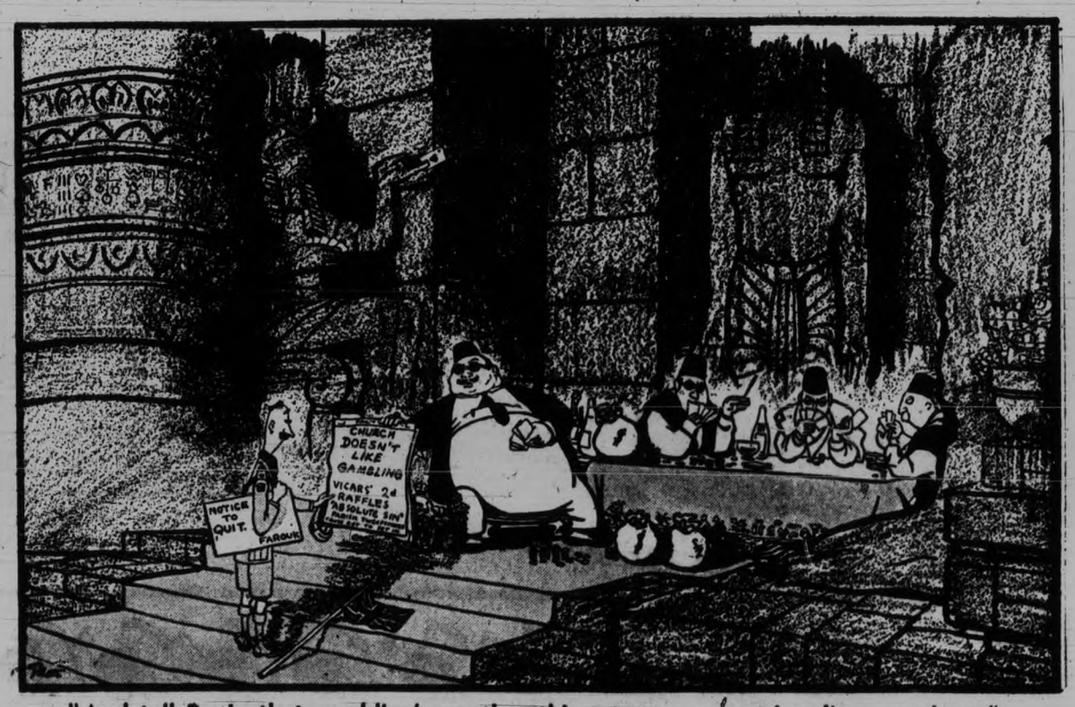
"You know, Mr. President," said Sparkman, who is a member of the United States delegation to the United Nations, "When I said I was quoting the Book of Isaiah, I was challenged by a British delegate, who said the phrase came from the Book of Micah."

"Oh, no, Sparky," retorted the President. "That comes from Isaiah, all right."

"Yes," said Sparkman, 'but this delegate was right, too. The very same quotation is in Micah, chapter four, verse three."

"All right," countered the President, "but did you know this, Sparky? The exact reverse of that idea is found in still another book of the Bible. In the third chapter of Joel, it says: 'Beat your ploughshares into swords and your pruning hooks into spears'."

Then the President added: "That is what we're having to do right now. That passage is prophetic of our times."



"And tell Bevin that gambling's another thing our two countries disagree about."

By CEC. PERDUE, Sports Editor

Those unpredictable Redmen of Bella Villa play the Eagles at 8.30 tonight in Civic Arena. You never know what sort of game they will come up with. Sometimes hotter'n a Whig-Tory debate and other times just so-so—they're a surprise package every senior "B" puck joust. But they appear to be getting more consistent on the right side of the ledger lately and will likely extend the men of Magee plenty this eve. They sure did that in Belleville last time the clubs clashed, Eagles having to battle it out in overtime to get the close win. The senior struggle tonight should be well worth seeing, and likely a big crowd will view it.

* * * * * *

Quinte columnist says: "Surely there is something besides old age pensions and broken legs that can stop these flying Eagles of Peterborough. Perched high in their aerie atop the senior loop, the undefeated falcons of the senior ice lanes have circumnavigated the circuit with a large duck egg in the loss column. They have been dead-heated on a few occasions but have struggled through with that overtime last-minute spark that has brought them the gonfalon. And old lady Luck hasn't been altogether unkind to the feathered flyers. Wally Bent's Redmen threw a mighty scare into them last Friday. The Eagles' coach, like he of Argos, believes in the 'platoon system' and it appears to have paid off. But remember, Goliath was a big tough guy and look what happened to him."

* * * * * *

They're Both Pretty Fair

Well, we're certainly not claiming a title for either Eagles or Petes at this stage of the game. But we do point with pride to the fact that our two Peterborough clubs lead the pack, Eagles in front and Petes right next to 'em. That's something unique in Ontario hockey history—to have two senior "B" entries in one group and to be leading the race. One or other of the two Kingston entries—Belleville has but one team—may be out in front yet, but we doubt if they'll ever run one-two in the loop. True, our clubs have some imports, but so have the other senior "B" squads. And our local talent is much in evidence in every fixture.

* * * * * *

Bun Morganson of the Tely says the TBA has tossed the USA baseball import question onto the laps of the OBA executive, with a recommendation that not more than six imports (Canadian and American) be on any one senior club. Hugh McLean, who is president of the Viaduct Major Baseball League—in which the Petes played last season and made loop finals—is first vice-prexy of the TBA and Carmen Bush, who umpired many tilts, is second vice. These two were much against the Oshawa system last summer of bringing in imports by the dozen from the States, trying 'em out and keeping the best. Oshawa's United States team walked away with league honors.

* * * * * *

'A USA Team Beat Petes

The baseballic Petes never kicked on the wholesale diamond importing business as carried on by one John Harris—lumberman "angel" for the Oshawa squad—last season. But Toronto teams did. Nor do we blame them. The Petes go for a few imports, too, but not by the dozen. That's taking the local interest out of senior amateur ball and putting it on an out-and-out pro basis. Personally, we think four imports should be the limit, but certainly not more than six, Canadian or American, in one year. Give the homebrews a chance, too. The Petes weren't beaten in playoffs last season by an Oshawa team, but by a bunch of classy college players from the States.

* * * * * *

Getting into the Christmas spirit, the pro grapplers believe it is better to give than to receive—so they give opponents the works. They sure did last eve at the Brook in a hot three-bout card before a hefty crowd. Lord Athol Layton proved a highly popular grappler as he easily disposed of Wee Willie Davis—only six feet seven at 275 pounds—in two straight falls. The guy had barrels of stuff, plus speed and color. He certainly went over big. Tough Lee Henning took the semi-final—and the fans want to see a topnotcher matched with him as he's unpopular — o'er Bobby Nelson after a lot of illegal mat stuff. Pat Flanagan got the nod in the prelim over Abe Zvonkin, a reformed footballer from Hamilton. An exciting card throughout.

Tarpaulins Help Playing Fields In U.S. Football

NEW YORK, Nov. 29 (CP). — American football teams have found tarpaulin-protected gridirons as least a partial answer to pre-game weather vagaries.

Last weekend three major games were threatened by snow and rain. Several other games at central and eastern points were played in adverse weather.

At Knoxville, Tenn., where Tennessee beat Kentucky 7-0, tarps were laid 48 hours before game time Sunday. Snow started 24 hours before the whistle, and an estimated 250 tons fell by the time the teams hit the field.

Ninety men worked for 12 hours clearing the snow. The field was damp but in good condition for the match.

Successful

At Columbus, O., the covering was put down 24 hours before Saturday's game. Snow started during the night, and 100 men worked several hours before the game. Their method was to roll back the tarps—in sections—as fast as possible, then shovel away the piles of snow. Michigan defeated Ohio State 9-3 there in a raging gale.

At Chicago the snow started Thursday, and tarpaulins were laid immediately. They were pulled off the field before game time Sunday with trucks standing by to cart the piles of snow away.

Officials reported the field was dry and semi-hard, with players requiring cleats for traction. Chicago beat Los Angeles 24-14 in a pro game.

Here and There In Sport

By The Canadian Press

A year ago managing director Conn Smythe of Toronto Maple Leafs had fat-man goaltending worries; now he's into a thin-man problem.

The burning question is whether to keep six-foot-two Al Rollins in the team's goal or send pudgy Turk Broda back into action after four games on the sidelines.

"It's a tough one," Smythe said Tuesday. "I've got to decide whether to keep the thin man in there and let him get thinner or whether to go back to the thinned-down fat man."

When the National Hockey League started, the Toronto plan was to use rookie Rollins in about 25 of the 70 games.

But Rollins, improving every time out, has forced fresh consideration of the matter.

Right now, the problem is whether to send Rollins against the Canadiens in Montreal Thursday night or to call back Broda who was beaten 5-2 in his last start there. If Rollins plays and loses, the critics will have a field day. It'll turn out the same if Turk goes and he loses.

And from a long range standpoint, if Rollins keeps working Broda may go stale from lack of action. The same thing applies the other way too, because Rollins improved amazingly in his busy four games in five days stretch.

Cincinnati Reds let one coach go Tuesday and got word that another has decided to stay with them instead of going to Cleveland Indians. Dropped from the coaching roster was Gus Mancuso, former major league catcher. Tony Cuccinello, a Cincinnati coach for the last two seasons, notified club officials that he would be back for 1951.

In Montreal, Myer Insky, who next February will take over the presidency of the Canadian Rugby Football Union, said he will bring up the matter of field conditions for the Grey Cup final at the CRU's annual meeting in Toronto. Sharp criticism was voiced by football officials after last Saturday's Dominion championship game at Toronto's Varsity Stadium. Playing on an extremely muddy field, Toronto Argonauts won the Grey Cup by beating Winnipeg Blue Bombers 13-0.

The St. Paul Hockey Club announced that defenceman Ray Hamilton has been returned to New York Rangers of the National Hockey League so that coach Clint Smith could remain on the active list. One player had to be dropped to bring the team within the required number.

The vanquished Blue Bombers came home to Winnipeg yesterday and received a victor's welcome. Hundreds of noisy fans crowded into the CPR station rotunda to say "well done" to the Blue and Gold despite their 13-0 defeat last Saturday in the Grey Cup final against Toronto Argonauts. Bomber president Ralph Misener promised a better team next year. But he would not comment when newspaper men asked whether coach Frank Larson will be back in charge.

New Dodger Pilot To Use Wringer

By JOE REICHLER

BROOKLYN, Nov. 29 (AP) — Brooklyn's disappointing Dodgers of 1950, especially the collapsible pitching staff, will be put through the wringer in 1951.

This was promised yesterday by new manager Charlie Dressen, who was named to succeed Burt Shotton in a move that surprised nobody. Salary terms were not disclosed, but it was reported the figure is $40,000 a year.

"I've read everywhere that Brooklyn should have won the pennant by 10 games last year," Chuck told reporters. "I wouldn't know. But I can tell you this. I'm going to find out.

"You ask me about the pitching staff which was such a disappointment last season. That's something I can't answer right now. All I know is that when I left the club, we had a 20-game winner in Ralph Branca and another sure-fire 20-game winner in Rex Barney. Something happened to them since. I don't know what it is. I sure aim to find out."

Dressen said he will discontinue the Dodger policy of having the players on all the Brooklyn farms train together with the parent club during the spring.

"The Brooklyn club will train at Vero Beach, Fla., by itself," he said. "Not until it leaves for Miami on March 10 will the minor-leaguers be permitted to arrive. The Dodgers will then remain in Miami until we head north."

Remember When—

By The Canadian Press

Winnipeg Blue Bombers defeated Ottawa Rough Riders 18-16 in the Grey Cup final at Toronto nine years ago today. Ches McCance fired a 38-yard field goal for the victory before 20,000 fans. It was Winnipeg's third Canadian rugby title, the previous ones being in 1935 and 1939.

Layton Trims Wee Willie In Main Bout of Mat Card

His "ludship", Athol Layton, trounced Wee Willie Davis and captivated a big crowd in the Brock Arena last night in the main pro mat bout. The 256-pound handsome Englishman, six feet six and a half, won two straight falls handily over rough Wee Willie Davis of Hollywood, a husky of 275 pounds and half an inch taller than his nibs. It was a highly crowd-pleasing show and Athol endeared himself to the fans by mixing freely with them and shaking hands after the scrap.

Layton took the first fall in 13 minutes when his hold made Davis concede. It was the "Indian Crab" grip, a reverse double leg-lock and armstretch, and he looked to be riding a sleigh as Willie succumbed. Davis was his usual rough, strong self while the newcomer proved faster, smarter and a clean grappler, who showed plenty of foot work, mat savvy and used his extra long reach to advantage. Plenty of action was served up between the two giants, but Layton had much too much for Willie, including youth and condition. The crowd was for him all the way and gave him a big hand at the fall, as Willie lay helpless.

Uses Leg Hold

The second fall came shortly after with Athol applying what he explained later as the "English Octopus"—a reverse double leg-lock, using his legs only. He set Willie up for this one by coming off the ropes fast to pin him with a flying body scissors after Davis tried to rough him up along the hempen strands. Willie submitted to this one, too, flat on his face with his legs locked behind him, as Gerald ("friend and manager" of Layton's jumped up and said "this is it"). Layton used a judo trick at times—chopping Davis' neck with the side of his hand—to break illegal grips. He led a triumphal procession through the crowd afterward.

Lee Henning, a tricky and rough heavyweight of 249 pounds, took the semi-final over popular 231-pound Bobby Nelson in 29 minutes with a series of slams. He softened Nelson up with a rough and illegal process as Referee Bunny Dunlop tried vainly to catch up with him. "Patch-pants" Bobby made it a fine and noisy struggle—even retaliating with rough stuff—but Henning was too big and tricky for him. Lee would fake injury or difficulty and come back strong with his bag of nasty tricks to keep Bob in trouble, and he finally caught him off guard long enough to slow him up and then throw him roughly around for the fall. It was a keen and exciting match and kept the fans yelling all through.

Pat Too Good

Pat Flanagan, colorful and popular 228-pound Toronto matman, got the decision in the prelim over tough Abe Zvonkin in the time limit. Abe turned in his best bout here to date and roughed it up all the way, but he found more than a match in speedy and experienced Flanagan, who usually has a semi-final or final spot on the card. Abe talked a good game and got in some effective stuff, while Pat hit him with flying tackles, mule kicks and clips to the chops in a speedy and entertaining tussle. He won a popular decision at the finish, one in which the refere was entangled at times. It was a good opening to one of the liveliest grapple cards seen here so far this season.

Something to remember

This is one of a series of words and expressions whose origins and meanings are published in the interest of a better understanding, use and knowledge of the English language.

"SANDWICH"

The "sandwich" is named after John Montague, the fourth Earl of Sandwich and was originally used to describe a piece of meat served between two slices of bread.

The Earl of Sandwich (1718-1792) was a noted gambler of his day and often spent whole days at his favorite pastime. On one of these occasions he bid the waiter bring him refreshment, specifying a piece of meat between two pieces of bread. Thus, from 1762 on, this contrivance has been called "sandwich" even though the Romans, many years before, employed a similar form of food, although calling it by a different name.

Wings Top Line Not Scoring, Trail Toronto

By The Canadian Press

With less than one-third of the 70-game schedule over, Detroit Red Wings, National Hockey League champions, have become statistics-conscious.

Their season record—10 victories, four ties and four losses in 18 game—is no cause for alarm. They're firmly planted in second place with 24 points, seven back of Toronto Maple Leafs, who have played three more games.

But after a check of scoring statistics, they're a bit disconcerted to find only Gordon Howe of their once-great goal-production line among the league's first 10 scorers.

Ted Lindsay, Sid Abel and Howe monopolized the first three places in the scoring race almost throughout last season, and they finished one, two, three.

Score 33 Per Cent

Without Abel, replaced at centre by Metro Prystai, the line has been scoring only 33 per cent of the team's goals this season compared with 40 per cent in the 1949-50 campaign.

This is said to have given rise to the question in Detroit: has the switching around of Abel and Prystai at centre upset the line?

To date, the Wings have been averaging 2.66 goals a game compared with 3.27 last season. They're not blaming the defence because, even with Black Jack Stewart and Goalie Harry Lumley gone, the team's goals-against average has dropped from 2.34 for the whole of last season to 1.83.

The Wings tonight are in Boston for a game with the cellar-entrenched Bruins, while in the other scheduled engagement Chicago Black Hawks invade New York for a tussle with the fifth-place Rangers.

Both the Wings and Chicago thus have an opportunity to close up on the Leafs, who don't swing into action until tomorrow night when they clash with Canadiens at Montreal.

Hame Galbreath Top Player In ORFU League

TORONTO, Nov. 29 (CP) — Carl Galbreath, all-star backfielder for Toronto Balmy Beach, is the 1950 winner of the Imperial Oil Trophy, awarded annually to the most valuable player in the Ontario Rugby Football Union.

D. F. Downey, ORFU president, announced last night that Galbreath, a U.S. import, was selected in a poll of the players of the three senior teams in the league—Windsor Rockets, Sarnia Imperials and Beaches.

Galbreath, who came to Canada after playing football for University of North Carolina, was the league's second highest scorer with 54 points.

The negro halfback came to Beaches from Hamilton Tiger-Cats of the Big Four. Noted for his speed and deceptive running style, he was outstanding in every game as Beaches picked up speed after a slow start and won the ORFU race.

He was a unanimous selection, along with the league's leading scorer, Johnny Chorostecki of Sarnia, on The Canadian Press ORFU all-star team. And was selected for the second team in CP's Eastern Canada all-star squad.

The trophy is usually presented to the winning player at the ORFU annual meeting next spring. However, should Galbreath not return to Canada to play next season, a silver tray will be sent to him as a personal tribute to the part he played in the ORFU.

Brion Confident Will Blast Louis

CHICAGO, Nov. 29 (AP) — Young Cesar Brion, full of vim and confidence, predicts a kayo within seven rounds of Joe Louis in their scheduled 10-rounder in Chicago Stadium tonight.

The 23-year-old Argentine heavyweight is at the short end of 4-1 odds to defeat Joe. Louis, trying a second comeback at 36 after being decisively beaten in 15 rounds by Ezzard Charles in September, still thinks he packs enough dynamite to chill Brion.

Although not appearing impressive in training sessions, Louis says he will try to end the fight as soon as possible. He would not name the round.

"I'll shoot for a knockout from the very start and throw as many rights as possible," promised Louis.

A crowd of possibly 10,000 and a $50,000 gate, largest since the International Boxing Club began stadium promotions 18 months ago, may be realized. Louis will receive 37½ per cent of the net gate. His pay-off may amount to less than $10,000—the smallest purse for a regular bout he ever has received. He made more in some of his exhibitions two years ago.

Both fighters will get a flat $1,000 each from radio and television fees.

Guelph Upsets Marlies 9-7 St. Mike's Seniors Win 2-1

By The Canadian Press.

For anyone who likes plenty of scoring and wide open hockey there's no need to look any further than the Ontario Hockey Association's 10-team Junior A circuit.

With the season about a quarter finished, the kids are pushing the puck past the goaltenders at a rapid rate. They've played 79 games so far and the puck has been in the net 617 times for an average of more than eight a game. That compares with less than five a game for the National Hockey League.

Guelph Biltmores and Barrie Flyers did more than their share for the scoring statistics last night when the seventh-place Bilts made a remarkable recovery to whack the league-leaders 9-7.

Plenty of Goals

It was the 20th game this season that 10 or more goals have been scored in a single game and the third in which the total has been 16. In each case either Barrie or Guelph has had a share.

The victory moved the Biltmores up a couple of notches in the league to fifth place, one point behind Stratford and six behind the Flyers who missed a chance to extend their two-point lead over Toronto Marlboros.

The game was the only one in the junior circuit. Four games are scheduled for tonight. Barrie head home for another meeting with Guelph, while Galt is at Windsor, St. Catharines at Waterloo and Marlboros at Oshawa.

St. Mike's Win

One game in the OHA major series saw Toronto St. Michael's extend their first-place lead to seven points by eking out a 2-1 triumph over second place Kitchener-Waterloo Dutchmen at Waterloo.

A pretty third-period goal by winger Bill McCracken gave the Irish their win after the teams had fought on even terms from the first period when John Ubriaco, leading scorer, tallied for St. Mike's and Don Oberholtzer tied it up for the Dutchmen, only team to defeat the league-leaders so far this season. The other two teams get into action tonight when last-place Toronto Marlboros visit Hamilton Tigers.

The junior game appeared to be developing into a rout for Barrie as they took a 6-2 lead in the first period. However, Guelph came back with four in the second while Barrie got one, making it 7-6.

Prentice Gets Three

Dean Prentice, who got three goals for the winners, tied it up in the last period and then got the clincher shortly after. Ken Laufman got a pair for Guelph with the others going to Herb Dickenson, Andy Bathgate and Harry Howell.

Jerry Barber and Doug Towers got two each for Barrie, Gerry Toppazzini, Real Chevrefils and Chuck Woods getting one apiece.

Driver Wins 4 Heats In Dufferin Racing

TORONTO, Nov. 29 (CP). — Driver E. L'Heureux featured harness racing at Dufferin Park Tuesday by guiding home four winners. He won two heats with Winterset in the first race, and another double with Amos Pointer in the third event.

The feature race, a classified pace event, provided two of the most thrilling races of the day. In the first heat, Mac Hyatt, owned by Jimmy Cruise of Shepherdsville, Ky., and driven by Bob Forbes, went away with his field.

In the second heat, Mac Hyatt made a break as the field was sent on its way and lost all chance finishing sixth, with Byrondale, owned by Wells and Hess of Morrisburg, Ont., winning another photo over Guy Mac, who finished third in the first dash. Byrondale was driven by Percy Robillard and was first in the summary with a 5-1.

Speed Defence Of Soo Chief Urges

SAULT STE. MARIE, Ont., Nov. 29 (CP).—Col. Harry S. Hamilton, civilian defence co-ordinator here, last night urged that the work of preparing this northern Ontario steel centre to meet air attacks be stepped up.

He told senior officials of the civilian defence group that United Nations setbacks in Korea have made the threat of war "imminent," and federal and provincial help in the way of leadership, instruction, authority and equipment has yet to be received here.

Col. Hamilton declared that the Sault Ste. Marie area must be prepared for possible attacks by early spring, when depleted stockpiles of iron ore at United States eastern steel mills make the ship canal zone here, through which ore carriers must pass, "the most vital area in North America."

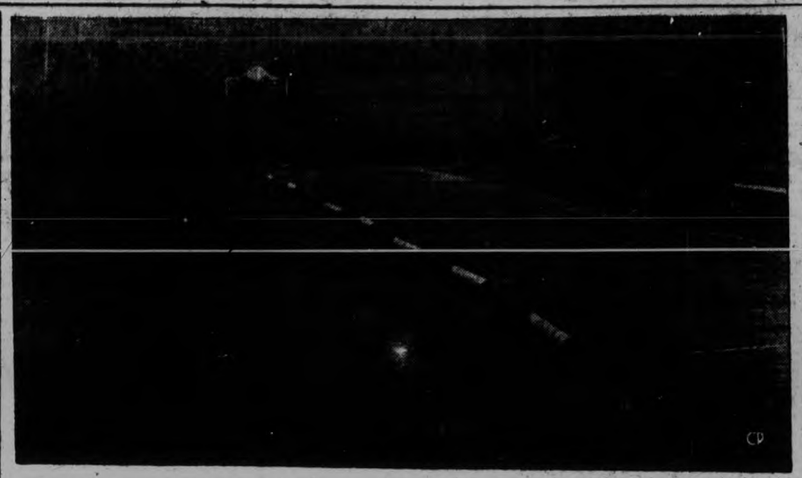
Ask For Money

He said the single positive step so far taken by federal or provincial officials was the sending of a letter by Provincial Secretary Welsh, director of civilian defence for Ontario, asking for budget requirements of the organization here.

Col. Hamilton said that Defence Minister Claxton, who has said publicly that Sault Ste. Marie is Canada's primary atom-bomb target, has offered "nothing more than a pamphlet to add to the dozens we already have."

Without authority from a higher level, paper plans cannot be tested, said Col. Hamilton. An excellent plan for evacuation, rescue work and first aid would be useless without authority to enforce it. A well-established system of mobile medical units and field dressing stations would be left virtually helpless by lack of medical supplies in quantity.

Druggists here have been assigned dressing stations to which they will rush all available supplies in cast of emergency. But Col. Hamilton said these will not be enough.



MAGIC CARPET—Here it is, fans—a tarpaulin! Brother, how they could have used this before Saturday's Grey Cup game at Toronto! This view of a "you-know-what" protecting a football field was shot before a US college game in—of all places—Knoxville, Tennessee. Maybe they do not see much snow in Tennessee, but the football fans there can sing, "I don't care if the sun don't shine." Who knows? Maybe Canadians, too, will some day see a football classic on a field made properly playable by prior protection. One quote from a US canvas concern for a similar tarp to fit a Canadian field was $8,000.

Father Dies of Lockjaw Soldier Son On Way Home

COBOURG, Nov. 29 (ENS). — Gunner R. H. Caldwell, enlisted in the army for Korea, is on his way home from Wainwright, Sask., to the bedside of his father unaware that his father has died. Gunner Caldwell was on the train which was involved in the wreck out west and last Thursday he phoned to tell his mother that he was all right. It was then that he learned that his father was seriously ill. He was given compassionate leave from the army and left Wainwright on Monday, bound for Cobourg.

However, his father, James Caldwell, passed away Tuesday morning in hospital. His mother has been trying to reach her son by telegraph to advise him of Mr. Caldwell's death but all she has been able to learn is that he should be home on Wednesday of this week. The funeral has been tentatively set for Thursday.

Mr. Caldwell was 44 years of age. He was born in Hope township where he farmed for a considerable number of years before coming to Cobourg seven years ago to work on the staff of the Counties Home. Two weeks ago he fell in the barn and cut his leg. The cut required six stitches and he was apparently doing all right until a stiffness in the jaw was identified as tetanus. He was then rushed to Peterborough Civic Hospital.

Mr. Caldwell is survived by his widow, who was Luella Henry of Campbellcroft; three sons, Gunner Robert, George and Garry of Cobourg; Helen, Jeanne, Sandra and Marsha, daughters.

Deny Kidnapping

WEYMOUTH, England, Nov. 29, (AP)—The governess of five-year-old Prince Alexander of Yugoslavia denied yesterday that the child had been secluded on the tiny isle of Jersey in the Channel Islands for fear of kidnappers. Alexander is the son of youthful former King Peter, who was dethroned by Premier Tito's government. The governess, Miss E. M. Gunn, had earlier been quoted as saying the Prince's stay there was the result of fears he might be kidnapped by agents of Yugoslav monarchists.

North Monaghan Has Contest For 12 Offices

North Monaghan will have an election for reeve, council, and one of the two school areas. Seventeen candidates qualified Tuesday night for 12 elective offices.

Reeve Melville Johnston is being opposed by his opponent of three years ago, Willard G. Waterman. Mr. Waterman, a former councillor and deputy reeve, said at the nomination meeting he had been approached by a number of township ratepayers during the last year and asked to run.

Mr. Johnston has been 18 years in North Monaghan politics and is completing his 12th term as reeve. He has been opposed only three times during his reeveship and has won each time.

Six candidates are running for the four offices of councillor. All of last year's council are back in the running. They are: Walter Brown, Archibald Patterson, James S. Roberts, and Lloyd Whittington. The fifth and sixth candidates, Douglas Mitchell, building contractor, and Fred Stenson, farmer, were trustees in 1950 and this year moved up to make a bid for Council.

Given Acclamation

Trustees of North Monaghan School area No. 1 were returned by acclamation. Four offices were open this year instead of three because Mr. Stenson, who still had a year to run as trustee, decided to run for council.

The four 1951 trustees for School Area No. 1 are Ernest Horton, Elwood Thompson, Herbert Hewitt and Charles Ross The fifth trustee, not up for election this year, is Eric Johnston

There is a wide-open contest for the three vacancies on School Area No. 2. The five qualified candidates are Nelson Parrington, Clarence Laing, Howard Berry, Courtland Lillico and Elwood Johnston.

Messrs. Laing and Parrington were 1950 trustees and are seeking re-election. Bernard Preston refused to run this year. The other two trustees, not up for election this year, are Henry Batten and George Whitfield.

The election will be December 4, the polling hours 10 a.m. to 6 p.m. The two polling stations will be Bradley's school and the town hall.

Reeve Billen Opposed In Campbellford Vote

CAMPBELLFORD, Nov. 29 — (ENS). — Voters in Seymour Township will go to the polls on December 4 to elect a Reeve and Deputy-Reeve. Reeve A. B. (Jack) Billn is opposed by Harry Bedford.

Harry Bedford, A. B. Billen, and Alfred Bennett were nominated for Reeve, while Sam Diamond, Alfred Bennett, Harry Bedford, and W. W. Archer were nominated for Deputy-Reeve. W. W. Archer and A. E. Bennett will be running for the position of Deputy-Reeve. Mr. Bennett declined the nomination for Reeve.

A Council consisting of Sam Diamond, Harold Milne, and William Rowe was elected by acclamation. Mr. Diamond declined the nomination for Deputy-Reeve.

The Canadian Army needs more men now. Signals must have more operators today! There's a place for you in this all-important corps. Canada needs you now! Report immediately for Active Force duty with the Royal Canadian Corps of Signals.

TO ENLIST YOU MUST:

1. Be a Canadian citizen or British subject.

Examine Police Act Province Requested

LONDON, Ont., Nov. 29 (CP)—Charles Heath, London Labor Council delegate, said yesterday he has not asked Attorney-General Porter for an investigation into the dismissal of former Detective Allan J. Rush, of London Police Department.

He said he asked for an investigation of the Ontario Police Act and a London police bylaw which allows the city police commission the right of summary dismissal or demotion of an officer without a given reason.

His statement was prompted by a denial by Mr. Porter yesterday of a reported promise given to Mr. Heath for an investigation into the Rush dismissal or the police department.

Mr. Rush was dismissed by the commission in July after 16 years' service. No public reason was given.

Slim Down Mule By 250 Pounds For New Picture

By BOB THOMAS

HOLLYWOOD, Nov. 29 (AP)—Again and again we have heard stories of stars who must lose weight for a picture. But here is one who has to shelve 250 pounds.

Rather than carry the gag any further, I'll explain that the star is Francis, the talking mule who made a comedy hit a season ago. Ever since then the famed quadruped has been resting on his laurels, among other things, on the Universal-International back lot.

But now the studio has cooked up an opus called "Francis Goes to the Races" to cash in on the initial film's success. And Francis has to slim down to his photogenic weight of around 700 pounds.

On a Diet

Francis is working off the poundage by taking forced runs and eating less hay. (He is never allowed such fattening foods as barley and oats.)

Although Francis is not allowed fattening foods, he is pampered in other ways. He is the only U-I star tucked in every night. A studio worker covers the mule with a blanket to keep him from catching cold.

Francis also requires make-up. Cameramen declare his coat is too light for photographic purposes, and so he is darkened with a vegetable dye.

Nothing, it seems, is too good for Francis.

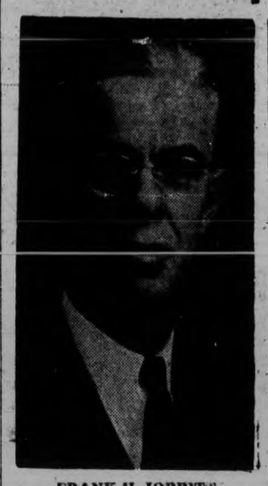
With Municipal Candidates



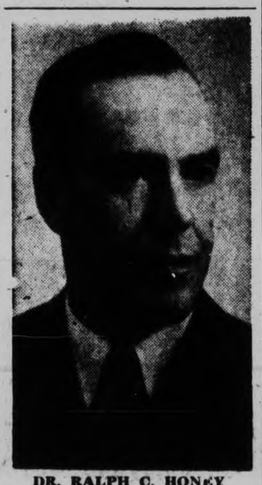
FRANK H. JOBBITT

Chairman of the Board of Education during the past two years, Frank H. Jobbitt is seeking to be returned to the board for his fourth term.

Mr. Jobbitt was elected to the board for the first time in 1944 and has been re-elected twice since. During that time he has served as chairman of the board, vice-chairman, and on all the committees.

Born in Lindsay, he came here while still young and received his early education at South Central public school and at PCVS. Formerly he took an active interest in sports, and was a member of several baseball and basketball teams in the city.

Recently he has been operating his own hardware business in the south end of the city, and before that was secretary-treasurer of the Peterborough Lock Manufacturing Company.



DR. RALPH C. HONEY

Seeking to be returned to the Board of Education for a third term is Dr. Ralph C. Honey, Peterborough dentist.

Dr. Honey was elected to the first of his two-year terms in 1946, and re-elected in 1948. During his four years as a member of the board, he has acted as chairman of the health, appointments, and supervision committees.

As well, he has been a member of the property and finance committees.

Dr. Honey was born in Mitchell, Ontario, and received his early education in Port Perry. After he graduated from high school, he attended the school of dentistry at the University of Toronto.

He graduated as a dentist in 1929 and later that year opened an office in Peterborough.

In 1943, he went overseas after joining the Prince of Wales Rangers. He returned to Canada for a short time and went overseas again with a detachment of the Canadian Fusiliers.

W. B. GORDON

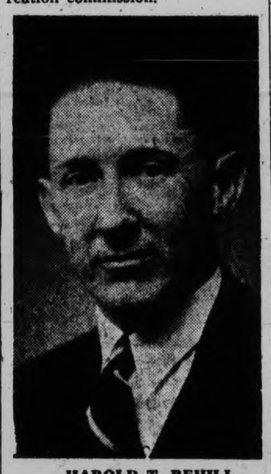
W. B. Gordon, Peterborough lawyer, is seeking election to the Board of Education for his second term. He served on the board from 1946 to 1948 and in the latter year did not stand for re-election.

In his two years as a member of the board, he was chairman of the appointments committee, and a member of the health, accommodation, property, and supervision committees.

Mr. Gordon was born in Peterborough and attended Queen Mary public school and PCVS. In 1934 he graduated in economics at McGill University, and three years later graduated from Osgoode Hall in Toronto.

The same year he began practice in Peterborough, and is at present a partner in the firm of Gordon and Lillico. In 1942 he enlisted for active service and in 1945 received his discharge.

For the two years following his return to civil life, he was a member of the Peterborough recreation commission.



HAROLD T. REHILL

"I have always taken an interest in civic matters and am definitely interested in the progress of Peterborough," Harold T. Rehill, candidate for alderman in the forthcoming municipal elections said this week.

Explaining why he was running for office, Mr. Rehill stated that he had no axe to grind on an election platform, but rather wished to become a member of the city's council because of the service he wanted to render in municipal affairs.

Mr. Rehill was born and educated in Peterborough. He has been a director of the Peterborough Industrial Exhibition for the past three years and was active in the promotion of the paving of the street through the Exhibition Park which will be completed in the near future.

Interested in sports activities for young people, Mr. Rehill acted on the executive of the Peterborough Church Hockey League for 10 years. He is chairman of the sports committee of the Kiwanis Club.

Last year he was one of the delegates of the Kawartha Conservation Association who interviewed the Hon. Harold Scott, Minister of Lands and Forests of Ontario, regarding the Cedar Lake project.

"As a result of this visitation and the work done since, this natural playground for Peterborough will become a reality within the next year," stated Mr. Rehill.

During the past 30 years, Mr. Rehill has been manager of the Rehill Fuel and Builders' Supplies. Last year he was a director of the Chamber of Commerce.

Charge Discrimination

TRURO, N.S., Nov. 29 (CP).—The Colchester County Farmers' Association said yesterday daily newspapers are "discriminating against the farm population." Donald Curtis of Onslow moved a resolution asking the Nova Scotia parent organization and the Canadian Federation of Agriculture to make available a publication "which would carry unbiased farm news, thinking along the lines of farm people."

Two Graduations Yearly Suggested By Teachers

TORONTO, Nov. 29 (CP).—A group of teachers and industrialists suggested yesterday that the school year be divided into two parts, with graduations twice a year.

The Industrial Research Council of the Ontario Educational Association said in a report the plan would be advantageous to teachers, students and employers. They suggested it be given a trial.

James L. Davies of Hamilton said the idea is to divide the last four high school years into eight grades or semesters of five months each, instead of the present four grades of 10 months each.

A student who failed would have to spend only an extra five months in school instead of 10. Failure of a student in mid-year would eliminate teaching problems caused by slowness or lack of incentive of the student.

Advocates of the plan see it as means of speeding the progress of the brilliant student and at the same time being less harsh on the poorer student.

Alberta Wants More

EDMONTON, Nov. 29 (CP).—Alberta is expected to make a bid for higher revenues under the Dominion-Provincial tax transfer agreement of 1947, it was reported yesterday. The province's delegation to the Dominion-Provincial Conference in Ottawa Dec. 4 is expected to submit evidence that income and corporation tax fields now are considerably more profitable than they were when the agreement was signed.

U.S. Steel Boosts Wages, Prices

NEW YORK, Nov. 29 (AP) — United States Steel Corporation will increase wages and benefits about 18 cents an hour and raise prices an average of $6 a ton, the Iron Age predicts today.

The national metalworking weekly says the company will settle this week with the United Steelworkers Union (CIO) for an average increase of about 16 cents an hour and fringe concessions adding about two cents an hour more to the average wage cost.

"U.S. Steel—which tried an ill-fated price decrease a few years ago—is not going after its pound of flesh," the paper says. "This company will absorb a substantial part of the wage costs and accumulated material cost increases." The company cut steel prices in April, 1948, but raised them again in July of that year.

(Earlier this month, a top U.S. Steel executive had indicated that a 15-cents-an-hour wage increase would raise costs by around $10 a ton.)

The Iron Age said other steel firms are expected to meet the terms agreed to by U.S. Steel and the union.

Ont. Keeps Budget In Check Says Frost

KITCHENER, Nov. 29 (CP) — Ontario's current budget could be doubled in 1951 to meet its present demands for development but for the necessity of "keeping our feet on the ground," Premier Frost said yesterday.

He was speaking at a dinner sponsored by the Kitchener Chamber of Commerce.

The Premier paid tribute to the farmers of Ontario. He told the Chamber the agricultural output of Ontario was $1,250,000,000 last year, larger than any industry in the province.

Various Tastes Pile Up Costs To Consumers

By FORBES RHUDE
Caadian Press Business Editor.

Canadians apparently have different tastes in their shopping, according to the part of the country in which they live. This is expensive for both manufacturers and shoppers.

Robert M. Campbell, Toronto advertising executive, brought this out yesterday in an address to the Galt Board of Trade. Said he:

In Ontario, British Columbia and Newfoundland housewives buy their groceries either Friday or Saturday. It's Friday in Quebec, and Saturday in the Maritimes and on the Prairies.

Chain Stores

Chain stores and super-markets flourish in direct relation to their distance from the sea (reaching their peaks inland). But even this is not a uniform pattern. In Ottawa, for instance, 77 per cent of the French-speaking population favor independent stores, while only 44 per cent of English-speaking people do.

The Maritimes buy twice as much of one kind of shortening per person as the Prairies. The Maritimes and Quebec use eight and five times respectively as much of one kind of coffee per person as does the rest of Canada.

More Indigestion

British Columbia uses 35 per cent more unflavored gelatin; Quebec uses double the volume of indigestion remedies; blended cigarettes sell best in Ontario, and so on.

Why do men in Quebec and British Columbia favor underwear tops, while the rest of the country does not? Why do Quebecers favor double-breasted overcoats and Ontarians single-breasted?

Consider the plight of one particular Canadian knitting mill. It has a demand for checked coats on the Prairies and nowhere else. The Maritimes take 80 per cent of its jumbo sweaters while it can market its spun-woollen coats only in the West. Its year is spent in setitng up the machines for short runs here, short runs there, and change again — all at terrific cost and, needless to say, all passed on to the consumer.

Mass Porduction

Mr. Campbell said no one is interested in trying to get women to shop on a particular day right across the country. However:

"Every one would benefit, factory, trade and consumer, if the tastes across Canada were sufficiently similar for mass production and long runs."

Industries wishing more uniformity in demand for their products can only get it, Mr. Campbell said, through collective effort rather than through individual attempts by one manufacturer or another.

Commission Meets To Hire New Chief

WINDSOR, Ont., Nov. 29 (CP). —The Windsor police commission adjourned Tuesday after a one-day meeting with no announcement on whether a new chief of police had been chosen. The commission set no date for its next meeting.

Judge Archibald Cochrane, commission chairman, and Magistrate Roland A. Harris met in private to discuss applications for the full-time job made vacant a month ago by the commission's dismissal of police chief Claude Renaud and deputy chief W. H. Neale. The third member of the commission, Mayor Arthur J. Reaume, was not present at the meeting.

Heavy Rain In NB

SAINT JOHN, N. B., Nov. 29 (CP).—Torrential rainfall continued in New Brunswick yesterday, flooding some areas and threatening others. A record 24-hour high of 3.61 inches fell at Saint John, where the total since Sunday was 4.24. Since Nov. 1, rainfall in the city has amounted to 10.02 inches, a record for November.

VOL. CI, No. 126 WEDNESDAY, NOVEMBER 29, 1950

Prime Minister of Ontario Will Lay Foundation Stone Of New City Hall on Friday

The Hon. Leslie M. Frost, Prime Minister of Ontario, will lay the foundation stone of Peterborough's new city hall on Friday, Dec. 1 with official ceremonial beginning at 3 p.m. This is the last major public event in the celebration of the centenary of Peterborough's municipal incorporation. Rounding their first century of civic estate, the people of this city are making a splendid gift to the future. They accepted the munificent bequest of the late W. G. Morrow, one time mayor and for years a member of the city council, and are contributing their own monies to the building fund which will erect one of the finest municipal headquarters in Canada.

Mayor Swanston and the members of the Council are inviting the citizens to join with them in the greeting to Premier Frost and to associate themselves with him in the function he gratefully assumed not only as head of the Government of Ontario, but also as first citizen of Peterborough's neighboring town of Lindsay.

Outline Of Program

The program is outlined as follows:

2.40 p.m.—Premier Frost and Mrs. Frost, the Hon. H. R. Scott and Mrs. Scott; Mr. J. G. Hungerford, Toronto, representing the National Trust Co., executors of the will of the late Mr. Morrow, and others, will be met at the Empress Hotel by Mayor M. J. Swanston and Mrs. Swanston, Alderman Adam B. Sands and Mrs. Sands; and the official party will proceed by motor cars to the City Hall site.

2.45 p.m.—The official party will proceed north on George St. led by motorcycle escort to the new City Hall.

2.55 p.m.—The official party arrives at the City Hall site, and take seats on the platform reserved for them.

3.00 p.m.—Peterborough Citizens' Band, which has been playing a musical program, will play "God Save the King," on a signal from Ald. Sands, who is chairman of the reception committee of the City Council.

3.02 p.m.—The chairman, Ald. Sands, welcomes the guests and citizens, and mentions that included with those on the platform are former mayors, members of the Morrow Trust and others.

3.06 p.m.—Mayor Swanston introduces Mr. J. G. Hungerford of National Trust Co., the trustee of the W. G. Morrow estate.

3.10 p.m.—Address by Mr. Hungerford.

3.15 p.m.—His Excellency the Most Rev. Gerald Berry, D.D., Bishop of Peterborough.

3.17 p.m.—Major Cyril Everitt, president of the Peterborough Ministerial Association.

3.19 p.m.—Rabbi Mayer of the Jewish community.

3.21 p.m.—Hon. Harold R. Scott, M.P.P., introduces Premier Frost.

3.23 p.m.—Hon. Mr. Frost addresses the citizens and officially lays the foundation stone

3.38 p.m.—Presentation of flowers to Mrs. Frost by the chairman.

3.40 p.m.—The band plays "O Canada" and the crowd stands.

This program has been prepared with some concern about the uncertainties of the weather and consequent comfort of the attending guests and citizens.

Civic Dinner Program

Premier Frost and Mrs. Frost will be guests at a civic dinner Friday evening at 6 o'clock at the Empress Hotel, concluding their stay in the city.

Head table guests will be piped to their places by pipers of the Canadian General Electric Company's band. Mayor Swanston will be chairman of the dinner. Archdeacon W. P. Robertson will invoke the blessing of grace.

Mr. Charles Allen will be at the piano during dinner. Following the toast to the King, Mayor Swanston will extend his personal welcome to Hon. Mr. Frost and Mrs. Frost, and intends to mention that veteran employees of the city are present.

Head table guests will be introduced by Ald. Adam Sands, chairman of the reception committee, and Mr. T. J. Carley, K.C. will express the city's welcome to the Prime Minister.

Mayor Swanston will present to the Prime Minister and Mrs. Frost the gift of the citizens, a Seth Thomas tambour clock produced in Peterborough by the Western Clock Company.

Hon. Mr. Frost's reply will be the last feature of the after dinner program which closes with the singing of "O Canada."

Pipes, Song, Skits Revive Fond Memories

Pipers, the highland fling, ballads, skits and comedy acts brought back nostalgic and humorous memories of the old country for approximately 350 people at the Peterborough Centennial Concert and Festival held in the Collegiate Auditorium Tuesday night.

From the opening twirl of the drummers in a stirring pipe band march to the closing "Auld Lang Syne" the performers captivated the audience. If there was any lack of musicianship in any of the numbers, it was redeemed by a spirit of typical Scottish gaiety and genial good humor that characterized every performance.

One of the highlights of the evening was a one-act drama, "The Braw Wooer", directed by Peter McCombe. Wound around the traditional romantic plot was an overflow of Scottish wit, humor and dialect that delighted the audience.

The cast of four were Louis Jarvis, Ada Huffman, Ed Potter and Joe Lancashire.

Eight pipers and five drummers from the C.G.E. Pipe Band under the direction of Pipe Major Alex Milne performed magnificently with finger agility, swinging drumsticks and whirling kilts that would delight the heart of any good Scotchman.

The highland fling and sword dance were ably executed by Miss Elsie Hill and entertaining comedy acts were presented by Bob Smith and supporting members of the cast.

Solos and Duets

Mrs. Jessie Spencley, Mrs. Marian Williams, Jack Smith and Bob Hendry provided the vocal portion of the entertainment with solos and duets. Included in their numbers were the Scottish ballads and folk songs "Hame O' Mine', "The Crookit Bawbee," "Ye Banks and Braes", "Our Ain Wee Hoose", and a song written especially for Peterborough's Centennial Year.

The Rev. C. G. Boyd of St. Paul's Presbyterian Church was master of ceremonies and maintained the spirit of the evening between the numbers with a witty running commentary interspersed with timely Scotch stories.

Mrs. Pearl Read was the accompanist for the evening.

During the evening Jack Smith welcomed the audience and stated that the proceeds of the festival would be given to the Bobby Clarke fund.

MR. AND MRS. ROBERT ABBOTT of 754 Water St., are seen enjoying the sunshine at Flatts, Bermuda, where they are vacationing.

Material For P.Q. Iron Camp Being Made By Local Factory

The material for fifteen buildings destined for the base camp at Seven Islands, Que., of the big iron mining development in Labrador, are being delivered from the Peterborough plant of Canadian Timber Structures Limited. R. M. Peirson, general manager of the company here, said the contract was obtained by tender, and there is prospect or hope of further orders next year.

Timber Structures are supplying all the buildings for the base camp on the north shore of the St. Lawrence River. They include: six storage buildings each 40 by 100 ft.; two machine shops, 60 by 100 ft.; two airport buildings 112 by 120 ft.; five bunk houses each 24 by 40 feet. The total present order is for fifteen buildings.

Labrador Mining and Exploration Company is the name of this huge enterprise which is planning to invest approximately $400,000,000 in developing the iron deposits in the country more or less adjacent to Knob Lake in Labrador, 350 miles north of Seven Islands.

Biggest Development

"It is one of the biggest developments in modern Canada," Mr. Peirson remarked today.

For that tremendous investment a group of companies are pooling resources. Prominent among them is Hollinger Mining Co.

"The company wanted our type of prefabricated structures because they are easy to erect, and can also be readily dismantled and moved to any desired new site," Mr. Peirson said. "They are all being insulated at Lachute after delivery from Peterborough to dockside at Montreal."

Exploration was under way back in 1940 when it was realized that vast deposits of iron were available, and mining engineers and geologists were flown into the territory from Seven Islands to determine whether other minerals were in quantity. Access is by plane from the North Shore to Knob Lake.

Busy All Fall

Timber Structures have been busy this fall on other substantial orders. The company supplied material for a new hangar for Canadian Car and Foundry at Montreal; storage buildings for Imperial Tobacco Co. at Montreal, Delhi, Ont., and Sherbrooke, P.Q., and a series of retail stores in Western Canada.

The company is employing 23 men in their factory on High St., and with their sales staff has a payroll of about 40. Timber Structures recently moved into larger office accommodation in the Barrie Building.

1,534 Calls For Nurses Made In Past 11-Month Period

A delegation from the Community Nursing Registry attended the annual meeting of the Peterborough Red Cross and Community Fund Tuesday night, seeking participation in the fund.

A letter from Sister M. Gonzaga and Mrs. Margaret Pringle, secretary and registrar respectively, was read by the fund's secretary, E. J. Wolff. In it the founding, the uses and the financial condition of the registry were discussed.

In 1948 a request from the directors of nursing of both hospitals was made to organize a registry in Peterborough. Time could no longer be given by the staffs of the hospitals to the securing of nurses for the ill in hospitals and homes. Therefore the Peterborough nursing registry was organized.

These function at the direction of a representative board of directors drawn from the nurses in private duty field, public health, the directors of nursing of both hospitals, visiting nursing associations, local medical organization and laymen. There are 28 operating in Ontario.

The work of the registry has three aspects, educational, counselling and service. Educational programs are provided annually to maintain an up-to-date standard of efficiency of its members. This program was completed this month when lectures were given by doctors in their specialized field as well as practical demonstrations. These classes are open to all nurses in the city and community.

The services of the registry are designed to provide registered nurses for the acutely ill patients in hospitals and homes, also nursing assistants for the chronically ill and the convalescent patients.

The letter pointed out that it takes an average of five calls to place a nurse and as many as 14 nurses have been placed in a day. From January 1 to November 19, there were 1534 calls for nurses in homes and hospitals, 382 which were not filled and 88 calls for nursing assistants, 17 which were not filled.

The financial standing of the registry is in the red. Income includes nurses' fees which have been $20 for an active membership, $10 for a supplementary, $1 for an associate, and $12 a year for nursing assistants. An initial fee of $5, is charged for opening a file. The doctor's fee is $60 a year.

In order to carry on the work arrangements were made to borrow up to $1.400 from the bank. To date $900 has been loaned. To offset this amount a project known as "Life Saver Teas" was instituted with the result that close to $1,000 has been realized.

The registry was advised by the city council and the board of directors of the Civic hospital to approach the Peterborough Red Cross and Community fund. In some centres throughout the province grants are given by the city council or the community fund and in some cases both contribute.

Action will be taken at the next board of directors' meeting when a formal application has been received.

Chamber Plans Party For Children

The Chamber of Commerce is planning a children's Christmas party to be held in the Market Hall.

"The response to our donation fund appeal has been very good, 148 have contributed," Jim Fraser, manager, stated today. "But there are still 54 members of the Businessmen's Association who have not contributed. Many stores that ar not members of the Chamber of Commerce or Businessmen's Association have made very genrous contributions."

The Christmas party for the youngsters will take place on December 21 and 22 in the afternoon. Santa Claus has agreed to make a personal appearance on both afternoons to take orders for Christmas gifts and a letter box will be installed for the longer lists.

Chritsmas music will be played over a PA system to add to the general festive atmosphere. The hall will be well staffed with gilrs to look after the children and two firemen will be on duty as a further precaution. The children will be brought in the north door, so that waiting lines can be kept inside.

Arrangements will also be made for children from the shelter to have a private party with Santa Claus.

Also towards the furthring the Christmas spiri, a total of 90 stores have purchased wreaths provided by the Chamber of Commerce. It is expected that these wreaths wil be placed in store windows by December 1.

TEACHERS WIN

Tuesday afternoon PCVS students took their classroom battles with the teachers to the gym for the annual students versus teachers volleyball game. In the first game the teachers faltered as they tried to pick up the finer points of the game and were downed 15-5. They rallied back in the second to trounce the Academic 12B boys 15-5. Both boys and teachers battled hard in the final game and the teachers emerged victorious 17-15. In a week the teachers will be in action again, only this time in the annual students versus teachers basketball game.

Brantford has spent $50,000 on filling an old canal basin for a parking lot. More than a century ago $225,000 of Six Nations Indian money was spent on this water course providing an outlet from Grand River to Lake Erie. They say the money was spent without their authority, and are suing the government in the possibility they might get some of it back.

Could Revolver Be Flashlight? Court So Told

A charge against Victor Fee, 104 Lock St., of pointing a revolver at Walter Collins, Aylmer St., was today dismissed by Magistrate W. R. Philp for lack of evidence. Fee pleaded not guilty.

Collins declared Fee had pointed a revolver at him in Fee's house. Earl Paquette, with Collins at the time, said he saw no revolver.

Collins, who formerly worked for Fee, testified that on November 24 he and a companion quit work early and went to a beverage room about 4.10 p.m. He said he had two or three glasses of beer.

Fee entered the beverage room and Collins said he asked for his pay. "He said I didn't need any money—kind of joking. I said I wanted to get paid and go home."

Went Right Over

Collins said that Fee went home shortly after and that he went too. "I phoned his house and said I was coming over for my pay. He said to wait for an hour, but I went right over."

When he got to Fee's house, Collins said, Fee gave him his pay and said he was fired. Collins was accompanied by Earl Paquette, another employee of Fee's.

Collins asked for his unemployment insurance book and Fee said he would give it to him the following Monday. "I told him I wanted it right then, and he fumbled in a drawer and pulled out a revolver. It was pointing at me."

"He told me to get out and get out quick. I got out," Collins said.

"Have you ever seen a revolver?" asked defence counsel J. C. N. Currelly.—"Yes."

Pictures of Revolvers

"Where?"—"I've seen pictures of them in magazines and papers."

Collins admitted he knew of a small flashlight owned by Fee that looked "a little like a revolver." Asked if what he thought was a revolver could have been that flashlight, he said, "It didn't look like a flashlight."

"But could it have been?"—"I won't answer that."

"Could it have been?"—"No, it couldn't."

"Why?"—"Because a flashlight doesn't look like a gun."

Paquette, who was in the room with Fee and Collins at the same time, said he saw no revolver. He also testified that he and Collins each had 14 or 15 glasses of beer that afternoon.

"Collins followed Fee out of the beverage room and tried to get into Fee's truck, but Fee locked the doors," Paquette said.

Question Period Follows Addresses of Candidates Few Campaign Promises

Seventeen candidates for office and the acclaimed member of the Utilities Commission spoke at a public meeting Tuesday night sponsored by the Study Group on Civic Affairs, a women's organization. Nearly 150 people were present and heard the candidates pretty much regulate their campaign promises to vows that they would do their best. Alderman Hurrell Dodds, a candidate for the mayoralty, got a chance to explain the word "deals" he used nomination night.

"In my dictionary, 'deal' means business," he declared. "I didn't mean there was anything wrong."

Charges a "Leak"

Aldermanic candidate Norman Graham charged there has been "a leak somewhere" in the letting of tenders for the new sawage disposal plant. "There was a stink when those envelopes were opened," he said.

"I've got the proof to back up what I'm saying," Mr. Graham said.

Mr. Graham did not go into detail, but was asked by alderman Arthur Burrows if he were charging the council with dishonesty.

"I don't think this is a fair time to make such charges—especially when a speaker's time is limited," Mr. Burrows said.

Mr. Graham went on to say that the city "is such today that the contractors are moving in and living here. There's great profit for them in this city."

Aside from Mr. Graham's charges, the question troubling most of the people who attended was "Is the proposed high school to cost what the Board of Education says it will?"

Be Kept Within Cost

One woman asked Frank H. Jobbitt, at present chairman of the board of education, and a candidate for the board: "Will this new collegiate cost exactly what they say it will or will it be like the hospital and cost three times as much?"

Crash Breaks Driver's Jaw

CAMPBELLFORD, Nov. 29 (ENS)—One man was injured and another shaken up in an accident involving two trucks on the Campbellford-Hastings road about two miles from the town Tuesday afternoon.

Andrew Clarke of Campbellford was admitted to Campbellford hospital after being treated by Dr. W. W. Baker. He was driving a light truck, the property of the Dept. of Transport, and was proceeding up a hill when his vehicle skidded on the icy surface head on into a large truck owned by the Township of Percy, and driven by James McCleary, who was coming down the hill. The smaller truck was badly damaged and Clarke was pinned behind the steering wheel.

He is believed to have suffered badly bruised ribs, a fractured jaw and hand injuries as well as shock. His condition is reported as satisfactory. Full extent of his injuries will not be known until X-rays are taken at the hospital on Wednesday afternoon. In view of Clarke's condition of shock, it was not deemed advisable to submit him to a complete X-ray examination immediately.

The other driver was not injured, although he was shaken up. Provincial Constable Donald W. Erskine, who investigated, blamed the icy road for the accident.

Hardships Told In Letter From Red Area

NANAIMO, B. C. (CP).—Hardships behind the iron curtain were described in a letter received by a Nanaimo man from his sister in a Balkan nation, satellite of the USSR.

Because of possible reprisals against his relatives, the resident here asked that his name and the country from which the letter was sent should not be identified.

The letter translated, said in part:

"Today we are working hard and we have to give the crop to the government. They want their share regardless. Whatever they figure the land should grow you have to give.

"We have only eight bushels of wheat left to last a year and besides we have to pay tax.

"You remember the mountain 15 miles away. Well, every family has to bring down 22 cords of wood from the mountain to give to the government. All that would be bad, but on top of that we have more sorrow.

"The piece of property we had at edge of town was taken away from us. In its place they give us a piece of land five miles away that never grows anything.

"We still have to give the same amount of wheat; if it won't grow we will have to buy it. We also have to give 15 bushels of sunflower seed to the government. It wasn't hard this year because we had our good land, but next year we will have to buy it.

"How are we going to buy anything on that worthless land? I have to pass it every day and I can't even go there any more because the devil came and sat on it. . ."

Good Caviar Now Western Product

PRINCE ALBERT, Sask. — (CP) — Fishermen in the Northern Saskatchewan community of Cumberland House are learning how to make caviar.

A processing specialist from Winnipeg is showing them how to butcher and process caviar for marketing from their catches of sturgeon.

D. Corney, manager of the Saskatchewan Fish Marketing Service, says the first shipment of sturgeon was made Sept. 26. It was flown from Cumberland House to Beaver Lake for freezing and future shipment to market.

The season limit has been set at 8,000 pounds while the season itself was extended from the original closing date of Sept 19 to whatever time the quota has been reached.

Fishermen are being paid an initial price of 80 cents a pound, with the balance paid when sales are completed.

Cumberland House is about 160 miles northeast of Prince Albert.

Kill Ragweed Attract More Tourists

OTTAWA, Nov. 29 (CP).—Hayfever sufferers seeking a pollen-free vacation spot have found a champion in the Canadian government travel bureau.

Leo Dolan, director of the bureau and himself a former hayfever victim, yesterday told delegates to the fifth annual federal-provincial tourist conference that Canada can attract more tourists by stamping out ragweed in tourist resorts.

The threeday conference ends today with the adoption of a series of resolutions.

Mr. Dolan, as a former sufferer knew that a victim of hay fever would travel miles to get relief. He believed Canada could tap a lucrative market among hayfever sufferers in United States by building up pollen-free areas.

No Control

Dr. C. Frankton of the Federal Agriculture Department said the federal government is not responsible for the control of ragweed—one of the chief causes of hay fever. The department did collect information on its prevalence in different areas.

A surprising number of enquiries had been received by the department from tourists seeking pollen-free areas. The department issued bulletins showing the pollen-free areas in eastern Canada. Ragweed was not a problem in the west.

Ontario Bad

Sections of Gaspe in Quebec now were pollen-free, but Ontario resorts were all "pretty badly" polluted. In Prince Edward Island and New Brunswick action had been taken to control ragweed.

Cars Badly Damaged In Intersection Crash

CAMPBELLFORD, Nov. 29 (ENS)—A 1950 model car only a few days old suffered about $300 damage on Tuesday when it was in collision with another car at an intersection on the Campbellford-Hastings road about six miles west of Campbellford.

Robert Pettey, R.R. 4, Warkworth, driving his new car west, was unable to stop at the intersection, and collided with a car driven by Douglas Rutherford of Campbellford. Both autos were extensively damaged. The icy road surface was blamed for the mishap, and no charges were laid. Provincial Constable Donald W. Erskine investigated.

New Atomic Plant

WASHINGTON, Nov. 29 (AP)—The Atomic Energy Commission has picked a 250,000-acre tract in South Carolina for development work on the hydrogen bomb. At the same time a vast expansion of atomic energy and electric power production in the Tennessee valley was forecast by a congressional source. There were indications this expansion would cost close to $1,000,000,000.

Production Solution

TORONTO, Nov. 29 (CP) — Labor Minister Gregg indicated in an address here yesterday that production is the answer to inflation. He told the Advertising and Sales Club that if the international situation becomes worse, further government regulations to check inflation and divert strategic materials may be necessary. But government regulations can never be the final answer to our economic stability.

Duplessis Summoned To Appear In Court

QUEBEC, Nov. 29 (CP)—Mr. Justice Fernand Choquette of Superior Court has returned a judgment which will force the Attorney-General to answer a summons in an action taken by a member of the Witnesses of Jehovah sect.

The action against the Attorney-General (a post held by Premier Duplessis) was taken some months ago by Laurier Saumur. He asks that a Quebec city bylaw, which prohibits distribution of pamphlets without permission from the chief of police be declared ultra vires.

Blames Headlights For Ditching Car

The bright headlights of another car and icy roads were blamed by a Douro man, Martin Coughlin, for his car going into the north ditch on Parkhill Rd. Tuesday afternoon.

Coughlin told police he was driving east on Parkhill Rd. near Curtis Drive when he met another auto whose bright lights blinded him.

Coughlin said he tried to slow down, the car skidded and turned once, ending up in the north ditch. PC Harold Andrew, who investigated, estimated damage at about $35.

Fire Fighting Schools

Maritime Women List Complaints About Advertising

Some interesting facts were given Toronto Women's Advertising Club when they had Abbie Lane of Halifax as speaker this week. At the request of the members she listed the complaints which women of the Maritimes have against advertising.

Having interviewed a good cross section of Maritime women, ranging from university teachers to domestics, Mrs. Lane gave the following comments, not necessarily her own opinions:

In newspaper advertising, 100 per cent of the woman questioned declared that only the picture and the price interested them. They did not read long copy. Of a full page spread showing many items, they only read those of particular interest to them. Magazines, highly colored, good illustrations appeal, but as much for their entertainment value as anything.

The greatest offenses against good taste were found in radio. There is a 100 per cent aversion to singing commercials. Superlatives have lost their meaning through abuse.

As yet no comment can be secured on television medium which has not yet reached the Maritimes.

In closing she gave the keynote to successful advertising in the Maritime Provinces as "a little more restraint in description, more sincerity and fewer fine words."

Golden Mile Club Jolly Place At Tuesday Meets

For those women over 60 who may have free time every second Tuesday afternoon there is a happy and profitable way to spend it. Golden Mile Club, with 26 names on the membership register at present, offers one of the quickest ways to overcome loneliness blues—come to a meeting in Grafton's recreation room.

There's little work done, though members do prepare for their annual bazaar, being held this year on Valentine's Day, but there's jolly, friendly atmosphere all about. In fact, there's so much talk and laughter that president Mrs. E. Chatten keeps a bell to ring when she wants to make an announcement or say "Tea is ready."

Over the table top smiles are served with the sandwiches and cookies, and several tea pourers keep the cups filled with warm tea—the cup that cheers most for second milers.

The Club was having its own Christmas party yesterday because on the date of the next meeting members will be guests at the Soroptimist Club Christmas party. A member of the latter club had provided ice cream for the celebration and another had decorated the table with centrepiece, cloth and serviettes in gay Christmas design. There were quantities of sandwiches, cake and cookies and the social reporter and other guests of the afternoon were repeatedly urged to join in the fun of making them scarce—and they did.

In convenient places were noticed several novelty receptacles for coins and it was explained that one is for coppers and the proceeds are used to buy cards and stamps to send to those who may be ill and other incidentals of club life. Another is for silver which is collected for the treasury and used to buy the refreshments. The secretary-treasurer counts the receipts each meeting and sees to the banking.

One member out on Tuesday is almost totally blind and has just passed through a serious illness that kept her away from the last two meetings. She was in splendid spirits by tea time having "such a good time."

5 Years Success Celebrated By Jr. Sodalists

St. Peter's Junior Sodality members were hostesses to their mothers and friends Sunday evening in the K. of C. Hall. Amid a colorful and festive background they highlighted five successful years of organization. The originality and artistry of the decorations and posters depicting the various projects of the club attested to hidden talents possessed by the girls.

On behalf of the sodalists prefect Miss Betty Strano extended a cordial welcome to the guests and offered them a special vote of thanks for support and encouragement rendered in the sodality's many endeavours.

Accompanied by Miss Anne Ferren, the Sodality choir sang the much loved "Our Lady of Fatima," and other selections.

To illustrate the regular procedure a model meeting was set up. After the reading of the office by the prefect, Miss Anne Ferren read the minutes and Miss Patricia Beresford gave the treasurer's report.

Chairmen summarized the various activities of their committees. These were: Miss Roma Houlihan, Eucharistic and Our Lady's Miss Catherine Rutherford —Apostolic and Good Literature; Miss Betsy Szammers, social and publicity.

Miss Anne Howell, vice prefect outlined the adopted mission of Father Hawkins at Armstrong, Ontario.

The Rev. F. K. Malane, spiritual director, gave an inspiring address to the sodalists on their needs at Holy Communion and the most perfect means of offering thanksgiving to God. The meeting closed with a prayer.

Moderator Miss Catherine McTeague was presented with a crucifix, in grateful recognition of the support and encouragement she has offered the Junior Sodality since its first years of organization.

Father Malane in presenting statues, to the past prefects reminded them of the importance of their particular roles in the sodality and how they as well as all sodalists should strive to imitate their model and director Mary, the Mother of God. The recipients were: Misses Anne Szammers, Barbara Johnston, Elizabeth Begley, Mary Cauley (absent), Jackie Rose (absent.)

The program closed with an amusing skit "The Jolson Act" cleverly portrayed by Misses Roma Houlihan, Sheila Ryan and Kathy Howell. At its conclusion a delicious lunch was served.

Social Sponsor Installed At Pledge Banquet

A pledge banquet and rituals of Beta Sigma Phi Sorority Chapters took place for the Peterborough members Tuesday evening at the Kawartha Country Club. More than 30 girls were present and two special guests, Mrs. G. S. Cameron, retiring social sponsor, and Mrs. Ian McRae who was installed as social sponsor during the program.

Tables were done in the sorority colors, black and gold, with yellow roses, the flower symbol, and yellow tapers featured with small Christmas trees and novelty place cards.

A crystal plate bearing the sorority crest was presented to Mrs. Cameron who spoke briefly of her seven years as sponsor.

Mrs. B. C. Rolfe, president of Alpha Theta Chapter, conducted the pledge ritual in which Miss Ruth Kingan and Mrs. E. Cochrane were inducted into this chapter.

Mrs. J. Hiland, president of Exemplar Chapter, conducted the ritual in which Mrs. Clare Sullivan, Mrs. John Anderson, Mrs. A. Bianco and Mrs. J. Dougherty were advanced to the senior chapter.

Welcome to the new pledges was given by Miss Doreen Gilders and Miss Kingan replied.

Mrs. M. Caccavella proposed a toast to the International Sorority and Mrs. Hiland gave the reply.

Mrs. E. McWilliam and Mrs. Hiland with committees made arrangements for the banquet.

Senior Sodality Launches Discussion Forum

St. Peter's Senior Sodality monthly meeting took place in St. Mary's school Sunday evening after the Holy Hour.

Something new and interesting was introduced when guest speakers were replaced by a planned discussion panel which chose as the subject "Purgatory." The panel consisted of the director, Miss Maureen Hickey and four members of the board—Misses Jean O'Brien, Mamie Sullivan, Helen Hajnik and Marie Kieran.

This proved to be a very controversial topic and after the forum had exhausted their questions they invited questions from the audience. The audience responded generously and questions such as How can we best help the souls in purgatory? Can the souls help one another? When will purgatory be dissolved? Can you prove there actually is a purgatory? brought forth various opinions and helped to clear up many arguments. This new technique was wholeheartedly welcomed by the sodalists and it was unanimously agreed to make it a permanent part of the meeting.

Following reading of the office by prefect Miss Helen Strano, reports were given.

Miss Strano asked that fees be paid as soon as possible as the membership Christmas party will take place December 14 and no one is to be admitted without a membership card. On Sunday, December 10, all new members will be received into the Sodality. This will also mark the next general meeting at which members will obtain the tickets for the January Snow Ball which will take place Friday, January 26. It was agreed to adhere to the previous year's custom of having a shower for any sodalits who is getting married and presenting her with a statue of the Blessed Virgin.

Girl Fresh Out of School Too Young to Get Married

DEAR DOROTHY DIX: Do you think that when a girl finishes high school she should get married or go to work if she does not have a chance to go to college? Don't you think a girl should support herself before marriage so that when she does get married she will know the value of a dollar?

Dorothy Dix

TWO GIRLS

ANSWER: No girl of 17 or 18 knows about men to pick out a husband. She doesn't know enough about herself to know what she wants in a husband. She doesn't even know what she is going to be herself when she grows up. Marriage is risky enough, at best, without taking any long shots on the future.

Besides that, a girl who goes out of the schoolroom into marriage misses all he playtime of life. She is a settled woman with babies hanging to her skirt when she should be dancing around and enjoying herself.

Should Learn Housekeeping

Also, marriage is a very complicated business. Before going into it a girl should learn how to cook and market and be a good housekeeper. That takes time and experience. It takes experience with men to know how to handle a husband and get along with his people and make friends for him. That also takes time. And it takes time for a girl to get over her childishness and to learn how to be reasonable and philosophic about things. So, you see, it is folly for a girl to jump into matrimony before she is ready for it.

Furthermore, I think that every girl in the world, rich or poor, should learn some profession or trade by which she can support herself and she should practice it for at least a year before she marries. I do not think there is any other such a preparation for marriage as for a girl to have worked in a business office. No girl who has ever earned her own money is wasteful of her husband's and no woman who has ever come home at night so worn out that all she wanted to do was to slump down and be fed and not speak ever nags her husband because he doesn't want to go out at night.

◇ ◇ ◇

DEAR MISS DIX: We have a daughter of 13 who thinks that she has a right to do anything and everything she pleases. We have always given her everything our modest income would allow. She has had good times, nice clothes, spending money, and we have always made her friends welcome to our house. But we find out that she is lying to us about what she does; that she meets boys on a street corner when she has gone to see a girl. She never brings her boy friends to the house and she represents us to her young friends as tyrants because we try to keep some control over her. Is a child of 13 capable of deciding every question for herself? Is a girl of 13 too young to start going out with boys?

A HEARTSICK MOTHER.

ANSWER: If there is anybody on earth who is in a hot spot and who deserves the prayers and sympathy of the community, it is the mother of an adolescent girl. She has to deal with abysmal ignorance that believes itself inspired wisdom, with utter lack of experience that considers itself sophistication, with a full determination to have its own way and with a selfish disregard of the feelings of others that would make a stone image seem mushy with sentiment.

And the poor mother's hands are tied because she does not know whether to drive with a loose rein and take the chances on the girl running wild, straight to destruction, or to hold a tight rein over her and take the chances of her jumping the fence and wrecking her life in its very beginning.

All I can suggest to the mother is to walk warily and try to keep her daughter as much under her eye as she can. Induce her to bring her friends to the house so that you can see the crowd she is running with. Thirteen is, of course, much too young for her to begin to go out with boys except in the most casual way, but if she is boy-crazy nothing you can do or say will stop her.

Don't make scenes with her. Don't pick on her. Don't be forever throwing her youth, which she hates and resents, up to her. Assume that she is grown and that you are appealing to an adult mind and sometimes you can get her to use a little intelligence.

◇ ◇ ◇

DEAR MISS DIX: Considering that I am a poor young man, paying for land, will it be all right for me to marry the girl I love without giving her a diamond and to have a very simple wedding?

ANSWER: Not only eminently proper, but in good taste. A diamond ring is not necessary to make a marriage legal and binding. In fact, more marriages stick without diamond than do with them.

COOKBOOK OF THE WEEK

Canned Food and Leftovers Made Into Special Dishes

Once in a while every hostess will find herself expecting company with nothing prepared and just a few uninteresting cans on the shelf. The solution is a quick glance at this week's cookbook release, "250 Sauces, Gravies and Dressings," twentieth wonderful title in the twenty-four cookbook series that is currently being made available to readers of The Examiner.

Here are several recipes from the Sauce Book which could be quickly prepared in a pinch. The following cocktail sauce could be used as a dip for canned shrimps served on toothpicks:

Horse-Radish Cocktail Sauce

1 cup tomato catchup
1 tablespoon lemon juice
Few drops Tabasco sauce
¼ cup chili sauce
1 tablespoon prepared horseradish
¼ teaspoon salt
Dash pepper

Combine ingredients and mix well. Makes 1 1-3 cups.

Or for an easily put together entree the following sauce could be served over canned fish, hard-boiled eggs, or canned boned chicken or turkey:

Mushroom Curry Sauce

1 (4-ounce) can button mushrooms
2 tablespoons butter
½ teaspoon curry powder
¼ teaspoon salt
1 teaspoon minced onion
1 teaspoon lemon juice
Water

Drain mushrooms and saute in butter. Add curry powder, salt, onion and lemon juice. Blend well; add mushroom liquid combined with water to make 1 cup. Cook, stirring constantly, until smooth and creamy. Serve with fish, poultry or egg dishes. Makes ¾ cup.

And if you happen to have some cold pot roast on hand you can make quick barbecued beef sandwiches by slicing it thin and heating it in the following:

Quick Barbecue Sauce

2 teaspoons flour
¼ teaspoon salt
2 teaspoons brown sugar
1 teaspoon prepared mustard
1 tablespoon vinegar
¼ cup tomato catsup
½ cup water

Mix flour, salt, sugar and mustard; add vinegar, catsup and water. Heat to boiling, stirring constantly, and use to reheat cooked beef. Makes ¾ cup.

To get this valuable Sauce Book all you need do is clip a Cookbook Coupon from page 2 of any issue of this newspaper and present is with 25 cents to The Examiner office or to your carrier or at Braund's Home Food Markets or at the Dominion Stores Master Market. Or order your copy by mail by sending the coupon with 25 cents (5 cents additional for postage and handling) to Cookbook Department, Peterborough Examiner.

Of Interest to Women

A'SWIMMING WE GO — It will be more fun wearing this one-piece maillot suit of iridescent wool checks. A far cry from woollen suit of yesteryear, it is done in blue and yellow wool with a scalloped bras top. Modelling it at beautiful Tower Isle, Jamaica, is pretty blonde Cora Wilson.

Want Child Stories In Writing Contest

TORONTO — (CP) — The Women's Canadian Club of Toronto has chosen the subject "A children's story with a Canadian background" for its annual literary competition this year.

The competition, open to any non-profesional writer residing in Canada—male or female—carries a $100 first prize.

Mrs. N. H. McCullough, convener of the competition committee, said that all contestants should obtain detailed information and rules from the secretary-treasurer of the club at Toronto (69 Bloor Street East) before submitting a manuscript.

Entries this year will be judged for their appeal to children between the ages of 7 to 10 years, for whom it must be written. Vividness, originality and simplicity of expression will also be factors in the judging, results of which will be announced about April 26. All manuscripts must be delivered by Feb. 1.

BIG GAP

The Cook Strait, separating the north and south islands of New Zealand, was discovered by Captain James Cook in 1770.

Double Version Naming Of Port Arthur

PORT ARTHUR —(CP)— How did Port Arthur get its name?

The Public Archives of Canada says it was named for the Duke of Connaught who, as Prince Arthur, spent the winter of 1869-70 with his regiment at Montreal.

But there's another story often told here—that it was named instead for Chester A. Arthur, president of the United States from 1881 to 1886.

Port Arthur was originally Prince Arthur's Landing. The archives in a memo to a resident of the city says that was for Prince Arthur—the name being given by Col. G. J. Wolseley when he passed through in 1870 en route from Montreal to the Red River.

The memo continues:

"In 1883, this name was changed to Port Arthur to correspond with Port Moody, the western accepted terminus of the CPR at that time."

Authority for the other version of the naming is J. P. Bertrand, a Port Arthur historian. He contends that when Prince Arthur's Landing was renamed, it was done by Sir William Van Horne, president of the CPR which originally had its lakehead headquarters here.

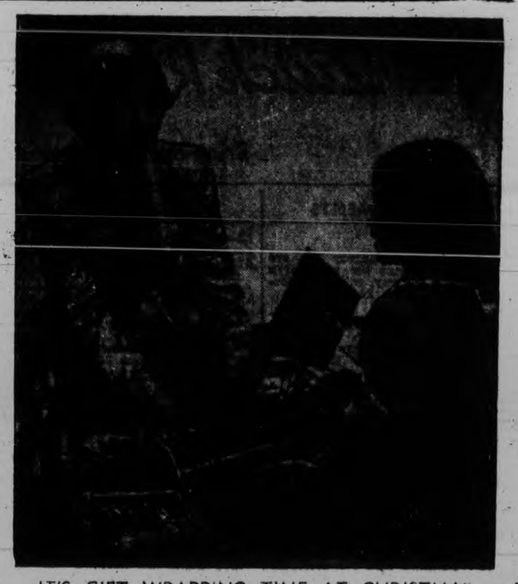
The title "Landing" seemed inappropriate for a railway station. Various suggestions for a change were heard. Finally Sir William settled the matter. It was stated afterwards, says Mr. Bertrand, that he chose the "Arthur" part of the name in honor of President Arthur who was his personal friend and also was looked upon as the first president to show a genuine friendship for Canada.

Napanee Bridge Open to Traffic

NAPANEE, Nov. 29—(CP)—Traffic began rolling Tuesday across the new Napanee River bridge on No. 2 Highway at the east end of this Eastern Ontario town.

The new structure, one of the few curved bridges in the province, is built of reinforced concrete and replaces a narrow steel type, eliminating a sharp turn on the highway.

Highways Minister Doucett of Ontario will preside later at the official opening of the bridge.



IT'S GIFT WRAPPING TIME AT CHRISTMAS and there's a jolly, heart-warming experience in store for all. For gifts wrapped with a thoughtful feeling for his (or her) personality and taste brings the recipient close to your heart and makes wrapping as joyous an occasion and truly, almost as much fun as the giving.

BIG APPETITES

CALGARY — (CP) — A report to the school board showed that in its first six months of operation the Western Canada high school cafeteria here had an operating deficit of $1,383. Deficits continued in September and October.

U.S. Protestants Organize National Council

CLEVELAND, O., Nov. 29 (AP)—The National Council of the Churches of Christ, manifesting "the essential oneness" of 29 Protestant and eastern Orthodox churches was born today.

Formal formation of the council, which will co-ordinate the work of 31,183,227 comunicants, came this morning in Cleveland's giant auditorium.

This is one of the most significant movements by the Protestant churches since the reformation wherein Protestantism itself was born.

Some say today's ceremony marks a more-important religious event that the forming of the world council of churches at Amsterdam, The Netherlands. The National Council, they say, is an action organization.

Inspire Churches

This National Council of Churches is the fruition of a spirit of unity which has long been growing," said Dr. Ralph W. Sockman of New York, pastor of the Christ (Methodist) Church last night in a sermon at the constitution convention's opening worship service.

"The religious world has been waiting and calling for some great act of faith to arouse and inspire the churches. This is the greatest forward step toward religious unity which America has yet seen, and it may well prove epochal."

Today's action crowns the work of 10 years by eight interdenominational church agencies and an idea that has been a part of the Protestant scene for two decades.

Eight Agencies

The eight agencies which took the initiative in planning the council are the Federal Council of the Churches of Christ, Foreign Missions Conference, Home Missions Council, International Council of Religious Education, Missionary Education Movement, National Protestant Council on Higher Education, United Council of Church Women and the United Stewardship Council.

This is what the National Council will do:

Each of the eight charter organizations — plus perhaps as many as nine other groups—will disband and join the National Council, which immediately will move into the vacated fields of religious work with its own department.

NOBLETON, Ont., Nov. 29—(CP)—What will happen now to three young children left alone for two days in a small unheated shack near this village 18 miles northwest of Toronto remains undecided while authorities attempt to locate their parents.

The youngsters, Ronnie 1, Allan, 2, and Johnny 12, sons of Mr. and Mrs. John B. Hynds, were found by police Sunday night. They were turned over to the Children's Aid Society.

Investigation indicated the mother left home Saturday in search of her husband who had gone to Toronto for a job some weeks ago. Neighbors who called police, said the double absence was a common occurrence at the Hynds home.

Police found the children "all right" when they were called to the shack, "but there was no heat in the house and they were huddled in bed".

Neighbors said Mrs. Hynds returned last night but left again, and police were not notified.

Reports of the year's work were given by Mrs. Floyd Curtis, welfare convener; Miss Christina Dawson, CNIB home teacher; and W. D. Colin McEachern, Field Secretary.

Report of the nominations committee was read by Miss Grant, secretary. Election of officers took place and the following slate of officers was elected: W. R. Philp, K.C., chairman; Charles Ray, vice-chairman; T. P. Lancaster, county vice-chairman; Miss Agnes Grant, secretary; Robert B. Arnold, treasurer; Mrs. Floyd Curtis, welfare convener.

Supervisor Speaks

Mr. McEachern introduced the guest speaker Mr. A. W. Sparks, Supervisor of Field Services in Ontario for the Canadian National Institute for the Blind. Mr. Sparks contrasted the conditions for the blind in the year 1800 before the first school for the blind was set up in Paris, France and the conditions for the blind today, and he pointed out the tremendous development in work for the blind in which the CNIB has played a large roll. Mr. Sparks spoke of the 18,000 blind in Canadian and the 5,032 blind in the province of Ontario.

Bringing greetings of the local board from the national and provincial office of the C.N.I.B. Mr. Sparks thanked the people of Peterborough who work for the blind in this district. A vote of appreciation to the speaker was moved by J. Marshall.

Question Period

"The board went into that very thoroughly," said Mr. Jobbitt. "We expect, if the bylaw passes, to erect the school within the $585,000 we said it would cost."

The question arose in the question period following W. B. Gordon't three minutes—each candidate, other than the mayoralty candidates and the chairman of the board of education, was allowed three minutes to speak and a two-minute question period.

Mr. Gordon said he thought the proposed school, if the bylaw passed, would be erected within the cost set by the board and approved by city council.

Nearly every candidate was asked if he or she though the school was essential. Each one asked said it was.

Mayor Max Swanston, in a five-minute report to the meeting, reviewed briefly the works and events of the past year and said he believed Peterborough "can look back on them with pride.

Speaking as a candidate, he said he had no campaign speech to offer, but predicted some of the problems the council and taxpayers would have to face in 1951.

Next year would bring new problems of paving and other works; probably the construction of a new high school and additions to public schools. There might be an increase in the cost of civic service, and an increase in the mill rate, but neither would be very large.

The need for new industries in the city was becoming more noticeable, and the mayor suggested a part-time industrial commissioner working with the industrial commission as a means of bringing new industries to Peterborough.

Asked what the new city hall would cost when finished, he said it would be about $800,000 or $900,000, and pointed out that the Morrow estate had made a large bequest to the city which would help defray the cost to the taxpayers.

30 Per Cent. Increase

Chairman of the Board of Education, Frank H. Jobbitt, said that accommodation for the ever-increasing number of pupils would be the greatest problem the board would face in the coming year.

An increase of 30 per cent. in the number of public school pupils had been registered in the past five years, he said, and as a result, the board had been forced to make additions to several city schools.

Whether crowded conditions in the present high school would be remedied depended entirely on the voters' decision on the proposed south end high school. Answering a question, he said that the stagger system would probably have to be used if the bylaw were refused.

He quoted the example of Oshawa, which three years ago refused a bylaw asking for a new collegiate, and within a year had to resort to the stagger system for pupils. Oshawa then accepted the bylaw for a proposed high school.

"The capacity of the present collegiate was set at slightly more than 950 pupils. There are now 1,300 pupils there, and the situation will become worse if the proposed new collegiate is refused," he declared.

Arthur Bennett, a candidate for alderman, said he was not altogether pleased with the taxes being paid at present. If elected, he said, he would try to do something about them.

"If any of you see fit to give me a vote," he said, "I'll be tickled pink to take it."

Alderman Adam Sands, who has been 10 years on council and is running again, said he had watched prices go up along with taxes, and "the only answer to rising costs is rising taxes."

Harold T. Rehill, an aldermanic candidate, was asked "What would be the duties of a combination alderman and exhibition board director?" He said he thought it was possible to be a good alderman and a good director of the fair board at the same time.

Tend to Forget Cost

Alderman Arthur Burrows said that city council had been criticized for many projects it had taken up under severe pressure. "Soon we will have these buildings and we will be proud of them," he said. When they were finished people would tend to forget the cost and point to the achievement.

Running for his second two-year term as alderman, James E. Gillespie offered a platform—to try to conduct city business as he has in the past two years, not to sit on fences, and to cut out all but the most essential spending.

A member of the audience asked if he considered the proposed collegiate essential spending, and he stated he did, although originally he had been opposed to the site. "I favored the school, but I didn't like the site," he said.

Aldermanic candidate Percy Harrison said he'd like to see a committee to encourage industry, a city manager, and elimination of all "foolish spending." He cited the centennial fireworks display as an example—"not a large expense, but it all adds up."

Mr. Harrison suggested that a system of one-way streets running north-south in the city be set up. Arthur Bennett said: "I guess you want Flutely de Flutely back, eh (Dr. E. G. Faludi)? He's the one the city paid $15,000 to."

G. B. Lathangue, candidate for alderman, declared the council needed some young blood, and that if elected, he would try to keep the interests of all citizens in mind.

"You can't say what should be done until you get in there and see what needs to be done," said Percy Luther, another candidate for alderman.

Orville J. Martin, one of two labor candidates for alderman, declared it was time that "the man who uses his pay cheque to keep the roof over his head had a voice in public affairs." Alfred Barber, the other labor candidate, was not present.

Asked by one of the audience why it would cost $100,000 to landscape the new hospital, Ald. Herbert Young said that the $100,000 (part of $300,000 asked for the new hospital) was not all for landscaping, but that they were trying to get the best job possible done.

Kathleen M. Bell, candidate for the Board of Education, said she offered to serve "because I am deeply interested in the welfare and educational problems in primary and secondary schools."

Another candidate for the Board of Education, L. J. Sparrow, declared that the success of the schools of the city was the responsibility of the board. He said his work as supervisor of apprentice training (for the CGE) had brought him a knowledge of the needs and wishes of students, teachers and parents.

Acclaimed to the Utilities Commission, Fred Hills said he would continue to work for the commission as he had done in past years.

The two candidates for mayor were allowed five minutes each, and five-minute question periods, and candidates for other offices three minutes and two-minute question periods. Signal for the end of talking was a small hand bell and only a small percentage stopped before it rang.

Chairman of the meeting was Mrs. W. E. Fanning, who told the audience that the Peterborough study group was only one of a number of such organizations. The best known, she said, was a Toronto women's group.

Mrs. Reginald Butler

Funeral for the late Mrs. Reginald Butler, 71, of Peterborough was held on Tuesday from the Nisbett Funeral Home to St. George's Anglican Church. The Rev. E. C. Moore officiated and pall-bearers, all nephews, were Donald, Bert and Walter Hall, Percy and George Butler and Reginald Strickland. Burial was at Little Lake cemetery.

Korean Students Allowed Stay In Canada

VANCOUVER, Nov. 29 (CP)—An odyssey in search of freedom from fear has ended happily for two young Korean students.

Pong Cheyue, 21, and Yong Wang Lee, 22, have been granted sanctuary in Canada. Months of detention and harrowing escapes behind them, they are settled at a home in the Fraser Valley.

An order for their release from custody was received by officials here from Immigration Minister Harris. Yong and Pong were freed after sympathizers posted bond of $1,000.

The odyssey began last January in North Korea. Anti-Communists, and recognized as such, they fled south to the west-recognized republic. But they said they were unsafe there, and when the chance came they stowed away on a freighter. The ship docked in Vancouver.

Faced Death

They sought to remain, saying death awaited them in the country of their birth: In the north they were traitors, in the eyes of the south they might be considered spies.

But the deportation order stood. They became desperate. Only hours before they were due to sail, they escaped and found jobs as farm laborers. Then Korea became a battleground.

The two students surrendered. They appealed the deportation order and waited in suspense the following months. Their gamble was successful.

When Yong and Pong surrendered they said they were willing to return to Korea to fight with the United Nations forces.

And they may yet.

Lebanese Girl Enjoys Canada

HODGSON, Man.—(CP)—A 16-year-old Lebanese girl who flew 6,400 miles to marry a Hodgson farmer she had never seen, has changed her mind about Canada. Now she likes the place.

At first Hasar Ali Tasse was unhappy. On her arrival in October, she says, she thought the country cold, strange and frightening. To make it worse, her fiance got tangled over plane times and wasn't at the airport.

Now she is living with her future parents-in-law and will be Mrs. Joseph Abas before the end of November.

"She's feeling better and smiles a lot now," says Joseph's father, Ala Abas. "I don't think she is lonely any more."

Hasars English is poor yet, but she's using an English name. She calls herself Hilda.

The young Lebanese girl and Joseph Abas had a correspondence romance before her flight to Manitoba.

Rose Island Couple Honored By Friends

ROSE ISLAND, Nov. 29 (ENS)—A farewell party was held on Friday evening in the Rose Island school, for Mr. and Mrs. T. (Scottie) Harvie and Mabel Campbell, who are leaving here to live near Peterborough.

Several games of bingo were played and musical numbers were provided by Mr. and Mrs. Robert Post and Mr. Jarvis Campbell.

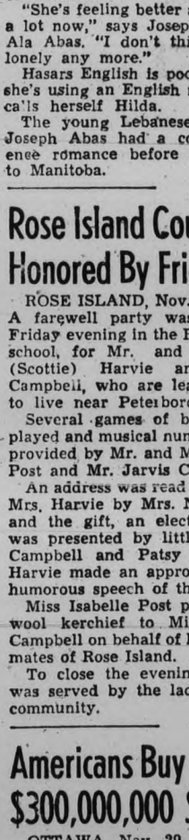
An address was read to Mr. and Mrs. Harvie by Mrs. N. Reddick and the gift, an electric kettle, was presented by little Marjory Campbell and Patsy Post. Mr. Harvie made an appropriate and humorous speech of thanks.

Miss Isabelle Post presented a wool kerchief to Miss Mabel Campbell on behalf of her schoolmates of Rose Island.

To close the evening a lunch was served by the ladies of the community.

Americans Buy $300,000,000 Stocks

OTTAWA, Nov. 29 (CP). — Americans bought more than $300,000,000 worth of Canadian securities in the four months preceding the freeing of the Canadian dollar Sept. 30, official statistics showed yesterday. In September, purchases reached the staggering total of $173,200,000.



"LUKIE'S BOAT" — Shipbuilders in the yards at Clarenville, Nfld., work on a new-type fishing boat. Construction of the vessel is part of a drive for modernization of the province's fishing industry. Unofficially called "Lukie's Boat" — the name of an island folk song — she is modelled on the Norwegian-type fishing boats and is intended for use in comparatively rough waters.

Use Norwegian Boats To Modernize Fishing

ST. JOHN'S, Nfld. (CP).—A new type of fishing boat is being built in Newfoundland to take part in the provincial government's drive for modernization of the island's fishing industry.

The boat is based on the Norwegian-type fishing craft and can fish in comparatively rough waters. It is being built of local wood at the Clarenville Shipyards.

Sixty feet long with a seven-foot beam and a nine-foot depth, the boat is 48 gross tons, powered with a 160 horsepower engine. It will carry 63,000 pounds of fish with summer icing and has a fuel capacity for 2,000 miles cruising.

Although not yet officially named Newfoundlanders are already calling her "Lukie's Boat" from a ship in a popular folk song. "Lukie's boat was painted green, the prettiest boat you ever seen."

"Lukie's Boat" is an all-weather craft constructed of local wood and stability, thus enabling mechanized fishing to be carried on from the deck in comparatively rough water.

The craft will be equipped for dragging and longline and Danish seining—a method of flounder and haddock fishing adopted in England where 200 similar boats are exclusively engaged in Danish fishing.

It is expected the cost of the boat will compare with that of the New Brunswick Caraquet type trawlers, but definite cost is not yet established.

Blue Cross Users Get More Protection

TORONTO, Nov. 29 (CP). — The Blue Cross for Hospital Care yesterday announced arrangements entitling subscribers to accommodation in any of some 5,000 "Blue Cross" hospitals in Canada and the United States.

The arrangements mean that, for example, an Ontario subscriber ill in New York or in Edmonton will be cared for by the New York or Alberta Blue Cross.

21 Municipalities To Vote On Sunday Sports Issue Soon

By The Canadian Press

TORONTO, Nov. 29 —(CP)— Sunday sport fever is gripping staid old Ontario.

At municipal elections, starting next Monday and continuing intermittently until Jan. 1, 21 cities and smaller communities will vote on whether to permit commercial sport on Sundays from 1:30 to 6 p.m., local time.

In the last year Sunday sport has been legalized in Toronto, the provincial capital and Ontario's largest city, Windsor and nine smaller communities—six of them popular summer resort spots.

Ten of the forthcoming votes are in Northern Ontario, five in the eastern section of the province, three in southwestern Ontario and two in the central area. All are being held under provincial legislation passed this year to give effect to the votes a year ago in Windsor and Toronto, which pioneered in the Sunday sport movement.

The question that will go before voters reads:

"Are you in favor of public games and sports on the Lord's Day to be regulated by municipal bylaw under authority of the Lord's Day Act (Ontario) 1950."

Here is the voting lineup:

Dec. 4 — Brockville, Guelph, Kitchener, Lindsay, Port Hope, Prescott, Sault Ste. Marie, Sudbury, Waterloo, Whitby.

Dec. 6 — Hamilton.

Dec. 8 — Kapuskasing, Port Colborne.

Dec. 9 — South Porcupine.

Dec. 10 — Hearst.

Dec. 11—North Bay, Cochrane, Ansonville.

Dec. 13 — Timmins.

Dec. 18 — Oakville.

Jan. 1 — Thessalon.

Windsor voted 13,939 to 10,981 for Sunday sport last Dec. 7. Toronto came up with an 88,108 to 81,793 affirmative vote Jan. 1. The Ontario legislature followed that up by passing a bill empowering municipalities to decide what sports are to be permitted and where they may be played.

However, two options are withheld from municipalities. They may not permit horse racing. And they may not lengthen the 1:30 to 6 p.m. time limit, although they have authority to shorten it.

The bill provides that the issue be settled on a straight majority vote. Eligible voters are those qualified to vote at municipal elections — in other words, property owner or tenants occupying premises assessed at $400 or more.

Nine smaller municipalities have voted for Sunday sport since the bill became law — the summer resort centres of Port Dover, Crystal Beach, Port Stanley and Port Burwell on Lake Erie, Port Dalhousie on Lake Ontario, Wasaga on Georgian Bay; Delhi in the heart of southwestern Ontario's tobacco fields; two paper mill towns, Dryden in northwestern Ontario and Sturgeon Falls in Northern Ontario.

Most of the forthcoming votes were called at the urging of sports organizations—notably baseball clubs and leagues. In some cases city councils ordered them at the request of these organizations; in others the decision was taken after receiving a petition bearing signatures of 10 per cent of qualified voters.

In all centres, the sports organizations are leading the campaign for a "yes" vote. Ministerial associations are spearheading the opposition.

Until the Ontario bill was passed earlier this year, Sunday observance in Ontario was regulated entirely by the Federal Lord's Day Act which forbids commercial sport although it does not ban sport for which there is no admission price. The Ontario legislation frees municipalities which hold "yes" votes on the Sunday sports question from the more restrictive provisions of the Lord's Day Act.

War Tension Mounting Drew Warns Canada

OTTAWA, Nov. 29 (CP). — George Drew, Progressive Conservative leader, said last night the "very grave news" from Korea brings home to all Canadians "the dreadful reality of the mounting tension between the free nations and the Soviet Empire."

"The road ahead is going to be hard and long," he added. "It is going to demand economic as well as military efforts on a greatly-expanded scale."

Mr. Drew referred to the Korea developments in an address prepared for delivery on the CBC freetime political broadcast, The Nation's Business, in which he also called on the government to reduce its costs and to tackle the problem of the high cost of living.

Practical Trend Noticed In 1950 Toys

The world of toys Christmas, 1951, follows young Canada's active interest in the arts, sciences and industries. New playthings are offered that help reveal aptitudes and foster natural leanings toward careers.

Though the new crop of toys and games is instructive, the main function is to provide an entertaining pastime.

Tots who might shatter a toy before the close of Christmas Day, find that gay plastic toys are nearly indestructible.

Choice Engrossing

Older children, who often tire of games that offer no challenge to the imagination, find this Christmas' choice of games engrossing. They give the child an opportunity for creative expression and avoid talking-down, a feature children can always spot.

Old favorite games and toys are polished up and expanded. New ones, made possible by new materials, show exciting features never before included in toys. Playthings makers show that they are in pace with science and industry's striking new advances.

A peek around the Christmas toy world leaves the onlooker amazed and delighted. What ideas are chocked into these new items! But a word of caution: shortages in favorites are anticipated because of the huge increase in children of toy age.

Accent on Realism

The accent in toys is realism. The world faithfully simulated detail for detail is brought to children.

There are four-burner toy electric ranges that really cook, and flat irons that heat sufficiently to iron doll clothes. And when a doll has a new bathinette, it must include a safety strap! There is an electrically operated pop corn machine that makes tasty pop corn.

The last word in realism is reached in a miniature doll's feeding set which includes a sterilizer, rack of bottles and bottle washers.

Pop as well as Junior, is going to get a heap of fun from the new true-to-life toys. There's a tiny rotary press that really prints. It's swell for school newspapers and small printing assignments.

Shopping Centre

A small town shipping centre is amazingly duplicated in plastic. And there is a freight station with barrels, cases and a tiny fleet of trucks, and a super service station.

Junior's scientific lab in the cellar is equipped for tracking down atoms this Christmas. A new atomic energy lab set includes a workable Geiger counter. Like many others, this set emphasizes the use of science for peace.

And that very important young man has new mean sof transportation and communication. There are telephone sets that carry voices and electric trains that start with realistic slowness and demonstrate spectacular climbing ability.

Tricycle That Grows

There is a tricycle that expands as the child grows and finally discards the third wheel. A miniature carpet sweeper actually draws up dust.

Games Grandpa played as a boy are stepped up to 1950 versions Three dimensional stereoscope sets come with travel and fairy tale slides. And hoop rolling is back. The new hoops are constructed to perform acrobatic tricks.

Little girls' interests in home decorating are recognized and fostered with miniature plastic furniture. And this furniture has all up-to-date additions. There are Hollywood bathrooms with built-in tubs and television sets with movable screens, refrigerators with deep freeze units. Faucets turn and drawers swing out.

When Junior wants to zoom around he can have a station wagon, police car or fire engine to pedal. And for defending the backyard from snipers there are anti-tank guns that shoot ping pong balls, water pistols with visible reservoirs, pistols with suction-tipped darts.

Toys and games offered this Christmas are so exciting and durable that they hold a child's interest and hold up for Christmases to come.

DOUBLE TALK ON THE CEDAR CHEST—A gift delight for the bride-to-be, because she'll want to use it for storage of her precious linens. A gift delight for every home, because today's cedar chest is more than a handy storage centre. Newer designs are decorative also. The chest shown is a console type with a lift top lid and two separate cedar lined drawers.

JEWISH BOARD

The Board of Deputies of British Jews, representative body of British Jewry, was established in 1760.

OFF FOR A STROLL on Christmas morn, pretty "Margie Sunday" simulates actual walking when her shoulders are pressed and her body guided.

PRE-FURRED GIFT and a most precious gift always for any woman. The fur coat—or any other fur fashion—of her dreams on Christmas morn a wonderful reality for the years to come.

The old Ascot tie guard of yesterday's fashionable gentleman is having a big revival this year, it is reported by Hickok who are offering a new collection in time for gift giving.

Store Counters and Shelves Display Glittering Collection Christmas Gifts

Santa Claus has come to town, his great gift bag overflowing with glittering, glamorous and useful things for giving; his eyes twinkling a heart warming invitation for everyone to lose no time in coming downtown to see his wonderful collection of Mid-Century Gifts. Santa Claus has come to town very early indeed this year—far in advance of the exciting holiday itself—to give everyone the best possible opportunity to choose what they will give to their loved ones and friends with care and consideration.

Santa Claus has come to town early so that none need lack the chance to make the 1950 Yuletide the most perfect in all history for their friends and loved ones.

A great corps of assistants has unloaded the contents of his overflowing gift pack, spread them on gaily bedecked counters and shelves in stores of our city, to await your admiring inspection.

Go Downtown! See for Yourself!

Tonight, show windows scintillate with myriad suggestions for giving that you will find multiplied ten fold inside the stores themselves tomorrow, when you go down town to see for yourself.

And this special supplement to your newspaper is brought to you with the cooperation of Old St. Nick and his assistants to give you a preview of his collection and to help you chart your course through the Christmas gift wonderland that awaits you.

Santa himself will be on hand in many of the stores to welcome you and the children. At other stores where time may make it impossible for him to be present, there will be deputy Santas there eager to help you find gifts that will be the perfect answer for every problem posed by your gift list.

There are several reasons, especially important this year, why Christmas gift shopping should be started without delay.

First is the fact that with one out of almost every thirty of our men folk in the armed forces this year, there is a heap of mailing that must be done early to make sure all get their gifts on time.

This means it's wise to shop early.

Second, while the vast productiveness of our nation has brought us an amazingly bountiful array of exciting, beautiful and practical gifts, there are many more people to give them to than ever before.

Interest in some of the newer and more exciting gifts is so high stocks may disappear quickly and those who delay their shopping may be unable to get delivery in time for Christmas day.

Gift Lists Longer

Third, with almost everyone's gift giving list longer this year than ever before, everyone is going to need more time to shop for the perfect gift. And there is so much to do before Christmas day to prepare the home for the wonderful occasion.

Better start Christmas Gift Shopping immediately.

The ingenuity of Old St. Nick, aided and abetted by the resourcefulness of American industry and 20th Century progress in the development of new materials and the application of traditional materials to new uses, has transformed what once were considered prosaic items, into glittering new gifts, and has brought into existence new devices for work saving, and entertainment for the whole family.

There are extra special treats for all the youngsters in toyland this year, where new plastics have made possible the production of sturdier, longer lasting toys that will mean longer lasting joys for the children.

Toyland is characterized this year by amazingly realistic reproductions in miniature of almost every device used in the practical world that excites the imagination of children. And they are working models which not only will delight but will instruct young girls and boys.

Life-Like Dolls

Playland is peopled with dolls that act, talk and actually toddle like real live babies and many have soft-to-the-touch skin textures that will make little girls squeal with happiness. There are big dolls and little dolls and character dolls and of course western dolls too.

There is glamor in gifts for the girls—the older girls who prize glamor so much and the mature girls who look forward to Christmas as a glamorous occasion — that will make gifts of beauty as well as gifts that will be cherished for their usefulness.

There is glamour also in the gifts for men this year as well as the essence of the practical which they prize so highly. Wearables, gadgetry and sports equipment furnish endless choices to suit every personality.

This too is a year when gifts for the home will be high on the list because they can contribute so much the year round to make the occasion a memorable one.

This is the year when Santa has come to town early to help you make Christmas gay and happy and lasting for all of your friends and loved ones.

IT'S A MATCHED SET and a most glorious, glamorous gift that will give her pleasure for many a year to come. The set includes a jeweled bracelet, earrings and necklace and as an extra special grand surprise, a genuine Gotham watch concealed under the center stone of the bracelet. And it's less expensive than you might think.

KEEP HER WARM AND PRETTY in a gift shortie robe she'll wear for lounge, and (if she's very young) for study. Above, a quilted knee-length coat in pastel rayon crepe over matching pyjamas.

Loose decorating materials can e particularly intriguing to the mateur decorator at Christmas ime. How to Transform the Home Into Something Special

By HENRY B. AUL

Evergreen branches, cones and berries, floodlights, spot-lights and multi-colored bulbs are the materials out of which outdoor Christmas decorations are made.

All of the greenery, berries and cones are available from plant dealers who have made a specialty of boxing them separately and in assortments to fit individual requirements. These concerns also have wreaths, roping, baskets and sprays in many sizes and types that are quick and easy to use to transform the everyday appearance of the home into something special for the holiday. There is fun to be found each year in working out new ways to use the materials that are traditionally a part of the season.

Evergreen roping made of laurel, pine, balsam or hemlock foliage is often used to outline the doorway or entrance to the porch. It is an excellent foundation for strings of colored lights. Stars, bells, horns and other shapes can be outlined in roping for daytime appearance and with lights for night display. In the accompanying illustration, roping is spiraled around two ten-foot poles that extend diagonally out from the base of the house. Their bottoms are set in the ground or are weighed down with bricks or stones piled over them. The tops are held five to six feet out from the house wall with pairs of light-weight guy wires.

Making Stars

Stars cut from large pie tins are affixed to the tops, as shown, and the poles are painted white, gold or silver to contrast with the green of the roping. Lights in assorted or solid colors or white are spiraled through the roping and end at the top of each pole, with a white or yellow bulb placed in the centre of each star. The poles, leaning out from the house, give this decoration a third dimension, depth, which is pleasing at the entrance. A wreath on the door completes the composition.

Loose decorating materials can be particularly intriguing to the amateur decorator at Christmas time. It takes but a sprig of spruce or balsam, a cluster of holly or laurel leaves and a shiny ornament, tied together, to form a boutonniere that has many uses. A single boutonniere may be fastened to the centre of each panel in the entrance door, at the centre of each small window in the door or along the sides of the door.

In the accompanying illustration, a number of boutonniers are tied to the branches of a small deciduous tree at the corner of the house. Light is flooded on the tree at night to pick up the sparkle of green, red and silver ornaments which are a part of each foliage cluster. The ornaments are made of crinkled foil formed into a loose ball and tied with a thread to the balsam and laurel foliage. Any well placed deciduous tree or shrub can be attractively decorated this way.

Cones and berries are used in clusters and sprigs to add interest and color to wreaths, swags and other foliage arrangements. On the door illustrated, they are used as the major attraction. For a white door, heavy cardboards are cut to the approximate size of the six door panels. Cones are tied to the four outsides of each cardboard panel and three, four or more berry-bearing sprigs of winterberry, holly, bitter sweet or juniper are tied to the centres. The cardboards are then applied to the door panels with thin tacks or brads.

Rich In Color

This makes a Christmas door rich in color and detail both by day and when flooded with light at night. A cylindrical-shaped wood or metal container, painted to resemble a large toy drum, is an appropriate holder for the small balsam or spruce tree colored with lights to the right of the doorway.

A bundle of branches with or without cones attached can be used in many different ways to add festive color to the season. They are an effective foundation for all types of large holiday arrangements that can be placed on the porch or doorstep. Stone crocks, wooden tubs and metal kettles are attractive containers. Water, which might freeze and crack the container, is not needed. Sand, excelsior or any other material that will hold the branches in place is used.

Branches are used in quite a different way to form the lamp-post tree illustrated. They are graduated in lengths from three feet at the base of the tree to a foot or less around the bottom of the lamp. The tree may be four sided or, where space is limited, may have branches on only two sides to form a flat tree. A three-sided tree can be arranged on a round post.

Where it is undesirable to make numerous small nail holes in the lamppost, the post can be faced with ¾-by-4-inch boards held in place with two or three nails each and the branches tacked to just the facer boards. Colored lights are strung through the branches.

Pets Favorite Children's Gifts

For this Christmas don't overlook the many gift-giving opportunities afforded by the local pet shops. For here you will find frisky young pups the children will love, brightly colored tropical fish that are fascinating to have around in their tanks, sweet singing cannaries to brighten a room for mother.

The dog, first companion of man, still maintains his favored position of course, Poodles are popular again this year, with all kinds of terriers rating high on the list as do spaniels and bulls and dachshunds. If its a sportsman to whom you want to give a live gift, consider setters and beagles.

The many-hued tropical fish are inexpensive, easy to maintain throughout the year and prove immensely educational for youngsters. Tanks of them need little care and soon become the centre of interest in any room.

Guppies, black mollies and iridescent white clouds are recommended for their rich range of color.

And don't forget the cats when thinking in terms of pets. These independent souls bow to no one in beauty or favor.

Tan and brown Siamese, grey Maltese and long-haired Persians are popular. And as for just plain sweet playful kittens, any little girl would love one.

PLENTY NOW

The principle of free public libraries was established in Britain by act of parliament in 1850.

VAST COUNTRY

Australia is the only country absorbing an entire continent, estimated at 2,973,581 square miles.

Note Of Realism In 1950 Christmas Dolls

Dolls this Christmas will have the "baby look," replacing the conventional, dimple smile of other years as Canadian toymen adopted realism in 1950 as never before.

They look like babies, feel like babies, cry like babies. Some of them talk like babies, weep like babies, drink like babies and wet like babies. One model even walks.

Little girls in Canada will receive about 3,000,000 of them this Christmas.

Trend To Realism

The trend towards more realistic dolls is the application of new technical progress over processes used for years on a world-wide scale.

New plastic and rubber materials have replaced the pastes and plasters, "rags," straw and sawdust used in the dolls of yesteryear. These materials give to most of this year's dolls, skins with the texture of baby's.

The doll that talks in actuated by a wire recording to say the things you expect of "baby." The doll that walks? Like a toddler, he must be held by the hand. At least one model comes equipped with hair of a special nylon derivative, which can be permanently waved. The wave set comes with the doll.

Just Like Baby

Most of the dolls this year are realistically babies—little girls and boys, brides, and like characterizations. Their features and figures show an increase in variety over all but extremely expensive dolls of the past.

Compared to the dolls that mother got as a girl, they are out of the world.

Toymen say that stuffed toys and figures in plush and fur are staging a comeback in Canada, following technical improvements in their manufacture.

The stuffing itself is better than that used to fill the former traditional "teddy bear," and new machinery has been developed to blow this stuffing into the figures. Stuffed rubber toys are making their debut.

And prices? About the same in some lines slightly up in others. But what are prices to Santa Claus?

LONG ABANDONED

The famous medieval miracle plays of York, England, were last performed in 1580.

PRETTY THIN

"Transparent velvet" is a light-weight draping made of silk or rayon with a rayon pile.

EXCHANGING GIFTS ON CHRISTMAS MORNING means a host of pleasant surprises and the good feeling that comes only with giving. Here, he offers his tokens of the Day to a happy and just a trifle curious young lady. Both are wearing earlier gift arrivals, a weskit for Her, a sleeveless pullover for Him, both made to look exactly like real fur.

Special Service

LONDON —(CP)— Persons using a telephone booth near a north London radio station were startled by radio music when they put their pennies in the slot. An official explained that coins suspended in a certain way produce a current capable of picking up radio waves.

Gem-trimmed Hose Catch Fashion's Eye

By GAILE DUGAS

NEW YORK—(NEA)—Decorative stockings, traced with jewels and delicate embroidery touches, are ready to add interest to late-day and evening dresses for the holidays. Designed by Willys of Hollywood, for years a custom designer to Hollywood stars, these stockings are intended as fashion accessories.

The patterns are permanently appliqued to the filmy nylons by means of 100,000 volts of electricity shot through the stockings. Side-leg and ankle tracings are done in two colors as well as in one. For daytime and street wear, seal brown appliques are combined with touches of royal blue, scarlet and dark green. Appliques are added to jewels in the evening hose, to produce stockings brilliant with pearls, colored crystals, rhinestones and steel-cut beads.

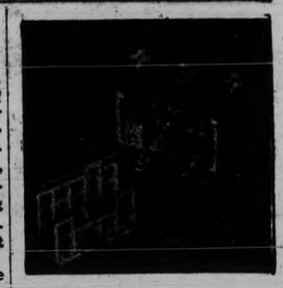
The boutonniere stocking lends itself to costume changes both in design and color by means of two small embroidered eyelets through which a real or fake flower can be slipped. Any tiny flower can be used to contrast or harmonize with a late-day dress.

Another stocking, ideally worn with a velvet or satin pump, has an elaborate golden spray etched on the ankle in gold beads, pearls and rhinestones.

An instep medallion in black applique is dotted with rhinestones on another sheer pair of nylons. This design is meant for wear with nude sandals, to emphasize the curve of a pretty foot.

For formal evening wear, there's a stocking with a delicately-traced spray of pearls just above the ankle. This is the stocking for pale colors and bouffant gowns.

A jeweled pansy is one of the many floral decorations used in these designs. It's appliqued just above the ankle and touched with the glitter of rhinestones. There are other such flower patterns: lily-of-the-valley, morning glory and forget-me-not.



FUN'S AHEAD Christmas when Junior owns this next-to-real fire station and burning building. There are tiny fire trucks to "extinguish" the blaze.

Christmas Gift For Home Perfect Recipe For Giving

The perfect recipe for making Christmas gift giving a most complete and heart-warming experience this year, calls for giving something for the home. For here is where everyone near and dear spends their happiest hours of relaxation in good, comfortable living.

And what better way to express an affectionate Yuletide sentiment than by making a gift of something that will add comfort and beauty to their surroundings—and will continue "giving" on through the years.

During this mid-point in the fabulous 20th Century, the opportunity to choose a gift for the home, whether for one or all the family to enjoy together, was never more opportune.

Miracle Of TV

Think, for example, and just for a moment, of the modern miracle of television. Here's something that can bring a whole new era of entertainment and education into the living room.

Of course, television sets can be had in plenty of time for Christmas giving but there is no need worrying if getting one to suit the budget becomes a problem. There are so many other gifts for the home.

For instance, if Dad is the kind of guy who likes his slippers a pipe, and a good, solid chair to relax in after a hard day at the office, then here's the cue for a deep, comfortable lounge chair. Choose it in an upholstery fabric that complements the living-room decor and Mom will be as pleased with the gift as Dad.

Tables For All

Tables, under the Christmas Tree, are welcome gifts for most members of the family. A card table and chair set for Mother who loves her Canasta would be exactly to her liking. A luxurious gold-tooled leather top table for the newly-weds just setting up house would pour sincere thanks upon the giver for many a year to come from the happy couple.

Even Dad can be tickled pink with a gift table if it's a handsome sturdy chairside style that will bear his current book or daily newspaper, a giant ashtray and a reading lamp close to his favorite chair.

Brother and Sister, busy with homework, will be thrilled with the thoughtfulness of gift desks of their very own. As well as for doing homework, Sister will use the desk's built-in bookshelves for her favorite books and Brother will use them to display his prized model airplanes.

Many of these desks are finished all-around and so can serve to divide Brother's or Sister's rooms into sleeping and study sections.

Light Up Christmas

There's nothing like a lamp, or a pair of them, to keep the cheery glow of Christmas in the house the year 'round, not to forget to mention the glow of warm appreciation in Mother's eyes.

If Mother has modern ideas, surprise her with one of the futuristic styles of ceramic or metal. If she's traditional-minded, she'll consider it a fine treat to receive a china, glass or brass design complete with pretty shade.

High in popularity on the home Christmas gift list is the cedar chest. So streamlined and smart, this year, a gift of one will surely be the treasure spot in the bride-to-be's eyes. She'll use it as a traditional "Hope Chest" before the Great Day and after, she'll whisk it away to her own home or apartment where it will become an important functional and decorative piece in her living room for many years to come.

Gifts, smaller in size, but looming large in importance to the comfort of every home and the joy of package-unwrapping on Christmas morning, supply an almost endless variety of choice.

Hassocks to Mirrors

There are deeply-cushioned hassocks to give the younger members of the family so they too may have exclusive seating rights in the living room. And Mother will appreciate a hassock for seating extra guests.

There's the handsome magazine rack Dad will want to have conveniently near his "evening relaxation" chair. There are mirrors, pictures and bric-a-brac shelves for every room in the house, styled to blend with most every decor imaginable.

In short, the stores are filled with desirable gifts for the home, and all that is necessary to insure successful findings and a truly warm Merry Christmas is to get out and shop early while leisurely choosing is still possible and selections are at their peak.

NEW VERSIONS of all-time Christmas favorite for boys age six to ten: this neat lightweight sled and a wagon that's built as sturdy as a truck.

GIVE PEARLS TO THAT PEARL OF A GIRL and see how her eyes shine with appreciative delight. Treat her to a lustrous necklace, a choker or pretty earrings, or give her an entire set. and sure enough, that gift of pearls will be one of her favorites 'neath the tree.

Color in Decoration Livens Red and Green of Season

By HENRY B. AUL

This year make the traditional red and greenery of Christmas sparkle with colored lights and shiny ornaments, colored berries, tinsel and ribbons. Red and green mixed in equal parts form gray. Use gold and blue, yellow, pink, and violet, silver and white with them for gay glitter.

Decorations placed high in the air have an appealing lightness and gayety about them that attract the attention of every one. The tops of doorways, windows and archways, ceiling beams and, of course, ceiling light fixtures are possible locations for the holiday decorator to consider.

In a small entrance hall it is entirely practical to festoon the ceiling with ornaments to create a colorful welcome for holiday visitors. In the example illustrated, the ceiling is crisscrossed with narrow green and red ribbons, 18 inches apart each way. They are fastened at the ends to the wall or picture moulding. The ornaments and a small sprig of greens are attached at the points where the ribbons cross each other This arrangement can be used on any ceiling of limited size. Scotch tape supports the ribbons from sagging in the centre of the ceiling.

Mobile Ornaments

Those to whom the constant movement of light and color is intriguing may want to experiment with mobile ornaments and foliage. The arrangement illustrated is hung at the side of a wide doorway. Rigid wires or light wood dowels are used for the crossarms and they can be suspended on re-inforced chains of ornaments, wires or ribbons. The crossarms are painted white, gold or silver, while a sprig of holly with berries attached is applied at the points where the vertical supports and crossarms meet.

Large ornaments are balanced by weight and leverage against groups of smaller ones. A little sand, sugar or salt can be placed in the ornaments where additional weight is needed to bring them into balance. Once this is achieved, the least movement in the room will cause the arrangement to move attractively.

A collar of cut and crinkled foil placed around almost any kind of ornament will increase its sparkle and color many-fold. The collar is made by cutting a fringe along one edge of a two or three-inch strip of foil. The collar is placed around the top of the ornament with the fringe over the top and part way down the sides as shown.

Simple rosettes and thick pompoms can be made from this same fringed foil and from colored metallic paper. They are used alone as ornaments and to add sparkle and color to all-green arrangements.

Ornamental Background

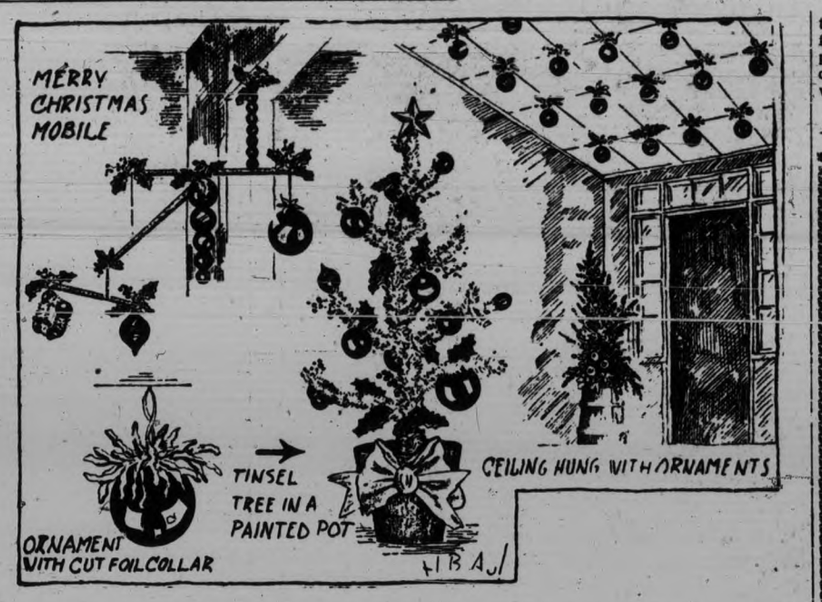
Deciduous branches painted white, gold or silver form an ornamental background for many types of indoor decorations. They can be trimmed with ornaments, candy, ribbon bows and lights to be used on the mantel, hung above the mantel, or in the windows. Well formed branches also are used as the basis for small trees to place prominently on a table, stand, the mantel or window sill.

A branch is used as the backbone for the tinsel tree illustrated. The branch is first painted silver, gold or white and then the tinsel is tied to or twined around the branches. Coat-hanger wire can be used to fill in missing side branches.

The "tree" is fitted on the bottom with a small cross-cleat that helps to hold it upright in the flowerpot container. The pot, which is filled with small stones or sand, is painted to match the tree and a large red bow is tied around its top. Regular ornaments are used in trimming the tree, wth holly leaves and berries tied on here and there to introduce a note of green along the tinsel branches.

IMPROVE RICE

The Republic of El Salvador has developed a new type of rice yielding twice as much per acre.



Clothes A Popular Gift This Christmas

As varied as the snowflakes on a ski run are the gift possibilities for men this year, with wearables ranking foremost as desirable in the practical minds of most men

There is probably only one other classification of gifts that might conceivably outrank the man's interest in practical clothes It is the all-embraceable gadgetry group which may include everything from a new fangled tie clip to a 1950 model electric shaver.

To help make selections for the men in your life, try to recall the things they have mentioned that they have wanted so badly, but never got around to buying for themselves. It's the nature of the male, you know, to talk freely and do little for himself.

This therefore is your chance to play a most satisfactory Santa . . . to play the type of Santa who knows that while men are growing more and more fashion-conscious, whatever they want, and especially as a gift, must also have long usefulness.

Fashion and Utility

And this combination of fashion and utility is very strongly reflected in everything men wear from pyjamas to raincoats.

Take lounging robes, for example . . . something a man rarely buys for himself. They are featured in a wide range indeed this year with a robe available to suit every purse, purpose and personality. Yes, television has had a lot of influence on the variety available this year, and so has the great increase in travel.

Therefore we have the flowing lounge robe in the rage-of-the-season patterns and the terry cloth towelling models that clip around the waist, the robe that folds into its own small bag for easy packing, and the distinguished robes to be worn at the home television party.

A surprising trend noted from last year, is the idea of giving a top coat as a Christmas gift. Here again the range is wide including tweedy models, gabardines and reversibles, and there are of course the increasingly popular storm coats. These deserve special consideration this year.

Does he have enough shirts, pyjamas, hankerchiefs, sox and ties? What man ever has? Or what about the mufflers he needs, the belts, link sets? And when considering these things as accessory gifts, remember to choose them early so you may plan to have them monogramed.

Cosmetics for men have long ceased to have any feminine connotation. They are really shaving accessories anyway, with special attention to the needs of the fastidious man, and they come handsomely packaged.

Which reminds us all that the electric shaver or the fine razor always make excellent gifts. So do magnifying mirrors.

They Love Leather.

Browse through leather goods departments. Men love leather. New wallets, key cases, portfolios, brief cases, and new travelling bags. Just so they are made of fine leather and handsomely styled.

And finally, in this brief resume, we come to the sports and hobbies of the male which offer in themselves a limitless opportunity for much-appreciated gift giving.

Here the jackets, shirts and sweaters for the sportsman for wear at play, in the field, or at the club are top favorites, and fashion plays a most important part. Choose with care because chances are your man knows what's right.

Is he a fisherman? Then tackle is his bait. Is he a golfer? Anything from a dozen balls to a new bag is par for Christmas. Maybe he relaxes by working with wood. The hardware store is a good place to shop for tool kits. Some men make miniature trains their hobby. Others are amateur photographers. Nearly all play cards.

Know your man and choosing gifts for this Christmas will be easy.

Tasteless, Tough Toys Make Ideal Babies' Gifts

For the nursery set this Christmas, Santa has toys that will bring cheers from parents and plenty of happiness to all of the little ones from the gurgling six months old baby on up.

Perhaps the most exciting fact about the new playthings for babies concerns sensible materials of which they are being made. Plastics are helping to make toys for the younger ones almost impervious to lusty bangings. They are tasteless and they are sanitary and easily cleaned, which is very important.

Soft rubber insides of many make them good "bites" for the teethers.

Practically all of them are designed with careful concern for baby's mental capacity. For instance, there is an adjustable corduroy bootee with tin plastic dog attached so that a six month child may play with the toy as he does with his toes.

For an eight month old member of the crib set there is a plastic gym for attachment to the crib with a ring pull that makes a plastic clown caper.

There are toys that adjust as the child matures. One is a roller toy light enough to double as a rattle. Later it can be transformed into a push-pull toy.

For the play yard contingent there are new rubber animals that hold their shape and are easily cleaned with a damp cloth. And there are clever music boxes.

To help those youngsters just beginning to learn to walk there are a great host of attractive toys.

NEVER AN END to the need for small tables. That's why another is always welcome, or better yet a nest of them as shown above.

Busy Stork

CHURCHILL, Man. — (CP)— Nine babies were born in hospital at the Fort Churchill army camp in October, the highest monthly figure on record. The previous high total was seven. Of October's babies, seven were born to parents connected with the forces or the government's northern research organization.

BOTH SWEET

Although sugar beets and sugar canes are not chemically related, sugar from both is identical.

New Robes Are Practical and Pretty

By GAILE DUGAS

NEW YORK—(NEA)—Fashion blended with comfort produces house robes this season which look pretty but are practical for the leisure hours at home.

Few women lead the kind of lives which permit them to trail feathery fronds into the butter over a fourth cup of coffee at breakfast. For busy women, elaborate satin and velvet negligees are impractical. So designers have created house robes which are new in line and colour but well able to fit in with everyday living.

The soft tent line shows up in these robes, frequently quilted in taffeta and cut to street length. The nightshirt becomes a robe, too, when it's sashed or belted. The horseshoe neckline used for suits is used for robes, too, in combination with a tiny waistline.

The tailored robe looks new when it appears as an indoor flannel duster (left), cut like a coat and neatly finished with roomy pockets. This street-length robe(in grey, is piped and trimmed in red.

A finger-tip length lounging coat (right) is pretty over gowns or pyjamas. In quilted acetate rayon crepe, it has a mandarin collar, double pockets with contrasting trim and self-covered buttons.

Cowboy Gifts Popular At Christmas

With the playtime thinking of youngsters so predominately influenced by the West this year, Old St. Nick hooked a trailer to his traditional sleigh in order to bring an extra bag full of rodeo equipment to town with which to make both boys and girls extra happy this Christmas.

Yes, the "western" gifts for Sister are just as plentiful as those for Brother because she has made it quite clear that there are no seconds in this matter of rooting for Roy and Gene and Hoppy and all the others from the plains.

Dolls have discarded fluffy skirts for fringed trimmed chaps and cowgirl skirts, just as new play-togs for sister have done in many instances. No doubt some of the younger boys will cast a wistful eye at them while others will want the lifelike replicas of their favorite Television characters.

Sox-shooters Popular

Yes the bad men had better lay low beginning Christmas for glittering six shooters in handsomely studded holsters are ready to go into the eager hands of the children. Some of the guns eject smoke for realism.

The smart looking new chaps, authentic in detail and brilliant with decorations will thrill the youngsters when they see them Christmas morning.

You can choose complete equipment for either boy or girl or buy pieces separately.

The western influence is carried beyond clothes and "equipment," and dolls. Among gifts inspired by the cowboys are western coloring books with crayons, cowboy boot banks and even tricycles tricked up in western style.

LITERARY LABOR

A 16-volume edition of the works of Honore de Balzac has been translated into Hungarian.

Indians Study T.B.

OSLO, Norway (CP). — Four doctors from India were among a group arriving in Norway to study the treatment of tuberculosis here. The doctors were invited to the Tuberculosis Commission of Norway's organization for relief to Europe.

Summer Lingers

STEWIACKE, N.S. —(CP)— Murray, Frank and Arnold Rainforth found a batch of pussy willows, dandelions and buttercups blooming in a field near here as November opened. The plants were as fresh as in the spring.

Send Flowers For Christmas

Say "Merry Christmas" the loveliest way of all this year. Send flowers to your loved ones and friends. And let flowers and gay greenery add glad cheer to your home through the holiday season.

A corsage for a "special someone" takes loving shape when it's Christmas-traditional poinsettias or a gay cluster of acorns tinted white and all dressed up for the holiday with red berries, some Christmas fern and a pert little red bow. Or an ever welcome corsage of warm-hued chrysanthemums, might be the corsage she would love bst.

Perfect surprise for a proud homemaker is the potted plant. Send her Santa Claus red poinsettias, lovely Calla Lilies, fulsome azaleas, fragrant roses or gardenias. Each one of these will pay a lasting tribute to your thoughtfulness.

To carry the spirit of Christmas right into your home, adorn your front door with a welcoming wreath or a gay ribbon-tied cluster of hemlock, pine or spruce. Inside, festoon loops of hemlock, ground pine or laured about the rooms and drape it gracefully too above the hanging stockings on your mantelpiece. And above all don't forget to hang mistletoe above doorways arranged to peep out as a pleasing surprise. For your festive holiday table, plan a gay centrepiece of evergreens, acorns, and red berries prettily centreing red candles.

THE LOVELIEST DAY DREAM OF ALL COMES TRUE with gifts of a warm, cute-as-a-wink quilted shortie robe that's just right for opening gifts on Christmas A.M., later gives comfort at leisurely brunches; and pyjamas, luxurious to see as they are luxurious to wear, holding a promise, of course, for sweet dreams always.

Such Lovely Flames

By JOHN SCOTT DOUGLAS

Fred Dobson plugged in the string of lights and then stood back to admire the blue and red and green candle globes on the Christmas tree. Ellen left the table she was setting to study the effect.

"Nice little tree, Fred. Seems a shame, though, not to be sharing it with someone. This was our year—"

And then she stopped, and her face, still pretty in middle age, grew pink. Fred knew she'd been about to say that it was their year to have the Robbins to Christmas dinner. Every year since their children had married and left they had either entertained their neighbors or had been their guests.

But now, by mutual consent, the quarrel with the Robbins was not mentioned. It was characteristic of Ellen not to blame Fred. And that took forbearance because Martha Robbins had been her dearest friend.

Ellen sighed. "Goodness! the turkey must be almost ready."

Fred thought of their quarrel, which had started because of a cocker puppy which couldn't stay home. Tom, with his usual consideration for his neighbors, had started to build a fence to keep the dog out of the Dobson's garden. Fred thought the fence was a foot within his own property line, and jokingly said so.

Tom had laughed, "Who's paying for it?"

"I'll pay half," Fred had said, "if you'll buy the strip you're using."

The joke, within a matter of days, had taken on an edge, and then they gave up speaking. No longer did they fish and hunt together, or play in their usual Saturday foursomes.

By then, beginning to fume at Tom's high-handedness, Fred had his property surveyed, only to discover that his garden had in reality extended onto his neighbor's property. The fence was where it belonged.

Fred wanted to apologize, but every time he stepped outside, Tom walked into the house.

Within a matter of seconds, Fred was too busy to think of the quarrel. The little Christmas tree was on fire and crackling fiercely. He flung open the door and screamed. "Fire! help! help!" And then, snatching up the hall runner he'd been planning to replace, he knocked over the tree and began beating out the flames.

Behind him Tom called, "Stay with it, pal—I'll get something."

He was back in a moment with a rake. Lifting the smoldering tree with the tines, he hurled it out onto the snowy lawn.

Martha Robbins had appeared by then. Seeing Ellen staring dazedly at the cloud of smoke and the blackened wall where the tree had stood, she opened the the windows and then slipped her arm around Ellen's shoulders.

"Poor dear! And just when you were sitting down to your Christmas dinner. After the smoke has thinned out, this room will be freezing. You and Fred are having dinner with us."

Ellen looked happy but flustered. "But this was our year—"

"Nonsense!" Tom said heartily. "We'll eat with you next year."

"That will be swell," Fred said, beaming.

When they started Martha Robbins' bountiful dinner, there was at first a little stiffness. But Tom was soon joking about Fred's "high forehead," and Fred was asking Tom if he'd considered selling his hair to a wire-brush factory.

As they said hearty farewells later, Tom remarked, "Can't say I'm sorry about that fire. We've sure missed you folks."

"And it was all my fault," Fred said. "I was wrong about—"

"Aw, forget it," Tom interrupted. "How about some golf Saturday?"

When they reached home Fred looked at the blackened wall speculatively. "No real damage done, Ellen. A coat of paint will fix it up."

"How do you suppose the tree ever caught fire?" Ellen asked.

Fred grinned sheepishly. "A match and a bunch of tissue paper may have helped."

Glamor Gifts Appreciated By All Women

Every woman, whether she's young in years or wonderfully young in spirit—whether she spends her hours homemaking or at a typewriter—loves an aura of exciting glamor and glitter 'round her Yuletide gifts. And this year, gifts are more exactly what she wants than ever before.

They're luxurious, ready to scintillate with the stamp of her own personality and designed to flatter her every mood.

For instance, if m'lady spends her hours at home, there are dramatically simple, yet elegantly accented ensembles to make her role as hostess of the television or canasta party one of unforgettable loveliness.

Gay Slippers

To go with her at-home costumes and peep out from beneath her very best negligees, there are gay, but oh so comfortable slippers.

For shopping sprees and warm comfort too, a storm coat is sure to be a fashion-pride with its handsome tailoring and snug mouton or alpaca collar.

And to accessorize it and other coats exactly right, there are a wealth of striking shoulder-strap handbags in bright plaids and fine leathers as well as smaller size bags personalized with her own initials.

For the gal who makes a career her 9 to 5 activity, there are gifts that are glamorous and smart as they are useful. Gaily patterned little scarfs in a variety of sizes will lend striking accent to her every costume.

Glove Holder

A glove circlet to keep her gloves from straying from her bag will appeal to her appreciation of the novel. Envelop her in the soft, warm folds of a new fur coat, cape or scarf and wear a never-vanishing halo of mistletoe. (Remember, too, that precious gift fur is just as prized be it muskrat or mouton instead of mink or sable.)

Gift buying for a busy young date-maker? What better than to surprise her with one of the many joyous, memory-making gifts.

A compact encrusted with sparkling jewels will put gay glitter at her finger-tips. Costume jewelry to bring sparkle and joy to her every day. Choose it beguiling and lovely, be it a rhinestone encrusted necklace or lustrous pearl earrings.

Fine Luggage

Fine luggage, feminine as can be in a bright color or pattern, will prove prideful accompaniment traveling to busy dance-at-a-distance weekends or on romance-laden journeys. The tiniest pieces of precious furs—a set of ermine tails, a diminutive mink ascot—will add luxurious appeal to every costume.

And what lady who rates top-place honors on a Christmas gift list wouldn't adore an aura created to be hers and hers alone with perfumes and colognes and sweet-scented bath salts, all selected with a vision of her personality, her own way, then surely exciting and right.

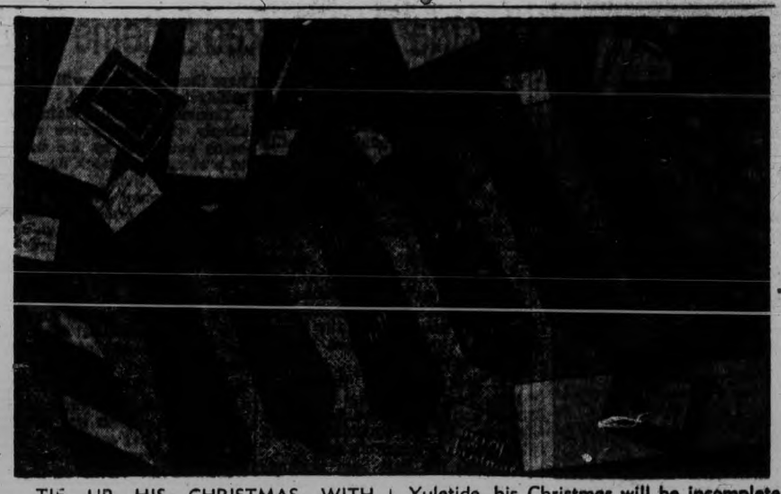
And surely she'll adore to have her beauty pampered with little "aids." Lipsticks and powders, nail polish and accessories, compact in a kit or individually tempting and gala in wrappings, bright as the Christmas Tree itself, and so be-charmingly packaged they're sure to win "first opened" privileges.

She'll love too, to be wrapped in glamor in a filmy negligee, mid-night black or angelic white, that promises to fill each evening with romance, each morning she wears it, with bright sunshine.

Make It Glamorous

Assure her sweet dreams the year around with nighties and pyjamas carefully culled to bring the stars right out of the heavens and into her eyes. Or treat her with a good looking billfold that holds her spending money secretly safe and still leaves ample room for a picture of "that wonderful guy," a pair of gloves, pert and short or handsomely long or hose with glittering sequin or exquisitely embroidered clocks.

Just choose her glamor gift with her personality and her favorite activities in mind and be assured that it will be the perfect gift for 'neath the tree and the 365 days of the year to come.



TIE UP HIS CHRISTMAS WITH PLEASURE and we do mean "tie." Figures show that 85 per cent of the ties sold throughout the year are bought by women which means that no matter what else, that man of yours will be getting from you this Yuletide, his Christmas will be incomplete without some ties. With a hundred thousand color combinations and forty thousand different patterns available, of which the above are representative, being "tied by you" this season, will give him sure satisfaction.

Thoughtful Note

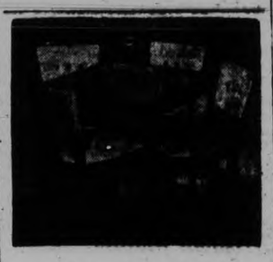
GLASGOW, Scotland—(CP)—A note on the stairs of an office here said: "Don't go upstairs. Body of man lying there. Phone police." Alongside were two pennies for the telephone call. Police later found the body of a man who had slashed his wrists.

Build Shelters

OSLO, Norway —(CP)— All larger cities in Norway have been directed to provide air raid shelters for at least 20 per cent of their population. Oslo during the next two years will construct bomb-proof shelters for about 60,000 people and others will be built at Bergen, Trondheim and Stavanger.

CLANS TO GATHER

Members of the Clan Munro from all over the world will gather at Foulis Castle in Ross-Shire Scotland, in 1951.



USEFUL AND DECORATIVE for many a year to come, is the gift of a card table and chair set that blends best with their decor and serves equally well for informal dining or party serving as it does for Canasta playing.

Controversial Religious Topics Urged On British Radio Series

LONDON —(CP)— A call for further experiments in controversial religious discussion over the air is advocated in a report just submitted to the British Council of Churches by a special commission on broadcasting.

The commission, under the chairmanship of the Rt. Rev. F. A. Cockin, Bishop of Bristol, was set up some months ago to study from a Christian standpoint the influence of broadcasting on the life of the nation. Its findings have been referred to the constituent churches for consideration.

Recommendations finally approved will be presented before parliament tackles revision of the British Broadcasting Corporation charter next year.

The report suggests that Christianity's contribution to broadcasting should not be restricted to religious services, and adds: "The full scope of Christianity is revealed only when it is allowed to appear in conflict with rival views. The recent experiments in controversial broadcasting should therefore be extended to cover a wider range of listeners."

Opposes Suggestion

Dr. Cyril Garbett, archbishop of York, took issue with this recommendation.

"Surely," he said, "we have plenty of opportunities already for carrying on controversy without airing it in public where it might be misunderstood."

The commission repudiated the idea that the Church should have any right to veto or censorship over secular programs, but submitted that the Christian view had a right to be heard.

On the question of broadcasting control the report urged continuance of the present monopoly, system, or some modification of it. A public corporation, it contended, was better designed to ensure the good of the community than either government control or commercial broadcasting.

Salesmanship

The British Travel Association last summer co-operated with the BBC in a new type of program. It was a series of recorded interviews with overseas visitors in which were neatly fitted many a plug for Britain's historic attractions.

Macdonald Hastings, one of British radio's top interviewers, toured the country with a recording unit, picking out the spots where he was most likely to meet overseas visitors.

He visited such places as Hampton Court, Eton College, Windsor, Oxford, Warwick Castle, Stratford-on-Avon and Edinburgh. At each point he asked visitors if they would care to record a radio interview. The results were broadcast without delay to New York and there re-recorded and in many cases sent to the home-towns of the individual visitors.

Christmas Present

By SHIRLEY SARGENT

The small kitten called Tupid watched preparations for Christmas dully. Only the middle boy, one Archie Raymond, noticed his apathy. The tree, in all its green splendor, stood tall in the living room bedecked with an increasing number of ornaments.

"Careful," Marcia Raymond admonished her son sharply. "Don't hang those big balls down so low. The kitten will break them."

Gently Archie lifted them to a higher bough, drawing in the pungent scent of the pine. Only he saw that the kitten walked slowly under the tree unaware of the boughs tickling her furry back. His youngest brother had named the roly-poly butterscotch kitten Tupid. Young Billy was easily aroused to fits of anger. His favorite expression, under stress, was a lisped, "You 'tupid, you big 'tupid."

Archie, his ten-year-old brother Joe, and his parents laughed at the little boy's wrath and, because the kitten was slower than the others in the litter, they named him, most affectionately, Tupid.

"Archie" Mrs. Raymond was flurried from all the excitement, "That blue globe is much too, low, Tupid will get it. I don't doubt," she added pessimistically, "that we will lose half of our globes."

Archie could see that Tupid had no interest either in the swaying boughs or the brilliant-colored fragile balls. For two days Tupid had wandered carelessly about the house and yard. He wasn't playful or friendly and he had stopped purring. Only Archie sensed that the kitten was lonesome for his sisters and brothers and his mother. At first there had been four balls of fur and a proud old alley cat mother. As they grew, they had become playful, pattering swiftly through the house. But now they were all gone, including the mother. Just Tupid was left to keep. Even the black imp with shoe-button eyes had been given away. Tar Baby, who had been the boss of the litter, had been gone barely two days, and Tupid missed him.

"Well," his father's voice boomed again, as he climbed down the ladder, "All done in time for Christmas Eve. Come here, Joe, Archie, you too Billy. I want you to see this fine tree."

Mrs. Raymond switched the lights off and Archie shivered in delighted excitement as the tree blazed, illumined by the strings of lights and balls. The magic moment was shattered by the sharp ring of the doorbell.

A rush of cold air came in as Mr. Raymond flung open the door wide to admit a bundled figure. "My father says I can't keep the kitten," Gerald Parks recited automatically, close to tears. "I have to give it back because it gives my father hay fever." Gerald went out in another rush of frosty air, but not before Mrs. Raymond had pressed a fat candy cane into his mittened hand.

Tar Baby huddled in the middle of the floor. "Watch it, boys," Mr. Raymond warned, "Lets just watch him. He feels strange here now; he'll be all right in a while."

Archie saw Tupid jump from the sofa with a purr of delight. Tupid circled and smelled at the black kitten until he was satisfied. Then his tongue flicked out to lick the kitten. Tupid's paws caressed him as his tongue washed him. The black kitten stood passive as Tupid showered his pent-up love on him.

"Thay, mommy," Billy lisped, "Tupid kissing him, isn't he?"

"Um," Mrs. Raymond agreed. Tar Baby's Tupid's Christmas present."

Mr. Raymond's eyes swept his sons' awe-struck faces, "No," he said firmly, "He's our Christmas present too."

Austria Thwarts Red Scheme To Wreck Economy

By HUBERT HARRISON

VIENNA —(Reuters)— Austria is unique in the post-war world, not only for maintaining her unity despite division by Russian and Western occupation, but for being the only country where resistance has been put up against Russian designs in regions under Soviet control.

Vice-Chancellor Adolf Shaerf stressed this in a speech following the recent Communist-instigated attempt to disturb the economy and political life of the country by widespread strikes and demonstrations.

It was the first time since 1945, said Shaerf, that Austrians have actively crushed movements favored by the Russians instead of passively accepting them.

It was the first time railwaymen, police, or postmen in the Russian zone had taken measures against "demonstrators and saboteurs who felt themselves to be under the protection of the Russians."

It has never happened in Hungary, Rumania, Czechoslovakia or Eastern Germany. The people in those countries have never revolted against a Soviet-inspired movement or prevented it from achieving its objective.

Difficult To Say

What did happen in Austria during the first week in October this year? Was there really an attempt to overthrow the government and set up a "people's democracy?" Were the lurid accounts in some sections of the foreign press accurate or not? Perhaps these questions will never be satisfactorily answered.

Communist leaders claim it was simply the legal strike weapon being employed by the workers to prevent "an attack upon their standard of living." They claim the government blew the affair up and then crushed it by the use of brutal force through police and Socialist "defence corps."

Johann Boehm, president of the Austrian Trade Union Federation, on the other hand, claimed: "We have infallible proofs that the aim of the Communist efforts was the establishment of a people's democracy."

Government Version

A government proclamation stated: "An assault was made on Austria and her economy, carried out by irresponsible elements, frustrated by virtue of the decisive resistance of the population and the courageous actions of the security forces."

The proclamation added "during the past few days the Communists attempted to establish a people's democracy here."

Officials of the People's party, the largest parliamentary party which with the Socialists forms the coalition government, have pointed out also that this was much more than a mere legal strike.

Well Planned

The activities of the strikers and the well-organized motorized bands which carried out the sabotage had obviously been well planned. They were moves laid down in any text book on revolutionary action.

The occupation of post offices, railway stations, telephone exchanges, and other such points by workers not working in those establishments, it is claimed, had nothing to do with strike activity. The fact that they had concrete ready mixed to pour into the switches, bands of women and children drilled to squat on the rail and streetcar tracks, groups trained ready to move into the non-Communist controlled factories and force the workers to leave against their will, car loads of sand ready to tip on the streets in Vienna to stop traffic, points to a well-planned campaign going far beyond mere strike action.

The government promised during the strike period that those who ordered and carried out illegal actions would be brought to trial immediately.

Russian authorities, however, refused to allow persons charged with illegal activities during the strike to be dismissed or tried.

Menus For Special Purposes

By MARY MOORE

Since Garny's friends are so generous and hospitality-minded, we were invited out so often during my visit to the States last week, that she had to call a halt if she was going to do any entertaining in her own home. So the Tuesday before American Thanksgiving she had a pre-Thanksgiving dinner party.

It was a bankuet studded with star foods all of which deserve special mention but the brightest star was a Crown Roast of pork. Since this elegant dish has never been included in any of the menus in this column I will go into detail.

Pre-American Thanksgiving Dinner

Cider Cocktails

O Penface Canapes: Avocado and Smoked Shrimp (see notes)

Crown Roast of Pork filled with Stuffing (see notes) and Garnished with Fried Apple Rings and Candied Small carrots

Spinach with Horseradish and Whipped Cream Sauce Old-fashioned Cornbread Celery, Carrot Sticks, Ripe Olives, Gherkins

Angel Food with Lemon Filling and Garnish of Glazed Grapes (see notes)

Salted Pecans Coffee

Directions

Your Butcher must have the know-how for the crown roast—because this cannot be executed by an amateur. When it is delivered to your kitchen table, fill it with fresh bread stuffing made thus: 1 loaf sliced fresh white bread pulled into crumbs—I did this and it took me 1 hour as fast as my fingers could fly; the fresh pork which was trimmed from the ends of the ribs of the roast was ground; and the fat fried out of it, drained, and added to the breadcrumbs; 1 tablespoon homeraised and dried and crumbled sage; 1 small grated onion sauted for 2 minutes in 2 tablespoons butter; ½ teaspoon salt, ½ teaspoon MSG or Accent, 1 beaten egg, ½ cup milk, ½ teaspoon black pepper. This is piled in the centre of the "crown" and high inside the protuding ribs. Roast 30 minutes to the pound at 325 deg. Fahr.

The canapes are simple; for the avocado mash it and mix with lemon juice and salt and pile on wafer crackers; for the shrimp use canned smoked shrimp paste on rounds of brown bread.

Lemon filling for Angel Food: Soak 1½ teaspoons gelatine in 2 tablespoons cold water. In top of double boiler combine 3 egg yolks, 6 tablespoons each sugar and lemon juice, 1 teaspoon lemon rind grated and cook over boiling water, stirring, until it just thickens. Remover from heat and add the soaked gelatine and 6 tablespoons corn syrup. When cool fold in three stiffly beaten egg whites.

Split an angel food cake into four layers. Spread lemon filling between each layer. If desired spread cake with whipped cream and decorate with little slivers of candied lemon peel.

To glaze the grapes wash and dry green and red imported grapes which have been broken into small bunches, and brush them on the outer surfaces with egg white; dip in granulated sugar. When the grains of sugar dissolve in the egg white they glisten and to any dessert service.

Ralph Fixes Things

By DOROTHY KILIAN

It was Christmas Eve but the group of people sitting on the floor in the Reed's living-room certainly weren't in a festive mood.

"Doggonitt," Dad exclaimed as he stared gloomily at the shiny tracks and the motionless cars of a new electric train. "What's wrong with this thing anyway?"

"We've put it together exactly according to directions, I'm sure we have," fifteen-year-old Rick insisted.

"Well, something's got to be done," said Mom, looking in from the kitchen where she was stuffing a turkey. "Little Jackie's been praying for that train for months and how'll he feel tomorrow morning if the thing won't run?"

Maybe Ralph can help. He's coming by for me in a few minutes, you know," said Wilma, the pretty big sister of the family.

"Oh, him!" Rick was scornful. "That guy from the big city with his socks and tie and handkerchiefs that match! What does he know about motors?"

"Rick!" Mom reproved.

"Oh, I know you all think of him as an outsider," Wilma said. "If you only really knew him better! Mom, I do wish you'd let me ask him to breakfast."

"I'm sorry dear, but I just don't think he'd fit in."

The doorbell rang. Wilma answered it and she and Ralph exchanged happy hellos.

Rick immediately threw out the challenge to the tall, blond, well-dressed young man. "We can't make this train go. Can you tell what's wrong with it?"

"Maybe," Ralph said quietly. "I used to have a train something like this."

"Look out, that cotton batting stuff will stick to your trousers," Dad warned.

"That's snow, and the snow around here is clean."

Dad looked slightly startled.

Wilma smiled. She remembered how impressed Ralph had been by the whiteness of the drifts even on Main street last night.

"The flakes are practically sooty before they even reach the ground in Chicago," he had said.

"Tracks are OK." Ralph straightened up. Then he picked up the shiny black engine carefully and turned it over and over. He put it up to eye level and peered into its workings.

"The professional touch!" Rick muttered.

"There may be oil in the commutator," Ralph said. "That sometimes happens with a new engine. I'll see if I can get it out."

"I'll get you a rag, Ralph, just a minute." Wilma got up and started for the kitchen.

"Never mind, this'll do," Ralph answered, pulling his perfectly folded wine-colored handkerchief out of his jacket pocket.

He worked quietly for a moment, gently poking the corner of the handkerchief into the inside of the engine. Then he set the engine carefully down on the track and said, "Turn on the juice, will you Rick?"

Rick meekly moved forward the black lever at the transformer. There was a whirring sound, the wheels began to move, and the little puffer-billy whizzed and clacked around the curve.

"Praises be!" Dad heaved a loud sigh of relief.

Ralph quietly got up from the floor and turned to Wilma. "Maybe we'd better go now, if we want to catch he gang."

"All right, Ralph," Wilma said. Her eyes turned pleadingly to Mrs. Reed, "Mom—"

"Oh, yes, Wilma," Mom interrupted. Turning to Ralph she said heartily, "In all the excitement we almost forgot to ask you to be sure to come over for late breakfast with us tomorrow. It's just a simple family affair, but we surely would like to have you with us."

"You bet." Dad's eyes twinkled. "Something might go wrong again and we'd feel safer with you around to fix it."

BIG VOTE

GREENWOOD, N.S. — (CP) — When Flt. Sgt. H. L. MacAulay of Point Tupper was elected first mayor of the housing community at the big RCAF station here, 95 per cent of eligible voters turned out. Absentee voters were either on duty or on leave.

Workers Enjoy Northern Life

ST. JOHN'S, Nfld. (CP). — It might be surprising to some, but most of the Canadian civilian workers on Labrador bases enjoy the life of the northland.

Take Goose Bay, owned by Canada but operated jointly with the United States. Since the big airport was constructed in 1941 Goose Bay has become a beehive of activity and through the years Canadians from Newfoundland to British Columbia have moved in to work for the United States Air Force there.

Workers find employment in every type of position — professional, supervisory, skilled trades, fire fighting, maintenance, clerical and stenographic.

An agreeable combination of warm, comfortable living quarters, the USAF says, combines with an abundance of food and a post exchange that stocks everything to take care of necessities of life.

Elenor Nugent of Saint John, N.B., secretary to the civilian personnel officer since last January, is quite happy.

Good Living Conditions

"I like it here," she says, "and living conditions for the girls are fine indeed."

Betty Babii, of Montreal, secretary of the base adjutant, comments that the "climate is much drier than Montreal's."

Alberie Gagne of St. Quentin, N.B., like the friendly people and the "very good food."

An old-timer, Ronald Maher of St. John's, says: "Our quarters are excellent and we get plenty of good heat during the cold weather." He's also president of the popular boat club.

Other old-timers include Louis Viel of Cornwall, Ont., and Frank Hogan of Moncton, N.B. Among the girls are Doris MacPherson of Montague, P.E.I.; Isobel McAuley of Souris, P.E.I.; and Marjorie Henry of Ottawa.

One-Track Mind

By SHIRLEY SARGENT

The very nicest thing about Henry Ellis, Henry had decided, was the fact that he was nine years old. He possessed another attribute variously described by his mother as stubbornness, stupidity, and the result of a one track mind.

To get something he really wanted, Henry had learned from experience, he always had to work hard and long. Pestering his mother for what he wanted came easiest.

"Why not, Mom?" he begged. "Why can't I do it? I want to more than anything in the world. I'd be so good you wouldn't know me."

Finally his mother gave in to his endless teasing and what she considered impossible promises.

"All right, all right," she said, "we'll see if you can be good for a whole month and then—well, we'll see."

His long-awaited goal was in sight, but Henry had to admire his mother's shrewdness. Knowing that Rita, who was five, would keep close tab on him, Mrs. Ellis put her in Henry's charge for the month. Playing nursemaid to a five-year-old was a stern task, even when he could be as nasty as he wanted—but taking care of her on his good behavior was purely awful. All this time she would taint her demands with "Or I'll tell mama."

Only once he told her calmly but desperately, "If I ever have any children, they'll all be boys or all be girls. I'm not going to make any little boy or mine have a little sister. No sir, I'll give him a turtle or a goat or something he wants, not a little sister."

Rita just barely listened to him before demanding, "Now be a turtle for me, Henry. Crawl like a turtle and pull your head in a shell."

The days crept past Christmas and Henry knew that being good was surely a most terrible experience. Then at last the month was over and he heard his mother asking, "Had enough of being good, Henry?"

Feeling it to be a trick question, he answered casually that "... would be fun to see the fellows again, and just sort of all over relax!" She laughed, encouraging him to go on. "Hey, mom, well, can I do it—you know?"

She kissed him, saying, "Yes."

Henry yelled "Hooray" as he ran into his room. Gosh, it had been worth waiting for after all—my but he hated girls, though. Ugh! There were some very important matters to attend to before he was quite ready. They wouldn't take so long, but the waiting would. He started unwrapping his packages. Thanks to mom, life was really fine.

A little before 12 that night Mrs. Ellis, noting the silence, went into Henry's room. His lights were blazing but the boy was asleep in a chair drawn close to an open window. She walked quietly over beside him. A whole month—thirty arduous days devoted to being good — he had worked for this night, and now he was asleep with the sum total of his dreams in his lap and fists. Soundly sleeping, he lay back in the chair, in one hand a noise-maker; clutched limply in the other, a large horn. The box in his lap contained piles of confetti, while reams of paper streamers were laid neatly over the chair arms. There was a ridiculous paper hat crushed into the chair back by his head, and, on the table near him, there was another horn. It had a white card tied on it labelled simply "For mother."

So, she thought, with tears in her eyes, a little man's plan for one night had included his mother. She shook him gently, settled his hat more perkily on his head, and picked up her own horn. Noise seemed suspended in the air.

"Wake up, little one track mind," she said, sitting him up straight. "Hurry and wake up so you can wish me a Happy New Year!"

Make Certain Presents Will Arrive In Time

First on every Christmas Gift Shopping List this year should be the gifts that you are going to have to entrust to the mail.

If you want to make sure that they reach their destination before Christmas Day, then don't wait until the last minute. Everything now points to the heaviest burden of Christmas mail in history.

One cardinal rule to remember is that the further the gift has to travel the more time should be allowed for the postman to make the delivery.

The other important rule is that care be taken in packaging the gift for mailing.

Best plan is to double wrap the gift. Do it first in gay gift wrapping, after making sure that the gift will not rattle around in its box.

Then put the "gift wrapped" package into a corrugated container of sufficient strength and securely enough bound for you to be sure that the package will not be damaged en-route.

And finally, have the package weighed carefully and be sure you have enough postage on it.

JUBILEE NEARS

The first wireless signal across the Atlantic was picked up by Marconi at St. John's, Nfld., in 1901.

IT'S YOUR MOVE! Watch the young folks go into action with great glee on Christmas Day when packages are opened to reveal the newest in engrossing games. The variety is great. Added to the old favorites are many new ones from which you can choose games to suit the special interests of any child

Give Delicacies

Plan a gift package of his favorite delicacies for that man in service. Canned lobster, crabmeat, caviar can all be included without fear of spoilage. And don't forget to include a can opener.

Santa's Factory Produces Lifelike Dolls

A peek into Santa's 1950 workshop reveals an exciting new generation of dolls so lifelike and talented that they are sure to delight every little girl. From top to bottom and in every corner stores are brimming to bursting with a wide and wonderful doll selection for this Christmas.

Though there is a doll to place under every tree in Canada, the extra super special dolls are expected to be snapped up fast. So perhaps one of wisest things mother or dad, or Aunt Mary or Uncle John can do is to take that favorite little girl for a stroll through the toy departments, and just observe her reactions.

The one she sighs for most longingly is the doll to "adopt" quickly.

Toy makers have completely capture a little girl's dream and interpreted it with the aid of amazing new materials. Toy shelves are peopled with next-to-real infant dolls who look for all the world like baby sister when she was first seen at the nursery window.

There's capivating "Li'l Darlin'," who is accurately scaled to a four-day-old baby from the infant creases on her face, to her tiny curling toes.

And there's chubby "Blessed Event" who faithfully reproduces the facial movements of a three weeks old baby. She puckers her lips in a kiss, nibbles, whimpers, pouts and even moves her tongue.

No picture of the layette set would be complete without "Little Chuckles," fetchingly dressed in a long embroidered christening gown.

Another Weeps Tears

There are adorable wetting dolls who exhibit talents that should endear them to tiny mothers. News comes of an infant Dy-Dee doll who in addition to wetting herself in accepted Dy-Dee fashion, blows bubbles and drinks from a straw. And there's "Tiny Tears" who after she has emptied her bottle and been squeezed, weeps real tears.

Dolls are more lovable and sqeezable because of the new plastics and foam rubber which make them as soft and resilient as real babies. These new compositions make dolls resistant to scuffing, trampling and other nursery hazards. The current harvest of dolls make sanitary playmates, because they are easy to clean and keep clean. Just a brief soaping restores their shiny looks.

Nylon hair, another exciting innovation, is used in popular sub deb dolls. Their hair can be shampooed and set into elaborate arrangements, a feature which should delight little girls.

TV Reflected

The latest in news and television is reflected in the new crop of dolls. Moving along the shelves, the eye spots "Howdy Doody," complete from his sprinkling of freckles to his shiny boots.

Triplets always make the front pages and the news of triplet dolls in the house should win the admiration of the neighborhood younger set. These dolls come as brother and sister or three-of-a-kind, dressed alike, and often housed in the same cradle.

Revived interest in the ballet finds its way into ballet movies, ballet type street shoes and of course ballet dolls. One of the prettiest wears a whirlly net skirt and tiny satin ballet slippers.

It's always been a plump little girl that sits under the tree. But Christmas 1950 brings a change. Notable in the doll displays are increased numbers of mischievous boy baby dolls, round and adorable in their smart new suits.

One little boy doll comes dressed for traditional Christmas weather in a zippered snow suit and warm woolly cap.

The new Christmas selection of dolls merges scientific advancement with an insight to what little girls have always wanted in dolls. The right choice of doll is sure to merit the giver a big shiny kiss, and the little girl a horde of pleasure.

Restoration Work Is Tough Job In Flood-Ravaged Area

MORRIS, Man. —(CP)— The road to rehabilitation is rough in flood-ravaged Morris.

Although the Red River receded five months ago, the southern Manitoba town of 1,100 still bears the scars. High cost of labor and materials is making the restoration difficult.

The Red River Valley board has awarded about $1,000,000 to repair homes in the area. About half has been spent.

Some residents have overspent their grants. A few say the board was niggardly in damage appraisal. Others complain of high building costs.

One Morris business man, who asked to remain anonymous, said "scandalous prices" are being charged by contractors and lumber dealers. He said the price of lumber in flooded districts is higher than elsewhere and that workers are getting as much as $1.45 an hour.

People Well Treated

Mayor Harry Shewman of Morris said the townspeople have been well treated by the board "except in a few cases." The biggest problem was a shortage of experienced labor. He said it is not true that contractors and lumber dealers have exploited the public.

But he said appraisers who checked farms have not been as fair. Farmers were having a tough time. Many had asked for reappraisals.

Mayor Shewman said the farmer is expected to repair his home, barn, machine shop and granary for the same amount as the town dweller gets to rebuild a home.

Only two families have quit the town as a result of the flood.

Three miles north of Morris is the Charlie Snarr farm. Before the flood it was prosperous. There was a seven-room house and sturdy farm building. Last spring the Red swept across the farm.

"Nobody along the whole Red River valley was hit harder," Snarr said. The property still is a pathetic scene of upturned buildings and smashed wreckage.

A board appraiser proposed a grant of $4,300 to put it back into shape. Mr. Snarr asked for a reappraisal, on grounds "it cost me about that much to replace the foundation of my house." He estimated it would cost $15,000 to restore the farm buildings to pre-flood condition.

"My livelihood depends on buildings other than my dwelling," said Mr. Snarr. "I've got to fix them to carry on."

Milk Threatened By Substitutes

TORONTO, Nov. 29 (CP). — J. S. Turnbull of Ottawa, president of the National Dairy Council, said yesterday the Canadian dairy industry is threatened by cheap dairy substitutes allowed into the country without proper tariffs.

Mr. Turnbull told the Ontario Milk Distributors Association that commercial bakeries are using cream substitutes and there are hardly any dairy products for which a substitute is not now on the market.

He charged that the public is being "defrauded."

The association adopted a resolution expressing "keen disappointment and entire disapproval" of the refusal of milk producers at Chatham, Ont., to accept an arbitration board price award.

"Such unwarranted action," the resolution said, "if allowed to go unchecked, can lead only to chaos, confusion and a disregard for the laws of the country."

The Village Has A Heart

By DOROTHY BOYS KILLIAN

The clock struck nine as Nola hung the last bauble on the fragrant green Christmas tree. Without even stepping back to admire the finished effect she went to the front window and peered out. A cold white moon illumined a cold white earth. She shivered. How lonely she had been in this tiny, quiet village!

When she had written Jim two months before that she was being evicted from their apartment in Chicago he had answered, "I'm hoping against hope to be home from occupation duty in time for Christmas, and I can't think of any place more perfect than Pineville to spend the holidays and my terminal leave. Remember my telling you what happy summers I spent there as a child, and how I'd always wanted to see it in winter? Do investigate this, as a Christmas present for me, Nola darling."

So she had come here and found a house. But somehow she felt that the villagers had ignored her as an outsider.

And now it was Christmas Eve. "He's not going to make it and that's that," Nola thought miserably. She knew that he had landed at San Francisco three days before and had been trying desperately to get a seat on a train or plane.

The telephone rang. "There's a telegram just come for you, Mrs. West, down here at the drug store. Very important."

"Yes?" Nola breathed.

"Chicago, 8 p.m. Am catching train. Get off Shoreham five miles east of Pineville 10 p.m. love Jim."

Nola leaned heavily against the wall and stared at the phone.

"Mrs. West, are you there?" Mr. Trotter, the druggist, sounded anxious. "Listen, you go out in the garage and get your car motor to warming up. My wife'll be up there in five minutes to stay with your little boy. Hurry now."

In joyful haste Nola peeked in at Jimmy—"Santa Claus is bringing you your Daddy, honey"—powdered her nose and put on her fur coat and boots.

The garage door stuck in its icy groove although she bent her whole weight against it. Suddenly, out of the darkness, a voice called. "It's me, Doc Ryan. We're on your party line you know, and heard the good news. I'm so used to driving out in all kinds of weather, my wife thought I'd better take you over."

"Dr. Ryan. I didn't realize 'til just now how I dreaded that trip alone."

A train whistle shrilled through the cold thin air as they drove up to the little depot.

"We made it!" Nola cried exultingly. "Come on." She held open the door.

But Doc muttered, "I'll stay here and keep my feet warm."

Now the huge black engine roared past, slowed down and slid to a stop. A coach vestibule door opened, and before the conductor could step down, a khaki-clad figure leaped on to the platform.

'Oh, darling, darling, darling." Nola's heart throbbed as she felt once more the thrilling warmth of Jim's arms around her.

"Nola!" Jim said everything in that word.

A few moments after as they walked to the car a voice boomed from within. "Glad you made it."

"Whoever you are—thanks," Jim answered. "It's people like you who made me want Nola to come to Pineville to wait for me."

"Get in and close the door. You're freezing me out," Doc grinned as he raced the motor.

"Christmas Eve," Jim said softly as they squeezed in with Doc. "You beside me, our baby just a few miles away, and a Christmas card place like Pineville to welcome us. Don't you love it there, darling?"

Nola glanced at Doc, thought of Mrs. Trotter and the others. "Yes, Jim, I do," she whispered. "I surely do."

Old Hunter's Call Brings Deer On Run

YARMOUTH, N.S. — (CP) — When anyone speaks of hunting in Yarmouth nearly everyone thinks of Watson Raynard.

A spry old man of 81, Raynard has developed the unusual ability to call deer. It all started about 30 years ago.

Tracking two deer, he lost them in a swamp. More in fun than in hope, he imitated the call he had heard from a doe. Within minutes a big buck walked out and was felled.

All summer he practised the three-note throaty call.

His friends scoffed but he proved his claims. One call, one buck almost every time he entered the woods. Several times he called a buck, missed the shot, and then called him back.

Once, sitting on the crest of a hill, he gave the call and was answered with three buck from three directions.

The call, he says, is a cross between a sick goat and a spring frog.

No Merry-Go-Rounds

LONDON, Nov. 29 (AP) —The House of Commons voted overwhelmingly last night to keep merry-go-rounds, penny arcades and the like closed on Sundays during the Festival of Britain, opening in May. The festival, to be held along the south bank of the Thames, will be open to Sunday visitors only for concerts and such.

Orillia Votes Wet To Get Beer, Liquor

ORILLIA, Nov. 29 (CP).—Dry for more than 40 years, this Lake Simcoe town voted yesterday in favor of having a liquor store and a brewers' warehouse.

Separate votes on the two questions, subject of sharp controversy in recent weeks, brought out a heavy vote and produced just slightly more than the 60 per cent necessary to turn Orillia wet.

Milk Production Down

OTTAWA, Nov. 29 — (CP) — Canada's milk production is down 96,000,000 pounds in the first nine months of this year. September production totalled 1,531,000,000 pounds compared with 1,598,000,000 in September last year, the Bureau of Statistics reported Tuesday. This brought the nine-month production total to 13,667,000,000 pounds, compared with 13,163,000,000 pounds for the corresponding period of 1949.

No More Troops

FORT LEWIS, Wash., Nov. 20—(CP)—Brig. J. M. Rockingham said Tuesday there are no plans at the moment to send additional Canadian troops to "Korea or elsewhere." He is commander of Canada's 11,000-man special brigade stationed here. The sudden change in the Korean situation, he said, had not affected the status of his troops as yet.

Six Cars Pile Up

GODERICH, Nov. 29—(CP)—Things really began popping when Joe Cook got his car stuck in the snow at Taylor's corner. The road was slippery and within minutes there was a pile-up of six cars. Even the police cruiser failed to escape. One automobile slid into the side of it while trying to stop after seeing the police car's warning light.

Let Every Heart

By VERA TARPLEY

"But they don't believe in Christmas, Jim—you know that." Laura wished she hadn't spoken quite so loudly; her remark had stopped in midstream three rapid-running conversations. Her guests studied the rug pattern. Jim merely looked at his wife in silence.

"I mean, after all," she went on, "it's not their religion...so I assumed it would be embarrassing—to them—to invite them to our Christmas party." She swallowed uncomfortably.

"And I assumed that this party was for all the fellows in our office, including Ben." He smiled then, but didn't soften the accusation. Everyone in the room knew of the close friendship between Jim and Ben—they only guessed at his wife's resentment of the friendship.

Mr. Adams, office manager, broke the silence next. "I wouldn't worry about it too much Jim. After all, Christmas is..." He emptied his glass and returned it to the coffee-table. "And we all feel a little differently about the holiday than they do."

About nine o'clock carolers came to the door singing lustily and slightly off-key, "Let every heart prepare him room..." The oldest caroler was scarcely twelve. He rattled a box full of coins. Mr. Adams snatched the donation box from him, ceremoniously deposited nine pennies, and passed from guest to guest, bowing after each donation. Everyone put in nickels and dimes. Jim put in a five-dollar bill and everyone shouted "Show-off!" Laura was annoyed but kept still. Laura and Jim's little girl, Bonny, was out caroling too, but her group covered a different neighborhood.

No one noticed much when the telephone rang later in the evening and Jim went to answer it. But they noticed Jim's face when he returned to the living-room—it was white and twitched unpleasantly. Laura walked over to him. "Who was it, dear?"

"It was Ben—he called to apologize for not coming tonight."

"His daughter's been in Children's Hospital for the past month, you know."

Adams broke in. "Say, that's right—Ben said she was pulling out of it—that was last week I believe. How's she doing, did he say?"

"She died this afternoon."

Nobody seemed to have anything more to say after that. The party broke up within the next half-hour.

Just as the Adamses were leaving, Bonny came in from caroling. She was flushed with happiness and excitement. Laura clutched her in her arms convulsively.

"Did your group make a big haul tonight, Bonny?"

"Did we!" she gasped. "We got more than any other group I bet! And Mom, we sang for that Mr. Ben at Daddy's office, and—"

"Oh but you shouldn't have!" Laura looked at Jim with alarm.

"Why not, Mom? He asked us to sing "Silent Night," and guess what? He gave us ten dollars! And she invited us in and gave us candy and cookies, and gee, they're nice! And I told them hello from you and Daddy, and you know what? She cried! Isn't that funny, mother?"

Jim looked at his stricken wife and wanted to take her in his arms, but Mr. and Mrs. Adams were standing there with their mouths open, so he merely grasped her hand firmly. Bonny babbled on happily.

And you know what else? Mr. Ben asked me what the donations went for, and when I told him he took all the money out of his wallet and put it in our box, can you imagine? And then I asked him if he had any boys or girls like us and would they like to go caroling with us and he said no. And then she started crying again and we left. Wasn't that funny?"

Mr. Adams cleared his throat. "By the way, Bonny, just what were those donations for anyway? I forgot to notice."

"Why, for the Children's Hospital fund—or something like that—it was all printed on the box."

Gas On 20 Minutes

LEDUC, Alta., Nov. 29 (CP)—Approximately 4,000 cubic feet of natural gas was turned into the main line of the Leduc system on Nov. 11 prior to an explosion that claimed 10 lives, a coroner's inquest was told Tuesday. The statement was made by H. J. Simington, president of Leduc Utilities Ltd., who said the gas had been on about 20 to 25 minutes.

Chinese In Hiding

NEW YORK, Nov. 29 (AP) — The Chinese Communist delegation to the United Nations is living at the swank Waldorf-Astoria hotel in seclusion as strict as that ever observed by Russian diplomats. Other guests in the hotel never see the Chinese except when they are going to or from Lake Success. The Chinese spurn the hotel's lavish dining rooms and eat in the privacy of their suite.

Truman Considering Using Atom Bomb On Chinese Red Troops If Necessary

Lull in Fighting In Northwest Korea Reds Drive in East

SEOUL, Nov. 30—(AP)—A strange wintry quiet settled today over the bloody battlefields of northwest Korea. Communist Chinese assaults on retreating United Nations forces all but stopped. A U.S. Eighth Army spokesman said the puzzling lull came after fierce resistance by Americans, Britons and Turks checked Chinese efforts to envelop the right flank and pin the Allies against the Yellow Sea. There was no ready explanation for the abrupt "time out" in the Chinese offensive—attacks which the United States Secretary of State, Dean Acheson, said created "a situation of unparalleled danger" to world peace.

There were these guesses: the Chinese had over-extended their lines from Manchuria and were pausing to regroup and resupply—or perhaps some undercover decision on the diplomatic front stayed the troops.

However, at mid-day Thursday the lull seemed confined to the shrunken front along the Chongchon river in northwest Korea. In the northeast, American Marines and infantrymen were battling swarms of Chinese around the Changjin reservoir. And the allied supply line was cut.

80,000 Appear

The peril to the northeast was underscored by Maj.-Gen. Edward M. Almond, commander of the 10th Corps in the area. He estimated that up to 80,000 Chinese "suddenly confronted" his forces.

But the main threat to the United Nations' armed peace-enforcement campaign was in northwest Korea. Heavily hit, the 110,000-man eighth army was trying to establish a new line south of the Chongchon river.

When the Allies kicked off on the "end the war" offensive last Friday, they were arrayed along an 80-mile front inland from the Yellow Sea.

8th Army Withdraws

Overwhelmed by the Chinese counter-assaults, the bulk of the Eighth Army now has withdrawn to a line running 17 miles along the south bank of the Chongchon, with another 25-mile front slanting southeast from the river to Sinchang.

U.S. To Indict Chinese In UN Over Red Veto

By TOM OCHILTREE.

LAKE SUCCESS, N. Y., Nov. 30 (AP)—A Russian veto today was expected to block Security Council action on Korea—and the western powers planned to indict the Chinese Communists within 24 hours in the United Nations General Assembly.

The Assembly has scheduled a plenary session for tomorrow to consider several social items. It thus will be available to take up at once United States charges that the Chinese Communist aggression in Korea gravely threatens the world's peace.

Can Recommend

While the Assembly can only recommend, its powers in that direction are limitless. It could urge the 60 member governments to apply economic and diplomatic sanctions against Mao Tze-tung's Peiping regime. It also could call on the members to rush more men and arms for Gen. MacArthur's hard-pressed United Nations forces in Korea.

Even if it avoided taking such firm steps at this stage of the crisis, the Assembly still could record the majority's condemnation of the Chinese Communists. Warren R. Austin, chief American delegate, appeared to foreshadow such a condemnation yesterday when he told the Security Council the Chinese Com-

UK Asks Chiefs Meet In East

LONDON, Nov. 30 (CP)—Britain's top diplomatic and military chiefs of the three services in the Far East will meet Dec. 7 to discuss the latest developments in Asia, the foreign office announced today.

The meeting, which will be held at Bukit Serene, Malaya, near Singapore, will also be attended by colonial governors of the area.

The urgent talks will be held under the chairmanship of Malcolm MacDonald, Britain's commissioner-general in Southeast Asia.

The purpose of the talks is to exchange information and ideas on the immediate military and diplomatic problems facing Britain and her friends in the Far East and what should be done to meet the situation.

The presence of the chiefs of staff points to a reassessment of British military strength and resources in the region.

Prime Minister Attlee meanwhile summoned Britain's service chiefs of staff to a cabinet meeting today on the Korea situation.

They discussed the latest dispatches on the large-scale Chinese intervention in the Far East.

Stole Farmer's Apples Pays $50 Court Fine

BRANTFORD, Nov. 0 (CP). — Convicted of stealing apples from a farmer's orchard during a family picnic last month, James W. Barker of Toronto Wednesday was given suspended sentence and ordered to pay $50 costs. The farmer's neighbor in the St. George district said he jotted down the licence number of an automobile whose occupants were helping themselves to apples.

Chinese Trap Thousands Of UN Troops

1,500 Run Gauntlet To Escape, Hundreds Wounded By Red Fire

By Roy Macartney

ON THE NORTHWEST KOREA FRONT, Dec. 1 — (Friday) — (Reuters) — The United States 2nd Division and the Turkish Brigade were trapped early today southwest of Kunuri after losing hundreds of dead and wounded trying to run the gauntlet of a murderous Chinese Communist ambush.

About 1,500 men made a desperate dash down a narrow road through a mortar and machine-gun barrage, leaving hundreds of dead and wounded behind before reaching the safety of British Middlesex Battalion positions.

One bullet-riddled vehicle arrived at the British lines loaded with wounded. An American colonel said: "Thank God—I've never been so glad to see the British."

Lasted Seven Miles

He said: "What's just happened brought tears to my eyes. We went through it for nearly seven miles."

Tonight, the wounded were lying in the freezing cold in the midst of the Communist ambush, and the main body of the Turkish brigade and the U.S. 2nd Division remained in the trap sprung by the Communists.

The wounded among those who survived the desperate journey were first treated by British medical orderlies.

But after over 100 badly-wounded men had arrived in the first 20 minutes, the casualty clearing station of the Middlesex Regiment ran out of morphine and bandages, and the wounded had to be sent straight to the rear without treatment.

UK Shocked By Truman Atom Bomb Statement

LONDON, Nov. 30 —(AP)— President Truman's statement that the commander in the field can decide whether to use the atomic bomb against Chinese Communists shocked and astounded British government officials today.

Responsible officials in a number of key government departments including the defence ministry, war office and foreign office, all expressed the same stunned reaction.

There was, however, no formal statement by any government department.

Chinese Cut Off 50% U.S. Tungsten Supply

NEW YORK, Nov. 30 (AP). — Red China's clamp-down on shipments of strategic tungsten to this country "is causing grave concern in some industrial circles," the Iron Age says today. "China has been our biggest supplier of tungsten," the National Metalworking Weekly points out. "In 1948 she shipped us slightly more than half of our tungsten imports; today she is shipping us none. In 1948 Korea supplied 17.6 per cent; today she is shipping us none."

War No Benefit To Soviet Now

LONDON, Nov. 30 (Reuters)—Winston Churchill said today in the House of Commons that "it certainly does not seem in the Russian interest to begin a major struggle now."

Churchill said the United Nations should avoid by every means in their power becoming entangled inevitably in a war with China.

He said he regarded the "fundamental change" in United States policy as the best hope for saving Western civilization from "Communist and Russian conquest and control."

Entering debate on foreign affairs, the Conservative leader, who is 76 today, said the danger facing the world was not new.

It had been visible "in all its terrible potential" from the end of the Second World War.

Prepare For Worst—Acheson To Speed Arms Program

By John M. Hightower

WASHINGTON, Nov. 30—(AP)—State Secretary Dean Acheson's declaration that the free world must "prepare for the worst" heralds a United States administration drive to speed an even-greater arms program both at home and in western Europe.

Officials say that will be the government's initial response to the new global crisis created by Communist China's intervention in the Korean conflict.

The gravity of the crisis was pointed up by Acheson's warning last night that "no one can guarantee that war will not come."

Linked to this immediate danger, he pictured the free world as being under dark threat of Russian military power with great "capabilities for conquest and destruction."

The intention of free men was to preserve their institutions by peaceful means, but history had proved that "if we must, we will fight for them."

"We must hope and strive for the best while we prepare for the worst," he said in a speech delivered from his office to the National Council of Churches of Cleveland and broadcast by radio and television. He had cancelled plans to go to Cleveland because of the crisis.

Acheson called for the arms speed-up which appears to be in the making. Declaring that the only test of defence preparations is whether they are adequate to meet the danger the free world faces, he said.

"So measured, the defence efforts of the United States and other free nations are adequate."

15-Year-Old Girl Hacked To Death

TRAIL, B.C., Nov. 30—A 15-year-old high school girl was hacked to death with a double-bitted axe last night in the basement of her home here.

The victim was June Bradshaw, daughter of Dr. and Mrs. W. C. Bradshaw, who found the body in the cellar shortly after returning from a visit to friends. The blood-stained axe was close to the body.

Early today police arrested a 17-year-old juvenile at his home here.

An only daughter, June was alone in the house, and was washing her hair in the kitchen when her parents left.

She was slashed several times with the axe, and suffered numerous head wounds. Police said she had not been criminally attacked.

US Will Not Quit Korea Still Hopes To Avert War Backs Gen. MacArthur

If Russia Wins In Korea, Aggression Will Spread Through Asia, World, US Fighting For Survival Says Truman

WASHINGTON, Nov. 30—(AP)—President Truman said today the United Nations forces will not back down in Korea, and that the atom bomb will be used if necessary to meet the military situation. Truman's firm stand and mention of the most fearful weapon in the world's history came at a press conference filled to overflowing by 200 reporters.

The President said that whether the bomb was used was up to American military leaders in the field, but that personally he hoped it would not have to be employed.

This appeared on its face to mean the decision on dropping the bomb was one for Gen. Douglas MacArthur, but some two hours after the press conference the White House took pains to make it clear the final answer had not been left up to MacArthur.

A White House spokesman, who declined to be named, said Truman's remarks did not mean MacArthur himself can order use of the bomb. He noted that under the law all A-bombs are in custody of the Atomic Energy Commission, and that only the President himself can order their use.

Truman was drawn into discussion of the A-bomb by questions from reporters after he had read a statement denouncing the Chinese Communist attacks on U.N. forces in Korea, attributed them to Soviet imperialism, and announced that the U.S. will speed up its mobilization of troops and armaments.

Truman also made clear he is strongly backing Gen. Douglas MacArthur who has been under some criticism chiefly from abroad. The President sharply denounced a complaint by several Republican senators that State Secretary Acheson had been critical of MacArthur, the United Nations commander.

In a statement, the President said that the Chinese Communist attack, made in great force, may

Hamilton-Toronto Men Robbed Bank—Police

TORONTO, Nov. 30 (CP). — Police said today they suspect "a Hamilton-Toronto gang" was responsible for yesterday's $9,400 robbery of a west-end Toronto branch of the Canadian Bank of Commerce.

It is possible that five, not four, bandits staged the holdup, investigators said. A suspect picked up yesterday for questioning probably will not be held, they indicated.

One of two stolen automobiles used in the getaway was seen Tuesday night at Burlington, near Hamilton, police said.

Princess Pats Start To Form 3rd Battalion

OTTAWA, Nov. 30 (CP)—Formation of a third battalion of the Princess Patricia's Canadian Light Infantry to bring Canada's special brigade back up to full strength, was announced today by Defence Minister Claxton.

The new battalion will be commanded by Lt.-Col. G. C. Corbould, 42, D.S.O., of New Westminster, B.C., and will replace the second battalion now en route to Korea.

The minister's announcement also disclosed that the second battalion no longer will come under command or direction of special brigade, now in training at Fort Lewis, Wash. It will operate with an allotted formation in the Far East, taking direction from army headquarters on administrative matters.

Most of the officers and men needed to fill the ranks of the new battalion—about 1,000—are available from the 25th reinforcement groups and the special brigade's reinforcement stream in Canada.

Brigade training officials do not believe addition of the new unit will lengthen the over-all training period of the brigade by any appreciable time.

Lack Confidence In MacArthur

NEW YORK, Nov. 30 —(CP)— The New York Times says today in a Washington dispatch there is no doubt that confidence in Gen. Douglas MacArthur, United Nations leader in Korea, has been shaken badly as a result of the events of the last few days.

The dispatch says that similarly there is no doubt that United States leadership in the Western world has been damaged by President Truman's acceptance of the bold MacArthur offensive and Truman's rejection of the more cautious British strategy.

It says that ever since the landing of U.S. troops at Inchon in mid-September suggestions have been made through the U.S. state department and President Truman to MacArthur of the necessity of caution in approaching the Manchurian and Soviet frontiers.

Britain circulated a paper a month ago proposing that U.N. troops halt well before the Manchurian frontier and leave a buffer zone between the U.N. and Red China armies. In each case, it was said, MacArthur took the view that these suggestions were jeopardizing the victories he had won.

Reds Piling A-Bombs

Prepare For Attack—Ottawa

By DOUGLAS HOW

OTTAWA, Nov. 30—(CP)—The government today indicated official belief that Russia is stockpiling atomic bombs, and told Canadian communities of 10,000 or more that they should start organizing to meet disaster.

Issuing a 46-page manual on "Organization for Civil Defence," the Defence Department said Canada has a score of communities which, as vital targets, should launch large-scale preparations swiftly.

Bomb Targets

It didn't name them, but said only that they now are considered targets for "deliberate atomic attack." It advocated that new communities, industries and installations be located outside them.

For smaller communities, the long-awaited manual advised the establishment of at least a broad disaster plan and a skeleton organization.

It said the next few yeaars do not threaten Canada with either a series of saturation air raids or a major land offensive, but warned that it would be foolhardy not to consider air and submarine attacks probable should war come in that time.

Panic Raids

"At the present time no potential enemy is believed to have the aircraft or a stock pile of atomic bombs sufficient to permit a series of saturation raids on North America," it said. "Moreover, compared to several other countries, Canada does not have many targets that would appear to justify the employment of an A-bomb out of present stocks."

But panic and nuisance raids were possible, in fact probable, in the event of war, and the whole booklet is predicated on the belief that that is what Canada has to face up to in the next few years.

Canada To Use TV To Attract Tourists

OTTAWA, Nov. 30 (CP)—The Canadian Government Travel Bureau is considering extended use of television in United States as a means to attract more tourists to Canada.

Leo Dolan, director of the bureau, said yesterday that he is considering the use of paid advertisements on U.S. television stations to bring Canada's tourist attractions to the attention of the American people.

"KINGFISHER"

Everyone knows that the "Kingfisher" is one of the world's most beautiful birds. Frequenting the streams and ponds it gets its food by plunging almost perpendicularly into the water and emerging a moment later with its catch.

The "Kingfisher" is the subject of many legends. A medieval story tells that at one time the "Kingfisher" was a plain grey bird. Its amazing coloring came about, according to this story, when it was liberated from Noah's Ark and flew towards the sun. Thus, we are told, its upper surface assumed the hue of the sky above it, while the lower plumage was scorched to a rich chestnut tint by the heat of the setting orb.

Stiff Penalties Demanded In Drunk Driving

OTTAWA, Nov. 30 — (CP). — Amendment of the Criminal Code to provide for drinking drivers was asked in a 2,500-word brief presented today to Prime Minister St. Laurent by the Canadian Temperance Federation.

Leader of the delegation was the Federation president W. C. Good of Brantford. Other members included Dr. John Coburn, Rev. John Linton, and Mrs. W. R. Lang, all of Toronto.

Specifically the brief suggested that provision should be made for scientific tests to determine the amount of alcohol in the blood stream of anyone involved in a highway accident at the time of the occurrence.

In order to convict a driver of driving under the influence of alcohol, it should not be necessary to prove he was drunk or intoxicated in the ordinary sense of the term.

"If it can be shown that his driving ability was impaired to any degree by the alcohol, he should be convicted," said the brief.

Slaughter

It deplored the highway "slaughter" of Canadians through automobile accidents. It drew attention to the fact that in 1949 there were 115,000 automobile accidents compared with 92,000 in 1948; there were 2,275 persons killed compared with 1,976. It was estimated that liquor was responsible for anywhere from 25 per cent to 80 per cent of these accidents.

The brief reaffirmed its request of last year that a Royal Commissioner be set up to investigate the various aspects of the liquor problem throughout Canada.

Call For Withdrawal

The Council has before it a six-power resolution calling for withdrawal of Chinese Communist troops from Korea and giving Peiping assurances that U.N. forces will not cross the Korean-Chinese border. The Russian delegation already has made plain it will veto the resolution. That would clear the way for tossing the whole matter to the veto-free assembly.

Austin issued this warning yesterday: "The United Nations will not submit to threats. The United Nations stands against aggression."

Asking whether there will be peace or war in the Far East, he said: "The world waits anxiously for the answer". He called for prompt council action on the six-power resolution.

Austin said the grave news from the front places on Peiping envoy Wo Hsiu-chuan the "duty of answering what his troops are doing in Korea." Wu has claimed the Chinese Reds fighting MacArthur's men are "volunteers" who rushed to the aid of the Koreans. Austin has stated that this is a complete distortion of facts.

lead to further reverses but "the forces of the United Nations have no intention of abandoning their mission in Korea."

He said if the Chinese aggression is successful in Korea, "we can expect it to spread through Asia and Europe to this hemisphere," and added:

Fight For Survival

"We are fighting in Korea for our own national security and survival."

The President plainly laid on Russia the responsibility for the Chinese Communist attacks in Korea.

He said:

"We hope that the Chinese people will not continue to be forced or deceived into serving the ends of Russian colonial policy in Asia."

He said there is no indication that the Chinese Communist delegation at Lake Success is willing to engage in the normal "peaceful process of discussion and negotiation."

There was no reference in Truman's prepared statement to the atomic bomb. It was in response to questions that he said active consideration is being given to the use of it. Quickly then, he expressed a devout hope it would not have to be used.

Commander In Field

He said consideration of the use of every weapon is being given constantly and that the decision of whether to drop atomic bombs was one for the commander in the field.

In replying to other questions, the President said the matter of whether the United Nations troops should bomb across the Manchurian border is one for the United Nations to decide.

Asked about criticism of MacArthur growing out of the Chinese Communist invasion across the Manchurian border, the President said there are always people who are for a man when he's winning and who are ready to jump on him when there are setbacks.

Doing Good Job

MacArthur, he said, has done a good job and is continuing to do a good job.

A reporter said there had been criticism that MacArthur exceeded his authority and went beyond the point in Korea he was supposed to go. MacArthur, the President declared, did nothing of the kind.

The President also made clear that the policy against accepting the offer of Nationalist Chinese troops has not changed.

The offer was not accepted, he said, in the hope that such a course would prevent involvement of the world in a third world war. That policy, he said, continues.

Neutralize Formosa

He said it still is the policy to keep Formosa neutralized. Formosa is the big island off the China coast where Chiang Kai Shek's Nationalist government set up headquarters when forced by the Communists to flee the China mainland.

Got Sound Truck On Patrol

Mort Knox and Jim Fraser, manager of the Chamber of Commerce patrolled the streets of Peterborough Wednesday night in a sound truck giving out information on the developments of the power situation.

A sound truck could not be obtained in the city. However a truck and two batteries were donated by Dick Miller and the necessary equipment was obtained from Dit Clapper's Sporting Goods Store. Mat Szafranski, radio repair man, installed the equipment on the truck.

The truck was in operation from 7 p.m. until the lights came on at 9.30 p.m.

Two Cars Sideswipe On Springville Hill

Provincial Police investigated two minor car acidents Wednesday, the two of them totalling about $325 in damage.

A sideswipe collision on the Springville hill between the northbound car of William A. Luckhurst, Douro Street, and the southbound car of Roy G. McHugh, Oshawa, resulted in $250 damage. McHugh started down the Springville hill, about eight miles south of Peterborough on Highway 28, and when he braked his car as it approached the oncoming Luckhurst vehicle, it skidded an d went momentarily out of control.

The collision sent both cars into the north ditch. Damage was chiefly to the left side of Luckhurst's car and to the right front fender of McHugh's.

Provincial Constables C. A. Naismith and Russell Pollard investigated.

Two trucks owned by George Webster of Warsaw on Wednesday night were in a collision on the 2nd Concession of Otonabee, a mile and a half north of Highway 7.

Webster was driving the first truck. He stopped to pick up a passenger, and the second, driven by Percy Ivey, also of Warsaw, ran into the rear end. The second truck received $75 damage to its grille and one headlight.

Provincial Constables D. W. Coffey and Peter McIntyre investigated.

The slanting section is the right flank. In standing firm on that flank Wednesday night, U.N. forces checked a wheeling Chinese movement aimed at cutting below the line of retreat and trapping the Eighth Army.

The Chinese had wrecked three South Korean divisions in turning the flank. But the Reds were checked by the U.S. 1st Cavalry Division, the Commonwealth 27th Brigade and the Turkish Brigade.

On the southeast end of the line, cavalry troopers stalled the Chinese East of Sinchang, 34 air miles northeast of the former Communist capital of Pyongyang. Sinchang is 12 miles east of Sunchon, on the main supply road from Pyongyang to the front.

Reassemble

Two regiments of the badly-mauled South Korean Sixth Division were reassembling at Sinchang.

On the left flank of the 1st Cavalry Division, the Commonwealth Brigade and Turks checked the Chinese in the Kaechon and Kunu areas.

The bayonet-wielding Turks slowed the Reds east of Kunu while the U.S. 2nd Division pulled back across the Chongchon. However, two battalions of the 2nd Division were overrun Wednesday after rushing to the aid of Turkish elements near Kaechon, five miles southeast of Kunu.

The Turks had cut their way out of a trap north of Kaechon. Thursday morning their main force pulled back south from Kaechon.

Elements of the Commonwealth Brigade plugged gaps southeast of Kunu and at Samso, eight miles south of the Chongchon.

Retreat 20 Miles

To the northwest, the U.S. 25th and South Korean 1st Divisions continued to move, south and across the Chongchon. This marked a 20-mile retreat from Taechon.

At the extreme western end of the line, the U.S. 24th Division completed its pull-back from Chonju eastward and then south across the river.

The battle-hardened 24th Division — first American outfit to stand against the North Korean invaders last summer—was in reverse for the third time.

The 24th Division bitterly withdrew to the Pusan beachhead in southeast Korea in July. It forged northward to within 14 miles of the Manchurian border late in October only to withdraw to protect its flank from the first Chinese and North Korean counterthrusts early in November. Its third withdrawal this week was principally a flank - protecting manoeuvre also.

In the northeast, the appearance of tens of thousands of additional Chinese brought new threats to the U.S. 1st Marine and 7th Infantry Divisions and to the republican capital division.

2 City Schools Forced To Close

All of the city schools except two were able to carry on as usual today. Prince of Wales and Parkhill Schools were forced to close this morning due to heat shortage caused by insufficient power.

The pupils, approximately 700, of Prince of Wales School were notified over CHEX and by telephone before 9 a.m. that the school would not be open. Principal R. J. Bolton told the Examiner that it was hoped there would be sufficient power to open the school Friday.

Parkhill students came to school and were sent home at 9.30 because of insufficient heat.

The Collegiate carried on normally today despite insufficient power that resulted in poor lighting.

The Separate Schools in the city were also open. Sister Lucretia, principal of St. Peter's High School, stated today that all the schools were in perfect order since early this morning.

School Orators Given Prizes

On behalf of the Knights of Columbus he was presented with a trophy by His Excellency Bishop Gerald Berry. His subject was "The Royal Family." Second trophy, donated by the Catholic Women's League, was won by Robert James of St. John's School whose subject was "Loyalty;" Mrs. Augustus Torpey, the League's educational convener, made the presentation.

They were James Dorris of St. Peter's speaking on "Peterborough," Ann Fitzgerald of St. Mary's, "How to Make Friends," George Carver of St. Alphonsus, "Red My Rooster," Daniel Twomey of Sacred Heart, on "Democracy," and John Driscoll of St. Anne's, also speaking on "Peterborough."

Bishop Berry addressed the large gathering of clergy and parents and made the first prize presentation. The Rev. G. J. Maskey of St. Peter's High School was chairman and the judges were the Rev. J. J. McCarthy, Miss Maureen Hickey, Mrs. Torpey, Norman Crook and Fergus O'Connor.

Telescopes aid the astronomer in exploring the heavens, microscopes aid microbe hunters track down dangerous germs. The spectroscope made it possible to find out exactly what the sun is made of.

The sun is 93 million miles away. Today we know the composition of the sun. In fact, certain elements such as helium were discovered in the sun before they were found in the earth's crust.

As far back as 1672 Sir Isaac Newton had shown that if you take a prism and hold it in a beam of sunlight, it will spread the component colours into what is known as the spectrum. Robert Bunsen, of Heidelberg, learned that each element, when incandescent—that is, when it burns or becomes "red hot"—will register its own characteristic bright line when its light is passed through a prism.

With this discovery as a starting point, he invented the spectroscope about 1854. This device is built around a prism and, by means of small telescopes or magnifying lenses, is so arranged that the spectrum can be observed with clarity. By the use of the spectroscope scientists have ben able to solve many a mystery concerning the universe.

Had Backache, Rheumatic Pain 2 Years—Tells of Relief

Also Suffered With Headaches, Dizzy Spells—Nerves Bad, Couldn't Sleep. "Nothing Ever Helped Me Until I Used Syntona," He Says.

MR. CALVIN HALL

"Syntona has given me such grand relief after many other things failed to help me that I cannot praise this medicine too highly," said Mr. Calvin Hall, 729 King Street, London, Ontario, in a recent statement.

"For the past two years I suffered dreadfully with backache and rheumatic pains in my limbs, joints and muscles. My entire system was rundown. I felt tired and wornout and couldn't get my proper sleep at night. I was subject to throbbing headaches and dizzy spells.

"I tried everything I heard of without results. One day a friend where I worked advised me to try Syntona, so I got some and before I had finished the first bottle I was feeling considerably better. As I kept on taking this medicine the pains began to go away. I was sleeping better than I had in many months, and was not feeling so tired as I did before. Now I am free of headaches and dizzy spells and I am just like a different person.

"I certainly think every person who feels as I did should give Syntona a trial. It is a great satisfaction to find something that really helps you."

Syntona is made from 12 of Nature's Finest Herbs and Roots. It acts on stomach, kidneys, liver and bowels — aids elimination of excess acids and poisonous waste matter and promotes better assimilation of foods for increased strength and energy.

Two Smith Transports Ditched Near Cobourg

COBOURG, Nov. 30 (ENS)—Two Smith transports ran into trouble here yesterday on a curve. The accident was blamed on slippery roads. Police were informed that the westbound transport, driven by Ellard E. Dean of Hamilton, skidded on the curve and slid into the ditch, rolling on its side. The eastbound transport, driven by Norman Laporte of Toronto, swung to avoid a collision and went through the guard rails and upset. Nobody was hurt. Provincial Constable C. Meadows of Cobourg investigated.

Cobourg Seeks New Industries

COBOURG, Nov. 30 (ENS) — Mayor Jack Burnet, who was re-elected as chief magistrate for next year, and who has served five years at various times in that position, said yesterday that next year's council would concentrate on getting new industries for Cobourg.

"The council and the Cobourg Chamber of Commerce will work closely in regard to industries and neither persons or circumstances will be allowed to stand in the way of industrial expansion," the mayor said.

The streets department have been experimenting with two types of surface and whichever stands up better during the winter will be chosen as the standard. Better control of odors at the new sewage disposal plant is another objective for next year, he said.

Truck Knocks Down Power, Phone Lines

ODESSA, Nov. 30 (CP) — Power and telephone lines in this Eastern Ontario community and nearby Wilton were knocked out temporarily Wednesday when a transport truck crashed into a hydro pole on the highway east of here. Police are still seeking the driver.

Firms To Entice 'ittle Man To Buy Stocks

By FORBES RHUDE
Canadian Press Business Editor

The way is being made easier for the average person to own pieces of big corporations and financial institutions.

It is being made easier by such actions as that of two large insurance companies which plan to split up their expensive shares so that they may be bought in smaller chunks.

The hardest part about making it easier, in the opinion of investment circles, is in persuading the average persons that there is the opportunity for him to share in the profits of the companies which hold big stakes in the country.

Safe Investments

For the average person, when he thinks of investment, is inclined to confine his thinking to savings accounts, government bond and life insurance, which might be called the foundations of investment.

If he does buy company stocks, too often he buye without investigation some highly-speculative issue of which he has heard from a "friend of a friend".

He is, by and large, disinclined to think of the shares of solid companies which pay a good rate of interest and offer a fair prospect of additional gain through an advance in the price of their shares.

Make Buying Easier

However, educational campaigns are going on and, as in the case of the insurance companies, shares are being made easier to buy.

The latest example is Imperial Life Assurance Company of Canada. Its shares are being quoted around $400 to $425, and its proposes to split them 10 to 1, so that each share worth, say, $400, will become 10 shares, each worth about $40.

That makes them easier to buy and it means that a wider range of people will be interested in them.

Split Shares

Imperial's announcement follows a similar one by Sun Life Assurance Company of Canada, which also plans to split 10-for-1 shares being quoted now between $1,250 and $1,300. The proposals have yet to be approved by the shareholders of both companies, but presumably this approval will be forthcoming.

A number of other Canadian companies also have split their shares in the last year.

Back of these actions is the fact that the money of the country is spread out among more persons than ever before, as the result of higher wages, higher farm prices and virtually-full employment.

The current development should mean that investiment will be spread among many more persons and should mean that many more people will benefit directly from the country's advances.

Waitress Raped Beaten To Death

CLEVELAND, O., Nov. 30—(AP)—A red-haired divorcee waitress in the Greyhound restaurant here was raped and beaten to death early today.

Mrs Pansy Whitley, 38, blood-smeared and gasping for breath was found by two employees of the terminal in the locker room. She died before a police ambulance arived.

Homicide detectives were seeking an itinerant seen loitering around the terminal a short time before the crime was discovered.

Mrs. Whitley obviously had been raped, detectives said. Her diamond engagement ring and wedding band were ripped from her fingers and her wrist watch was missing.

The detectives said the victim originally came from Charlotte, S.C., and has a 15-year-old son living there with his father from whom Mrs. Whitley was divorced two years ago.

Carl V. Stephens Top Cream Grader

CAMPBELLFORD, Nov. 30 — (ENS)—A butter-maker at the Trent Valley Creameries, operated by H. N. Carr and Son, Carl V. Stephens was the winner of the trophy for having obtained the highest score in the Regional Cream Grading Competition for 1950.

These competitions are sponsored by the Quinte Buttermakers' Club and are held monthly throughout the main producing season of each year.

Mr. Stephens had an average score of 99.46 points out of a possible 100. Mr. Stephens also won a sports cushion with blanket.

Mr. Gerald Fitchett, also a buttermaker at the Trent Valley Creameries in Campbellford, was one of the prize winners at the Cream Grading and Butter Judging Competitions and was presented with a set of towels.

Presentations were made by A. L. Gibson of the Dairy Division, Kemptville Agricultural School.

Hunters Are Guests Of Cobourg Kiwanis

COBOURG, Nov. 30 (ENS) — Hunters from Colborne, Baltimore and Cobourg sat down with members of the Kiwanis Club last night for the annual hunters' dinner. There were the usual tall tales told and the evening was spent in godofellowship. The "Hunters' Quartet," composed of Carl Curtis of Baltimore, Albert Prentice and Jack Jordan of Cobourg, and Herman Willard of Colborne got a good hand for their vocal efforts. Gordon McGregor of Baltimore performed on the bagpipes and Bill Haig of Baltimore did a step dance. Lloyd Stinson, Albert Hircock and Milt Harper did the vocals as a trio and Lyle Willson presented a skit, "The Absent-Minded Duck Hunter."

Powerless Peterborough

Yesterday's explosion at the Utilities sub-station—or disintegration of main circuit switches into molten masses—threw the entire city into a blackout at 1:40 in the afternoon and kept most of it powerless until the middle of the evening. It was more than a blackout; it was a paralysis of the city. Traffic lights were out, adding to the confusion caused by driving snow at five o'clock when the two principal factories (which have their own power systems) debouched their thousands of workers. Households, unlit and unheated, were in difficulties. Rumour spread faster than news can travel, because this newspaper could not appear until hours after the power came on again and the radio station was silent all afternoon. (Even when it did take to the air through its transmitter station in the county few could tune in because the power lines to the houses and receiving sets were dead.) Dairies, greenhouses, restaurants, hospitals, all suffered. Almost every phase of domestic, industrial, commercial and civic life was affected heavily. It was not a blow; it was atrophy. The life-blood was denied, and the city was put into a state of inanition.

* * *

Peterborough for the first time has known what a real black-out of its lights means. Peterborough for the first time has become really conscious of its dependence on electrical power; and it is this, more than the lack of lighting which really stupefied the inhabitants. Candles are portable; heat for cooking and house-warming is not.

* * *

All this was caused by a blow-up of some nature affecting two switches. How thoroughly could one small bomb expertly placed paralyse this city? We know now.

The End of Bernard Shaw

For a time after the death of Bernard Shaw there was indecision as to whether or not his ashes should be placed in Westminster Abbey. That is where Britain lays her great men, and in the Poet's Corner many famous men of letters (and others whose obscurity increases yearly) have been commemorated. Shaw was, as a writer, fit to rest with the greatest of them. It was decided, however, that he should not have an Abbey tomb, lest some devout folk be offended by such a burial for a man who was a sharp critic of conventional religion.

This is understandable, though it raises a smile. Shaw's criticism of Christianity was all in the open; he printed his opinions for all to see. But if all the ghosts of the Poet's Corner could be called back to earth, to testify on oath that they accepted the tenets of Christianity in toto, we might afterwards find many vacancies in that shrine. There are some queer fellows lying there.

And so Shaw's ashes have been scattered in his garden, as were those of his wife, and a fall of rain has inextricably mingled them with the earth.

As to his religious opinions, a passage from his will which has been made public sets at rest much of the controversy on that topic. Here it is:

> My religious convictions and scientific vows cannot at present be more specifically defined than as those of a believer in creative evolution. I desire that no public monument or work of art or inscription or sermon or ritual service commemorating me shall suggest that I accepted the tenets peculiar to any established church or denomination nor take the form of a cross or any other instrument of torture or symbol of blood sacrifice.

The Billionaire's Toronto Centre

The richest man in the world, so it is said, is Calouste Sarkis Gulbenkian. A fabulous dealer in oil, art and intrigue, an Armenian by birth, an Englishman by naturalization, he lives in a hotel in Lisbon in such a state of privacy that his name has been little known to the world, and his face less. Undoubtedly since the current issue of Life magazine's account of him and his collection of paintings, his name at least will be remembered by thousands. He is a man to whom even the richest of Americans refer with awe. Cabinet ministers and merchant princes must supplicate for an interview, and even their chances of seeing him are slim.

It is not to these aspects of the 81-year-old Gulbenkian that we wish to refer. What most interests us is that this oil giant of international finance, whose power in these realms is greater than any other individual possesses or has ever possessed, in 1945 moved the headquarters of his main holding company to Toronto, Canada. He has other holding companies with vast financial stakes, in Paris, London, New York, Persia, Venezuela, but the Toronto one, called Participations and Investments, Ltd., is the chief one. If Mr. G. thinks enough of the dependability of the currency, government, international position, and taxing system of Canada to base his main holding company in Toronto, why should we mere Canadians fear for the future of this country? Surely we who live here can have as much confidence as Mr. Gulbenkian? If we have not had it heretofore Mr. G's seal of approval should cast all doubts aside.

Pride Momentarily Humbled

The Supreme Court of Canada has declared invalid an agreement on the part of thirty-five property owners on Lake Huron that they would not sell, lease or in any other way allow their property to fall into the hands of "anyone of the Jewish, Hebrew, Semitic, Negro or coloured race or blood, it being the intention and purpose of the grantor to restrict ownership and enjoyment to persons of the white or Caucasian race". The Supreme Court reversed a decision of the Ontario Court of Appeals on this matter, because it ruled that nobody can say with final authority what race a man belongs to.

The covenant was an objectionable and silly one, of course. It is as foolish to try to prevent the selling of property to Jews or coloured people as it is to try to prevent its sale to Scotchmen or people with red hair. It is entirely possible that Jews or coloured people might be objectionable neighbours; it is equally possible that persons of what the covenant so quaintly calls "the white or Caucasian race" might make the neighbourhood intolerable. Obviously the covenant was made to hurt feelings, cause annoyance, air spite and give expression to a despicable form of hate.

Canada is, in form, a democracy. And like every democracy we have ever heard of or read about, it contains a large number of snobs, social climbers, I'm-better-than-youers and holier-than-thouers; it has its share of crypto-fascists, bullies and people who think that God has a mind exactly like that of a Canadian businessman. It contains people like the Lake Huron landowners who probably thought that they were doing something very fine when they agreed that no Jew or coloured person might enjoy or own property which was plainly too good for them. The Supreme Court has sat upon this silliness, and squashed it a little. But it will recover and rise again, never fear. For this particular kind of silliness is rooted deep in the human heart. It is the first and the worst of the Seven Deadly Sins, and its name is PRIDE.

Spectacular Trade Record

Ordinarily Canada's trade with the United States is in the red; we have always bought more from across the border than we sell there. Last weekend's announcement from Ottawa that not only did our exports to the U.S.A. reach a new peak in September but also that they more than balanced our imports from the States, is most remarkable. Canadian exports to the U.S.A. during September amounted to the vast sum of $192,800,000, compared with $113,700,000 in September 1949. Our imports from the U.S.A. last September totalled $177,400,000, compared with $158,000,000 in September 1949. The net credit balance was therefore $15,400,000.

Both the extent of the trade and the balance of it are very satisfactory in Canadian eyes. They are a measure of the industrial and commercial activity which is pushing Canada's economy to new peaks. Much of the increase in trade is due to military orders, but there is also a healthy buoyancy apart from the jab which re-armament has given the two countries' economies.

The credit balance in favour of Canada has come into being partly because of the American willingness to take Canadian goods, as much as we want to sell; even military equipment. There is one unusual factor affecting the September situation which will not have effect this and later months: American buyers and investors played a hunch that the Canadian dollar would be increased in value. They therefore bought heavily in a month when the American dollar would buy $1.10 worth of Canadian goods, bonds and the like. As these shrewd men of commerce foresaw, the Canadian dollar did go up, though not to the parity with the American which some of them expected.

The U.N. Alphabet: Post-War Agencies

By J. HALCRO FERGUSON

(The second of three articles on United Nations and other international organizations. Copyright to the Peterborough Examiner from the London Observer).

THE end of World War Two left the economy of a large part of the world (notably Europe and South-East Asia) in a state of dangerous chaos. Agricultural land had been ruined, cattle slaughtered and communications disrupted. Shipping was scarce, factories geared to wartime needs required complicated reconversion, medical supplies were perilously scarce.

The human picture was even more disheartening. Millions of people had been dispersed from their homes, families had been broken up, breadwinners wounded in the war could no longer fend for themselves, thousands were homeless, either because their homes had been destroyed or because they did not wish to, or were not permitted to return to the places where they had lived before the war.

✧ ✧ ✧

IT was in these circumstances that the first post-war specialized agencies came into existence. These were set up as independent bodies under U.N. auspices to co-ordinate reconstructive activities which were too large for the individual countries concerned to tackle by themselves. Perhaps to most Europeans—and later to many Asians—the best-known and most valued was U.N.R.R.A. (the United Nations Relief and Rehabilitation Administration), whose remaining work is now largely carried out by I.R.O. (the International Refugee Organization).

✧ ✧ ✧

I.R.O. is the largest of the specialized agencies of the United Nations, and has the advantage of the experience not only of U.N.R.R.A. but of the old League of Nations, which had had to deal with refugees from Russia and Armenia after the First World War. In July 1947, however, the Preparatory Commission of I.R.O. faced a far harder and more complex task. Over seven million people, aided by U.N.R.R.A. and other international bodies, had already reached their homes, but over a million and a half, the most difficult cases, were still to be resettled. Even today some 500,000 still remain.

✧ ✧ ✧

THEY are divided into categories, those who can be resettled and the "hard core" who for various reasons cannot. The former, mostly Poles, Balts, Ukrainians, Jews of all nationalities, and Yugoslavs, are channelled through "pipeline camps" to reception countries at the rate of 800 a day. The principal reception countries are Australia, the United States, Canada, Argentina, Brazil and other South American countries, and finally Western Europe, notably Britain, where refugees technically in transit often settle down and become absorbed in the local community. A special case is the Republic of Israel, which, though bursting at the seams, has absorbed almost every single Jewish refugee so far resettled—one third of the entire number of resettled refugees. In fact, so enthusiastic are the Jews to reach their newly-won homeland that large numbers of them have reached there well ahead of I.R.O. schedules, disappearing from I.R.O. camps before they can even be counted or identified.

✧ ✧ ✧

A STATISTICAL summary of I.R.O.'s activities shows that in the first three years of its existence it has resettled 790,398 people, repatriated 70,253, undertaken the care and maintenance of 248,441, and given legal and political protection to 291,138. In all an estimated one and a half million have been served. With its headquarters at the Palais Wilson in Geneva, the I.R.O. has a membership of 18 nations and operates on an average yearly budget of 150 million U.S. dollars.

✧ ✧ ✧

BY its nature, however, it is hoped that I.R.O. is eventually destined to disappear. A more permanent agency situated in Geneva is W.H.O., the World Health Organization. With its headquarters in the vast Palais Des Nations, Europe's second largest building, W.H.O. held its Third World Health Assembly earlier this year. Since its foundation in 1948, the Organization, of which over 60 nations are members (though it has an inadequate budget of only seven million dollars) has done one of the finest jobs of all the international agencies. Regional offices have been set up in New Delhi and Alexandria, as well as one in Washington for Latin America and the Caribbean.

✧ ✧ ✧

OFTEN working jointly with other agencies and with such bodies as the Scandinavian Red Cross, W.H.O. teams have established malaria control in India, Pakistan and Siam, while others have started programmes to eliminate venereal disease in overcrowded tropical areas. Training services for doctors and nurses of all nations have been set up in both Europe and Asia to spread the knowledge of new techniques of tuberculosis control. In co-operation with the Brazilian Government, W.H.O. has succeeded in wiping out tropical diseases in large tracts of the Amazon basin. In fact, there are few parts of the world where its beneficent influence has not been felt.

✧ ✧ ✧

WORKING closely with W.H.O. is U.N.I.C.E.F., the United Nations International Children's Emergency Fund. Not strictly a specialized agency, since it is directly responsible to the U.N. General Assembly, U.N.I.C.E.F. inherited U.N.R.R.A.'s responsibility for children and had first call on the residue of U.N.R.R.A.'s funds. To have closed down such services altogether would have been to wipe out nearly an entire generation of children in Eastern Europe, but in co-operation with Eastern European Governments (who assisted in cash and kind regardless of ideology) U.N.I.C.E.F. not only saved these young people but—particularly by introducing the milk-drinking habit) made them healthier than most of their ancestors had ever been. Now the Fund is extending its labours to the poverty-stricken areas of Asia, where particular attention is being paid to the medical care and instruction of mothers.

✧ ✧ ✧

CHILDREN need milk; adults require bread, cereals, meat and rice. This is where F.A.O. (the United Nations Food and Agriculture Organization) steps in. F.A.O. has a membership of some 60 nations, and although two "Iron Curtain" countries recently withdrew, Spain and Western Germany, though not members of the U.N. proper, were admitted this month. Shortly to move from Washington to Rome, W.H.O. has been in existence since 1943, and, like most other organizations, works through an annual conference, a council and a Director-General with a permanent staff.

Its recent activities include the vaccination of 100,000 Ethiopian cattle against rinderpest (Rinderpest), assistance to Pakistan in developing irrigation, help in expanding the fishery industries of several countries in Asia and Latin America, and a forestry mission to Austria. Like the other agencies, F.A.O. whose budget is five million dollars, aims to educate rather than subsidize, to help undeveloped nations to make the most of their resources. Its work is invaluable in a largely undernourished world.

✧ ✧ ✧

BUT man does not live by bread alone, U.N.E.S.C.O. (The United Nations Educational, Scientific and Cultural Organization) sets out to do in the cutural field what the other agencies do in the material. Nowadays, however, education, science and culture, unlike child-health or an efficient postal service, inevitably involve ideology, and U.N.E.S.C.O. has therefore been considerably less successful than most of the other organizations. Nevertheless, it exists as a basis for cultural dissemination on a large scale when this becomes more possible.

Many countries, of course, have projects in all kinds of fields from agriculture to heavy industry, which they can undertake on their own but cannot finance. For these the International Bank for Reconstruction and Development exists. Founded at Bretton Woods in 1944, the World Bank, as it is known, provides loans for productive purposes within the territories of its member countries. So far its loan commitments total 832,845,000 dollars to 15 countries, among them France (250,000,000 dollars), Luxembourg (12,000,000 dollars) and Brazil (90,000,000 dollars).

OTHER agencies are the International Monetary Fund which exists to stabilize exchange rates and reduce restrictions on foreign exchange transactions, I.C.A.O. (the International Civil Aviation Organization), and I.T.U. (the International Telecommunications Union), descended from a body formed in 1932. The functions of these last two organizations are implicit in their titles. Finally, three more agencies are in the course of formation: W.M.O. (the World Meteorological Organization), I.T.O. (the International Trade Organization) and I.M.C.O. (the International Maritime Consultative Organization).

While delegates argue over politics in the Security Council and the General Assembly at Lake Success, and the spotlight is focussed on the diplomatic wrangling between East and West these Specialized Agencies are getting ahead with the constructive work of the United Nations. Their activities may seem unspectacular in comparison with the pyrotechnics of the politicians, but they are playing a large part in feeding, healing, developing and educating an underfed, unhealthy, undeveloped and uneducated world.

Unconsidered Trifles

An incorrigible youngster was hauled before the principal for having told his teacher to go to that four-letter place which we shall not mention.

The principal explained to him that such language could not be tolerated, but that if he would apologize to his teacher, she might give him another chance.

The boy was too stubborn to back down completely. Finally, however, between sniffles, he managed to make some concession: "Miss Frost," he said, "you don't need to go there now."

In one of the large department stores a portly dowager, a panting Pekingese under her arm, paused at the drinking fountain flanking the elevators. The elevator starter stopped clicking his castanets in amazement—the lady was giving her pet a drink.

"Madam," he said. "Please! The fountains are placed here for our patrons."

"Really?" she asked, putting down her dog, "I'm so sorry." And she sounded sincerely contrite as she explained: "I thought they were for the employees!"

Bible Message

(From the Authorized Version)

Lay not up for yourselves treasures upon earth, where moth and rust doth corrupt, and where thieves break through and steal: but lay up for yourselves treasures in heaven, where neither moth nor rust doth corrupt, and where thieves do not break through nor steal: for where your treasure is, there will your heart be also....

No man can serve two masters: for either he will hate the one, and love the other, or else he will hold to the one, and despise the other. Ye cannot serve God and mammon. (Matt. 6: 19-21, 24.)

Here and There In Sport

By The Canadian Press

Shortstop Marty Marion has been named manager of the St. Louis Cardinals of the National League.

Marion's appointment was announced at an afternoon press conference Wednesday by owner Fred Saigh.

The long, lanky shortstop has signed a contract for one year, Saigh said. Financial terms were not disclosed.

Twenty-five men had been interviewed for the job left open by the resignation of Eddie Dyer, who threw in the sponge in October after a dismal season. The Redbirds wound up the year in fifth place. It was the first time they had finished out of the first division since 1938.

Marion, who will be 33 years old in two days, will be the youngest manager in the major leagues. He has been with the Cardinal organization 15 years, 11 of them with the St. Louis Club. For the last several seasons the man known as "Mr. Shortstop" has been bothered with back and knee troubles.

Asked if he will continue to play, he said:

"I don't think I'm through as a player, but I'll play from the bench if necessary. A winter's rest might make a difference."

In Baltimore, the Colts dropped Frank Filchock from their National Football League roster just three weeks after signing him. The 34-year-old Filchock had been barred from the league for failure to report a bribe offer while a member of New York Giants. He then went to Canada and starred with Hamilton Tigers and Montreal Alouettes. With the Colts he played in only one game, quarter-backing the club on six plays.

And in Philadelphia promoter Herman Taylor announced he has signed lightweight champion Ike Williams and Rudy Cruz for a 10-round non-title fight Dec. 18. Cruz, a Californian who upset Arthur King of Toronto, British Empire lightweight champion, here Monday night, has met—and lost—to Williams once before.

The University of Toronto probably would buy a tarpaulin for Varsity Stadium if it got a long-term contract guaranteeing use of the field for Grey Cup finals, Warren Stevens, athletic director of the university, said last night in Kitchener.

Stevens and coach Bob Masterson of the Varsity Blues addressed the Kitchener-Waterloo branch of the Varsity Alumni Association.

Redmen Edge Eagles, 6-5 In Fast Senior Puck Tilt

Senior "B" standing:

	W	L	T	Pts
Eagles	7	1	1	15
Petes	6	2	1	13
Nylons	4	5	0	8
Belleville	2	5	0	4
Queen's	2	8	0	4

Belleville Redmen pulled an upset here last night to earn a 6-5 senior "B" puck victory at the expense of the league-leading local Eagles. It was the first reverse of the season for Nick Magee's men, and Belleville broke the tie with but a second of play left in the game as Freddy Mortimer was serving a high-sticking penalty.

More than a thousand fans waited for an hour before the game finally got under way, the Quinte crew arriving late and then the power line on the street failing and blacking out the arena for a space. Play was red hot over the route and quite even, the count being 2-2 in the first frame and 3-all going into the tight third chukker. The checking was rugged and there were a few high-sticking penalties, but it was fairly clean hockey. Eagles drew five of the nine penalties.

Led The Way

Bastedo and Green scored two goals each, with Mulvihill getting one and Jones sinking the winner just before the gong sounded. Mulvihill also had two assists in a fine showing, with Green, Jones and Wardhaugh helping once apiece. These players and goalie Leforte starred as the whole squad, coached by Wally Bent, turned in an impressive performance from start to finish. They hustled every minute on the ice.

Crowley was outstanding for the Eagles with two goals and an assist, while Freddy Mortimer, Bob Parnall and Bert Hill counted one each, and Burns and Milne had an assist apiece. The team toiled hard but played spotty hockey, particularly in a defensive role at times.

Bastedo scored early with a high angle shot and Mulvihill made it 2-0 on an in-close pass from Green. Fred Mortimer put Eagles back in the hunt in a scramble as the disc slipped by the sprawled goalie, and then Crowley took Milne's forward pass and blazed it into the hemp to tie the count. Day was gated for boarding but no damage resulted during his sentence.

Play Kept Hot

Goyer went over for holding the puck to open the second as play kept fast. He returned and Smith got it for boarding, but returned as Crowley beat Leforte with a slap shot at the goal-mouth on Burns' pass up. Fred Mortimer drew the nod for interference just after Green scored on a beautiful bit of combination with Mulvihill and Wardaugh. Schreider climbed the wall next for interference.

Hill was waved off to open the third for high-sticking but was back when Parnall faked a pass and scored a nice solo to put Eagles ahead. Coombs went away for tripping with Schmidt going, too, for interference in the hot going. They were back when Bastedo tallied from Jones in a scramble. Hill got it back on a backhander with Crowley's passout, but again Belleville tied it when Green cuffed home Mulvihill's rebound. It was sizzling hot then and, when Freddy Mortimer was gated for high-sticking in the dying seconds of play, the Redmen poured in and Jones finally slapped home the big one in a close-in scramble with less than two seconds to go. That did it.

Belleville: Goal, Leforte; defence, Goyer and Schreider; centre, Wardhaugh; wings, Green and Mulvihill; alternates, Jones, Day, McDonald, King, Free, Bastedo, Schmidt and Gapp.

Eagles: Goal, Nicholls; defence, Smith and Godfrey; centre, Hill; wings, Vitarelli and Crowley; alternates, Parnall, Milne, Munroe, F. Mortimer, Coombs, Montgomery, D. Mortimer and Burns.

Referee: L. Heffering; linesman, R. Ouimet.

Petes Defeat Queen's, 6-1 To Move Up In Puck Race

KINGSTON, Nov. 30—After setting the pace and leading by 1 to 0 until almost midway though the middle session in last night's OHA senior game in the Harty Arena, the Queen's University Combines were hit hard by injuries to Dave Latimer and Ron Murray and were defeated by the Peterborough Petes 6 to 1. Latimer, who was cut by a skate and Murray, who was cut by a flying puck, were given medical treatment.

The Combines surprised 400 fans by the power they exhibited going both ways before misfortune intervened. Don Keenleyside scored the lone goal of the opening period at 2:33 after taking a pass from Wild and it wasn't until 9:48 in the middle session that Garvey, aided by J. Mortimer, levelled the count.

Out Of Action

Latimer, playing strongly on the Queen's defence, was injured and out of action in company with Ron Murray when the visitors struck for two swift counters at 19:27 and 19:58, "Honey" Tompkins getting the first in conjunction with Dugan and G. Leonard while "Flash" Fryia racked up the second with Tompkins engineering the assaults. Two penalties were served in that fast round, Tompkins and Wild drawing minors for mixing matters too freely.

The short-handed Combines battled tenaciously throughout the final period but the smooth-working Petes forced the issue and went on to make the verdict decisive. J. Mortimer scored the invaders' fourth marker at 4:51 with West assisting and came back in less than a minute to register the next after taking a pass from Garvey. Three minutes later, G. Leonard brought the tallying to a close on a solo effort.

A Misconduct

Penalties to E. Leonard, who drew a minor for interference and to Tompkins, who was handed two minutes for slashing and a misconduct sentence for debating the point with Referee Bill Holway, found the hard-hit Combines unable to break through the defensive system employed by the Liftlock City veterans. But the Gaels tried hard and injected interest into the game they were doomed to lose.

The result strengthened the Petes' hold on the second rung and left the Combines dangerously close to the cellar.

J. Mortimer, who scored twice and had one assist, was the top point-getter in last night's contest while Garvey, Tompkins and G. Leonard each had a goal and an assist. Others whose names appear in the scoring summary are Dugan, Fryia and West. Keenleyside and Wild saved the locals from being blanked.

Goalkeeper Ray Harding, a veteran of the hockey wars, played every shot faultlessly during the last 57 minutes and 27 seconds but he wasn't tested as sternly or as often as was Boivin, his youthful opponent.

Petes: Goal, Harding; defence, Horton and Millar; centre, Wade; wings, Mason and Dugan; alternates, G. Leonard, E. Leonard, Fryia, Tompkins, West, Garvey, J. Mortimer and Jopling.

Queen's: Goal, Boivin; defence, Latimer and Wood; centre, Keenleyside; wings, Wild and Hay; alternates, Harley, Sweetman, Graves, Son Murray, Ron Murray, Ohlke, Shepherd and Bender.

Referee, Bill Holway; linesman, Art Casterton.

No penalties.

Petes—Garvey (J. Mortimer)	9:48
Petes—Tompkins (G. Leonard, Dugan)	19:27

Rickey Promises Hustling Pirates

PITTSBURGH, Nov. 30 (AP). — Baseball's wonder man, Branch Rickey, vows he's going to give pennant-hungry Pittsburgh a championship National League club within a few years.

But there's only this certainty: Branch Rickey is boss of the Pirates and will call the signals everywhere, although Billy Meyer is still manager, with a $40,000 contract running another year. Meyer may run along with it.

Rickey feted baseball writers last night and then gave them an eloquent rundown on the Pirate situation.

There was one definite pronouncement.

"I can't allow sentiment to weigh one iota."

Rickey wants a hustling, bustling team. He hasn't decided yet if Meyer is the man to do the job.

Curling News

By HERB MARTIN

The Walker bonspiel is postponed until Wednesday, Dec. 13.

This decision was reached by the committee late yesterday afternoon, when they were assured that there would be no more power for at least 12 hours.

The accident that occurred to our power system early Wednesday afternoon hit the curling rink as well as factories, business places and theatres—and, while our curlers were a little disappointed, they all hoped that the property loss would be small and that there would be no loss of life.

As for the bonspiel there were 26 rinks entered from all parts of this district.

Some had finished one game and others just about finished their first when the power accident happened. The bonspiel was declared no contest and all we said previously it will be held on Wednesday, Dec. 13.

Regular schedule games go tonight.

Lindsay Grads, undefeated entry in the local lasses' basketball league, play the senior Nurses (who have dropped but one tilt to date) at eight Friday eve in the YW. It's followed by Neill's against Nurses Jrs. Both should be interesting frays, but especially that opener of the twin bill. Saturday at seven p.m. in the YMCA, the house loop cagers resume with Buicks playing the Monarchs, as Chryslers take on Fords in the nightcap. Best male hoopsters in the city perform in this circuit, including those who will be in OABA play after the first of the year. No high school cage action so far.

Being a follower of boxing from away back, we watched with interest the other night the mat performance of the big English chap who is known as Lord Athol Layton. It struck us that he looked like a fighter, being fast, flat-stomached and with a tremendous reach. Nor did he "cross" his feet as he moves lightly about. Hence, we learned with satisfaction later from Pat Flanagan that Layton had been amateur heavyweight boxing champion of Australia when he enlisted in the army. The young, good-looking guy knows plenty about the mat game, too, and calls on a knowledge of judo when the going is rough.

PMHA-ers Go To Town

There'll be bumps and grunts galore tonight on the sheet at Civic Arena. It's minor hockey night, with six games on tap. They go like this, commencing at six: Empress bantams vs. Otonabee Wolves, St. Peter's midgets vs. Marines, Clapper's juves vs. Oddfellows, Trojan bantams vs. St. Peter's, Trojan midgets vs. Martin-Hewitt, and Trojan juveniles vs. Lakefield Lions. Referees are Nigh, Leggett and Lawless, the former working right through. Some speedy hockey and exciting action may be seen in these melees, and the PMHA-ers should draw bigger crowds to their six-bout cards.

The Friday night puck attraction here is an OHA senior "B" fixture betwixt Kingston Nylons and the Petes. As Nylons are creeping up steadily on the second-place Petes—having a firm grip on the third rung now—the Jopling bunch will have to get in there fighting to keep their fairish lead. At this stage of the race, it looks like these two clubs are well-matched and hitting their true stride after a month of play. Nylons have a big, hard-hitting defence, but the Petes don't lack weight this year, and they also have several smart forwards who will match Gerow, Partis and Catlin anytime. Harding is a better goalie than Udall, we think. Still, it should be a hot tussle all the way, and it rates a hefty turnout of fans.

Petes Climbing Ahead

The Petes put a nice victory in the old gunny sack last p.m. in Kingston, downing Queen's 6-1 in a good showing. That brings them right up in the standing on the heels of the Eagles by just two points—and they could clamp onto a top-place tie tomorrow if they win and Eagles should lose. Every tilt's important now, eh? Drake Jopling's squad has been playing consistently good hockey this campaign and have beaten every club in the group but Eagles—whom they tied once and then lost out to another time by one goal. While some of the alternates haven't been too prominent in the scoring department yet, they're all checking well, and the club has a number of classy snipers up front and a strong guard from the blue line back to the goal. Account of their triumph last night is in elsewhere, arriving a bit late from Kingston.

* * * * * *

Like the utilities yesterday, the senior "B" Eagles were powerless last eve and Belleville Redmen tucked in the winning marker of a 6-5 thriller here. They arrived late, sat around in the dark for a spell when a line outside the arena went dead, but 'twas Eagles who were late and in the dark at the finish. A real toughie to drop with but a second of play left and an Eagle ruefully riding the penalty roost at the time. Both sides kept up a hot, even pace most of the distance, but Wally Bent's boys of Bella Villa must be reckoned with plenty now as they're dishing up fighting hockey. And Leforte has made a big difference in the cage. Bill Crowley was the Eagles' star with three scoring points. The race is getting pretty close and heated.

Milltown Team Out

CAMPBELLFORD, Nov. 30 — (ENS).—First practice of the season for the Campbellford TVL team was held in the Cobourg Arena, with Don Erskine in charge on Tuesday night, and from all indications Campbellford will be able to ice a good hockey team for the coming schedule.

The hockey executive will hold a meeting on Thursday night when arrangements will be made for the coming season.

SWAPS DEFENCEMEN

Coach Al Murray of Galt Black Hawks announced yesterday a swap of defencemen with Oshawa Generals.

Galt sends Pete Germaine from Timmins, Ont., to Oshawa in return for Larry Lenahan from Copper Cliff, Ont. The two players change their Ontario Hockey Association Junior A club today.

ACCEPT INVITATION

The Canadian Ladies' Golf Union announced acceptance of an invitation from the Ladies' Golf Union in Britain for a Canadian ladies' team to visit there in 1953.

Boston Bruins Blast Wings, Rangers Get Tie With Hawks

By The Canadian Press.

Hockey fans in New York and Boston apparently gave up on their National League teams just when both decided to show some life.

With the smallest crowd of the season on hand last night, both the Rangers and the Bruins came up with the brand of fireworks it takes to win the customers back. Boston really went on a rampage, outscoring Detroit Red Wings 6-3. New York had to settle for a 1-1 tie with Chicago Black Hawks, but looked good doing it.

Small Crowd

There were only 6,103 fans at New York, smallest crowd to attend an NHL game in the 15,000 capacity Madison Square Gardens in 10 years. The 6,084 fans in Boston's 13,900-capacity Garden also was the season's smallest.

There will probably be more than those two totals combined at Montreal's Forum to-night to watch the fourth-place Canadiens tackle the league-leading Toronto Maple Leafs. Both Canadiens and Leafs were idle last night.

Boston's victory pulled them into a tie with New York for fifth and last place in the standings. The Black Hawks took over third place all alone while Detroit remained seven points behind the Maple Leafs, with two games in hand.

Wild Period

The Bruins' six-goal total was their highest of the season. They scored five of them in a wild final period in which Detroit's coach Tommy Ivan was ejected for arguing with Referee Hugh McLean.

Ivan's ire was aroused when McLean penalized Terry Sawchuck, Detroit goalie, for tripping Dunc Fisher. Forward George Gee served the penalty for the goalie.

Rookie Lorne Ferguson scored twice for Boston. Other marksmen were Woody Dumart, Captain Milt Schmidt, Pete Horeck and Vic Lynn. Jimmy McFadden scored twice for Detroit and Bob Goldham netted the other.

I was only the fourth triumph in 20 games for Boston and their second of the home season.

At New York, Rangers missed their third victory of the season when Jim Conacher's third-period goal wiped out their early lead. Hawk Captain Jack Stewart and Roy Conacher teamed up with Conacher, just up from Milwaukee, to produce the tally from close in.

The Rangers scored at 4:43 of the first period when defenceman Eddie Kullman converted Zellio Toppazzini's pass.

It was the ninth tie for the Rangers in 21 games.

Habs To Sponsor Sudbury Teams

SUDBURY, Nov. 30 (CP). — The National Hackey League Montreal Canadiens will sponsor a junior and perhaps a senior team in Sudbury next season. Sudbury Hockey Club officials announced Wednesday.

Frank Selke, Canadiens managing director, completed arrangements during a visit to this northern Ontario city Tuesday, they said.

Sudbury officials declined to disclose financial arrangements Tentative plans call for player help for a strong junior club but the door was left open for Canadiens to provide help for a possible senior entry in the Northern Ontario Hockey Association, they said.

With the new Sudbury arena nearing completion, it is expected a strong junior league will be operating next season with teams from Sudbury, Falconbridge, Copper Cliff, North Bay and Sault Ste. Marie.

Officials also announced that arrangements are being made for the junior Sudbury Wolves to tour western Canada later this winter to play other junior clubs in the Canadiens' farm chain.

Barrie, Marlies, Windsor Lose Games

By The Canadian Press.

The teams at the top of the Ontario Hockey Association Junior A standing fared badly last night as eight of the 10 teams in the series saw action.

A tired crew of Barrie Flyers, playing their third game in three nights, missed a chance to extend their first-place lead by dropping a close one, 3-2, to Guelph Biltmores.

Toronto Marlboros, in second place, muffed a chance to overtake the leaders when Oshawa Generals beat them 8-6 in a wide-open game at Oshawa.

Galt Wins

And Windsor Spitfires, just two points out of second place, were beaten at home 4-3 by Galt Black Hawks who, while still in eighth place, are only six points behind Barrie, an indication of how close the race is.

In the other junior game, St. Catharines Teepees kept pace with Oshawa, moving into a fourth-place tie with the idle Stratford Kroehlers by handing the winless Waterloo Hurricanes a 3-2 setback.

There was one game in the major series, Toronto Marlboros defeating Hamilton Tigers 7-1 at Hamilton. The result switched the standing of the two teams in the third and fourth spots of the four-team league. Toronto, St. Michael's are still well in front with Kitchener-Waterloo second.

Second In Row

The game at Barrie was a return meeting between Flyers and Biltmores. Guelph won the previous night at home 9-7.

If Barrie Flyers are tired out after a trio of games in three nights, it's probably nothing to what they'll be after they get back from a northern exhibition trip in which they play four games before coming back to play St. Catharines in a scheduled game next Wednesday.

Biltmores had to come from behind to earn the victory. Chuck Wood had given Barrie a 2-1 second-period lead after Ron Murphy had opened the scoring for Guelph and Doug Towers tied it up in the first. Ken Laufman tied it up in the final frame and Murphy's second goal was the winner.

Almost Choked

Sidelight of the hockey action was an accident which occurred when Guelph's Slawson almost choked on chewing gum which lodged in his windpipe. Prompt action of Dr. Neil Laurie of Barrie dislodged the gum.

In Oshawa, Parker MacDonald got three goals for the losing Marlboros with Gus Karrys, Ron Stewart and Hurst netting the others. Lou Jankowski and Alex Delvecchio scored two apiece for the Generals. Ted O'Connor, Mike Delich, Bob Attersley, and Boniface were the other scorers.

At Waterloo, a last-period drive fell short for the Hurricanes who played their 15th game without a win. Jim Robertson, Gord Lomar and Orrin Gould scored for the Teepees. Murray Dunnette and Warren Godfrey tallied for Waterloo in the last period when Hurricanes removed their goalie in an attempt to get the tying goal.

Three-goal Spurt

At Windsor, the Spitfires scored three goals in the last period but fell one short of the Black Hawks who had taken a 4-0 lead Two goals by Ken Wharram and singles by Pete Conacher and Don Hogan provided the Galt scoring. John Offidani got two for Windsor and Earl Johnson the other.

Hamilton defence and goaltending by Art Childs was off as Marlboros ran up a big margin in the major series game. Scotty Mair tallied two of Marlboros' seven goals, Don Rope, Bob Hassard, Bill Johnson and Howie Lee getting the others. Johnny Blute scored for Hamilton.

Both leagues are idle until Friday night when Kitchener-Waterloo Dutchmen play Marlboros at Toronto in the major loop, and Windsor meet St. Catharines while Oshawa are playing at Stratford in the junior league.

Louis Scores Plodding Win Starts Comeback

By CHARLES DUNKLEY.

CHICAGO, Nov. 30 — (AP).— Joe Louis still is wearing boxing gloves, but whether he will ever use them again in a title bout is as big a question today as ever.

A slim Chicago Stadium crowd of 8,866, which saw the former heavyweight champion score a methodical 10-round "comeback" victory over Cesar Brion last night, could agree with Joe's admission that "my timing was off."

Louis, as a matter of fact, is not even talking about a return match with titleholder Ezzard Charles, who gave him a 15-round trimming at New York last September 27.

Wants More Fights

"I want two or three more fights, and I want them right away," Louis said after his unanimous but plodding decision over the South American, 13 years younger than the no-longer-dreaded Brown Bomber. "I want to be in tip-top condition before I even think about Charles."

The International Boxing Club, which again took its lumps at the gate because last night's bout was televised, was to confer today over Joe's next foe in his try for another shot at Charles.

Joe, 36, and weighing 216 pounds, was a shadow of his former stalking, slashing self in the 10th round. He had Brion, at 196, in trouble with a furious barrage of lefts and rights.

No Combination

But, as Joe mumbled in the dressing room: "I just couldn't get the combination going." And Brion is the type of fighter Joe used to get the "combination" going against with murderous precision in his heyday.

Brion, who showed no fear of Louis from start to finish, conceded that Louis was his toughest opponent in 35 fights.

Brion's bobbing, weaving style may have been the reason, but just as against Charles, Louis never was able to effectively explode his one-potent right hand.

The ringside consensus was that Joe was as fit last night as he will ever be. But the sleeping pills are gone from his fists. When Joe held the title for 11 years, he registered 22 knockouts in 25 defences. That was his stock in trade. It isn't any more.

Against Charles, Louis faced a sharp, vicious boxer. But Brion was simply a courageous youngster, tough, but not particularly skillful, and Joe could not put him away. In the seventh, Louis whistled a right to Brion's midsection that nearly crumbled the South American. But Joe could not move in for the kill.

TEMPERATE ZONE

Hottest temperature recorded at Greenwich Observatory was 98.9 degrees on Aug. 19, 1932.

Weekend Stars

By The Canadian Press.

Chicago's Roy Conacher picked up an assist last night to elbow his way into the crowded first places of the National Hockey League's scoring race. This was the only change in the list.

Max Bentley of idle Toronto remained in first spot with 28 points, including his pac-setting 21 assists. Team-mate Tod Sloan was second, six points behind Bentley. Sloan was top sniper with 13 goals.

Oshawa Curlers Qualify

TORONTO, Nov. 30 (CP). — Two curling rinks from Oshawa, one from Kitchener and one from Toronto qualified yesterday to continue in play for the Thauburn and Percy Atkinson Memorial Trophies at the High Park Club's invitation bonspiel here.

W. Brownley's rink from Oshawa defeated two Toronto foursomes, C. Cassidy, 12-9, and Dr. C. L. Eaton, 8-5, then scored a 13-6 win over the rink skipped by Dr. Onhauser of Hamilton Thistles to enter the Thauburn trophy quarter finals.

D. B. Carlyle of Toronto also reached the fourth round, defeating two Toronto rinks and one from Stouffville.

Playing for the Percy Atkinson Trophy after being eliminated from the Thauburn, Dr. Brock of Oshawa led his rink to wins of 11-10 over C. Hood and 11-4 over Dr. Bereton, both of Toronto.

A. Disbourg of Kitchener skipped his rink to wins over C. S. Cassidy 15-11 and A. S. Dow 9-7 after losing a first-round Thauburn match.

Quarter finals will start today's play, which winds up the three-day bonspiel.

Who Is Who With 1950 Municipal Candidates

PERCY LUTHER

Percy Luther, aldermanic candidate, learned his business as a building contractor with T. C. Ephgrave. He has lived in Peterborough more than 40 years, used to live down on Crescent St., and says that if elected he will keep an eye on the needs of the south end of the city.

"Not that I think the council has neglected that area, when you see all the work that has been done down there in the last three or four years," Mr. Luther says. But, he retains a lively interest in that section. As a youth he used to be a sports fan with special attraction to long distance running, and used to compete in local events.

He enlisted with the 93rd Battalion, CEF, is a member of the Canadian Legion, secretary of the Peterborough Builders Exchange; member of St. John's Anglican Church, sang in its choir for years and was a promoter of Boy Scouts and Tuxis youth clubs. He was chairman of the Veterans housing committee for two years, had a hand in getting many of the rental houses. Mr. Luther has a family of five girls and two boys, all but two of whom are attending school.

"I am specially interested in the small home owner and in the youth of Peterborough and the welfare of our young people, and I should like to help in getting some more industries," Mr. Luther said.

MRS. KATHLEEN M. BELL

Mrs. Kathleen M. Bell who is a candidate for election to the Board of Education, has been in Peterborough only six years but she has made her presence felt by her capable executive ability and her conscientious work. Associates describe her as "a clear thinker and forceful speaker."

During her term as president the King George Home and School Association received warm congratulations for its work on Parent Education, from the Home and School Federation in Toronto.

She is active in welfare work, being particularly interested in the Well-Baby Clinic. For several years she was a worker for the Red Cross and Community Chest.

Mrs. Bell is a member of St. John's Anglican Church and works for the Church Women's Association (CWA).

She has two children of school age, the son in grade ten at PCVS, the daughter in grade six at King George School.

When graduating in modern languages from the University of Toronto, she was awarded the Gold Medal for attaining the highest marks in her year. Following graduation, until her marriage, she was engaged in secretarial work.

With such qualifications and experience in educational matters Mrs. Bell is equipped to be a satisfactory member of the Board of Education.

For "Whole Community" Interest

JOHN SPARROW

VOTE TO ELECT

John Sparrow

to the Board of Education

A resident of Peterborough for 21 years with 7 years of first hand experience in educational problems. Present chairman of the Ontario Industrial Education Committee.

ARTHUR R. BENNETT

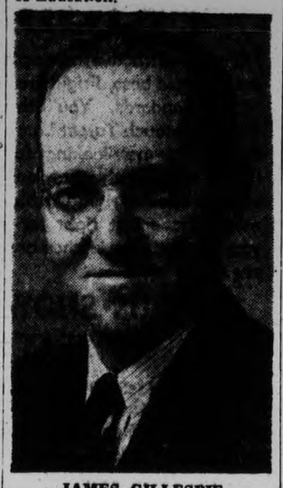
Supporting greater representation by the northern district in the city council, Arthur R. Bennett, local decorator, is making his bid for the first time as an aldermanic candidate Monday.

Mr. Bennett said today that with only one alderman from the north ward district, another should be added. He pointed out that this section of the city has increased considerably in the last few years and is still enlarging.

Another purpose for his aldermanic decision was "my idea in running for alderman was that I figured there has been too much wasteful spending. I'm no 'yes' man and if elected, I'll do my part to try to stop some of this foolish spending for the ratepayers of Peterborough."

Born in Harvey township, Mr. Bennett has been a resident of Peterborough for 54 years. For brief periods he has worked in Toronto, Florida and California but has always returned to his work painting and decorating in Peterborough.

He served three years and eight months in the First World War with the Canadian Horse Artillery. He is a member of the Canadian Legion.



JAMES GILLESPIE

"Peterborough is the best city on earth and I want to do my part to keep it that way," said James Gillespie who is seeking re-election to the city council for his second term.

During his two years on the council Mr. Gillespie has been very active. He has served as vice-chairman of the board of works. In addition he is a member of the Recreation Commission, the arena committee, the fire-water-light committee, the manufacturers' committee, the legal committee and the parks committee.

A garage operator, Mr. Gillespie is a life-long resident of Peterborough. He obtained his education in King George and Queen Mary public schools and PCVS. He has taken an active part in local sports.

His World War 2 record is: 5½ years with the Stormont, Dundas and Glengarry Highlanders; 4½ years overseas; attained the rank of major; landed in France on D-Day.

ARTHUR B. BURROWS

Because he is interested in civic affairs and he believes it is every citizens duty to know civic affairs, Arthur B. Burrows is seeking re-election as alderman for a second term.

During past two years as alderman Mr. Burrows served as chairman of the welfare committee as well as a member of the property, parks and fire, water and light committees.

Holding a public office is not new for this downtown merchant. During the years he was a merchant in Lakefield he held the reeveship for a period. For six years he was trustee of both the Public and High Schools, secretary of the library board, secretary-treasurer of the board of trade and president of the Canadian Legion branch for 3 years.

Mr. Burrows saw overseas service during World War 1 with the 93rd Battalion and the 16th Battery.

Until recently Mr. Burrows was assistant manager of the Unemployment Insurance Commission office here. And later sub-district administrator for the Department of Veterns' Affairs, a position which he held until he opened his store on George St. in partnership with his son, Douglas.

DR. HERBERT YOUNG

Dr. Herbert Young has served four years on the city council and is seeking re-election.

"There are a great many projects the council has undertaken which I am interested in seeing completed," stated Dr. Young. "In addition, I believe that experience is a great asset in a municipal representative. I also feel that after four years service on the council, I have learned a great deal, and this knowledge and experience will help me to serve the people of Peterborough more efficiently."

Dr. Young was born and received his primary and secondary education in Peterborough. He is a graduate of Queen's University, Kingston, and was an interne in Kingston General Hospital and Rome School, New York State. He has been a practicing physician in Peterborough since 1929.

During his two terms of office on the council Dr. Young has been chairman of the Parks Committee for the past three years and has served on the Welfare Committee and Recreation Commission.

"With the splendid co-operation of Armar Butcher, superintendent of the Parks Department, we have been able to accomplish a great deal," stated Dr. Young. "Included in these projects is the rockery in Riverside Park, the flower beds at the Exhibition Grounds and the carpet bedding denoting Peterborough's centennial year at Confederation Park."

Dr. Young has also served as chairman of the committee, consisting of members of the council and members of the Board of Governors of the Civic Hospital which is in charge of the hospital grounds.

War Shortages Predicted Soon

MONTREAL, Nov. 30 —(CP)— Manpower and material shortages such as the world knew during the '40's are in store for Canada once again, George G. Rogers, program director of the American Economic Foundation in New York, predicted here last night in a speech before the Foreman's Club.

He was outlining the problem to be faced by industry once the Korean War and the West's policy of armament against aggression take toll of industrial supply. More efficient methods of production were essential if Canada and the United States were to maintain their present high level of output.

He said the first effects of material shortages may be felt in less than six months.

Mission Plans Aid Unmarried Mothers

LONDON — (CP) — A five-year plan for more mother love needs $42,000.

The money would be used by a West London mission to equip 17 small apartments for working mothers. The idea is to discourage unmarried women from having their babies adopted.

During working hours, babies would be looked after by two resident housekeepers.

After five years, mothers would be asked to find other lodgings. Organizers believe that if a girl can keep her baby till then, the worst is over.

Hot 1893 Dance Too Much For Hollywood

By BOB THOMAS

HOLLYWOOD, Nov. 30 (AP)—The dance that sizzled grandpa is too hot for today's movie screen.

Hollywood is making the story of little Egpyt and is having a dickens of a time making it authentic. Little Egypt for those whose memories don't go back that far, was the dance sensation of the Gay Nineties. Born in Cairo, she was part of a Syrian troupe that appeared on the midway at the Columbian exposition in Chicago in 1893.

Little Egypt presented some manoeuvers never seen before in North America. Her hootchy-kootchy shocked the women and delighted the men.

Refined Grind

"I guess she was the forerunner of the present-day burlesque queen," reported Rhonda Fleming, who is playing Little Egypt and has done some research on the dancer. "But she did it in an Oriental and more refined way.

"She didn't move her feet much, but everything else moved, especially her stomach."

The Johnston office has strict rules about such movements, whether they are historical or not. The bump, a forward motion of the hips, is verboten. Miss Fleming has to do it with a sideways movement.

Hidden Charms

The grind, which is a clock-like motion of the hips, is also banned. Miss Fleming can make only a semi-circular movement. That is, from one to six o'clock, rather than the full 12 hours.

Little Egypt's costume also couldn't pass the guardians of Hollywood morals. She was well covered above and below, but her midsection was bare.

"Strangely enough," Miss Fleming added, "it wasn't her bare stomach that seemed to cause the furor. It was the fact that her legs could be seen under her costume when she twirled. She wore 'somthing that looked like long underwear."

There were many dancers who claimed to be little Egypt, but the real one was named Fahreda Mahzar. She stayed in the US after the Chicago fair, but never achieved as much fame again.

Blast Furnace Ready In Summer

HAMILTON, Nov. 30 —(CP)— Hamilton's second blast furnace and coke ovens unit should be ready for operation late this summer. Dominion Foundries and Steel Limited is building the primary production unit at a cost of $13,000,000 on Hamilton Bay. The other similar unit here has been operated for many years at the Steel Company of Canada Ltd.

Contractors for a battery of coke ovens, built by the Koppers Company of Pittsburgh, and for a John Mohr and Son blast furnace have a total value of $9,000,000. An 800-foot dock is costing the company $400,000. The company's directors earlier approved an issue of $8,000,000 new preferred shares to help finance the scheme. Dofasco expects a sharp increase in steel production when the unit is operating. The coke ovens will eat up 800 tons of coal a day, it is expected.

Four-Week Vacations

TORONTO, Nov. 30 (CP). — Premier Frost announced last night that four-week vacations for 25-year civil servants will be continued. Mr. Frost also announced the statutory maximum on pensions for superannuated civil servants was being lifted. Pensions for both the retired employees of the province and widows of ex-civil servants would be calculated instead of the number of years of contribution to the superannuation fund.

Pup Covers Beat

WINDSOR, Ont., Nov. 30 (CP) —A small black and white terrier anxious to become a police dog, gave constable Bill Borschuk help in covering his beat the other night. The pup picked up step behind the constable shortly after midnight and followed him on his rounds all night. By morning, the dog was cold and dog-tired. Constable Borschuk had had to carry it part way when it refused to leave him. He took the dog home and said he would keep it and see if the owner claims it. Then it will be taken to the Humane Society pound.

34-Year Old Engine At Pump House To Go

COBOURG, Nov. 30 (ENS), — The ancient gasoline auxiliary engine at the pumphouse, used in pumping water in power cut-offs, is to be replaced as soon as possible by a new one, the Public Utilities Commission decided at its meeting last night. Thirty-four years old, the engine has been given weekly tests during those years, but a 15-hour steady run during the power cut-off in last week-end's storm resulted in the old engine giving up the ghost. Pressure from the big tank north of the town was all that remained in the system.

The commission decided to get prices and information of a new engine and also to look over the diesel engine at Port Hope.

PETERBOROUGH EXAMINER

VOL. CI. No. 127 — THURSDAY, NOVEMBER 30, 1950

Total Darkness Down Town In Winter Night

Central Peterborough presented a dark and dismal appearance until 9:30 p.m. Wednesday evening. With the exception of a few lantern-lighted store windows, car headlights provided the only relief from total darkness.

Approximately six stores on George St. from Simcoe northward became an oasis of light in the general pervading darkness. The lights in this section came on at 5.50 p.m. Inquiries this morning revealed no explanation. E. L. Payne of Payne's Drugs on the corner of Simcoe and George Sts., told the Examiner this morning that he had no idea why the lights came on his store.

"Customers asked us the same question last night," Mr. Payne stated, when questioned this morning. "All I can tell you is what I told them—we paid all our bills promptly."

Candles, Lamps

The majority of the stores were closed for the usual Wednesday half-holiday. The open drug stores were kept busy selling candles and stocks went rapidly. Lanterns, pressure oil and gas lamps were also in great demand. And a few hardware merchants obligingly went back to their shops to cater to anxious customers. Higgins Hardware on Hunter St. stated this morning that they had a complete sellout of these types of lighting equipment as well as coal oil.

A few of the restaurants which were equipped with stoves not operated by electricity provided a haven for wandering crowds on the streets. Candles and lanterns presented a Bohemian atmosphere for their many customers.

During the evening, groups assembled on street corners discussing the situation and gazing longingly at street lights burning in East City and the northern part of Peterborough. These sections of the city received power about 4 p.m. in the afternoon.

As lights came on at 9.30 p.m., the street crowds gradually dispersed. Store window lights and Neon signs came on downtown and Peterborough regained its normal appearance.

SEPERATE SCHOOLS' TOP ORATORS, Peter McConkey of Immaculate Conception LEFT, and Robert James of St. John's are congratulated by His Excellency Bishop Gerald Berry on Wednesday evening at St. Mary's Hall, basement of Immaculate Conception Church. CO-SPONSORED

Contrary to what was stated in the Examiner Wednesday, the Christmas party to be held in the Market Hall on December 20, 21 and 22, is co-sponsored by the Chamber of Commerce and Businessmen's Association and not by the Chamber alone. The following men are on the planning committee: Zimmel Levine, chairman; F. S. Gibbons, Dave Foster, Dick Miller and Jim Fraser.

RELATIVE OF RESCUER

Recently OS. Robert Elvidge, of Ladner, B.C., was washed overboard from the HMCS Athabaskan during a storm in the China Sea. OS. Joe Adamson, of Sudbury, a nephew of Mr. and Mrs. Henry T. Mouck, 581 Bolivar St., grabbed Elvidge by the belt and hauled him aboard from a high wave. A navy photo of the sailors appeared in Monday's Examiner.

THEATRES OPEN

Theatres of the city received permission this morning to carry on as usual with their programs and business. They use comparatively little power except in the marquee lights which the managers were told to cut off during the emergency.

FUNERAL WEDNESDAY

Pallbearers at the funeral of Mrs. Harriet Ball, Wednesday afternoon from the Belleghem funeral home were: Russell Davis, Vince Harris, Fred Harris, Donald McCall, Herbert Sage and E. McCarrell. Service was conducted by the Rev. B. S. Morrow, of Mark St. United Church. Burial was at Little Lake cemetery.

WATERWORKS VOTE

Today Lakefield ratepayers are voting on whether to issue debentures for $352,000 covering the cost of constructing waterworks, sewers and sewage disposal systems in the village. The polling hours are 11 a.m. to 7 p.m. The money bylaw has stirred up considerable controversy in the village.

OF THE REEVE'S RUBBERS

A pair of ???-sized low rubbers has been kicking about on the stair landing of The Examiner editorial department for three days. It was learned that Reeve W. C. Grant of Lakefield upon paying the newspaper a visit on Monday walked out of his loose footgear in disgust. Since Reeve Grant was returned by acclamation in Lakefield recently, he is apparently not worried now about anyone else filling his shoes.

PLAY POSTPONED

The Sadlier players and the Rotary Club finally had to give up hopes of getting light and power into the Collegiate in time for the play Wednesday. At 8.20 p.m. word went out that the show was off. By that time a couple of hundred people were milling around the darkened doors, waiting in hope, and dozens of cars were arriving. Seat tickets for the cancelled performance are being honored at a special performance Saturday evening.

PIONEER TOUCH

One of the many hundreds of Peterborough husbands who phoned his wife from work about blackout supper arrangements, pooh-poohed the idea of sandwiches and cold canned stuffs. Being an ex-scouter, he had it all doped out and cooked a steak and potato dinner in the furnace. They ate their hot meal by candlelight. "Thought we would pass the idea along to others, in case the power is still off tonight," said the lady.

Baby Gives Cry Preventing Fire

A baby's cry early Wednesday afternoon is credited with preventing a serious fire at the home of Lorne Smith, 169 Perry Street.

A sheet had been draped over the back of a chair to dry by Mrs. Ruth Smith. After she left the room the sheet is believed to have flapped against the nearby oil stove and burst into flames.

The smoke caused her four-and a half-month-old baby, lying in an adjacent bedroom, to cry out, and a neighbor informed Mrs. Smith who was working in the basement.

When Mrs. Smith went back upstairs she discovered the fire. It destroyed the sheet, burned a large hole in the chesterfield chair, and damaged the stove. There was also some smoke damage to a nearby chesterfield and the room generally.

Firemen quickly extinguished the blaze.

Wilbert C. Wood

The funeral of Wilbert C. Wood of South Monaghan, who died suddenly Nov. 26 was held on Tuesday at Bensford United United Church which was filled to capacity. Rev. B. Heywood of Bailieboro conducted the service. Pallbearers were: James Lewis, Melville Wood, Harold Nurse, Karl Huggins, Roy Whittington and Joseph Morrison. Burial was in Dawson's cemetery.

What Happened At Substation? Here's A Theory

Assuming that a short circuit was the cause of the Aylmer St. substation fire Wednesday afternoon, it is a common experience in minor form with every householder.

When a domestic fuse blows, the resulting domestic blackout is a miniature in cause and effect of the community darkness that rested on a large area of the city when twilight deepened into darkness around five o'clock Wednesday.

Unscrew a light bulb from its socket and insert a copper cent coin, and you will blow the fuse in the home lighting system where the current comes from the street lead wires into the house.

This May Have Happened

That is a simplification of what may have happened at the Aylmer St. substation.

The ordinary light bulb encloses a filament of material that is more resistant than the copper wires of the electric system of the house. Once it was carbon and tungsten. The resistance to the current sets up heat and glow in the filament, and the glow increases illumination. Insert the copper coin in the place of the bulb and you bridge the two wires leading into the light socket. Momentarily the volume of current that was flowing on through the bulb is, as it were, dammed up, and the wires themselves would heat until something had to give.

The fuse is set into the electrical system because it has a low melting point, yields first to heat, causes a break in the system and thereby cuts off the current.

Ominous Light

R. L. Dobbin, manager of Utilities saw almost at the moment of the fire at the south end of the switchboard in the substation, an ominous light at the top of a pole on the east side of Aylmer St., leading into the substation. That may have been the short circuit, a factor that was waiting for investigation while the job of repairing the switchboard was getting first attention. He said today that the oil in the circuitbreakers on the switchboard was not burned, indicating that the fault was not there.

But, insulation was burned off wires carrying the heavy current, a circumstance to be considered when the initial cause is determined.

At any rate, when the flames were extinguished, the first job was to find out the extent of the damage, getting around to the testing of the panels comprising the switchboard. Six of these panels were out of commission. Work was then begun on connecting to the eight serviceable panel circuits around town which had been connected to the six boards that could not be used.

Emergency Tie-Ins

That part of the board had to carry more than its customary load. By these emergency tie-ins sections of the city began to get light last night. Ashburnham and part of the northend, it was said, was hooked up to the new substation on Clifton St., and had a supply of power that caused many people to wonder about that arrangement.

What the layman knows little about is volume of electric current delivered from the Hydro lines to the substation where it is transformed down for distribution throughout the city. It is the big volume of current that magnifies the problem of the electrical engineers in the technical provision for carrying heavy loads and making switchgear to accommodate them in full safety and efficiency.

Several seections of the city that were cut off the panels in the centre of the flames Wednesday would probably be the last to be brought into the temporary switching through the other panels.

Police In Dark

Like the rest of the city, the police station had to go without light Wednesday afternoon.

From 1:43, when the power failed, until 9:20 on Wednesday night, officers on the desk received just short of 200 calls from citizens who wanted to know:

"What are we going to do about heating our house?"

"What will I feed my baby without anything to heat her food?"

"When will the power go on?"

"Why did it go off?"

And so the questions went.

When the city became even darker at night, coal oil lamps came out of their hiding-places and lighted the guard room. The desk, where Sgt. Leo Murphy was working, was illuminated by two coal oil lamps and a flashlight.

Lights Go On But Power Remains Short

Lights for the whole city were on less than nine hours after the substation blast cut off power on Wednesday.

Despite early, gloomy predictions that power would not be fully on until early today, hydro workers rushed repairs of switches and had lights on across the city by 10.30 p.m.

Householders, store owners and others were requested to cut down use of power today until normal pressure returned. Mr. Dobbin said he did not know exactly when that would be.

First lights in the city after the blackout flashed on in the north end, in Ashburnham, and near Sherbrooke St. at 4 p.m., two-and-a-half hours after the explosion. These sections were supplied with power from the Auburn dam.

Another two hours passed before several other parts of the city got their light. By 9.30 Wednesday night, most of the downtown lights were on and only a few sections remained without power. At 10.30 p.m., they were supplied.

Tried All Afternoon!

Is ignorance bliss? Not according to one citizen of Peterborough.

This particular gentleman decided to do some electrical repairing in his home Wednesday afternoon. He pulled the main switch in his home at 1:15 a.m. and started to work. When the job was finished, the lights would not go on. Thinking that this situation was due to some error of his own, he continued working until 4 p.m.

At this time he decided that he needed some new fuses and went to a store to purchase some. It was not until then that he discovered that he was not alone in his dilemma.

Family Needs Placed First City Short of Power Until Repairs Are Completed

Six of Peterborough's industries will be shutdown until Monday as a result of the fire Wednesday afternoon in the substation of the Utilities Commission. They are: De Laval Co.; Outboard Marine and Manufacturing Co.; Canadian Raybestos; Martin-Hewitt Co.; Dominion Woollens and Worsteds Ltd.; and A. Wander Co., manufacturers of Ovaltine.

Utilities management was confronted with an alternative of heating homes or operating these factories, Ross L. Dobbin informed the Examiner today.

George A. Macdonald, Utilities Commissioner and also superintendent of De Laval Co., assented to the decision that gave priority to domestic comfort and needs, particularly in a large area of the south end of the city that is connected with the outdoor substation on Romaine St.

The information is passed on to the employees of those factories that, in this alternative, family needs were placed first, particularly in the essential accommodation of providing power for electric stoves, hot water heaters, and all the other equipment used in the average home today.

Short Circuit Problem

Harry G. Beatty, electrical superintendent, said to the Examiner: "We have to keep factories off until Monday, when we expect to have them going again.

Pressure of the city's industrial needs was delaying Mr. Beatty's investigation of the possibility of a short circuit at the top of a pole on the east side of Aylmer St., opposite the Utilities sub-station, being the essential cause of the fire. No definite report was available this morning, but that spot was believed to be the seat and core of the trouble.

Four Panels Put Out

Four of the fourteen panels of the long switchboard were put out of commission by the fault in the system, and two others were damaged and were also out of use. Hydro-Electric Commission despatched some of their expert line men to Peterborough to assist Mr. Beatty and his crew in the work of getting the switching gear back into operation.

In the meantime, electric loads were being connected temporarily to the switchboards that were intact, but because they were carrying excess loads and doing extra work, the public was being asked to use as little as possible beyond actual needs.

Window Lights Out

Retail stores were instructed this morning not to turn on their window lighting, for instance, and a general appeal was made over CHEX to conserve electricity in homes and in commercial use of power.

Mr. Dobbin decided that the theatres could be open to the public today because their power consumption is light, but they were told to omit their marquee lights until further notice.

"We have had wonderful co-operation from the public," Mr. Dobbin said. "There was no protest from any source, and the indication were that people in their homes were helping by cutting down their lighting and other use of power.

CGE Assistance

"We had quick assistance from the Hydro, and Mr. Ian McRae and some of the other CGE men were prompt in enquiring about what they could do for us. We borrowed some of their material."

Both Mr. Dobbin and Mr. Macdonald told the Examiner that the big substation which the Hydro-Electric Power Commission is constructing near Lily Lake was presenting to the Utilities Commission the necessity of throwing out the present switchboard and replacing it with a new one to conform with the increased voltage that will be flowing through this area and the big Hydro substation with power from the generating plants on the Ottawa River.

"Estimated cost of that new equipment has been estimated at $250,000," Mr. Macdonald said, but there was no need of dealing with that problem this year. It was something we were having to get ready for."

Skiing Season Scheduled To Open Saturday

Believe it or not this time last year Peterborough skiing enthusiasts were zipping down hills throughout the district. But the skiers are not going to be far behind time this year as the season will open officially Saturday for the Peterborough Ski Club.

Snowfalls in the past few days have covered the ground to the extent of eight inches or better. There is a 4½-inch layer of old snow with another four inches of fresh fluffy snow as a top layer. The ground is not frozen too hard.

Club president Toby Westbye said today that if the snow holds the tows at Bethany and at Kemp's Hill will be operating this week-end. He expects the single tow at Kemp's Hill to be working Saturday afternoon and one tow at Bethany operating Saturday. If the weather allows, both tows at Bethany will be operating Sunday.

At Kemp's Hill the ski club has installed a completely new return for the tow at the top of the hill. The rope is now carried to a height of 25 feet at the top keeping it from dragging along the slope. A new safety gate has also been installed there and a new rope.

Work at the Bethany ski playground has been general. Straw beds have been laid along the tow cuts and a new rope placed along the main tow.

James Long Dies In 100th Year

One of Peterborough's oldest residents, James Long, 99, of 561 Reid St., died Wednesday afternoon after a short illness. He would have been 100 years of age on April 27.

Mr. Long was enjoying good health up until Monday. Then he suffered a serious fall in his own home. After that he was confined to bed.

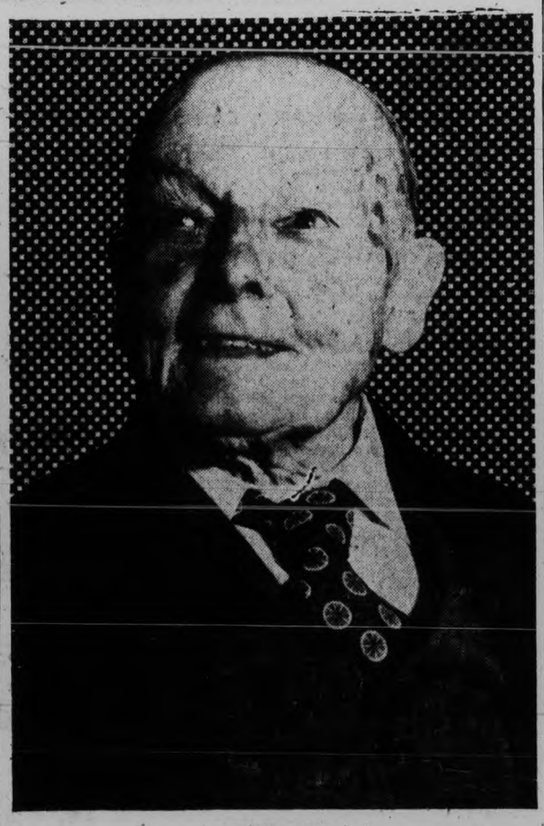
He was a resident of Peterborough for 82 years after coming to this city from Wiltshire, England, where he was born. He was the son of the late Henry and Mary Gray.

Mr. Long was best known in Peterborough as a confectioner. With his brother Harry he started up a confectionery business known as "Long Bros." Tom Hooper, later proprietor of Hooper's bakery shops, learned his trade while an employee of Mr. Long. And later Mr. Hooper branched out on his own.

Mr. Long leaves a son Dr. H. J. Long, George St. dentist, but no other close relatives. His wife, the former Margaret Reid, died in 1937.

He attended George Street United Church, and was a member of the Oddfellows. The Oddfellows are having a special service tonight at the Comstock Funeral Home.

The funeral will be Friday at the funeral home, the Rev. A. A. Mathews of George Street United Church officiating. Burial will be in Little Lake cemetery.



JAMES LONG

The brothers of Peterborough Lodge No. 111 IOOF. are required to assemble at Comstock's Funeral Home, November 30 for the purpose of attending the service for our late brother, James Long. All visitors cordially invited.

MEL. HYNES, N.G. — J. H. PRICE, Rec. Sec'y

The citizens of Peterborough are cordially invited to attend the ceremony of the laying of the foundation stone of the new City Hall, at the site of the City Hall, opposite Confederation Square, at 3:00 o'clock, Friday afternoon, December 1st, 1950.

Especially if it's fudge made rich-flavoured and creamy smooth with BAKER'S UNSWEETENED CHOCOLATE. When you use Baker's Chocolate, you get real, honest-to-goodness chocolate flavour, for there's nothing added, nothing taken away!

TUTTI-FRUTTI FUDGE

2 squares Baker's Unsweetened Chocolate
3/4 cup milk
2 cups sugar
Dash of salt
2 tbspns. butter
1 tspn. vanilla
4 tbspns. (each) finely cut candied cherries, candied pineapple, figs and nutmeats
4 tbspns. raisins (rinsed, thoroughly dried and finely cut).

Add chocolate to milk; place over low heat. Cook until mixture is smooth and blended, stirring constantly. Add sugar and salt; stir until sugar is dissolved and mixture boils. Continue boiling, without stirring, until a small amount of mixture forms a very soft ball in cold water (temperature of syrup—232 deg. F.). Remove from heat. Add butter and vanilla. Cool to lukewarm (110 deg. F.); then beat until mixture begins to thicken and loses its gloss. Add fruits and nuts. Turn at once into greased pan, 8x4 inches. Decorate with additional fruit. When cold cut in squares. Makes 16 large pieces.

Steaming, Savoury Soup on a cold November evening . . . there's nothing better, is there? And here's a soup that you'll find extra satisfying because it's flavoured with the beefy goodness of BOVRIL! Just try this tasty, tangy Creole Soup recipe by Eileen Rodger, the Bovril Dietician:—

3 tbspns. butter
2 tbspns. chopped green pepper
2 tbspns. chopped onions
2 cups canned tomatoes
2 tbspns. Bovril
1 cup boiling water
1/4 cup rice
1/2 tspn. salt

Cook green pepper and onion in butter until tender. Add flour and blend well. Add tomatoes, Bovril and boiling water. Allow to simmer gently for ten minutes. Add cooked rice and season. Serve with toasted crackers. Makes six servings.

And I've discovered that Canned Salmon is not only a family "favourite" . . . it's a hostess's Best Friend. So luscious in colourful, flavourful casseroles — so appetizing in salads and sandwiches! With Canned Salmon and a little imagination, it's such fun to conjure up exquisite party delicacies. Mix Canned Salmon with mayonnaise, chopped onion. Garnish with chopped olives, chopped pickles, pimento or cuts of asparagus. Canned Salmon is so versatile . . . AND so economical! It's all food —there's no waste. These wonderful sponges are soft as velvet when wet—square-shaped and easy-to-handle. They come in five convenient sizes at hardware, department, drug, variety and grocery stores. And, when you're buying—remember to look for the C-I-L label—it's your assurance of quality.

It's Only Human To want your friends to try something you've particularly enjoyed. That's why I'd like you to try BLUE RIBBON COFFEE. I know you'll like it and I wish I could be with you when you first taste its marvelous, full-bodied flavour. No matter what kind of coffee-maker you use, Blue Ribbon Coffee is always delicious. You see, you have three distinct grinds to choose from . . . regular for your percolator, drip for your dripolator, or silex for your glass coffee-maker. Or there's the all-purpose grind in the economical paper bag. And another thing about Blue Ribbon—it's always fresh. That's because there are three Blue Ribbon roasting plants across Canada, one of which is close to you

Human Lamp Big Hit Birthday Gift

By RICHARD K. O'MALLEY.

AUGSMERG, Germany, Nov. 30 (AP).—Guests at a birthday party for Ilse Koch declared a lamp made of human skin and a human shinbone was the most successful gift of all, a witness at her trial testified today.

The red-haired widow of the former Buchenwald concentration camp commander is on trial before a German court, accused of instigating the murder of 45 inmates, the attempted murder of 235 others and brutality.

She served four years of a commuted life sentence on a U.S. war crimes conviction. The Germans are trying her for crimes allegedly committed against German and Austrian nationals.

Saw Lamp Sent

Joseph Ackermann, inmate-secretary to the camp's chief surgeon, Dr. Waldemar Hoven, told a three-judge German court of the birthday party and said he had been charged with seeing that the lamp was sent to the Koch household.

It was a complete shinbone and foot, he said, with a shade made of tattooed human skin.

A camp doctor who attended the party told him "it was the best present of all" and a great success, Ackermann said.

Later, Ackermann went on, Nazi authorities in Berlin heard of the story and ordered an investigation. He said prison physicians hurriedly recalled the lamp from the Koch household, removed the base, and declared it was only part of a medical exhibit used in studies of tattooed skin.

Shrunk Heads

Ackermann said that Dr. Hoven, later executed for war crimes, also experimented with the heads of executed inmates after a German explorer had explained a head-shrinking process he had learned in foreign lands.

The witness said Hoven told him he had made presents of several shrunken heads "to my girl friend."

The 43-year-old defendant listened impassively as Ackermann testified. She has denied ever having seen tattooed skins or ever having such a lamp in her home.

Ackermann described a grisly laboratory where "hundreds" of human skins were draped over two broad tables and selections were made by camp physicians for tanning experiments.

He said he had been told that human skin from the back "is as tough as pigskin."

Chinese Would Aid US

SWEETWATER, Tex., Nov. 30 (AP).—Maj.-Gen. Claire Chennault said yesterday that 450,000,000 Chinese still will fight with the United States if the U.S. arms them although they've been "alienated. . . as a result of our foreign policy of waiting for the dust to settle." Chennault said in an interview that he favors the proposed Asiatic defence pact which would parallel the North Atlantic Pact.

Textile Union, Firm Break Off Talks

CORNWALL, Nov. 30 (CP) — Sam Baron, Canadian director of the Textile Workers of America (CIO), said yesterday negotiations have broken down on a 1951 contract between Canadian Cottons Ltd., and 4,000 employees in six mills in Cornwall, Marysville, N.B., Milltown, N.B. and Hamilton.

Mr. Baron said a company offer of a seven-cent hourly wage increase and an offer of four cents an hour to eliminate equalities in the scale had been rejected at union meetings last weekend.

Mr. Baron said the union had sought a 15-cent-an-hour boost across the board, a 40-hour week with the same take-home pay as for the present 44 hours and six paid statutory holidays.

College Journal Asks For More Law Schools

TORONTO, Nov. 30 — (CP) — Obiter Dicta, quarterly magazine of law students at Osgoode Hall, says in an editorial that law facilities should be set up at the University of Western Ontario, London, Queen's University, Kingston, and Ottawa University.

This would relieve some of the "seam-splitting pressure" at Osgoode, which has been "outstripped by the growth of the community," the magazine says. The author is Marc E. Lefebvre 27 of Brantford, student editor-in-chief.

Osgoode is Ontario's sole recognized law school.

Canada $1,200,000

LAKE SUCCESS, N. Y., Nov. 30 (CP).—Canada yesterday gave reluctant support to the proposal for 1951 contributions from member countries for financing the United Nations. Canada's contribution will be up .1 per cent from 1950 to 3.3 per cent or about $1,200,000. John Dickey, Liberal member of parliament for Halifax, told the budgetary committee of the United Nations General Assembly that changes do not go far enough to correct inequities in the scale of contributions.

Veteran Editor Dies

REGINA, Sask., Nov. 30 (CP) —Zachary Macaulay (Zach) Hamilton, 78, pioneer western Canada newspaper man and author, died Wednesday. In 1898 he became co-editor of the West, a newspaper published by Nicholas Flood Davin, founder of the Regina Leader. Two years later he joined the Calgary Herald. He returned to Regina in 1903 and became widely known for his historical writings of theowrhetn torical writings of the northwest territories.

Teachers Turn Down $200 Salary Increase

PORT ARTHUR, Nov. 30 (CP) —Port Arthur Secondary School teachers have turned down a $200-a-year salary increase.

The offer was made by the Board of Education to public and secondary school teachers and members of the maintenance staffs. The public school teachers accepted the offer. No word has been received from the maintenance staffs.

The secondary school teachers indicated they will continue to press for an $800 across-the-board increase as well as a higher maximum for non-specialists and department heads.

83-Year-Old Hiker Has Heart Attack

TORONTO, Nov. 30 — (CP) — Charles Priestman, 83, probably Toronto's best-known hiker, has left hospital and is recovering from a recent slight heart attack, his wife said last night.

Mr. Priestman, who will be 84 next week, annually leads a group of fellow members of the Morning Glory Club on a 20-mile St. Patrick's Day walk from Toronto to Oakville.

He spent some time in St. Michael's Hospital following the heart attack but was allowed to return to his home about two weeks ago. He now is "on the mend," Mrs. Priestman said.

(The Canadian Press reported erroneously yesterday that Mr. Priestman had died in hospital. It expresses its regret for any embarrassment caused to Mr. and Mrs. Priestman.)

NEW Self-Washing DREFT WASHES DISHES FOR YOU
JUST SOAK... RINSE... and YOU'RE THROUGH!
Amazing "FLOATAWAY" Action
SAVES WASHING—WIPING—SCOURING
Yet! Dishes and glasses shine—even without wiping!
It's true! New self-washing Dreft practically washes the dishes for you. You simply let dishes stand in warm Dreft suds for 2 minutes—give a swish of the cloth as you rinse—and you're through. You'll see your dishes and glasses shine—even without wiping.
These self-washing suds save washing, save wiping, save scouring. In fact, while Dreft is washing your dishes you can be doing other things...like putting the food away in the refrigerator, or sweeping the kitchen floor.
Even pots and pans soak clean without scouring. That's because Dreft's amazing "Floataway" action gets under grease...floats away grease as no soap ever could. Even stubborn grease rinses away without scouring.
Yet self-washing Dreft is one of the mildest suds in the world. Leaves hands beautifully white and soft. Try new self-washing Dreft today. Your dealer has it.
Dreft is safer for dainty washables than the mildest soap flakes.

Blonde Widow Freed Of Enticement Charge

TORONTO, Nov. 30 — (CP) — Mrs. Ruth Abernethy, of Alliston, Ont. an attractive blonde widow, was exonerated yesterday of a charge that she enticed a wealthy 54-year-old farmer away from his wife.

Mr. Justice F. H. Barlow of the Ontario Supreme Court ruled that Mrs. Gertrude Brydon, 54, is entitled to no part of the $10,000 she claimed as damages. Both Mrs. Abernethy, 33, and Andrew H. Brydon, at a recent court hearing, denied Mrs. Brydon's charges of intimacies.

KOREA CRITICAL—MARSHALL

NEW YORK, Nov. 30 (AP).— Defence Secretary George C. Marshall said Wednesday night the situation in Korea is critical, that the United States must face a "partial mobilization," and is in for "a long period of tension." Marshall said he was restrained from commenting on the events in Korea because the United Nations has them "under immediate consideration."

STOLE $38,000

TORONTO, Nov. 30 (CP) — Elsie Arnetta Teasdale yesterday pleaded guilty to theft of $38,000 from the law firm where she was employed as a bookkeeper for four years. She was remanded to Dec. 5 for sentence. Michael Manos, former private investigator charged jointly with Miss Teasdale, was remanded to Dec. 7 on charges of theft and receiving.

Thomson Brands New Commission 'Smoke-Screen'

MIDHURST, Ont., Nov. 30 — (CP)— Walter Thomson, Ontario Liberal leader, said last night the new Windsor police commission, set up by the provincial government to probe charges of vice in that border city, is nothing but a smoke-screen to cover up "big shots."

He said in a speech at a meeting of the Simcoe Centre Liberal Association that Judge Archibald Cochrane, commission chairman, "left Windsor because he was no politician and because he ran into something that couldn't be exposed, and thought his report would have to be suppressed."

Judge's Denial

(Judge Cochrane said Thursday at his home in Brampton: "He (Mr. Thomson) doesn't know what he is talking about, to put it bluntly. Nothing has been covered up or will be by any member of the commission." Other members are Windsor Mayor Arthur Reaume and Roland Harris.)

Mr. Thomson said the commission is that in name only and has no power to do anything to stamp out crime in Windsor. Judge Cochrane had been so disgusted that he returned to his Brampton home.

(Latest commission meeting was Tuesday. Judge Cochrane added in Brampton: "We can't do miracles overnight—the day of miracles is over—but we will clear up the crime situation in Windsor.")

DOROTHY DIX

Why Are Aunts and Uncles Made the Family Goats?

DEAR MISS DIX: My brother and I are typical old maid and bachelor. Our brothers and sisters married and had children Most of the money that we have made has gone toward rearing nieces and nephews and assuming the burdens of lazy papas and mamas, who have passed the buck to us. We have given and given and are still giving, although the parents and children have many little pleasures and luxuries of which we are deprived because we are still paying off debts contracted for these children. Please tell us when to stop, and whether the half-contemptuous, patronizing attentions we receive are worth the price of present sacrifices and possible old age dependence. E.H.

◇ ◇ ◇

ANSWER: The most cynical and bitter truth in the world is that when we would do good, evil is ever present with us, as the wisest of all books tells us.

It takes more backbone than most men and women possess to shut their purses when Sister Sue comes weeping because the doctors say their little Sam must have an operation, or the baby's shoes are worn out. Or when Brother Bob shamefacedly admits that the coal is out and the grocery bill overdue. Or when there is some promising boy or girl who needs special training to develop his or her talent.

So the unmarried sister and brother do without the new dress or the new coat they need, or give up the little trip they had set their hearts on, or look ruefully at their little savings accounts that can never grow because their greedy relatives make so many demands upon their earnings that they can never put anything aside. Nor do they ever even get thanks for the sacrifices they make because, having no children of their own to support, their brothers and sisters think that the least they can do is to support theirs.

ARTIE'S HEADLINE

And so they come to the place where my correspondent has come, where she sees that her sisters and brothers have defaulted on their obligations and dumped their burdens on her shoulders. Also, they realize that they can expect no gratitude from the youngsters for whom they have slaved all their lives.

The moral of all of which is that if we don't look out for ourselves no one else is going to look out for us. Our first duty is to provide tor ourselves and then we can give what we have left, but prudence comes before generosity, and this is something that old maids and old bachelors do well to bear in mind.

◇ ◇ ◇

DEAR MISS DIX: I am a girl of 16. How can I develop my personality? PENELOPE.

◇ ◇ ◇

ANSWER: By being yourself Develop your best points. Don't be a copycat.

◇ ◇ ◇

DEAR DOROTHY DIX: My wife and I have been married for five years and we are happy together but for this problem: I am a young doctor. I am settled in the city in which I was born and have spent my life and I have built up a practice that is good and getting better every day. The future looks bright for me here. My wife, however, feels that she can no longer bear to be away from her family and friends and she demands that I give up my practice and go to live in a distant city among her people. That means that I should have to start all over again, but should I do what she asks me to?

YOUNG DOCTOR.

ANSWER: I think you would be both weak and foolish to sacrifice your future to gratify your wife's whim. You would be weak to let her pull you around by the nose and make you do a thing that you know will jeopardize your entire career just because she wants to be near Mamma and the girls, and you would be foolish because your sacrifice would be made in vain. For when she found out that you were not making as much money in the new environment as you did in the old she would be just as disgruntled and unhappy over that as she is about having to live away from her old home now.

A man should think a long time before he throws up a certainty for a chance somewhere else. It is a wife's place to follow her husband and to adapt herself to whatever place in which he finds his opportunity, and a good wife and one who loves her husband does so. I wonder what our pioneer mothers would think of the wives who cannot stand the hardship of living a few miles away from their own families and friends.

St. Alban's Guild Workers Improvise Heater for Tea

St. Alban's Afternoon Guild workers for the tea and bazaar Wednesday afternoon overcame the obstacles of the "electric blackout" and concluded the event with most satisfactory result.

Tea-making was commenced on the wood stove of a neighboring residence and continued on a coal-burning circulator in the church kitchen which was improvised with some difficulty into a heater. Mrs. F. Millard, Mrs. T. Alcock and Mrs. A. Davies were responsible for providing the tea.

The appetizing lunch of salmon rolls and cookies served to fill a need as cold suppers became the general menu in Peterborough, No second cups of tea were offered however.

The guests were served at individual tables by Mrs. J. Jardine, Mrs. D. Moore, Mrs. G. Moore and Mrs. J. Young.

Christmas trees with lights that couldn't be lit and the other decorations put up for the occasion had only a dim glitter from the light of red candles that had fortunately been arranged for tea table effect.

The bazaar tables were loaded down with things and they made nice profits. A birthday cake was supplied to order, and there were dolls and other Christmas gifts with aprons to match luncheon cloths an attractive item for the hostess.

Mrs. A. Maskell and Mrs. F. Lake attended the bazaar articles and Mrs. J. McCormick and Mrs E. Simmons the home baking table.

Raffle tickets on three fine prizes were sold by Mrs. W. Stevenson and Mrs. W. Thompson.

Winner of an embroidered luncheon cloth was Mrs. W. White 491 Braidwood Ave. Mrs. J. Hodges of Orpington Road won the hostess fruit cake. Mr. Cyril Barnes was winner of a men's shaving set.

The Young People's Hobby Group of St. George's Church were there selling "snowmen" dolls, figurines and candy they had made. Mrs. W. Jones, Mrs. J. Rex and Mrs. R. Yule were in charge.

President Mrs. Cyril Barnes was receiving, assisted by Mrs. E. C. Moore.

Daring and Dramatic Said Of Paris Winter Styles

By FLORENCE MILLS

PARIS — (CP) — Important formal fashions for a brilliant winter season featured the mid-season style shows here. Designers are shooting the works on daring silhouettes and dramatic treatments, with lavish use of jewelled trimming and elegant fabrics.

Lampshade skirts, enormous "morning glory" necklines and jewelled velvet "shirt" cuffs were introduced by Lanvin.

The necklines stand out and away to frame the neck and shoulders. On cocktail dresses they reveal a contrast color lining. For evening, fullblown crimson roses across the top of the bust create a window box effect.

Jewelled cuffs add glamor to Lanvin's all-black ensembles and suits. Made in brilliant colored velvet, particularly crimson or electric blue, and thickly peppered with semi-precious stones, mock diamonds and sequins, these "shirt" cuffs protrude below sleeves cut well short of the wrist.

Lanvin treats fur in odd ways, using white Indian lamb for a baggy windbreaker jacket with tremendous bishop sleeves and black Persian lamb and a barrel-shaped jacket with white ermine cuffs and bib.

Death and the devil combined seem to have inspired the winter fashions created by Jacques Fath. His color scheme is dominated by funeral looking black-and-white relieved by the sort of ruby red usually associated with Satan.

The most extravagant feature of Fath's winter creations is a V-shaped neckline that plunges deeply at the back and front.

One number in "Satan" red satin had the plunge neckline and hip drapery which finished in two long tails swishing out from a rhinestone buckle.

Fath's new double skirts comprise wide, bouffant skirts slashed up the front to reveal narrow sheath skirts beneath. A few of them are snug-fitting, petal-shaped affairs.

Molyneux also goes in for long, cone shaped basques on jackets and cone skirts lined with buckram to make them stand stiff. His narrow sheath skirts are the shortest shown by any designer in Paris. They reach to just below the knees. Practically all are dressed up with flying panels and overskirts.

Broadcloth is being used almost exclusively by Jean Patou not only for day wear but for cocktail and evening clothes, too.

This sleek, stain-finish wool material is shown in black and pewter grey for day and in such brilliant shades as imperial purple and buttercup yellow for formal evening wear.

Gala dresses with stately crinoline skirts monopolizing nearly six square feet of floor space are being shown by Maggy Rouff.

One of the most fetching creations is a strapless, white tulle crinoline called "Noel." The strapless bodice is covered with glittering silver bead fringing and the vast, hooped skirt with scalloped tiers of narrow, pleated frills.

"Windswept" skirts that have all fullness thrust to the back as though the wearer was battling against a high wind, is the last fashion pointer to be introduced by Edward Molyneux, the famous courturier who, due to ill health, is closing down his salon in Paris after 30 successful years.

Boil Water on Picnic Stove So K.E. Tea Not "Tea-less"

A small coal oil stove designed for picnicing saved an afternoon tea from being "tea-less" on Wednesday.

When all the city's electric power was suddenly cut off, King Edward Home and School Association members were just getting ready for the annual tea and bazaar. With everything else in order they pondered how to boil water for tea—when a member recalled her small oil-burning stove and rushed home to get it.

The day was saved—and 150 tea guests sioped a refreshing cup just as though nothing unusual was happening.

Lighting became a problem as the candles burned low around five o'clock and tea assistants had difficulty in returning the school facilities to order and finding their own things to take home.

The central tea table was done with a lovely lace cloth and white tapers flanking a bouquet of white and blue 'mums, and quartette tables were also centred with the white and blue flowers.

Making the tea were Mrs. J. Finnie and Mrs. J. Crocker and the pourers were Mrs. E. Chambers, Mrs. E. Cooke, Mrs. J. Telford and Mrs. B. Cox.

Mrs. A. Clarke was in charge of the table, assisted by Mrs. S Winterbottom and servers were Mrs. M. Jobe, Mrs. N. R. Gilders, Mrs. W. S. Stanbury, Mrs. M. Hamilton, Mrs. G. Irwin and Mrs. R. J. Williamson.

Receiving with the president, Mrs. V. Reynolds, were the two vice-presidents, Mrs. J. Dunkerley and Mrs. J. McLeod. Mrs. H. Ball was taking tickets at the entrance to the tea room.

Very attractive aprons offered for sale were all hand-made and Mrs. L. Gibson and Mrs. G. Harris were the salesladies. Other handmade articles and novelties were on the miscellaneous table which was attended by Mrs. J. MacMillan, Mrs. H. Turner and Mrs. G. Bryant.

Home cooking was sold by Mrs. C. Blackburn and Mrs. G. Nyberg and candy by Mrs. G. Young and Mrs. F. Haggart.

The bride, who wore an afternoon gown of periwinkle blue lace and carried an ivory prayer book, was given in marriage by her brother-in-law, Mr. Keith MacKinnon of Ottawa. Her bridesmaid was Miss Hellen Ford of Porth Arthur, cousin of the bride, in copper-coloured lace over taffeta. The groom was supported by his eldest son, Captain Fred R. Davies of Toronto.

COOKBOOK OF THE WEEK

Rarebit or Spanish Sauce Dress Up Rice, Fish Dishes

A good sauce can be the basis of a whole meal. For all sorts of unusual ideas to spruce up any dish from cocktail to dessert you must see "250 Sauces, Gravies and Dressings" twentieth title in the Culinary Arts Institute series of twenty-four cookbooks that are being made available to readers of The Examiner, a book a week.

Here is an excellent recipe for rarebit sauce taken from the Sauce Book which can make an appetizing dish out of something as simple as hard boiled eggs or leftover fish or vegetables:

Rarebit Sauce

1 tablespoon butter
1½ cups (6 ounces) grated American cheese
1 teaspoon prepared mustard
¼ teaspoon salt
1 teaspoon Worcestershire sauce
2 drops Tabasco sauce
¾ cup mulk
1 egg, well beaten

Melt butter and cheese together over low heat; add salt, mustard, Worcestershire sauce and Tabasco sauce. Add milk gradually, stirring constantly. Remove from heat and stir in egg. Serve with rice, fish or egg dishes. Makes about 2¼ cups.

Tomato—add ¾ cup sieved cooked tomatoes.

Mushroom—Add 1¼ cups sliced mushrooms.

And for another type of sauce to use on any number of luncheons dishes you might try the following:

Spanish Sauce

1 small onion, sliced
2 tablespoons chopped green pepper
3 tablespoons butter
1 tablespoon chopped pimiento
1 teaspoon salt
½ clove garlic, mashed
½ cup chopped mushrooms
2 cups cooked tomatoes
⅛ teaspoon pepper

Saute, onion and green pepper in butter until tender. Add remaining ingredients and cook over low heat 40 minutes. Serve with liver. Makes 2 cups.

The Sauce Book costs 25 cents with a Cookbook Coupon clipped from page 2 of any issue of this newspaper, and it may be obtained at The Examiner office, from your carrier or at any Braund's Home Food Market or the Dominion Master Market. Or to obtain your copy by mail send the coupon with 30 cents (5 cents additional for postage and handling) to Cookbook Department, Peterborough Examiner. Earlier titles of the series are still available and since a cookbook coupon appears in this newspaper every day it is easy to catch up on titles you might still want to obtain.

Of Interest to Women

MARY MOORE SAYS:

Christmas Cookie Time Before Big Rush Is On

Choosing the Christmas cookie recipes that I think you want, and that we have space for is so puzzling that I am going to take the human way out and give you the ones I like best.

Recently I gave a reader the method for making Swedish cookies, so will leave it out now (although it is a must in the Moore household at Christmas time) and any of you who were looking for it can write to me immediately. After my answer appears in this column there will be time to make them before Christmas week.

"Kath." wants Pepper Nuts (Pfeffer Nusse) and Mrs. E. McE. would like to see my recipe for Mincemeat cookies again.

For my part I would like you to try the pecan-filled cookies, for, for appearance and flavour, they excel—and start plenty of comment. (That's what we like isn't it?—to be talked about?)

Pfeffer Nusse (Pepper Nuts)

Two cups sugar, 4 cups sifted flour, grated rind, 1 lemon, ½ cup finely chopped citron peel, 5 eggs, 1 tablespoon cinnamon, ½ tablespoon each cloves and mace, 2 teaspoons baking powder, ½ to 1 cup finely chopped almonds. Mix and sift the flour, sugar, spices, and baking powder. Add the grated lemon rind, the chopped citron and the nuts. Beat the eggs slightly and add to the dry mixture. Cover and allow the dough to stand overnight. In the morning work the dough with just enough flour to handle into rolls 1 inch in diameter by 2 feet long. (This is unusual but you roll it with your palms on the baking board.) Cut these into pieces one inch long. Roll these into balls between the palms, and roll in egg white and bake on buttered and floured pans at 350 deg. Fahr. until a delicate yellow.

Mincemeat Cookies

One cup butter, 1½ cups sugar, 3 eggs, 1 teaspoon soda, 1½ tablespoons hot water, 3¼ cups flour, ½ teaspoon salt, 1 cup chopped walnuts, 1 cup mincemeat. Cream the butter, add sugar gradually while creaming, then add beaten eggs, soda dissolved in hot water and half of the flour mixed with the salt. Then add the broken nuts and mincemeat and the remainder of the flour. Drop by spoonfuls on greased sheet and bake in oven of 350 deg. Fahr. until light gold. Remove from pan with spatula while still soft, and cover them in cookie jar before quite cool. These keep very well and improve with age.

Pecan-Filled Cookies

(Notable for their attractive appearance).

One-third cup butter or margarine, ½ cup sugar, ¼ teaspoon salt, 1 well beaten egg, 2 cups all-purpose flour, sifted, 3 tablespoons milk. Cream together the butter, sugar and salt until very smooth. Beat in the egg. Stir in the flour alternately with the milk. Roll this dough out on floured board to ⅛ inch thickness. Cut out with round cookie cutter about 3 inches in diameter. From half of the rounds cut out the centre with a cookie cutter only 1¼ inches in diameter.

Filling—Mix together 1 beaten egg, ¼ cup corn syrup, ¼ teaspoon salt, ¼ cup sugar, 1 teaspoon vanilla, ½ cup coarsely broken pecans. Moisten edges of the whole rounds with a little milk, and place 1 teaspoon of filling in centre of each. Cover with the circles and press edges down lightly. Bake on buttered cookie sheet at 3.75 deg. Fahr. for about 10 or 12 minutes. Watch these carefully and take them from oven at exactly the right moment. Write, telling me what other cookies you would like to see in this column.

Cautious Finance Leaders Hold Back Canada's Growth

TORONTO, Nov. 30 — (CP) — Cyrus S. Eaton, Canadian-born American industrialist, said today that Canada "is held back by the excessive caution of her banks, railroads and utilities, and by her federal and provincial governments especially in their approach to electric power development and highway construction."

In a speech prepared for delivery to the Empire Club, he added:

"Canada, like the rest of the world, was laid low by the economic depression of the '30s. Now, 20 years after, it is time for her big institutions to abandon the penurious and unprogressive policies of a contracting economy, and to embark on a bold and courageous course of expansion to bring the economic status of every Canadian to the highest in the world."

Born In N.S.

Mr. Eaton was born in Pugwash, N.S., in 1883, attended school and college in Ontario after he was 15, and has been connected with electric power, railroads, lake shipping, iron ore and steel since he went to Cleveland as a young man.

In recent years he was largely responsible for development of iron ore a Steep Rock Lake, Atikokan, Ont., 120 miles west of Port Arthur, in which several companies are interested. He is chairman of the board of Steep Rock Iron Mines Ltd., and operates a 3,000-acre farm near Chester, N.S.

Mr. Eaton said that his part in Steep Rock "has brought me face to face with the difficulties of creating and developing a new industry in Canada, and it has given me first-hand knowledge of the problems of transportation, communication, electric power, finance and markets for a new Canadian enterprise."

Best Reserves

He stated: "Steep Rock reserves of high-quality iron now are known to exceed those of any other range, old or new, on the continent.

"In five years we aim to have at least six mines shipping a minimum of 10,000,000 tons annually."

Advocating an expanding economy for Canada, he said in part:

"My observation is that the individual Canadian is in an optimistic mood and is ready to move rapidly forward on the economic front. But the big institutions, without whose wholehearted participation there can be no progress, are holding back.

Extend Credit

"The federal and provincial governments and the appropriate privately-owned companies owe it to the citizens of Canada to provide railroad facilities, telephone service, electric power and highways on the vast scale required, and the nation-wide banks must extend the credit needed to enable the Canadian economy to make the most of its unprecedented opportunity.

"If transportation, electric power and credit are provided in adequate amount, there can be tremendously increased activity in the production not only of raw materials and semi-finished products, but also of manufactured articles, both for domestic consumption and export. With the modern trend toward decentralization, there is no reason why every Canadian community of any size should not have a thriving industry of its own.

Four Accidents But None Due To Blackout

Four minor accidents were reported to police Wednesday, but none was blamed on the city's blackout. Police and taxi-drivers said Wednesday evening drivers were models of courtesy.

Cars driven by Ivan Wilson, 101 Auburn St., and Harold Fredenburgh, 442 Bellevue St., were slightly damaged Wednesday when they collided on Donegal St., south of Wolsley.

Slight damage was done to a car driven by Alan Croxall, 96 Aylmer St., when his car skidded turning on to Wolfe St. from Aylmer and struck a CNR cartage truck. The truck was undamaged.

Slippery roads were blamed for an accident at Water and Simcoe Sts. when cars driven by Angus Austin, 135 James St., and S. Ephgrave, 536 Rogers St., collided. Ephgrave, driving east on Simcoe, pulled out to turn north on Water St. Austin, southbound on Water, braked his car, but slid into Ephgrave's. Damage was not extensive.

Icy roads were blamed for another accident when cars driven by Vincent Crough, of Millbrook and Howard Campbell, RR 9, Peterborough, collided on Clonsilla Ave. near Sherbrooke St.

Tiny Republic Blockaded By Italy Gov't

By JAMES M. LONG

ROME, Nov. 30 —(AP)— An "invisible" blockade by Italy is putting a serious kink in the economy of the tiny mountain republic of San Marino.

The basic reason for the blockade is that Italy's Christian Democrat government is not in sympathy with the 1,650-year-old republic's Communist-dominated government.

The reason the blockade works is because tiny San Marino is one of the few states in the world wholly surrounded by another state. It perches on 38 square miles of mountain slope 11 miles inland from the Adriatic Sea. In every direction its 12,000 inhabitants look is Italy.

Up to now, San Marino's 60-member governing council has managed a balanced budget. San Marino has no public debt. Health services and similar benefits are socialized. A single "national bakery" bakes bread for the whole populace.

Recently the problem of running the little country became more difficult. Its budget began to go above the previous average of $1,000,000 a year total government cost.

So the practical-minded San Marinese set aside some scruples normal to their quiet, unpretentious way of life and put in a fancy casino to attract international gambling trade. That filled in the budget gap.

But now the Italian blockade is affecting that as well.

Tourists and goods alike are finding it harder every week to get into the state.

Patrol Border

Italian police jeeps and control points block the roads. There's now law against letting tourists or supplies across the San Marino border. But papers and documents and permits are demanded. Then they have to be countersigned by officials who aren't there at the moment.

For tourists it runs into a two- to four-hour delay, and is discouraging. For supplies, the permits hold up truckloads by the day, until shippers figure it isn't worth trying to get through.

It is hard for San Marino to find a basis for protest, because none of this control takes place on the San Marino-Italian frontier, nor even in sight of it.

The road blocks are five to 10 miles away, in Italy. They just "happen" to cover all the roads that go on in the direction of the little mountain state.

So far it's an impasse.

Attlee Flying To Washington For Meeting With Truman

Can Hold Chinese Without A-Bomb Says Chief Officer

TOKYO, Dec. 1—(AP)—Gen. MacArthur's Intelligence Chief said today the Chinese Communists' slugging intervention in Korea can be handled without using the atom bomb. Maj.-Gen. Charles A. Willoughby said the critical situation of the army in the northwest sector is being stabilized. United Nations 10th Corps forces in the northeast, he added are holding their own. His statement came at a briefing of war correspondents here as retreating UN forces on the north-west front pulled back to a line 30 miles north of the former North Korean capital of Pyongyang. Allied forces in the north-east were holding up against attacks by 80,000 or more Chinese, he said.

The Republic of Korea's President, Syngman Rhee, advocated using the A-bomb in North Korea. He suggested in an interview at Seoul that the Allies should use "old-style" atomic bombs such as the ones that pulverized Hiroshima and Nagasaki.

Willoughby said the Allied position along the icy Chongchan River in the north-west is being stabilized and added that when the time comes the United Nations forces would strike back against the Communists.

On the north-west front, the retreating Eighth Army pulled into a tight line 40 miles south of its advanced positions and 30 miles north of Pyongyang.

The Eighth Army had beat out Chinese attempts to trap it against the Yellow Sea. Allied divisions spreading toward the Manchurian border 40 to 60 miles northward had retreated to the south bank of the Chongchon River.

Stand Firm

On the vulnerable right flank —where three South Korean divisions folded under the first heat of the Chinese assault—a Commonwealth force and Turks—each in brigade strength—and the US 1st Cavalry Division stood firm.

The comparative ground lull on the northwest front continued. An eighth army spokesman said Friday most of the activity was in the air, with allied planes inflicting an estimated 1,300 Red casualties.

It was the heaviest aerial assault since September. Nearly 700 sorties were flown.

The fighters and bombers rained explosives on Chinese attacking U.S. Marines and 7th Division infantrymen around the Changjin reservoir in northeast Korea.

The eighth army spokesman said that in the northwest an unconfirmed report of Communists crossing the Chongchon river north of Kunu is being checked.

Truman Wants Defence Money From Congress

WASHINGTON, Dec. 1 (AP).—President Truman today asked Congress to provide an additional $17,850,000,000 for arms, including atomic weapons, with the "utmost speed" because of the "gravity of the world situation."

Prior to his meeting with Prime Minister Attlee this week-end, the President summoned his military and diplomatic chieftains to sit in with Congressmen for a review of what Truman has described as a fight for "our own national security and survival."

At issue in today's White House conference may be such momentous possibilities as (1) Use of the atomic bomb against Chinese Communist troops, (2) permission for Gen. Douglas MacArthur to send bombers blasting north of the Manchurian border and (3) How fast to step up manpower and industrial mobilization in the United States.

The President already had made clear one vital point—come what may, American forces won't voluntarily be withdrawn from Korea.

As word came from top officials that the expanding defence effort is going to start hurting all segments of the civilian economy, there were these other developments:

1. Truman named Mayor Michael V. DiSalle of Toledo, O., to be price administrator — an action which many took to mean that wage and price controls may soon be imposed.

2. The administration offered its long-awaited civil defence bill, providing for an administrator who would have vast powers in event of an attack on the United States. Its fate in Congress was uncertain.

Russians Grab Chinese Province

SPINAGAR, Kashmir, Dec. 1 (AP).—Sinkiang Province, China's "wild-west" province, is being converted into a military bastion of Red China and a source of strategic raw materials for Russian war industry, according to unconfirmed information reaching here.

The information gives this picture of military and other activity:

Russian and Chinese military experts are hastily reorganizing the Sinkiang army. There are considerable troops movements following the Chinese Communist invasion of Tibet in early October.

Thousands of Chinese and Sinkiang troops are building new airdromes, roads, and railways throughout the province.

Technicians from Moscow are exploiting mineral resources to feed Russian war industry. Uranium, platinum, petroleum, coal and iron mines are being worked at the greatest possible speed. Quantities of these materials are being exported to Russia.

Santa Claus Pelted With Snowballs

PEKIN, Ill., Dec. 1— (AP) — Santa Claus came to town yesterday and was snowballed out of a parade by a group of teenage youngsters.

Santa, dressed in a red suit and riding in a red jeep, was the chief feature of a pre-Christmas parade in this Central Illinois community of about 20,000 population.

It was a fine parade when it started. But some 40 youngsters of about junior high school age started firing snowballs at some other pupils who were in the parade. Then Santa became the main target.

His smiles turned to grimaces as he attempted to dodge the snowball barrage. Police were unable to cope with the situation, sponsors of the parade said.

Fire Kills 10 In Halifax Store Blaze

Window Display Bursts Into Flame Traps Shoppers

By Irving C. Whynott

HALIFAX, Dec. 1—(CP)—Firemen probed the ruins of a gutted department store today to determine if more than 10 persons died in a spectacular blaze started when a gaily-lit Christmas window-display burst into flames.

Ten bodies were recovered last night from the ruins of the four-storey building on Barrington St., Halifax's main thoroughfare. Police were unable to identify three immediately. One section of the ruins still was too dangerous to search.

Police listed the known dead as: Mrs. Robert Sullican, 24; Marion Moser, 17; Wiliam Henry Bundy, 51, and his son, Milton; Mrs. Alan Robar, 24; Dorothy Mills, 24, and Joseph McEachern.

The three other bodies were identified later as those of Ada Grey, 67, Mrs. Alfreda Peach and Mrs. Annie Carter.

An early report that an explosion had preceded the fire was denied by investigators.

Five Saved

A teen-aged youth led five others to safety. Three more stumbled through the front entrance seconds after the building burst into flames.

Police estimated 29 persons were in the store at the time, some clerks and some Christmas shoppers.

Constable Walter Clancy said he was crossing the street to investigate a red glow in the store window when a violent explosion blew out the big plate glass windows.

"It was impossible to reach the entrance of the store," he said.

Inside, 16-year-old Roland Mulholland led two other youths and three women to safety by a rooftop escaped ladder.

Woman Trapped

On their way, they heard the cries of a woman trapped on the smoke-filled third floor.

"We cried come here, come here, but she called back no, no," they said. They could not find her through the dense smoke.

There was no official estimate of damage but it was believed to be more than $500,000. Smoke damage to nearby stores was extensive.

An official of the fire marshal's department said an investigation would be held. He said the store had only one exit and no sprinkler sytsem.

The blaze started as a window dresser plugged in an electrical sign in the window display. It spread quickly, casting a curtain of flame across the only entrance.

To Wed Next Day, Girl Struck By Bus, Dies

SUDBURY, Dec. 1 (CP). — A 20-year-old girl, who arrived from Italy only a week ago and who was to be married tomorrow to her boyhood sweetheart, died today.

Viencenze Renaldi died of injuries suffered Wednesday when hit by a bus on the outskirts of this city as she was returning home from her final shopping trip before her marriage.

The bus driver told police the girl apparently was startled when he blew the horn to warn her and slipped and fell in the vehicle's path.

She was to marry Jerry Pagnucco who came to Canada 18 months ago. He had bought a home and furnished it.

Korea Not Hopeless—General

WASHINGTON, Dec. 1—(AP)—Gen. Douglas MacArthur said today the military situation in Korea is serious and critical but not hopeless. He added, however, that he regards as "an enormous handicap, without precedent in military operation," the United Nations restrictions against unlimited pursuit of the Chinese Communists and aerial attacks on their Manchurian bases.

MacArthur made the statements in a copyrighted interview with the magazine U.S. News and World Report.

Editors of the magazine in Washington put this question by cable to MacArthur in Toyko:

"Would you describe the present situation as 'critical and serious, but not hopeless?'"

"Yes, definitely, unless one completely discounts the combined resources of the free nations engaged in the Korea conflict."

MacArthur said it would be "inappropriate at this time" for him to comment on the possible use of the atom bomb in the Korea conflict.

President Truman said yesterday active consideration is being given to use of the A-bomb if necessary although its use has not been authorized so far.

No Sign of Russians

MacArthur said there is no sign that Russian divisions are being mobilized on the Siberian border.

The magazine made MacArthur's cabled comments available for immediate publication. They will not appear in the magazine until next Monday.

UN Works Round Clock Get Chinese Out of Korea

By Stanley Johnson

LAKE SUCCESS, N.Y., Dec. 1—(AP)—With the spectre of atomic war looming, United Nations diplomats today began round-the-clock discussions on how to get the Chinese Communists out of Korea without touching off a third world war. Conspicuously absent from the planning was Russia's Jacob A. Malik, who last night vetoed a conciliatory six-power Security Council resolution calling on the Chinese Communists to withdraw and promising to safeguard their legitimate interests in Korea and respect their Manchurian frontier.

He denounced the resolution as illegal and blamed "American imperialists" for the Korean war.

Wu Agrees

Chinese Communist delegate Wu Hsiu-chuan backed him up and declared "the people of China have complete confidence they can beat back the imperialist aggressors."

Wu spoke after the council, following a minium of debate, threw out his charges that the United States had cmomitted aggression against China and Korea. Only Russia voted in favor of them.

The speeches by Malik and Wu helped to solidify non-coninform sentiment. It was apparent that the 43 countries who have backed U.N. action in Korea have no intention of retreating.

Britain's Sir Gladwyn Jebb warned that Peiping's interests "may well suffer and suffer acutely" if Chinese Red troops keep pouring into Korea. India's Sir Benegal N. Rau urged Wu to study the American people who he said are "warm-hearted and the very reverse of imperialistic."

City Blackout Lasts Five Days

By BOB SUNDY.

ALTOONA, Pa., Dec. 1 (AP)—You need the pluck of a pioneer —and maybe a flashlight—to get along in this storm darkened railroad town today.

Most of the 84,000 residents have been without electricity since a ferocious sleet storm last weekend. Today 75 per cent of Altoona's inhabitants still are without it.

One veterans' and three civilian hospitals had no power until emergency circuits were rigged up 24 hours after the storm started. For days doctors and nurses at a state mental hospital tended bewildered patients with only flashlights for illumination.

Officials of the Pennsylvania Electric Company say it will take weeks to restore normal service.

American Arrested By Chinese, Charged

HONG KONG, Dec. 1—(AP)—An American citizen arrested in Chungking Tuesday by the Chinese Communists was identified yesterday as the Rev. Olin Stockwell of the American Methodist mission in China. A news report to the pro-Communist newspaper Ta King Pao saaid he was accused of illegally distributing medical supplies, hiding former U.S. information service equipment and "contriving to undermine revolutionary works of the Chinese people."

To Meet French Leaders, US Should Consult UK Before Dropping Bomb

UK Urges UN Forces Withdraw To Line Some Distance From Manchuria Border, Will Try To Agree On Common Policy

LONDON, Dec. 1—(CP)—Big-power talks on the Korean crisis widened today when it was announced Prime Minister Attlee will meet French government leaders in London tomorrow before he leaves by air for Washington Sunday. Prime Minister Rene Pleven of France will come to London tomorrow with his Foreign Minister, Robert Schuman. Foreign Secretary Ernest Bevin will also be at the talks. Informed quarters said Attlee will be at the talks.

Informed quarters said Attlee will be accompanied to Washington by Field Marshal Sir William Slim, Chief of the Imperial General Staff.

Attlee might also visit Ottawa to see Prime Minister Louis St. Laurent after the Washington talks, but this has not been finally arranged, these quarters said.

Pleven's decision to visit Attlee is the result of a diplomatic exchange between the British and French capitals in the last few days, the foreign office said. This was taken to indicate Attlee decided to go to Washington immediately after the proposal was made by Anthony Eden, Conservative deputy leader, in the House of Commons Wednesday.

If this was the case, Attlee's visit was not directly inspired by anxiety over President Truman's press conference remarks about the atom bomb.

Summoned Advisers

Earlier today Attlee summoned his military ministers and advisers to a conference to prepare for his Washington visit. He had a long telephone conversation with Winston Churchill, Conservative opposition leader.

He expects a long cable today or tomorrow from Truman, outlining the subjects the U.S. leader wishes to discuss.

He has already obtained the King's permission for the trip. By long tradition a prime minister must not leave the country without the sovereign's approval.

He is expected to remain in the U.S. about one week.

During his absence his deputy, Herbert Morrison, will take over the reigns of government.

An official spokesman said it was impossible to say yet how long the Prime Minister will stay in Washington. During his ab-

Fireman Turns In False Alarm, Fined

Britain Wants More Bacon From Canada

OTTAWA, Dec. 1 (CP). — Britain wants more bacon from Canada in 1951—about four times as much as she received in 1950.

Agriculture Minister Gardiner disclosed this yesterday when he told the ninth annual federal-provincial agricultural conference that Britain is prepared to purchase 130,000,000 pounds of bacon from Canada next year.

In 1950, Canada shipped about 35,000,000 pounds of grade "A" Wiltshire sides under a contract which called for shipments of 60,000,000.

Mr. Gardiner, declining to disclose the price offered, said it was one which might be considered reasonable under other circumstances. However, because it was not yet at a rate "where it ought to be," he did not believe the actual amount should be discussed.

Other sources said the price offered was about 29 cents a pound, the same Canada received in 1950.

The conference, attended by provincial agricultural ministers, their deputies and advisers and by representatives of farm groups, discussed a wide range of problems on the first of a two-day meeting.

Delegates urged Mr. Gardiner to do everything he can to continue the federal subsidy on the movement of western feed grain and that he consider clarifying federal agricultural legislation in view of the privy council decision on margarine.

Pearson Urges UN Use Caution

OTTAWA, Dec. 1 — (CP) — Canada feels the United Nations and its member states should move slowly and cautiously in the present international crisis over Korea.

That was the gist of a series of comments at a press conference yesterday by External Affairs Minister Pearson on developments in the military and diplomatic phases of the war.

He declined to comment immediately on one important side issue of that conflict—President Truman's reported statement in Washington about possible use of the atomic bomb against the Chinese Communists.

Mr. Pearson said the government feels that "even now it would be unwise to do anything to extend the conflict" in the Korean theatre.

Will Get Maple Trees From Europe For City

TORONTO, Dec. 1—(CP)—University Avenue, show piece in a sprucing up of Toronto's traffic arteries, is to be lined with red maples. Those trees, considered truly representative of Canada, won out over Lindens, native to Europe, some weeks ago after a hot campaign in city council. Yesterday, Parks Commissioner W. J. Love said producing Red Maple trees from seed in Canada's short growing season would take a long time. "Whips" about three feet high may have to be imported from Europe.

Rescued 18 From Plane

US Decorates Four Canadian Sailors

OTTAWA, Dec. 1—(CP)—The dramatic rescue by the R.C.N. of 18 crew members of a United States aircraft near Bermuda, just over a year ago, culminated today in the announcement of four U.S. awards to R.C.N. personnel.

The U.S. Legion of Merit, Degree of Officer, was awarded to Surgeon Captain Eric H. Lee, of Saskatoon and Ottawa, and to Lt.-Cmdr. Edward T. G. Madgwick of Ottawa. The same award, Degree of Legionnaire, was awarded to Chief Petty Officer William H. Roberts of Montreal and Petty Officer James E. Callighen of Toronto.

Crashed In Sea

The four played leading parts in the rescue of crew members of a B-29 which crashed into the sea off Bermuda and drifted three days before its rescue on Nov. 19 1949. The Canadian aircraft carrier Magnificent and the destroyer Haida were diverted to assist in the widespread search for survivers of the crash.

The Haida, directed by a search plane to a raft loaded with survivors, sent out a boat that manoeuvred the raft alongside the destroyer.

Surg. Capt. Lee, principal medicel officer in the Magnificent, transferred to the Haida by boat to supervise the treatment of the airmen during a 300-mile dash to port. Heavy seas made both operations difficult and hazardous but each was accomplished without incident.

Credit To Profession

The citation for the award to Surg. Capt. Lee—now command medical officer of the Atlantic Command—reads, in part:

"Surgeon Captain Lee, having been transferred by boat from Magnificent to Haida in treacherous seas, administered to the needs of the exhausted and suffering survivors in an efficient and humane manner. His conduct was a credit to the high standards of both the naval service and the medical profession and his work was a highly essential part of the most extensive sea searches in the history of the Western Atlantic . . ."

Lt.-Cmdr. Madgwick, commanding officer of the Haida during the rescue and at present in command of the destroyer Huron, received his decoration for "exhibiting the finest type of seamanship . . ."

Directed Rescue

Now serving in HMCS Stadacona, Halifax, CPO. Roberts was gunnery instructor in the Haida and directed the lowering of the seaboat and the operations of the rescue crew when the survivors were brought alongside. His citation commended "his leadership and energy in directing his men."

PO. Callighen now is serving in the destroyer Nootka which is on passage to the Far East for service in the Korean Theatre. He was then coxswain of the destroyer's seaboat that brought the survivors' raft alongside the Haida.

Will Not Risk War

Europe Against Using Bomb

By WES GALLAGHER

FRANKFURT, Germany, Dec. 1 —(AP)—Any drastic American steps against Communist China which would risk war with Russia —such as bombing Manchuria or using the atom bomb—seem likely to win little European support.

The plain fact is that western Europeans are scared—and with reason—of the six Russian armies, backed by 1,500 planes, which intelligence sources estimate are ready in eastern Germany. Military men agree these armies could overrun continental Europe almost at will.

On the whole, Western Europe is anti-Communist. All a European can see coming out of a war is more poverty, death, ruined homes, ruthless occupation.

No Protection

If Europe were able to protect itself, the answer might be different. But there is little prospect of such ability before 1953. Almost endless discussions by Atlantic Pact organs since the invasion of South Korea last June have failed to put a single additional division in the field in Germany, where the first defence lines must be established.

France Preoccupied

France, involved in a jungle war in Indo-China, has been unable to strengthen her European defences.

Military experts have estimated that a minimum of 35 air-supported divisions is necessary to hold a Russian attack. They say 45 well armored divisions would deter an attack in the first place.

Western military men have been aiming at a minimum of 35 fully-equipped divisions for defence nf the Rhine line by 1953. There are nine divisions of Allied troops now on hand between the Soviet armies and the Spanish frontier.

Get Out The Vote Campaigns Eliminates Reds

"If Toronto Kiwanians could put on a vigorous and effective "Get Out The Vote" campaign so that nearly every non-radical in their city would get out on election day, there could hardly be a communist elected to any public office, whereas Board of Education, the City Council, the provincial legislature, now have two each, in the Queen city of Ontario."

Walter Stewart, Canadian Kiwanis chairman for public affairs, made this statement during a speech to the Peterborough Kiwanis and representatives of 10 other clubs in division six Thursday. His topic was "Planning an Action Program."

The Kiwanis International theme for 1951 is "Freedom is not free." Mr. Stewart said that the Kiwanis slogan, and challenge to Canadians in this sphere of Kiwanis action in 1951 is "proclaim the real values of freedom."

The speaker told the Kiwanians that there is no limit to the task involved in translating the real values of freedom to the people in communities but that the possibilities of Kiwanis activities are immense.

Must Meet Issues

"Indeed, with the enemies of our free way of life, our free enterprize way of life, not only threatening us from the outside, but even challenging us from within our national boundaries, we must steadfastly meet the issues of our day and succeed."

Mr. Stewart pointed out that the public affairs committee chose six points of emphasis as signposts for the Canadian clubs to follow. The first letters spell out Canada.

The first signpost, C, is "carry out all citizenship responsibilities." This includes such things as the initiation and promotion of campaigns such as "Get Out The Vote" campaigns. Here Mr. Stewart made his reference to the communists who are members of Toronto municipal bodies.

The Kiwanis second post, A, is "advocate integrity efficiency and economy in government." Mr. Stewart said that Kiwanians should study, experiment with, and sponsor public forums in their local communities. He explained that forums are natural vehicles for promoting such things as public integrity, efficiency and economy.

Careful preparation, adequate promotion and skilled chairmanship will be necessary to succeed, he said. Politicians are usually aware, he added, of such public expressions of opinion at the local level.

Operated Successfully

"We have seen the public forum operated successfully by Kiwanians in a municipal election, the local community enthused over it and some weak sisters were defeated because of it."

Third in the signposts is to "nurture and strengthen the friendship between Canada and the United States." Kiwanis International, said Mr. Stewart, has done a magnificent job over years in building bridges of friendship between these people.

The other signposts were "aggressively combat communism and other isms which undermine the Canadian way of life; develop public understanding of the responsibilities as well as the rights of labor, management and capital; actively support the United Nations organization in its battle to sustain and preserve the free peoples of the world.

Milf Hardill thanked the speaker, who was introduced by Lt.-Gov.-elect M. R. Osborne of the East York club.

Something to remember

This is one of a series of words and expressions whose origins and meanings are published in the interest of a better understanding, use and knowledge of the English language.

"KING-BIRD"

A common inhabitant of Canada during the summer months, the name of this species comes from the way in which the male assumes firm authority over other birds, attacking them furiously as they fly. This happens only in breeding time and he will courageously assault any bird, from an eagle down, which dares to approach his nest.

On such occasions the "King-Bird" reveals the emblem of his dignity—the erectile feathers of the crown of the head part and form a deep beautifully colored base.

Romantic Play By Sadlier Group Wins Hearts

By T. S. ALLEN.

"The Wind and the Rain" has all the ingredients necessary to make a play good popular entertainment, and as played on the Collegiate stage Thursday evening by Michael Sadlier's winter touring group, it was excellent entertainment. It took the large audience away from scaring war news and their recent experience of the local black-out (though the actors must have been conscious of it, since it blacked out their scheduled first night Wednesday).

If you want Shakespeare or high drama, stay away. If you want your heart to flutter with sentiment, to put a smile on your lips and to return home with springier step and brighter eye (washed by a tear shed for the young doctor whose beloved mother had just died), by all means see "The Wind and the Rain," a romantic comedy by Merton Hodge. You can see it Saturday night in a special performance substituted for the blacked-out one Wednesday.

The British playwright's surefire mixture of ingredients includes a stock comic character, the landlady. Pat Atkinson (who has won favour in Peterborough with her summer performances) is the credible dour Mrs. McFie of Glasgow who runs the house for medical student boarders. Then there is the magic touch of doctor cadavers and bones. The student inhabitants become, or will become in examiners' and malt's good time, doctors. Cal whitehead, familiar to us already, is John Williams, the plodding decent type who eventually makes the grade.

Donald Davis is the feckless one (Gilbert Raymond) and gave an audience-stirring performance after he or his lines warm up at the first of Act 2. The accomplished, sure, John Atkinson is Dr Paul Duhamel, a transient at Mrs. McFie's establishment. He is the disenchanted though still humanly kind type. Mr. Atkinson's performance was skilled, suave and outstanding. The recurring first-year student was Robert Russell and he had the right touch and voice. The only non-mellico male in the play was Roger Cole, played by Michael Sadlier himself. It was a minor role, but his speed and tone of delivery made the lines understandable to the first row under the balcony, which was at times neglected by other actors.

Warm Performance

David Gardner had the most sympathetic role: Charles Tritton, the student who studies properly, is devoted to family and mother in London, dedicated to a quasi-sister intended for his wife, falls in love otherwise and carries the play through his five years of medical school. His performance was warm, sensitive, and his stage personality attractive.

Kate Reid as Anne Hargreaves who solaces and supports David all through his medical course needs no introduction to Peterborough audiences or commendation from this reviewer. Her second but last scene with Mr. Gardner demonstrated her (and his) ability to hold an audience suspended. Katharine Hawtrey made her first appearance on a Peterborough stage in the part of Jill Mannering, the childhood girl friend of the Tritton family who is expected to marry David. She took the rather unkind role of young sophisticate with a skill which could not belie her charm. It is to be hoped that Peterborough audiences will have the opportunity to see much more of her.

This vehicle for these actors had the advantage of their youth. They gave their own fitting vitality and did not have to simulate the age of the students and girl-friends they represented.

Thursday night's audience was remarkably inactive during the intermissions. Few took the opportunity to stretch their legs in the hall and have a social chat, which is part of the fun of play-going.

The play is sponsored by the Rotary Club.

Attlee Flying

sence, his deputy, Herbert Morrison, will take over.

An official spokesman said the Prime Minister had not decided whether to travel by RAF or civilian plane.

St. Laurent

In Ottawa there was speculation that Prime Minister St. Laurent would be invited to attend the talks. Former prime minister Mackenzie King attended meetings between Winston Churchill and the late President Roosevelt and between Attlee and Truman.

Attlee is expected during his visit to:

1. Emphasize the British Cabinet's view that no decision to use the atom bomb in Korea should be made without prior consultation with United Nations member states whose forces are fighting there.

2. Try to settle differences between American and British theories over the manner in which an approach should be made for a settlement with Communist China and for the resolving of far-eastern problems generally.

3. Press for withdrawal of UN forces in Korea to defence line well short of the Manchurian frontier before seeking a settlement with Red China.

4. Try to insure that the United States and Britain are in full accord in handling the delicate international situation.

Meet With Russia

Washington observers believe the Prime Minister also will explore the possibility of calling a secret high-level meeting of the western powers and Russia to end world tension, as urged in the House of Commons yesterday by Winston Churchill.

Attlee's decision to go to Washington was announced last night to the Commons, alarmed by reports that Truman is contemplating use of the atom bomb in Korea. The announcement brought cheers.

Before the prime minister spoke, about 100 Labor members had written him urging him to maintain a hands off policy on use of the atom bomb in Korea, emphasize that Britain could not be committed to any action outside decisions of the U.N. and warn that any unilateral action would be followed by withdrawal of British forces in Korea.

Happy To See Attlee

Shortly after Attlee's announcement, President Truman's press secretary Charles Ross, said at the White House:

"The prime minister is coming over. He got in touch with the president through the state department and indicated he would like to come over to talk about Korean and other problems. The president sent back word through the state department that he would be very happy for Mr. Attlee to come over at his convenience."

The two leaders last met in November, 1945, when Attlee went to Washington to work out with the president the basic proposals for seeking a United Nations agreement on atomic energy controls. The issue still is deadlocked in the U.N.

Farmers Score Wheat Judging

By ERWIN FRICKE

CHICAGO, Dec. 1 (CP)—Some Canadian agriculturists are not completely happy with the way wheat kings and world wheat champions are chosen.

Their basic beef is concerned with the variety of the samples judged best at Toronto's Royal Winter Fair—which names the world wheat champion—and at Chicago's International Hay and Grain Show.

The Royal Winter Fair made 12-year-old Ricky Sharpe of Munson, Alta., 1950 world's wheat champion while the Chicago Grain Show this week by-passed Ricky for veteran farmer R. P. Robbins of Shaunavon, Sask.

Baby Suffocates In $25,000 Fire

STURGEON FALLS, Dec. 1 — (CP)—A two-year-old baby girl suffocated early last night when fire broke out in an apartment over a business block in this town 20 miles west of North Bay.

Three families were forced to flee by the fire which caused the death of Lise Legault, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Carl Legault, and left damage estimated at $25,000.

The baby was sleeping in a crib in the room where the fire apparently started. It was first noticed by Romeo Lortie who was leaving the general store about 5:30 p.m.

Legion Leader Expects War

CAMPBELLFORD, Dec. 1 — (ENS) — Branch 103 Canadian Legion B.E.S.L. held their annual banquet in the Parish Hall on Wednesday evening, with the Silver Cross mothers of the town as guests of honor.

F. Threadgold, of Whitby, district commander of the Canadian Legion, was speaker.

"When we believe in what we are doing, we do it with a keenness and interest that would not otherwise be inspired," Mr. Threadgold said. He described the organization of the Legion, and how in the period of 1918 to 1925 the "old sweats" of the first war were split up into various organizations. Field Marshal Earl Haig was the man who travelled to all parts of the globe to organize what we now know as the Legion. The organization is a part of the British Empire Service League which was organized by Field Marshal Haig.

300,000 Paid Members

The Legion is now the strongest organization in Canada, with some 300,000 paid members, and has a strong voice in advising the government as to how best serve the returned men. Their views are always taken into consideration, because they never make unreasonable demands upon the government chiefs. The late prime minister R. B. Bennett once said that the Canadian Legion was the greatest and most useful organization in Canada, and extolled the work of the organization, and thanked them for the help and support they gave to the government. The speaker stressed the fact that the Legion was not political. Mackenzie King also repeatedly praised the work of the Legion.

In view of the serious crisis facing Canada and the world at the present time, Mr. Threadgold spoke on what the future might bring. "I personally believe that another world war is going to take place in the near future," he said. "We must all be prepared for this."

In refrence to the Russian system of government, he said that men have no civil rights, trade unions and organizations such as the Legion and are not allowed to exist, and that men are merely machines, to be used as a dictator sees fit. In this country, "we have our civil rights and liberties and fought a war to preserve them and we must now be careful to preserve those things for which we fought."

Speaking of the possibility of a new war, and the responsibilities of the Legion to those who would be called, Mr. Threadgold said, "Give our boys the right tools at the right time, to do the job. You have a responsibility to our boys —I have the faith that you will carry out those responsibilities."

Addressing the Silver Cross mothers the speaker said he realized they had suffered a tremendous loss, and thanked the members of the Campbellford branch of the Legion for seeing that they were being looked after, and not forgotten in the functions of the group.

Alex MacDonald, president of the Campbellford branch, thanked the speaker.

Comrade P. G. O'Sulllivan gave the toast to the Silver Cross mothers. In reply, Mrs. Kay Harrold thanked Comrade Sullivan and the Legion for their thoughtfulness.

Past presidents' medals were presented to Comrades James Watters and C. C. Massie. Commander Threadgold congratulated each and thanked them on behalf of the Provincial Command for their services.

Comrade Ross Richardson led in sing-songs, accompanied on the piano by Comrade Rutherford.

Among the Silver Cross mothers present at the banquet were Mrs. Henry Baker, Mrs. Robertson, Mrs. McArthur, Mrs. Wilfred Baker, Mrs. Hay, Mrs. McMullen, Mrs. Farrell, rs. K. Harrold and Mrs. Ruth Atkinson.

Sugar Selling Charge Dismissed

TORONTO, Dec. 1 (CP). — Five of seven charges against two men accused of illegally selling sugar in 1942-43—when it was government-controlled — were dismissed yesterday.

Trial of Javob Vanek, 70, and his son, Abe, 41, on two similar counts was stalled temporarily as Judge Ian Macdonnell was told of the disappearance of 27 exhibits and of certain other documentary evidence prepared by the Prices Board.

The missing papers, said special prosecutor Norman L. Mathews, pointed to a 100,000-pound shortage in the Vanek's "sugar-bank account."

The 27 exhibits, filed in Magistrate's Court here in March, 1946, were said to have been stored in a vault in the crown attorney's office. The other documents — bank records retained by the bank at its own request after the earlier hearing—also were missing.

Let It Not Be Too Little, Too Late

Peterborough ratepayers are asked to say yes or no at the polls on Monday to two proposed debenture issues: one for $585,000, to build a collegiate in the south-west part of the city; and a second one for $300,000 to complete the financing of the new civic hospital. We have discussed each of these in detail in these columns during the last fortnight. There is no denying that much more accommodation is immediately needed for secondary school pupils, and that the need will increase in the next five years to a point where more additions to existing schools, stop-gaps or other makeshift arrangements will not do. There is no denying that the additional $300,000 for the hospital is needed to complete the work according to plan.

* * *

The matters thus boil down to this at the polls: are Peterborough ratepayers going to have one of their periodic spasms of economy and in a sweat of fear about the tax-rate, refuse to approve the bills? The need is proven. The willingness to face the need will be demonstrated Monday. Peterborough has been dogged by short-sighted so-called economies in the past, imposed either by past councils or school boards, or by ratepayers at the polls. When Hunter Street bridge was built it was reduced in width from that planned, because it would save a few thousand dollars. It is now too narrow for the traffic it bears. The first Collegiate was cut down; the addition to the Vocational School was reduced from plan. The attempts to get approval for the building of a new hospital a decade and more ago failed (when the building could have been done at probably a third of today's costs). The water mains and sewers were known to be inadequate twenty years ago, but the city carried on until absolutely forced to alter and extend—in the years of peak costs. Peterborough is too often doing too little too late. Is it to happen again?

* * *

We in Peterborough have to become accustomed to acting our civic age and according to our size. We have done so splendidly and with good heart, during the last few years, under able, careful, yet courageous and long-viewed members of Council and the Board of Education. Should we get cold feet now when the major propects are being accomplished and the end of the post-war expansion is in sight? Now is not the time to cry havoc.

* * *

One final word. People have become accustomed to the new price levels, to paying $2,000 for a car which in the same make cost $900 ten years ago, to paying $50 for a suit which cost $25 before the war. They pay twice as much (at least) for their food, their holidays, for almost everything. These high costs are not pleasant but they have become standard, and mental and financial adjustments have been made to meet them (for instance, incomes, property values and the like have in many cases doubled). Have people adjusted their thinking as adequately to tax rates? Are they too often basing their conceptions of what is high or low on the 1939 mill rate? In 1939 the mill rate in Peterborough was 34.5 on the dollar. By present standards of prices in the depreciated dollar a mill rate of 50 or 52 cannot be termed outrageously high. If the mill rate goes to 52 next year, as many expect, it would be an increase of less than fifty per cent. over the 1939 rate. What commodity other than municipal services for which this rate would provide—including new hospital, schools, remodelled sewage disposal plant, and the like—has increased less in cost?

What! No Paper?

When Peterborough became powerless Wednesday at 1:40 p.m. the Examiner also was without power. The teletype machines with their national and international news stopped ticking. The linotype machines could not run and stories could not be set. But most important of all, there was no power to run the presses which print the paper. In mid-afternoon it looked as if there would be no Examiner that day.

By six o'clock the telephones began an almost continuous ringing. Where is my paper? Is there going to be a paper? When? We ourself did not know; it all depended on getting power, and, let it be said, the management were canvassing every possibility such as installing auxiliary generators and using an out-of-town press. But at 6:30 we had electricity for lighting the offices and newsrooms, and shortly after seven we had electricity for power.

Ordinarily it takes four or five hours to heat up the 'pots' of lead, after they have gone cold, before any printing can be done. But extraordinary measures were used and shortly after nine the presses started to roll, and Peterborough had its paper, with the news of what it had undergone and what was happening in the outside world. The anxiety of our subscribers to get their paper was, we hope, a mark of their good estimation of the Examiner. But it was also a recognition of the important place the daily newspaper has in the life of an individual and community.

The city of Pittsburgh has undergone a long period of being without its daily newspapers. A walkout of mailroom employees on October 1st closed the three Pittsburgh dailies until Sunday, November 19th. A survey taken by a national advertising and public relations firm shows what happened to business and to readers. The Kitchener-Waterloo Record make this summary of the survey:

Automobile dealers were unable to advertise new 1951 models and took losses ranging from 5 to 70 per cent. Beauty parlors estimated a falling off in trade of 20 to 50 per cent. Clothing retailers saw the decline as 25 per cent. Drugs, entertainment, florists, schools, sporting events all showed sharp declines.

A total of 92.4 per cent. of people interviewed thought newspapers had become more important since they had been unable to get them. A total of 84.8 per cent. said they found it difficult to find out facts or get them straight when newspapers weren't available.

Men missed chiefly, in order of importance: Local news, sports, national news, foreign news, radio and television information, comics, columnists and editorials, Women missed local news, local store advertising, radio and television information, vital statistics, national news, food and cooking, comics and foreign news.

The organization making the survey suggests that people questioned may have had a tendency to minimize their real interest in comics and play up their interest in "more important things." However, their range of interest covered the whole paper.

One reader summed up his feelings at being without his paper: "It's like losing an old friend."

Shortages of Material

Canadian industries, including Peterborough plants like the C.G.E., are here and there being touched, if not definitely hampered, by shortages of critical materials. One department may have to shut up shop for a week because a certain kind of brass screw is unavailable; another may be delayed because steel or steel parts have not arrived in time. Canada is beginning to feel the priority buying in the U.S. for weapons and armament under regulations recently set up by the U.S. government. Much of our steel and machine parts come from the U.S.A. Canada is herself feeling the impact of military orders.

The shortage of critical materials is better understood when it is realized how much brass, steel, aluminum and the like go into war vehicles and arms. For instance, a tank takes as much steel as 22 automobiles.

She Was Ready For Her Chance

A great deal of deserved publicity has been given to Miss Roberta Peters, a girl of twenty who wants to be an opera singer; her ambition had placed her name on a list which the Metropolitan Opera keeps of ambitious and promising young performers; when Nadine Connor fell ill a few hours before she was to sing the role of Zerlina in Mozart's Don Giovanni Miss Peters was asked if she could take the part at short notice. She did so; she sang well; she now has her foot on the ladder of success.

This is a pretty story. And it is something more, as well. Roberta Peters was only able to seize her chance because she was ready. She knew the part of Zerlina, and we expect that she knows a good many other parts, as well.

Fortune smiles on those who are ready to succeed. To yearn for success is not enough. One must also be worthy of a chance when it comes.

NOTE AND COMMENT

It has been suggested that automobiles be impounded without option as the penalty for every conviction of careless driving. That might be a good idea—certainly it would help reduce traffic congestion.

General Foulkes, chief-of-staff at National Defence headquarters at Ottawa asked that city's Board of Control to put a bit of black paint on the side of a street lamp nearest his house, to keep the glare out of his bedroom. He was told to "pull down the blinds". How's the General's aim with a B.B. gun?

Notes And Queries

By ALPHA

Questions are solicited for this column particularly those relating to local lore and tradition.

ALPHA: Toronto gets a cut in the provincial liquor business profits: $260,000 last year. It is supposed to help the city pay for policing beverage rooms and bars. Does Peterborough get any rake-off on the booze profits?

ANSWER: Yes. This year the city treasury got $8,147 from the Provincial Treasury as its share of the pay-off. This goes into the consolidated revenues of the city. It is included under 'receipts other than taxes', which amounted in Peterborough this year to the significant sum of $213,628. A nice chunk for general city expenses which does not have to come out of the taxpayer's pocket.

DEAR ALPHA:

"When the devil was sick
The devil a saint would be;
But when the devil got well,
The devil a saint was he."

Who was the author?

When I was a boy in the 1880's a halfpenny had on the obverse side a lion on one side, and a unicorn on the other, both rampant, with a crown between them. We used to repeat:—

"The lion and the unicorn
Fighting for the crown,
A little dog jumped up
And knocked them all down."

What does it mean?

Yours is the most interesting column in the Examiner.

ANSWER: The quatrain on the devil is traced to the French writer Rabelais (1495-1547):

The Devil was sick,—the Devil a monk would be
The Devil was well,—the Devil a monk was he.

It is quoted by Sir Walter Scott in Chapter 6 of "The Black Dwarf".

The ditty about the lion and the unicorn is in many versions. It is a common nursery rhyme. My childhood's version of the third and fourth lines is:

"The lion beat the unicorn
All around the town."

There are following lines which I cannot recall.

I think that there is no special meaning to the rhyme—the sort of inconsequential things which have images and delight the ears. The lion and unicorn are of course the supports to the Royal armorial bearings. Thank you for your compliment on this column.

DEAR ALPHA: Every so often one reads of the great advantage of using Anglo-Saxon words. Is this fact or fiction? If it is advantageous, is there any rule-of-thumb to guide one's selection, for obviously, one can't say, whipping a dictionary out of his pocket, "Pardon me while I strengthen my next sentence."?

Incidentally what percentage of our words are of Anglo-Saxon derivation, and have we enough of these words to form an adequate means of expression?

ANSWER: The advantage of using words of Anglo-Saxon origin (like buy instead of purchase, tap instead of faucet, begin instead of commence) is that usually they are shorter, have more punch and vitality, and are of course, words which properly belong to the language and are best understood, usually. People who write and talk in pollysyllabic words of Latin, French or Greek origin tend to have a flabby style and to be pretentious. This is not always so, and, words and phrases of Romance and classical derivation are essential. They have a place and colour which cannot be taken by Anglo-Saxon words. The majority of our terms are not Anglo-Saxon; I do not know the percentage. The subtle complexity of things, ideas and life in modern times cannot be adequately given by the limited Anglo-Saxon vocabulary.

There are two rules-of-thumb to point out Anglo-Saxon terms. They are usually short words (not always, nor are all short words Early English—'term' for instance is from Latin); and the majority of 'strong' verbs—whose past tense is formed by a vowel change and not by adding -ed, are Anglo-Saxon; for instance: give-gave-given, eat-ate-eaten, contrasted with their Latinized cognates present-presented-presented, devour - devoured - devoured. But many -ed past tenses are Old English, for instance live-lived-lived.

SIR: With the interest there is now in Peterborough's past, I wonder that there is not a good second-hand bookshop in Peterborough which makes a specialty of books relating to Peterborough and district, and other Canadiana. Can you tell me where, for instance, I can get a copy of Dr. Poole's History of Peterborough, the original edition of 1867?

ANSWER: Book-buying is not a Peterborough habit. There do not seem to be enough book-lovers and readers in Peterborough buying enough to support one bookstore as such, let alone a second-hand book-store dealing in Canadiana. We have several shops which sell books, but they have sidelines like office supplies, wall-paper, dishes and sporting goods, or the books are the sidelines.

Dr. Poole's 1867 edition is hard to come by. It is not that it is scarce. I bought one copy recently which came to my hands by chance. The person who owned it knew it only as a dusty old book in a box in the attic. She was going over the box of books one day, and was on the verge of throwing the stuff out. I had to prove to her that this was really an original edition of Poole's history. The book should be worth only two or three dollars now, if all the old, unknown copies in the various farm and town attics were resurrected. I offered five for the one I bought, which was rather over-pricing it in favour of the surprised lady.

Now is the time to invest in old Canadian and Ontario books. I noticed in a dealer's catalogue that the late J. Hampden Burnham's "Canadians in the Imperial Naval and Military Service Abroad" published in Toronto in 1891 was priced at $5.50. Such books have gone up in price very markedly in the last dozen years, but I venture to guess that they will never be lower.

The Public Librarian, Mr. Graff, who is always scanning catalogues—Canadian, American and British—so as to increase the Library's already good collection of local and early Canadian books, finally tracked down this 170-page volume: "Correspondence and Papers on Various subjects by the late William Edwards, of Clarence, Ont." It was published in Peterborough in 1882. Its subtitle is "Scenes in the Life of a Canadian Pioneer; Ottawa Pioneering. Numerous letters to the Peterborough Examiner in the 1860's and to the Ottawa Citizen". The price was $6.

FOR THE RECORD: Alpha's readers know all about them, but their posterity may not unless they happen to come upon this column years hence. (1) Winter has come early; snow came out of the wind storm of the night of Saturday-Sunday, November 25-26 and we have had snow almost every day since. It looks as if it is here to stay. Peterborough missed the violent storms Toronto to the west, and south toward the American Atlantic seaboard. (2) The blow-up at the Utilities substation at 1:40 Wednesday afternoon made the whole city powerless and parts of it had neither light nor heat (from electricity) until 9:30 p.m. You have undoubtedly read all about it in Wednesday's paper (which went to press about nine p.m.), and yesterday's.

PORTENT

The U.N. Alphabet: Regional Organizations

By J. HALCRO FERGUSON

(The last in a series of three articles copyrighted to the Peterborough Examiner from the London Observer)

THE United Nations was set up at a period when inter-allied goodwill was at its height and war-born co-operation had given rise to a belief in the possibility of "One World." The new organization's Charter and its machinery were both based on the assumption that the five great powers, Britain, France, China, the U.S.A. and the U.S.S.R., would work in harmony, and that the smaller nations would follow their lead.

In fact, almost as soon as the shooting stopped, that belief turned out to be a fallacy. In the Security Council the Soviet Union demonstrated by increasing use of the veto that it had no intention of preserving great Power unanimity; in the General Assembly the Soviet bloc showed a consistent spirit of non-co-operation; and, though the Communist countries took part at first in the work of the specialized agencies, they ceased to do so once they no longer needed the services of these agencies themselves.

Under these circumstances it was inevitable that the countries who wanted to make the U.N. work, both positively for the betterment of the world and negatively for the prevention of war, should come together in regional groupings pledged to uphold the U.N. Charter. Obviously by far the most necessary of these was bound to be some formal association of the Western European powers with the United States and Canada. This association now in fact exists under the name of N.A.T.O.—the North Atlantic Treaty Organization.

The North Atlantic Pact was signed in Washington on April 4, 1949 by the Foreign Ministers of Belgium, Canada, Denmark, France, Iceland, Italy, Luxembourg, the Netherlands Norway, Portugal, the United Kingdom and the United States, and the Treaty setting up N.A.T.O. came into force on August 24 of that year.

The idea first took shape in Europe during the war, when it was voiced not by a European but by a South African internationalist, the late General Jan Christian Smuts, who on Nov. 25, 1943 in an address to the Empire Parliamentary Association put forward a plan for a permanent organization of Western European states. On August 2, 1944, Mr. Anthony Eden, at that time British Foreign Secretary, voiced the same idea in suggesting "a political association of the democracies of Western Europe."

The first steps towards this end were taken by the exiled Governments of Belgium, the Netherlands and Luxembourg, who in September 1944 drew up in London a proposal for an economic and customs union between their three countries, which came to be known as Benelux. The final essentials were worked out and the Benelux Treaty ratified in 1947, and the completed scheme is due to come into force next month, providing for the total integration of the economies of the three countries.

In September 1946 a less far-reaching Economic Committee was set up by Britain and France, who signed a formal Treaty at Dunkirk on March 4, 1947. The signatories of the two treaties then entered into joint discussions, and in Brussels, on March 17, 1948, the Foreign Ministers of the five powers signed a third treaty, effective for 50 years, "for collaboration in economic, social and cultural matters and for collective self-defence." The signatories, known as the Brussels Treaty Powers, pledged themselves to uphold human rights and the democratic system within their territories, to render mutual assistance within the framework of the U.N. Charter, and to encourage other nations with the same aims to associate themselves with them.

The supreme authority of the B.T.O. (Brussels Treaty Organization) is vested in the Consultative Council, composed of the five Foreign Ministers, which meets at least once every three months. The Permanent Commission, composed of the heads of the diplomatic missions of France and the Benelux powers, and a representative of the British Foreign Office, meets once a week. B.T.O. supervises the organization of defence through a Defence Committee, a Military Committee, a Military Supply Board, and a Secretariat General. Its command organization is headed by Field Marshal Lord Montgomery, with a French General as Commander in Chief of the land forces, a British Air Marshal in charge of air forces, and a French Admiral as Flag Officer, Western Europe. There are also an Economic and Financial Organization and a Cultural and Social Organization.

THE setting up of the Brussels Treaty Organization was welcomed in the United States, but it was realized that even with mutual co-operation at home Europe would need help from outside. On June 5, 1947, General Marshall outlined a plan for U.S. assistance in European recovery in a speech at Harvard, and on July 4 the first Marshall Plan meeting was called, after a breakdown of discussions with the Soviet Union aiming at a wider target.

Following Russia's lead, Bulgaria, Czechoslovakia, Finland, Hungary, Poland, Roumania and Yugoslavia declined invitations to the meeting. Austria, Belgium, Denmark, Eire, Greece, Iceland, Italy, Luxembourg, the Netherlands, Norway, Portugal, Sweden, Switzerland and Turkey accepted the invitations which were issued by Britain and France. A report signed by all these nations calculated their joint balance of payments deficit for the next three years as 22,440 million dollars.

On March 15, 1948, as a result of this report, O.E.E.C. (the Organization for European Economic Co-operation), was called into being, and later expanded to admit the U.K.-U.S. Zone of Trieste and the Federal Republic of Germany. Like B.T.O., O.E.E.C. works within the framework of the United Nations, but it acts in complete co-operation with E.C.A. (the Economic Co-operation Administration) which is a purely U.S. entity.

It was not only the economic, but also the political and military aspects of the Brussels Treaty which aroused interest across the Atlantic. On April 29, 1948 M. Louis St. Laurent, then Canadian Minister for External Affairs, made a speech in the Canadian Parliament broaching the idea of a "security league" of free nations. On June 11 the same idea was taken up by the U.S. Senate, which recommended "U.S. association with such regional and other collective arrangements" (as the B.T.O.)—a radical departure from the old U.S. policy of avoiding foreign entanglements.

Details were worked out between the Brussels Treaty Powers, the U.S. and Canada, and on August 24, 1949, these powers, together with Denmark, Iceland, Italy, Norway and Portugal signed the North Atlantic Pact. The Council of N.A.T.O. (the North Atlantic Treaty Organization), consisting of the 12 Foreign Ministers then set up a Defence Committee, a Military Committee with a standing Committee thereof, five regional planning groups, a Military and Supply Board, and a Defence, Financial and Economic Committee.

On October 6, 1949, President Truman put flesh on the bones of the organization by signing the Mutual Defence Assistance Act, providing 1,314 million dollars for military aid to the N.A.T.O. powers, together with Greece, Turkey, Persia, South Korea, and the Philippine Republic.

◇ ◇ ◇

THE Brussels Treaty also gave rise to the formation of another, and purely European, entity, the Council of Europe. This body was projected in January 1949 by the Consultative Council of the B.T.O., and set up at Strasbourg on May 5 by the Foreign Ministers of the Brussels powers, and those of Denmark, the Irish Republic, Italy, Norway and Sweden. It consists of a Committee of Ministers meeting in private and representing their Governments, and a Consultative Assembly, meeting in public, and representing national parliaments. The Assembly is in intention a Parliament of Europe, but some of its members (notably Britain) wish to restrict its powers, while others (notably France and Italy) would like to see it develop into a Federal Government of Europe.

A more limited, but more effective regional body exists in the American Continent, in the shape of the O.A.S. (Organization of American States) or O.E.A., (Organizacion de Estados Americanos), comprising the U.S. and the 20 Latin-American Republics (Canada, as a monarchy, is not eligible for membership.) This organization came into being at the First International Conference of American States in 1890, and was first called the International Bureau of American Republics and later the Pan-American Union.

It took its present shape at the Ninth International Conference in Bogota in April 1948. Its constitution provides for a five-yearly conference, meetings of Foreign Ministers to discuss urgent problems, an Advisory Defence Committee, a Council in Washington, the permanent Pan-American Union in Washington, and various specialized agencies to deal with technical matters.

The success of this body is attested by the fact that despite civil disturbances in its member States, in the last thirty years there have only been two serious wars on the American continent (Paraguay - Bolivia in the 30's, Peru-Ecuador in 1941), both of which were successfully localized. Like B.T.O., and N.A.T.O., O.A.S. subscribes to the U.N. Charter, and all its members, like those of the other two organizations, promised military aid in the Korean dispute. Only Argentina reversed her decision under pressure from isolationist and fellow-travelling elements.

This near-unanimity of all the regional organizations shows their value and efficacy. It should augur well for the success of U.N.C.U.R.K. (the United Nations Commission for the Unification and Rehabilitation of Korea) which is trying to sort out the tangle left by the Korean War. U.N.C.U.R.K. will have a hard task, for its powers vis-a-vis General MacArthur as military Commander-in-Chief and Dr. Syngman Rhee as claimant to the presidency of all Korea are as yet improperly defined. But if countries so different in their interests as Turkey and Chile, the Netherlands and Nicaragua, can agree at such short notice on common military action, there is some hope that the nations included on U.N.C.U.R.K. will be animated by the same spirit in a more constructive cause.

'51 Food Export Will Equal Last Year's

OTTAWA, Dec. 1 — (CP) — Agriculture Minister Gardiner said today that Canada might be able to sell Britain as much or even more food in 1951 than at any time in the last few years.

Welcoming more than 100 delegates to the ninth annual Federal-Provincial agricultural conference, Mr. Gardiner referred specifically to the increase in Britain's dollar reserves.

"The dollar problem in the United Kingdom is easing up somewhat," he said.

"Suggestions are being made that Britain may desire supplies of Canadian food, as great or even greater than Canada has been able to persuade her to take in the last few years."

This appeared to be a direct reference to current negotiations between Canada and the U.K. to cover Canadian shipments of bacon and cheese in 1951. An announcement on the conclusion of the negotiations is expected in the next few days, probably tomorrow.

Curling News

By HERB MARTIN

There was no curling all day Thursday. To co-operate with the Utilities Commission, who at this time find themselves hard put in supplying power for essential purposes, the board of management wisely decided to withdraw all activities for Thursday, thereby releasing the power that would be necessary to keep the ice plant running.

We feel sure that all of the curlers will appreciate the situation and if the executive should see fit to further cancel activities until the power business is cleared up, there will be no kick coming.

We, for one, commend the board of directors for this thoughtful and timely action.

To those who are scheduled to play tonight, call the rink first and make sure.

Tomorrow's program: 2:00 p.m men's bonspiel; 7.45 p.m., the Family Hour mixed rink bonspiel.

Springfield Player Cuts Tendon In Mixup

CINCINNATI, Dec. 1 (AP).— Frank Bergeron, Springfield Indians defenceman, suffered a severed tendon and muscle in his left leg in last night's American League hockey game with Cincinnati. Hospital attaches reported his condition as "fair."

They said they could not offer any opinion as to whether Bergeron might be permanently injured or as to how long he might be out of the game. They added he would be in the hospital for "two or three days at least."

Bergeron and Ivan Irwin, Cincinnati defenceman, became locked together in a mixup near the boards in the first period. There was difference of opinion among witnesses as to whether Bergeron fell on the blade of his own skate or that of Irwin.

The 23-year-old Bergeron is playing his first year in the American League. He is a native of Ansonville, Ont., and last year played with San Francisco of the Pacific Coast League.

Unbeaten Army Meets Navy In Annual Classic

By TED MEIER

NEW YORK, Dec. 1 (AP). — Oklahoma and Army, ranked as the nation's two top college football teams, lay their unbeaten streaks on the line again tomorrow.

Oklahoma, seeking its 31st straight victory, will tangle with its arch rival, Oklahoma A. & M. before 40,000 at Stillwater, Ga. Army, seeking to extend its unbeaten string to 29 straight, meets Navy in the annual service classic before 100,000 at Philadelphia's Municipal Stadium.

These two games highlight a program that includes such traditional tilts as the Tennessee-Vanderbilt fray at Memphis and the Notre Dame-Southern California clash at Los Angeles.

Oklahoma, already tapped for the Sugar Bowl, and Army, which prefers not to play post season games, are heavy favorites.

Near Record

A victory for Oklahoma over the Aggies, followed by a Sugar Bowl triumph over Kentucky, would give the Sooners 32 straight within hailing distance of the all-time streak of 34 set by Pennsylvania back in the gaslight era of the 1890s.

Nothing would delight the Navy better than to shatter the Army's streak. Under similar circumstances two years ago the underdog midshipmen tied the cadets 21-21. As a rule past records mean nothing in an Army-Navy struggle.

Tennessee, the nation's fourth ranked team and headed for the Cotton Bowl against Texas, similarly may run into trouble against Vanderbilt. The Vols, fresh from their slight upset of Kentucky last week, are favored by two touchdowns.

Notre Dame and Southern California, both of whom hit the gridiron skid during 1950, tangle in their 22nd meeting.

3 Top Horses Meet In Hollywood Race

INGLEWOOD, Calif., Dec. 1— (AP). — Three top flight horses in the $100,000 Hollywood Gold Cup December 9 get a preliminary tune-up today in one of the most interesting races of the season.

Mrs. Charles S. Howard's Irish-bred Noor, the King's Ranch famed Assault, and Isador Bieber's crack Palestinian, plus a pair of longshots, were named for the $5,000 Westwood Handicap at Hollywood Park, a 1 1-16-mile test that will mark the final trial for each before going into the big race a week away.

Assault will carry 112 pounds, Palestinian 120, and Noor 124. The veteran Assault made his first start in more than a year a week ago and burned a bright 1.22 4-5 for the seven furlongs in winnign easily.

Bill Boland was named to ride Assault, Johnny Longden to handle Noor, and Gordon Glisson up on Palestinian.

Hit By Hammer, Boxer Claims Damages

TORONTO, Dec. 1 (CP) — A 23-year-old amateur boxer's claim for damgaes as a result of a head injury he said was inflicted by his fiancee's landlord, was dismissed yesterday.

Arthur Naylor said the injury prevents him from fighting any more. He claimed that Michael Pawlyshyn hit him with a hammer one night when he climbed down from the verandah roof after knocking on his girl friend's bedroom window.

An Ontario Supreme Court jury found Naylor guilty of breaking a window during the disturbance which followed his Romeo act.

Cornwall Beats Hull Before Small Crowd

CORNWALL, Dec. 1 (CP). — A three-goal effort by Pete Payette led Cornwall Calumets to a 9-4 victory over Hull Volants here last night in an Eastern Canada Senior Hockey League game before a small crowd of 500.

Payette's hat trick was amplified by Jim McEwen and Gus Lebrun with two each, and John Denneny and Pete Long with singletons, accounting for the other Cornwall scoring.

Pete Richer, Hull pivot, picked up a pair of tallies for Volants, with Yves Sarra-Bournet and Roland Landry getting the others.

Remember When—

Toronto Argonauts crushed Winnipeg Blue Bombers 35-0 to win the Grey Cup final at Toronto five years ago today. An estimated 19,000 saw the fast-moving Argo machine dazzle the ponderous Winnipeg club, which included players from high school ranks. Doug Smylie and Billy Myers each scored two touchdowns, and Joe Krol scored one major and passed for two others.

SPORTS SHOW WINDOW

Just a reminder for cage fans of the basketball here this weekend. A twin bill for the belles at the YWCA gym tonight, opening at eight with Nurses Srs. playing Lindsay Grads, followed by Neill's vs. Nurses Jrs. Grads haven't been defeated yet and Nurses Srs. lost but one game so far, hence that clash should be right interesting for hoop followers. The YM house loop runs a double-header tomorrow eve, starting at seven with Buicks meeting Monarchs, as Chryslers clash with Fords in the nightcap. We trust it isn't too hard a clash, as all makes and models should be careful with winter driving conditions prevailing.

Kingston Nylons and Petes supply the Friday night senior "B" hockey attraction this p.m. at Civic Arena. The high-flying Petes, who are but two points back of the leading Eagles now, hope to grab this one, but realize they face worthy foemen in the Nylons. It rates a real big crowd, as both are strong squads which dish up fine, fast hockey and can bump careless forwards into the second row of customers at times. They're well-matched and Nylons might upset the Petes just as Belleville did the Eagles here the other evening. Those two teams tangle tonight down in Bella Villa where Eagles will strive desperately to keep ahead of the pack.

Honey A Perennial Star

We might mention here that Honey Tompkins is making a real comeback this season with the Petes, after an up-and-down campaign last year. He said earlier this fall that he'd show folks he hadn't slipped too much, despite his long service in local puck livery. And the guy is hustling every minute this semester and figuring in on a lot of goals. A durable type, he is the only forward of the Petes of Omemee days and nights still in senior action. Goalie Ray Harding, of course, is still a big factor with the club and Coach Drake Jopling takes a turn at times on defence. But Honey, who is keeping his temper in check well so far, is apparently in for another big hockey season.

* * * * * *

Several of the Eagles' veterans, who played for the Petes or the Military Training Centre early in the war, are rounding into shape, too. And are important cogs yet in that club's machinery. Johnny Godfrey has been starring for a long time at the blue line for many teams, and he is a big help out there today. Doug Mortimer still has the speed and fight, and is willing to play up front or on defence—just wherever the squad needs him. Bob Parnall is another forward who has been on championship clubs before and toils hard out there to figure frequently in the scoring. More so thany many imagine. From time to time, we'll deal with others on both local teams. Including the newcomers, but they still have to prove themselves over the long haul.

Action By The PMHA-ers

Several tidy tilts run off in the PMHA last gloaminng down Civic Arena way. Two classy juvenile squads, Oddfellows and Clapper's, battled it out to a 3-all draw in a game marked by but one penalty. The Martin-Hewitt midgets rolled to a 7-1 triumph o'er Trojans and the midget Marines downed St. Peter's by a 5-3 count. In the bantam bracket, Trojans won 5-2 from St. Peter's, as the Otonabee Wolves broke into the victory column with a 4-2 decision against the Empress lads. No report on the other juvenile game which rounded out the night. The PMHA-ers shoot the works down there every Thursday evening.

A Montreal Star item quotes Father McCaffrey, S.J., principal of Loyola College, thusly: "Games, if they are well directed and well controlled, are themselves an excellent instrument of education. They teach self-reliance, self-control, co-operation, subordination of the individual to the good of the team, all very desirable qualities. And this not only to the players who make up the various teams but to the whole student body who supports them. No educator can afford to overlook athletics. We, the principals of schools, find that athletics help us for they keep us in contact with a very important part of the schoolboy's life when we might be tempted to retire into our ivory tower." Peterborough schools, too, are fortunate in having teachers who take an active interest in athletics.

Need Winning Teams To Get Fans–Campbell

BOSTON, Dec. 1 (CP). — President Clarence Campbell of the National Hockey League contends "there's nothing wrong with Boston or New York that a winning team won't cure."

He made this statement last night while denying his unexpected arrival here had anything to do with low attendances at games in Boston and New York.

Both the Bruins and the Rangers—deadlocked in the league cellar—have had attendance trouble this year. Sunday night the crowd in both cities was just past the 6,000 mark. New York and Boston meet here tonight.

Campbell described television as a "factor but not the bogey man" people would make it as far as its effect on attendances.

"Give the people the attraction and they'll come, regardless of television."

Here And There In Sports . . .

By The Canadian Press

Joe Louis is determined to continue on fistiana's comeback trail despite his unimpressive showing against 23-year-old Cesar Brion in the Chicago Stadium Wednesday.

Boxing is his business, the exworld's heavyweight champion says, and he intends to stay in business.

"I want to fight again, just as quickly as possible," Louis says.

Louis, who did not impress 8,866 fight fans who saw him fail to score a single knockdown against the slow-moving Argentine in their 10-round bout, plans to return to his West Baden, Ind. training retreat next week to further conditioning.

James Norris, president of the sponsoring International Boxing Club, engaged in a campaign session with his associates yesterday in an attempt to pick a new opponent for Louis. They failed to reach a decision. A match against Rocky Marciano is in prospect for New York City's Madison Garden, Norris said.

Manager Frank Boucher of New York Rangers says he would like to see the 10-minute overtime period returned to National Hockey League games. "I don't know how the fans in the rest of the league cities feel about it but I'm sure New York fans would welcome back the overtime session," Boucher said at a hockey writers' luncheon. New York fans, in ever-decreasing numbers, have watched their Rangers tie more games—nine—than any other NHL team this season.

The Balmy Beach Football Club Toronto Argonauts' farm club in the Ontario Rugby Football Union, has applied for an Ontario charter. It doesn't mean any change in its officers or policy, Argo president Bob Moran said Thursday. Moran said the move to incorporate the club was a legal one. All the clubs in the Big Four Football Union except the Argos are incorporated.

—Mike Ryba, known as a "one-man baseball team," during his major and high minor league playing days, has resigned without comment as manager of the Louisville American Association Club. The Louisville Courier-Journal said Ryba's successor is expected to be Pinky Higgins, former major league third baseman who managed Birmingham Barons of the Southern Association last season.

In London, a world middleweight title match next spring between Sugar Ray Robinson and Britain's Randolph Turpin appeared in the making. Neither of the men owns the title. Robinson, now battling through Europe, is supposed to fight current champion Jake La Motta in February. Turpin the British middleweight champion, must get by Tommy Yarosz, the American light heavyweight, in a Dec. 12 bout first.

Phil Rizzuto, the American League's most valuable player for 1950, has signed his 1951 Yankee contract calling for a nice boost in pay. Terms were not disclosed but the little New York shortstop probably will collect around $50,000 for next season's work. He was believed to have received about $40,000 last season.

In Bournemouth, England, a special 72 hole open golf tournament offering £3,000 (about $9,000) in prizes will be played next spring in connection with the Festival of Britain. Tentative dates for the competition are June 13-15.

Cleveland Barons have announced a game with Springfield, postponed last Sunday, will be played in Cleveland Wednesday, Dec. 27. The American Hockey League game was postponed because of the snow storm. No date has been set for the other snowed out contest, with Providence last Saturday night.

Layton Signs To Meet Henning

A new high in wrestling fan attendance is expected by the management of Brock Arena next Tuesday with the announcement that Lord Athol Layton will meet Lee Henning in the main bout of the mat card here next Tuesday. Not even Whipper Billy Watson or popular Mike Sharpe ever made the initial favorable impression that "his ludship" made when he easily disposed of huge Wee Willie Davis this week. The tall and handsome Englishman, with his speed, colorful variety of grips and his use of judo, made a terrific hit with a big crowd.

Layton is facing a rough and ruthless opponent in Lee Henning, a big man with years of pro grappling experience, and one who takes advantage of everything. He uses illegal tactics in a smooth manner to fool the referee, and few opponents can stand up to him over the hour's distance. However, it is expected that Lord Athol—with advice from Gerald, his friend and adviser, will take him, too.

Two newcomers will be introduced to the fans, Les Ryan taking on Pat Flanagan in the semi-final and George Scott hooking up with Toar Morgan in the opener.

Boucher Urges NHL Restore Overtime Period

By The Canadian Press.

Frank Boucher, friend of the frustrated man, seems to have the amazing faculty of coming up with pertinent pronouncements on professional hockey at the most timely times.

Yesterday the manager of New York Rangers, most tie-minded team in the National Hockey League, said he'd like to see a return of the 10-minute sudden death overtime period.

And last night Toronto Maple Leafs and Montreal Canadiens battled to a scoreless draw—the 15th tie game of the season. That's an average of almost one draw in four with 62 games played in the 210-game schedule.

Action Listless

The night's only action was listless, with both the Leafs and Canadiens playing cautiously, before a Montreal Forum crowd of 14,571 fans.

For the Leafs, it was their fifth game without a defeat and it kept intact the season record of rookie goaltender Al Rollins who hasn't been beaten in eight games. It was his first NHL shutout.

For Canadiens, the single point enabled them to climb back into a third-place tie with Chicago Black Hawks, while Gerry McNeil racked up his fourth shutout of the season. That tied him with Turk Broda of the Leafs, who also has four.

Statistics on tie games in the NHL show that Boucher might have something in wanting a return of overtime play.

During last year's 70 game-a-team schedule, there were 41 draws, for an average of about one in five games.

During the 1941-42 campaign, before overtime was abandoned because of travel restrictions during the war, there were only 12 ties in 168 games, an average of one in 14 games. The schedule then ran 48 games a team.

Hockey's Big Seven

By The Canadian Press.

Individual standing in the National Hockey League mainly remained unchanged today as the only game scheduled Thursday night saw Montreal Canadiens and Toronto Maple Leafs play to a scoreless draw.

The only change saw Gerry McNeil of the Montrealers move into a tie with Turk Broda, Toronto netminder, for the most shutouts four. Al Rollins was in the nets for the Leafs Thursday night.

Max Bentley continues to lead the pack with 28 points, six more than Tod Sloan of the Leafs Bentley also has the most assists 21 with sloan high goal-getter with 13.

Ted Kennedy of Toronto is in third place with 21 points and is followed by Sid Smith and Cal Gardner, also of the Leafs, with 18 apiece. Maurice Richard of Montreal is next with 16.

Billy Burch Dies Hockey Great Won Top Awards

TORONTO, Dec. 1 (CP). — Billy Burch, a hockey great and one of the few players to win the two premier awards of the National Hockey League — the Hart and Lady Byng trophies—died last night after an illness of two months. He was about 50.

Burch broke into hockey as a junior in Toronto just after the First World War. His career ended when he broke his leg while playing for Chicago Black Hawks of the NHL 15 years later in the 1932-33 season.

Although best known as a fast and clever centre in both amateur and professional ranks, he was also a star football and lacrosse player. He was quarterback for Toronto Central YMCA Juniors when they won the Canadian Junior championship and was outstanding for the Toronto Maitlands lacrosse team.

Started In 1919

He was with Toronto Canoe Club Juniors in 1919-20 when the team won the Canadian junion hockey championship. Prominent among his mates on that team were Roy Worters and Dinty Moore, Lionel Conacher, Harold Applegath, Duke McCurry and Tex White.

He played in the Toronto Hockey League before going to New Haven in the fall of 1922. He played most of the season in the American Association, then returned to Canada to turn professional with the Hamilton team of the NHL. It was with Hamilton in 1924-25 that he won the Hart Trophy as the league's most valuable player.

At the end of that season the Hamilton franchise was sold to Bill Dyer and transferred to New York where the team became the Americans. Burch stayed with the team and went through the 1926-27 season without a penalty while scoring 19 goals and eight assists to win the Lady Byng Trophy for clean, sportsmanlike and effective play.

He remained with the Americans until 1932 when he went to Chicago.

Railways Urge Board Reject Lower Rate Plea

OTTAWA, Dec. 1 (CP)—The railway asked the Board of Transport Commissioners yesterday to reject protests against higher freight rates for livestock.

As the board ended reception of evidence in the rate controversy, the two major companies contended protesting provincial government and farm interests had not made the "slightest suggestion" of a case against the increases.

The railway claim was put forward after the Alberta government, closing the evidence, had argued the proposed new rates would continue regional differences in rates and accentuate "discrimination" in livestock haulage charges.

Originally scheduled to go into effect Oct. 2, the rates have been suspended until Dec. 15 by the board pending its hearings. They constitute an average increase of about 13 per cent over present tolls, which the railways hold to be abnormally low.

The Alberta presentation was delivered by H. W. Harries, Edmonton economist, who claimed:

1. The proposed rates would not remove regional differences, leaving those in the West higher than in central and eastern Canada.

2. They would disrupt a western rate "blanket," with the result that west-to-east hauls from Alberta would cost more per mile than all-western hauls. Blanketing is the practice of giving the same freight rates to or from all points in a given area.

3. Existing freight rates on livestock are not "non-compensatory" (failing to pay their way), as the railways claim. They provide returns that are "reasonable for the service performed."

4. Even if the livestock rates before the 1921 reduction were considered reasonable by the board, it does not follow that 1950 rates on that basis are automatically reasonable.

Movie Midget Play Elves Show Off Toys

By BOB THOMAS

HOLLYWOOD. Dec. 1 (AP)—How would you like a job playing with Christmas toys all day?

The pay is good and the working conditions excellent. The only requirement: You have to be less than four feet tall.

No use applying this year, because three movie midgets already have signed up. They are Jerry Maren, 30, Billy Curtis, 33, and Tony Boris, 32. Their job consists of playing with toys six to eight hours a day in the street window of a local department store.

Asked if they really enjoy the work, Maren replied:

"You bet, we're having a barrel of fun...

"We like the job so much that sometimes it's hard to quit when the day is over. If we're playing to a big crowd, we sometimes work a little longer. It's just like doing a show: You hate to leave an audience.

Get Callouses

"The only trouble is the we're all getting callouses on our hands and fingers from winding toys. I must have wound one of 'em 10,000 times.'

The three men, attired in elves' costumes, spend the day working the mechanical toys, putting on comedy routines, and making faces to amuse the children.

Maren, an earnest, fast-talking fellow explains that he and his partners are all about three feet, 11 inches. "We say three-eleven so we'll be under four feet," he added, indicating that it's important in his business.

And "I work more than most other actors in pictures," he claims.

Canada Takes Over U.S. Weather Station

SEATTLE, Wash., Dec. 1 (AP).—The Canadian transport department last night took over the "Peter" weather station 600 miles west of Washington's Cape Flattery.

The United States coast guard said the transfer to Canada was made so the coast guard can establish an "uncle" weather station one-third of the way between San Francisco and Honolulu.

The Canadian frigate St. Catherine was refitted for the "Peter" weather assignment. It will serve as a plane guard and weather station.

A MEAT ROLL made of pie dough and rolled and slashed like a coffee cake is a delicious variation for leftover meat, especially if served with a tempting mushroom gravy.

COOKBOOK OF THE WEEK

Shortage of Gravy Solved With Sauce Book Recipe

Because the most popular and nourishing way to roast meat is with a slow oven there is usually not much in the bottom of the pan from which to make gravy so some homemakers are hard put to it to produce a tasty sauce to go over the meat and potatoes.

The perfect solution to this problem can be found in this week's cookbook release, "250 Sauces, Gravies and Dressings." This is the twentieth title of the twenty-four cookbook series currently being made available to readers of The Examiner.

The Sauce Book is a veritable encyclopedia of information as to delicious dressings and sauces for every course in the meal from the cocktail to the dessert. Besides there is a whole chapter on gravies, many of which can be made without using pan drippings and are therefore adaptable to leftovers, canned meats, and meat rings. Here, for instance, is an especially tasty recipe from the Sauce Book:

Mushroom Beef Gravy

3 tablespoons Butter
3 tablespoons Flour
1 can Bouillon or Consomme
¾ cup Water
1 can Mushroom Soup
Salt, Pepper

Melt butter and blend in flour. Add bouillon and water and cook until thickened. Heat mushroom soup, stirring constantly add seasoning and gravy, and heat thoroughly. Makes about 3 cups.

To get your copy of the Sauce Book all you need do is clip a Cookbook Coupon from page 2 of any issue of this newspaper and present it with 25c to The Examiner office, your carried boy, Braund's Home Food Markets, or to the Dominion Master Market. By mail, send 30c (5c for postage and handling) to Cookbook Department, Peterborough Examiner.

Plan To Collect Fees Delayed

OTTAWA, Dec. 1 (CP) — A new organization, which a month ago announced its decision to seek copyright fees from radio stations and places of entertainment in 1951, has given up the idea, at least temporarily, it was learned Thursday.

The organization—La Federation Des Auteurs Au Canada (Federation of Canadian Authors)—has withdrawn the list of fees it submitted to the secretary of state for approval by the Copyright Appeal Board.

A notice of the withdrawal will be published Saturday in the Canada Gazette, which carried the proposed fees in a special issue Nov. 6.

The reason the organization withdrew its fees, it was learned, was because it had not yet been organized and incorporated as a company. It is not known what its future plans are, but it is not expected it will be in a position to collect fees in 1951.

Urge Cooperation Of Cancer Societies

LONDON, Ont., Dec. 1 (CP) — Freer exchange of ideas between Ontario and Quebec units of the Canadian Cancer Society was urged by two women visitors to the London unit.

Mme. Louis Berger, newly-appointed director of the Quebec City district of the society, and Miss Madeline Taylor, of Montreal, director of the organization for Quebec province, are on a tour of Ontario cancer units.

They said they obtained many ideas on the establishment and operation of cancer public information centres. Ontario has three such centres, in London, Toronto and Ottawa. Two more are proposed at Hamilton and Kingston. There are none so far in Quebec.

MONTREAL, Dec. 1 (CP). — A doubling of defence expenditures will involve but a small proportion of Canada's industrial capacity, Labor Minister Milton F. Gregg said last night. He was addressing an anniversary banquet of the Montreal Kinsmen's Club.

Unemployment Claims

Surveyors Find Town Is Within Alberta

EDMONTON, Dec. 1 (CP) — A party which left here this week to survey the Alberta-North West Territories boundary may find that Fort Smith, "capital" of the northern region, is six miles within Alberta.

The Edmonton Journal said yesterday in a newspage story that a report from the north says "Canadian government surveyors have found that Fort Smith is definitely six miles within the province of Alberta."

"If Fort Smith is found to be within Alberta, the provincial government would fall heir to government buildings, including a court house, RCMP barracks, and other official buildings. Also there would be costly improvements such as a civic waterworks system, power and light plant, roads and bridges.

The survey party of 20 men is engaged in mapping a section of the 60th parallel, in the northeast corner of the province.

UK Labor Wins Seat

BRISTOL, England, Dec. 1 — (CP). — The Labor Government yesterday retained the seat left vacant by the retirement of Sir Stafford Cripps, boosting its working majority in the House of Commons to five through a by-election victory here. Anthony Wedgewood Benn won by a margin of 7,349 over his closest rival —Conservative James Louis Lindsay. Standing in the Commons now is Labor 313, Conservatives and allies 298, Liberals 9, others 13, with one vacancy.

Freak Accident Kills Two Injuries To Four Others

SHERBROOKE, Que., Dec. 1—(CP).—Two women were killed near here last night in a series of automobile accidents. Four others were injured.

Dead are: Sister Mary Aurelia, 29, dietitian at Santa Maria Hospital, Cambridge, Mass., and Mrs. Frank Maiocco of Atlantic City, N.J.

In hospital are: Miss Gerry Kramason, secretary at Santa Monica Hospital, Atlantic City, suffering from a leg fracture and violent shock, and Alfred Campagna, of nearby Cookshire, Que., leg fracture and nervous shock. Campagna was administered last rites of the Roman Catholic Church upon admission to hospital.

Less severely injured were Gerrard Depaul of Magog, Que., fractured leg, and Gerard Fleet, 29, Sherbrooke, shock.

Near Sherbrooke

The accident occurred on the Quebec highway between East Angus and Bishopton, 15 miles from here.

An automobile driven by Mrs Maiocco, and having as passengers Miss Kramason, a resident of New Britain, Conn., and four Sisters of the Roman Catholic Immaculate Conception Order, skidded on icy pavement and went off the road into a small stream.

The six passengers suffered only minor injuries and climbed back to the road where a passing automobile had stopped. Another car then smashed into the back of the parked automobile, killing Sister Aurelia immediately. Mrs. Maiocco died in ambulance on the way to hospital.

Campagna was injured when the truck he was driving swerved off the road to avoid striking a number of persons attracted to the scene of the accident. It was understood that the other three injured were in the car which hit the automobile carrying the nuns.

Strikers Ask Gov't Step In

TORONTO, Dec. 1 (CP)— C. R. Millard, Canadian director of the United Steelworkers of America (CIO), said today he has asked Labor Minister Gregg to reconsider intervening in a strike that started Oct. 31 at the Canadian Tube Plant of Dominion Steel and Coal Company in Montreal.

Mr. Millard released the text of a letter he sent yesterday to the Labor Minister. In it, he suggested to Mr. Gregg that it was desirable in the public interest that he act without delay. He added:

"Although management in this case has created a deal of resentment among most of the employees involved, I believe that a settlement might be found if the company would agree to follow the community pattern established in comparable plants earlier in the year and to refer the balance of the wage issue and other matters to a board of arbitration for final adjudication."

U.E. PRESSES WAGE DEMAND

15¢ per hour increase for all G. E. workers

20¢ per hour for skilled and other day rate workers in G.E.

For the past two months the GE Workers of Peterborough and Toronto, who are members of the UE, have been trying to open negotiations with Canadian General Electric for a general wage increase.

THE COMPANY REFUSED THEIR WORKERS. REQUEST

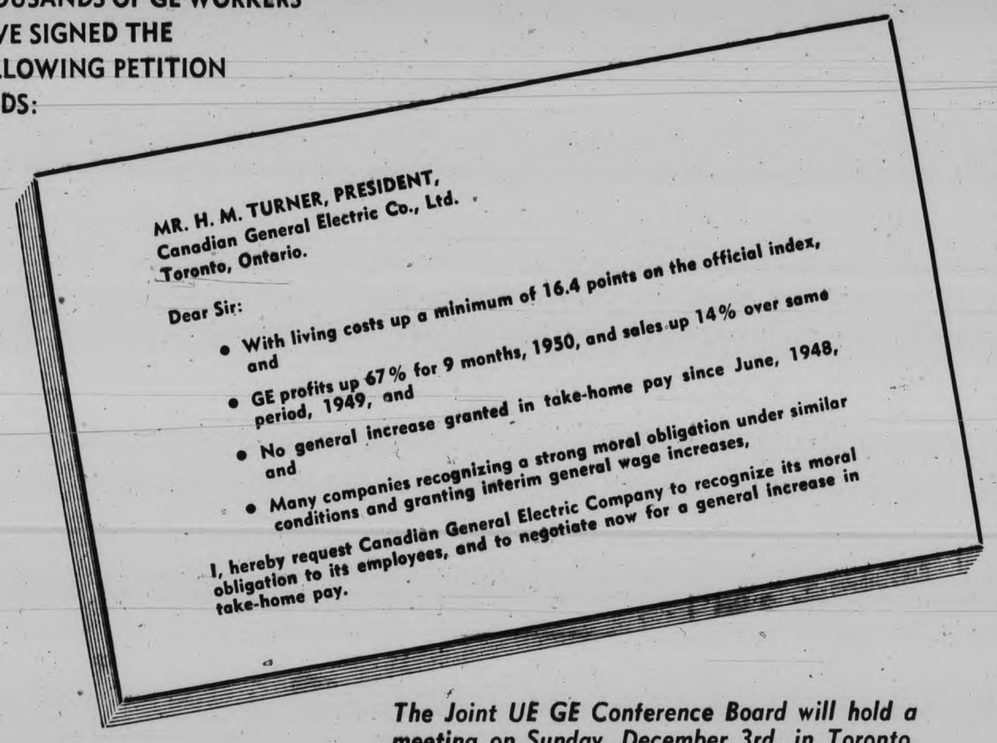
Two formal requests have been made by UE to Mr. H. M. Turner, President of C.G.E., to commence wage discussions.

The first request made to Mr. Turner was refused on technical reasons. The second request was ignored by Mr. Turner.

GE WORKERS TAKE FURTHER ACTION

The GE Workers were not satisfied to have their legitimate and necessary requests treated lightly and ignored. The GE Workers took matters in their own hands.

THOUSANDS OF GE WORKERS HAVE SIGNED THE FOLLOWING PETITION CARDS:



The Joint UE GE Conference Board will hold a meeting on Sunday, December 3rd, in Toronto. Ways and means to further acquaint Mr. Turner with this strong demand for wage discussions, will be agreed upon at the meeting.

WHY GE MUST PAY NOW

The Cost of Living Index is now 170.7 points. Since GE Workers received an increase in take-home pay, the rise is 16.4 points.
The Food Index is now 220.1 points.

GE Workers' living standards have been lowered. A minimum of 16c per hour increase is necessary to restore GE Workers' living standards to the 1948 level when an increase was last received—(this is by Government calculation).

GE Workers' Average Earnings are 32c per hour below Westinghouse Workers'—over $700 yearly loss in pay. GE wages are among the lowest in the large electrical manufacturing companies.

Many other Companies have granted wage increases to help offset the rising Cost of Living.

WHY GE CAN PAY NOW

The Company profits are at an all-time high. The parent Company of GE admitted a profit of 77 Million Dollars for the first 9 months of 1950. This is an increase over last year of 67%.

The Canadian Company has announced an EXTRA DIVIDEND of $4 per share to each stockholder. This is the second increase of $4 per share this year, in addition to the regular dividends

COMPANY POLICY

TWO WAGE INCREASES TO GE STOCKHOLDERS IN ONE YEAR TO BE SPENT IN USA.
NO WAGE INCREASE TO GE WORKERS IN 2½ YEARS.

Toronto and Montreal GE Workers Join UE

The GE workers of Edison Lamp Plant, Toronto, have joined UE. An Application for Certification has been made. Montreal GE Workers have joined UE, and Application for Certification has also been made to the Quebec Labour Board.

This will bring 2,000 more GE Workers into UE, and will make a total of 8,000 GE Workers organized into UE in Canada.

In the Montreal GE Plant, the workers have joined UE for the second time in one year. Last year the Quebec Labour Board denied them certification because the Board included in the bargaining unit the names of hundreds of construction workers submitted by the Company. These construction workers were not part of GE and were members of the Building Trades Union of Montreal.

MORE THAN 1,000 OUT OF 1,300 GE WORKERS IN MONTREAL HAVE NOW SIGNED UE CARDS AND PAID THEIR INITIATION FEE!

The Company ignored every request made by their workers to recognize the UE Union. The Union offered to have a card check against the Company payroll to prove their majority membership position. The Company also ignored this offer made by their workers.

It would appear that the Company is again depending on the Quebec Labour Board to help them deny the workers a union of their own choice. The Quebec Labour Board is well known as anti-union and pro-Company-union. Last year the Board certified a Company union in GE Montreal Works. The Company Union had NOT ONE paid up member in the plant!

"NOT THIS TIME!" SAY GE WORKERS. Twelve rank and file GE workers from the plant have counted the more than 1,000 cards in the presence of a Notary Public. They have signed a statement on oath in support of this membership.

The same twelve GE Workers have given the financial records to an Auditor and have made a statement on oath in support of the correctness of the financial records of initiation fees.

We bring you these facts because we feel they are of interest to the public as well as GE Workers because the Montreal workers are doing jobs formerly done in Peterborough at 13 to 50c per hour less than the Company paid here, and because the Company attitude in denying the Montreal Workers the UE is much the same as the "No Wage Increase" attitude in Ontario.

We will support the Montreal and Toronto GE workers in their efforts to have our UE Union!

We will unite with all GE workers for a wage increase!

We will count on your support!

Miller Family Tree Genealogical Mix-up

MONTREAL, Dec. 1 —(CP)— Remember the song "I'm My Own Grandpaw?"

Well, the Miller family tree ran riot in 1947 and the resulting confusion made the words of the song come true—almost.

It all started when Christian Godfrey Miller married Lucie Levesque, sister of Emilie Lesesque who had married Christian Godfrey's son, Corey Alexander, a year earlier.

Now the possibilities of parental relationship between all four are almost limitless.

For example: Christian Godfrey is his son's brother-in-law and Lucie is her sister Emilie's mother-in-law. And Corey's sister-in-law, Lucie, is his stepmother—and Christian Godfrey's daughter-in-law, Emilie, is his sister-in-law. And since Corey Alexander's wife, Emilie, is his step-mother's sister, it follows she must be his aunt as well as his wife.

Don't stop now, there's more.

Christian Godfrey and Lucie have three children, Kenneth Gordon, 27 months, Carol, 16 months and Shirley Emily Alice, three months.

Must Relieve Power Load At Substation

"The fire on Wednesday is all the more reason why we should speed up the High St. substation," said G. S. Matthews, chairman, at the meeting of the Utilities Commission Thursday.

Commission has noted the recent action of the council in referring this question of substation location to the city planning board. Contention of the Commission is that the hill site has already been approved.

Ross Dobbin, manager, said "we are going ahead with the foundation. Mr. Dutton told me the planning board had approved that location. We have got to relieve the load on the substation."

Two of these units have already been put into use, one on Clifton St. and the other on Romaine St. The third is planned for the east side of High St. on the former DVA hospital lot, but at the top of the slope. The equipment has been on order nearly ten months.

The other members of the Commission were present, G. A. Macdonald and Fred Hills.

Electric Switch Makes Possible 'Phone Service

The relays of electrical switches used in the telephone industry may not be able to think but they can do many other things almost like human beings, A. M. Dix, Bell Telephone representative, told a meeting of the Y's Men's Club Thursday night.

In an address entitled, "Crossroads of Conservation," Mr. Dix described how relays "tell" equipment what to do and how they can "forget" or "remember" what has taken place during a previous operation. Relays with these abilities are used throughout the telephone system and are essential for dial and non-dial centres alike and for long distance service.

In a dial exchange, for instance, the relays must "see" that a call is coming in; next they must say, "Number, please," by sending out the dial tone; they must "listen" to the caller's commands as the dial is turned; they must "select" the correct path; they must "set up the connection" and "tell" the called party he is wanted, by ringing his telephone bell; they may have to "report" that the line is busy, or, possibly, "transfer" the call to a special operator in case the number has been changed; finally, they must "disconnect" after the conversation is over.

Cannot Think

The speaker emphasized, however, that relays though they can be made to do almost anything men want them to do, cannot think; it still takes the human mind to do that.

Illustrating the operation of typical relay by the use of energized demonstration equipment, Mr. Dix declared that telephone service as it is known today would be impossible without the relay. Even on a simple call to a telephone in the same exchange hundreds of relays operate at lightning speed, while on long distance calls a thousand or more relays may come into play. To perform the same switching by hand would take about two hours on the simplest call, and probably a whole day on a long distance connection.

Mr. Dix noted that in the last 10 years there has been a phenomenal growth in both long distance and local calling. In this period the number of long distance calls has increased by three and a half times, and more new telephones have been installed than in the company's first 64 years of business. The speaker assured his listeners that relays and the thousands of other pieces of apparatus necessary are being manufactured and put into service as fast as humanly possible.

Older Workers On Increase Become Problem

Approximately one out of every three men in Canada between the ages of 20 to 65 is in the over-45 group, William Mellis, manager of the National Employment Ser- of the National Employment office, informed the Peterborough Personnel Association Thursday night.

Following the business meeting Mr. Mellis introduced a film on the problem of the older worker called "Date of Birth." He pointed out that in 1917 only 19 per cent of the population was made up of persons more than 40 years old. By 1941 the proportion had increased to 31 per cent and it is continuing to rise.

Mr. Mellis said that the problem of employing older workers is now generally recognized in Canada as a national problem, not to be solved in the near future and in some ways likely to become more difficult as advances in medical science increase longevity.

Can't Shelve Workers

"It is obvious that if we arbitrarily put on the shelf a large section of our potential working force, we are reducing production of goods and services. At the same time, by narrowing the number of wage-earners and consumers, we are saddling this narrowed group with the whole burden of taxation. The problem is a threat to our future economic structure, for it promises to become more serious each year."

A second reason for the growth of the problem can be found in changing industrial methods, he said. "Before the industrial revolution, production depended on the manual skill of the worker, gained only by long years of experience and apprenticeship. The older worker was valued as one who had reached the height of his skill. With the coming of machinery, and particularly with modern mass-production methods, there was no longer the same premium on experience. The machine replaced the trained hands of the workman."

Careful Selection

Mr. Mellis said that no one would argue that employees in the older age group should not be selected as carefully, with regard to their physical and mental qualifications, as those in any other age group. He pointed out that the danger arises in the tendency to judge those qualifications solely on the basis of age.

"Everyone knows, from his own observation, that the number of years a person has lived is no sure basis for estimating his capabilities. Far more accurate is a consideration of physiological and psychological ages — standards which give a true picture of physical and mental condition."

Popular secretary of the Kiwanis Club, Ernie Bartlett was presented Thursday at the weekly luncheon with a radio, a birthday present from the Kiwanians. Members of the local club and nearly 60 representatives from the other 10 clubs in Kiwanis division six stood up and sang Happy Birthday.

TB SEAL RECEIPTS

Total to date of the TB Christmas seal fund is $1,580.90, officials of the Bank of Commerce announced today.

TRUCK DAMAGED

Vernon Salt, RR 3, Peterborough, reported to police Thursday that his truck had been damaged by a hit-and-run driver. He said he parked the truck on the west side of Chambers St., and returned later to find the tail light broken off and the left rear fender scraped.

SUNDAY MUSICALE

The Salvation Army's Sunday afternoon musicale will feature Mrs. Dorothy Goldie as soloist, accompanied at the piano by Charles Allen. The Temple bands will be present, and chairman will be Mayor Max Swanston. Major Gyril Everitt says better seating accommodation has been provided for this month's concert, which starts at 3:15 p.m.

POLICE RADIO OFF

The Provincial Police radio equipment at district headquarters, Charlotte St., was back in operation at 11.09 a.m. today after a breakdown that lasted more than 13 hours. The dispatcher found at 9.50 p.m. Thursday that he could neither send or receive. Dispatches to the Peterborough cruisers were re-routed through Lindsay, Cobourg and Belleville. A quiet night was reported.

Lowest Tender Accepted In Sewage Disposal Job

By HARRY THEOBALD

The statement of Norman Graham, aldermanic candidate, at the municipal forum of the Study Group on Civic Affairs at the YWCA Tuesday night, was probably misdirected. Referring to the letting of the contract for the enlargement and completion of the sewage disposal plant, Mr. Graham said "there was a stink when those envelopes (the tenders) were opened."

This recollection is not intended to embarrass Mr. Graham, but the city council is a continuing representative body, and because of its position of trust to the people it is entitled to a recital of the facts, if they are necessary.

Tenders for the contract at the sewage disposal plant were submitted to Gore & Storrie, Toronto, specialists in that kind of work, consulting engineers, and also the advisers of the council from the first stage of the drafting of the plans.

Opened In Peterborough

The sealed tenders were brought to Peterborough by Mr. McLaren of Gore & Storrie and were opened at a meeting of the committee of the whole council. They were: George Hardy Construction Co., $483,662.20; A. E. Rule Ltd., Toronto, $524,508; and A. W. Robertson Co., Toronto, $551,768.

The committee decided to accept the lowest tender, and its recommendation was adopted in Sept., 1949, by the city council. Because this was a work of special constructional nature, the committee referred the tenders to Gore & Storrie for their examination of details, and also their recommendation that the Hardy Construction bid was acceptable.

In the letting of this contract the council was guided by Gore & Storrie, and in that preliminary phase there has been no note of criticism from any source, except by Mr. Graham who presumably was referring to a circumstance relating to the Park St. drain contract.

Members of city council have a high regard for the professional standing of Gore and Storrie, and it is recalled that when a question of increasing the financing of the disposal work was submitted to the Municipal Board that authorizing body said they had no hesitation in giving their approval to providing the funds when they were told that Gore and Storrie were the city's consulting engineers.

The fact is that Mr. Graham could not have been referring to the sewage disposal plant contract, as he stated at the meeting in the YWCA, at which municipal candidates were invited to speak.

Park St. Drain

It is also recalled in civic circles that the Park St. drain job was let to the lowest bidder, Curran and Briggs of Toronto, whose work here was rated highly satisfactory.

The tenders for that job were opened in the usual way by the committee of the whole with City Engineer Chalmers present. They were opened at 11 a.m., the Curran and Briggs' bid was accepted by the committee and recommended to the council, was adopted and the contract signed.

But, it did happen that a Toronto contracting company did submit an altered bid by telegram, but as it was received after the time set in advertisements for the receiving of tenders it was not considered. That was the end of it.

Established Policy

The action of the city council in this case followed the established policy of accepting the lowest tender.

The only criticism that has been aimed at the council this year was in connection with the letting of the contract for street paving. In the prevailing circumstances at that time, and because of the substantial difference between the lowest and the next tender, the council accepted the bid of the Bennett Construction Co.

Since then, citizens have said the job should have been let at the higher figure to Warren Paving Co.

As far as the council is concerned, in these representative actions on behalf of the citizens the course and principle was the same in each case.

These are facts affecting public confidence in the council which can be verified and were verified today at the city hall.

Two Cars And Truck In Three-Way Crash

Two cars and a truck were involved in an accident Thursday afternoon at Clonsilla and Charlotte Sts.

W. G. Rome, of Hilton, was driving east on Charlotte St., and stopped at Clonsilla. L. J. Delaire, 299 King St., driving a taxi, stopped behind him. Frank Spring, 167 Prince St., could not stop his car on the slushy road and struck the cab, driving it forward into the rear of the truck.

Damage to the truck was estimated at about $5, to the taxi $100, and to the Spring car $80.

Voters Reject Waterworks For Lakefield

Lakefield ratepayers Thursday decisively defeated the money by-law authorizing the borrowing of $352,000 for the construction of water works, sewers and sewage disposal systems.

The vote was 254 against, 195 for. Sixty-one per cent of the eligible voters went to the polls.

This ends, for a year at least, the installation of a waterworks system in the village. The project has been a controversial one since the council drew up the bylaw.

Here are the results by poll:

Poll No. 1 (south of the river and the business section)—145 against, 90 for.

Poll No. 2 (east side of Queen St. and the north end)—114 against, 105 for.

The bylaw was defeated by 64 votes.

Reeve William C. Grant, last week returned by acclamation for his sixth term, says he is "disappointed" at the result of the voting. He has been advocating a waterworks system for the last five years.

With the international situation critical Mr. Grant believes that materials are likely to go up in price and become scarcer. And the Lakefield ratepayers may have missed the opportunity to have a waterworks system, servicing the biggest part of the population, at an economical figure.

Approved $304,000 Bylaw

In 1946, Mr. Grant points out, the ratepayers approved a similar money bylaw for a waterworks system servicing the whole village. The figure then was $304,000.

Tenders were called for and it was found that the total cost of installation would amount to approximately $520,000. The Lakefield council decided to delay the project in the hope of a drop in price and more competitive bidding. But the drop in price didn't take place, he says, though the bidding did become more competitive.

The latest project envisaged a waterworks system servicing not the whole village but the bulk of the population. Mr. Grant feels ti would have been a healthy start in the right direction.

"I feel that the village can't stand still if it is ever to amount to anything," he says. And he makes it plain that on this issue he feels Lakefield is marking time, not going forward.

Will Use Fund To Assist Boy

The Bobby Clark Fund amounted to $1,058.23 as reported to the Examiner by its sponsors, the members of the Women's Institute at Warsaw.

The Women's Institute in its local and provincial establishments seeks to do things, and in this instance their good deed was in aid of the underprivileged boy who lost an arm at the shoulder by amputation as a result of falling from a tree.

"The committee has already supplied Bobby with plenty of winter clothing, and are providing a quart of milk a day for him, and winter fuel for the family."

Gifts through the Peterborough branch totalled $297.18. Donations reported by the Institute since then are: Hall's Glen Institute $5; Mr. and Mrs. C Payne, Warsaw, $4; Jim Cuff, Hall's Glen, $1; E. Butler, Hall's Glen, $1; a Peterborough Friend $2; and two items of 27c and 50c.

Some contributions were made directly to Bobby's mother. The Institute has no record of them Their intention,at present, is to hold the balance of the fund in trust to assist the boy in getting an education after leaving public school. Warsaw women are not closing the Fund. They will gladly receive and take charge of any contributions in behalf of Bobby Clark.

The Christmas time may inspire remembrance of Bobby Clark. It is an easy matter to mail a contribution to Mrs George Weller of Warsaw or any other member of the Institute.

Electric Power Circuits For City's Industries Expected Be Ready Monday

In the temporary repairing of the electric power circuits at the Utilities Commission substation on Aylmer St., work was advancing as rapidly as possible today. Harry Beatty, electrical superintendent, said he hoped to have the downtown area satisfactorily hooked-up tonight. Prospects were still promising industrial power for the factories that are idle until Monday. Several enquiries were received about Western Clock plant continuing in operation. They were passed on to Mr. Beatty who briefly explained that the Ashburnham circuit is on the transformers erected by the Commission on Clifton St. this year, and that Westclox are one of the Ashburnham customers.

Canada Packers and Silverwoods Dairy are operating on a priority rating because they are handling perishable goods. Quaker Oats and Canadian General Electric Co. have their own power dams, respectively at London St. and Auburn.

Power From Auburn

If anybody raises the question as to how the Examiner is obtaining power for its plant, the answer, as learned today from Mr. Beatty, was that he had the Auburn power tapped because the newspaper was a medium of community information, and in emergencies of power shortage, especially with all the grave news of the present international alarms, and should get a preference.

Substation Insured

Utilities Commission Thursday afternoon assured themselves from one of the clauses of their insurance policy that the damage to the substation and its switchboard is included in the coverage.

Extent of the damage was not yet determined, but R. L. Dobbin, manager, said that at least four or five of the panels of the switchboard would have to be replaced, and their cost is approximately $20,000 each. Some of the woodwork of the interior of the substation was charred, but otherwise the damage was mainly in the electric switching equipment.

Mr. Dobbin was grateful to the Hydro-Electric Commission for their prompt assistance.

"They had six men at Campbellford who are used to this kind of job, and they were immediately sent up here," Mr. Dobbin said. "They are an emergency crew, and they are a big help to Harry Beatty and his men."

Property loss might be somewhere around $75,000 to $100,000. The bright feature of the insurance policy was that a clause apparently applied to the circumstances of the Wednesday afternoon fire.

Yvonne Housser To Open Exhibit

Yvonne McKague Housser, nationally famous Canadian painter, will officially open an art exhibit of the Peterborough Group of Painters at the Public Library Saturday night.

Mrs. Housser is a member of the Ontario Society of Artists, the Canadian Group of Painters and an associate member of the Royal Canadian Academy of Art. Her work has been exhibited in United States, England, Canada and Rio de Janeiro.

This display of approximately 75 exhibits will represent the mediums of oils, water colors and pastels, and include landscapes, flowers, portraits and abstracts. It will be open to the public until December 16.

Wants It Over Silvester To Stand Trial

Harvey David Silvester, 32, of Peterborough, will stand trial next Tuesday on a charge of wilfully setting fire to the S.S. Kresge store here in August, 1948.

"I want to get it over as soon as possible," he said in police court today. Magistrate W. R. Philp remanded him in custody without plea or election.

Silvester walked into the Cobourg office of the provincial police in September this year and confessed to setting the fire. When he appeared first in police court here, he was charged with being mentally ill and remanded for examination.

Today, Silvester returned from Kingston, where he had been examined by doctors nad released. The charge of mental illness was dismissed.

The Kresge fire caused about $200,000 damage as it gutted the store at Simcoe and George Sts. the night of August 17, 1948.

Shorthorns Imported From Scotland For Louada Manor Farms Herd — Peterborough Federation Dinner Tuesday, Dec. 5 Opens Winter Series — Two More Farm Forums Organized — Junior Leaders Drilled In Effective Conduct of Meetings.

Louis Cadesky of Louada Manor Farms, Harvey township, has imported ten head of Shorthorn cattle what have been in quarantine at Quebec for nearly two weeks pending their delivery to the herd on the Pigeon Lake estate.

It was reported some weeks ago in an interview with Ken Hunt, manager of Louada Manor Farms, that he had visited more than twenty Shorthorn breeders in Scotland on a selective mission, returning with recommendations to his employer.

Subsequent purchases were made through agents. Mr. Hunt informed the Examiner that these imported heifers are from well known breeders in Scotland such as the Cruggleton, Calrossie, Millhills, Westdrums, Creiffecter, Cluny Castle and Broadlanknowes herds.

Mr. Cadesky paid the top export price of £1,785 at the Calrossie sale for a daughter of Millhills Champion and out of Calrossie Broadhooks Betty by Calrossie Randolph. She is a sister to Calrossie Masterpiece which sold at Perth in 1938 for 2,000 guineas to Turanville Estates, New South Wales, Australia.

Calrossie Augusta Aileen, another daughter of Millhills Champion out of a Kirkton Baronet dam also comes to Louada Manor at £1,575.

In addition to the imported Shorthorns, Mr. Cadesky has also bought well known champions such as Edralaw Broadhooks 10th from P. F. Law, Weston, Ont., and the grand champion female at the CNE from Reford Gardhouse.

Obviously this infusion of top quality Shorthorns into Peterborough county should go a long way in developing here one of the leading herds in this country.

Delivery of the imports is expected at Louada Manor Farms about December 15.

HEREFORD TO MEXICO

Allan Linton of Northumberland county exhibited at the Royal the first Hereford bull sold at the Fair for shipment to Mexico. Domino Heir 20-D drew an eighth prize. A second animal from the Linton herd, Ron-Al-Del's Fancy was sold after winning fifth prize in the market class.

PENSIONS DISCUSSION

Farm Radio Forum turns to the question of old age pensions Monday Dec. 4, and, addressed primarily to a rural audience, it is asking "where do farmers stand?"

The Guide recalls at the 1950 CFA conference at Niagara Falls a resolution proposing that the means test be abolished in determining pensions, and that the age be lowered to 65 years was tabled for a year by the board of directors.

This procedure seemed to indicate that the Federation of Agriculture was not ready at present to take a stand on pensions.

Proving need of a pension is called the "means test." The Old Age Pensions Act provided that the maximum income allowed, including pension, is $600 for a single person. That is, a single person is allowed only $120.00 private income in addition to the $480 maximum from an old age pension. Applicants are examined as to whether they have income from property, cash in the bank, other sources of income or is getting free board and lodging.

A joint committee of parliament recommended last June a universal pension of $40 a month without a means test for every person of 70 years and over, pensions to be financed on a contributory basis.

It was also proposed that for persons between 65 and 70 the rate should be $40 a month, subject to a means test. Sources of financing such pensions could be a combination of contributions by the individual through the income tax; contributions by employers by a tax on payrolls as is now done in employment insurance and contributions by the fedral government from general revenue as is now done for old age pensions.

BACON EXPORTS SHRUNK

L. W. Pearsall, chairman of the government's meat board, Ottawa, said yesterday he doubted whether Canada would ship more than 35,000,000 pounds of bacon to Britain this year. The contract calls for 60,000,000 pounds.

✦ ✦ ✦

TOPS AT CHICAGO

Reford Gardhouse, of Weston, drew top prices at a sale of Shorthorns at the International Livestock Exposition in Chicago Wednesday. He sold for $4,000 a bull, "Abferldy Model" to Hi Ho Farms of Phoenix, Md., and a yearling heifer for $3,050 to Ashburn Farms of Prospect, Kentucky.

✦ ✦ ✦

CATTLE STOLEN

Two of the best Holstein heifers in his herd were recently stolen from the barn of Fred Denyes, prominent farmer of Brighton township. He valued them at $600. Rustlers were also reported in the Codrington district where William Ames and Dr. Andrews each lost a cow. Mr. Denyes is widely known as a judge of draft cattle at district fairs.

✦ ✦ ✦

SUGGESTS NEW BLOOD

M. C. McPhail, principal of Kemptville Agricultural School, recommended introduction of new blood in Eastern Ontario Holstein herds, in his talk at the recent Holstein Club dinner at Finch. As an impression gained on a visit to breeders in Pennsylvania, he said that the men who provide Ontario with a lively market are looking for milch cows of high productive capacity and tests.

✦ ✦ ✦

HAVE SWIMMING BEACH

Members of Killarney Bay and Pleasant Valley farm forums in Victoria county jointed forces last summer, and built as a joint project a bath house at their recreation place on Cameron Lake. It provided ample and suitable accommodation for changing into swimming suits. These Victoria farm groups have their own beach and nearby baseball field "with all the trimmings."

✦ ✦ ✦

COUNTY FORUMS MEET

More than 250 members of 37 farm forums in Middlesex held their annual county rally this week. They appointed five members of a nine-man committee which guides the forum activities in Middlesex. The four others are nominated by the county Federation of Agriculture.

George Stirling, secretary-treasurer, said that "farm forum people have made it possible for a strong organization to represent and lead farm people in Canada."

Cecil Bilyea, fieldman for the Ontario Federation of Agriculture quoted from Lecomte De Nouy's book "Human Destiny" that the evolution of man's physical capabilities had gone as far as possible. Man must now develop on a mental and moral plane. The farm forum provided a means and opportunity to that end by its program of adult education.

✦ ✦ ✦

WHOLE MILK ANNUAL

Peterborough's Whole Milk Producers re-elected once more Eddie Butler as president and Vivian J. Milburn as secretary-treasurer, and Harry Jackson as vice-president at their annual meeting last week. Nominated as delegates to the provincial convention were: Norman Moncrief, C. Lillico, H. Jackson, E. Butler, W. Sutton and Stanley McCall.

Members appeared to be fairly well satisfied with the new price of $4.12½ per cwt., but they are watching that Chatham insurgence where producers have refused $4.20 in their effort to get a price which they demand as more in line with profitable return.

✦ ✦ ✦

CROP IMPROVEMENT MEETING

The annual meeting of Peterborough Crop Improvement Association will be Thursday, Dec. 7 in the office of the Ontario Department of Agriculture. It is the local branch of the Ontario Association, one of the outstanding organizations in the province engaged in directing farm thinking and practice toward helpful and efficient use and management of farm lands.

Attendance these last few years has not been as large in Peterborough as it should be, when compared with the high standing of the Ontario Crop Improvement Association. The meeting next Thursday should attract more of the membership and also of other farmers who are interested in crop projects.

✦ ✦ ✦

FEDERATION DINNER

Federation luncheon Tuesday at 12:15 p.m. is the first of the monthly series during the winter. Dr. E. A. Corbett, head of the Canadian Association of Adult Education, will be the speaker. Members of the Federation and others are invited. It is expected that reference will be made to Farm Radio Forums as an important agency of adult education.

These dinners are planned as a means of promoting the local Federation and the work it is doing for the rural community, and deserve active support. There are only a few of them during the winter.

✦ ✦ ✦

COLOR IN CHEESE AND SUITS

Hon. James Gardiner suggested to Eastern Ontario Cheesemakers Wednesday that they establish a marketing co-operative to assist in selling their cheese at a satisfactory price. He also urged the industry to sponsor an intensive educational campaign to induce Canadians to eat more white cheese, the color preferred by the British public.

I the United Kingdom the per capita consumption is 16 pounds as compared with four pounds in Canada.

Many a sensible man, long accustomed to colored, balked at white cheese in its wartime production although they knew there was no difference in quality.

Some of the finest Ontario cheese on the market today is white, but adults are still inclined from habit to prefer the colored product. Someone said not long ago that the good Greening apple is losing its old place on the market in competition with the highly colored McIntosh Red.

The Canadian farmer lives in atmosphere richly colored nine months of the year. He is surrounded by a kaleidoscope of emerald green crops sprouting from the dark brown earth, pink dawns, red sunsets, golden grain, and the multicolored tapestry of his autumn woods. But, in his raiment he avoids color as studiously as his banker friend.

Hugh MacLennan, Canadian author, writing in the October issue of C-1-L Oval, quoted an American reference to Canada as "that good, grey country," and explained that to be grey in Canada was synonymous with being safe. Until recently, Canadians did not feel safe in the company of those disposed to the brighter patterns of tweeds and worsteds. Some of the juniors are finding release from the staid blues, browns and greys.

Anyway, the cheese industry has a color problem that is not quite so reinforced by custom as it was ten years ago. Whether white or colored, they are turning out a product that deserves to be on every table in the land until annual consumption is up around 16 to 20 lbs. by each Canadian.

✦ ✦ ✦

TWO MORE FORUMS

Harold Lewis reports two new Farm Forums. George Shoneker is president of the Daisy D group in the neighborhood of the cheese factory just west of Norwood. He is a graduate of OAC and has been living in that section for a little more than a year.

Ron Frankish is chairman of the group that has been organized in the Pine Grove cheese factory area north and east of Lakefield. Miss Shirley Graham is secretary.

✦ ✦ ✦

RURAL LACK OF NURSES

On the Farm Forum question "What's Happened to the Country Doctor?" the members of Donegal group near Norwood agreed Monday night that they are fortunate in having a qualified doctor resident in Norwood, but they lack nurses and a resident dentist.

Peterborough with its two big hospitals and its clinics and city attractions was bound to entice doctors. It was felt that a small hospital for minor cases would be adequate for Norwood.

The meeting was held at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Arnold Stevenson. Lunch conveners were Mrs. Raymond Begg, Mrs. John Hyslop and Mrs. Roy Leeper.

Services of doctors and nurses are definitely inadequate in the Westwood section of the county, but there are ample facilities 18 miles away, as reported by Mrs. W. W. Graham. As to factors discouraging to a doctor in the rural section: "Everyone goes to the city to consult specialists, etc., and a local country doctor would be left with night and emergency calls."

✦ ✦ ✦

CONDUCTING MEETINGS

District junior club leaders attended a day's special training at Lindsay Tuesday. One of the topics was "How to Conduct a Meeting." Stress was placed on preparation by those responsible for any meeting, chairman and committee, for example. They should be first to arrive, according to this ideal. Meetings should begin on time with a program that has been drafted beforehand.

Promptness was emphasized, and the chairman should be so versed in the purpose of a meeting, and in his duty of conducting it, that discussion is kept on the subject. That avoids discursiveness and waste of time, and especially any tendency in useless drift of thinking and speaking.

There should be ample scope of expression, but the meeting should be "kept in hand," or as they say it should be held "ad rem."

This phase of junior training, it was said, is valuable experience for any future situation, including municipal, club and association affairs as juniors develop into rural seniors. Knowledge of resolutions and amendments and other meeting details were explained.

Those holding the position of treasurer were advised to learn and know what was required of them. It was even suggested that their banker might be glad to advise them in keeping accurate accounts.

Incidentally, the young people of the district were told that they should make proper use of banks, particularly in this respect of guidance, and feel that there were advantages to be gained from acquaintance with the friendly, helpful banker.

Press secretaries should regard themselves as valuable aids to groups and their meetings in getting publicity for the affairs that are undertaken. That officer of an association, it was said, was an important link with the public.

Peterborough leaders were represented by John Edmison, Keith McIntyre, Don Milburn, Reg. Ferguson, John Stewart and Robert Bell, assistant agricultural representative.

Among those assisting in the day's program were D. R. Hilliard, provincial secretary of Ontario Junior Farmers, and assistant director of extension with the Department of Agriculture, and Miss Helen McKercher, director of home economics.

✦ ✦ ✦

$85,000,000 EGG LOSS

United States government is abandoning its egg price support program on Jan. 1 next, as announced last week from the Department of Agriculture.

Charles F. Brannan, secretary of agriculture, said he had no other alternative in the absence of any effective method of supporting egg prices. Farmers had failed to trim production to a point that would keep government egg purchases within reasonable bounds, despite a cut of 10 cents a dozen in the support level this year.

Eggs now held by the government cost more than $100,000,000, and the government stood to lose more than $85,000,000 on its current egg surplus stocks, in addition to $60,000,000 it lost on earlier egg support.

From Mr. Brannan's figures it appeared that the stock of eggs would bring no more than $15,000,000.

LIVING TESTIMONY to the results that may be obtained by a dairyman through the use of the high class sires available by artificial breeding clubs is this Holstein heifer who has established a world record for milk production in the herd of Cecil Atkinson and Son, Schomberg, Ont. Named Orchard Vale Laura Texal, she made her championship record in the junior two-year-old class of the 365 day division by producing on twice-a-day milking 22,005 lbs. milk containing 778 lbs. fat (3.54%). Her sire, Lonelm Texal Ideal, was in artificial use by the Maple Cattle Breeders' Association, Maple, Ont. "Laura" was on display at a special barn meeting Nov. 28 at the farm of her owners. This was followed by a meeting in honor of the Atkinsons at Nobleton community hall, at which an engraved tray was presented on behalf of the Maple unit by Agricultural Representative W. M. Cockburn and Wilfred Keffer, first president of the unit and now manager. W. P. Watson, Ontario Livestock Commissioner, congratulated the Atkinsons on their achievement and also the officers of the Maple unit on this tangible evidence of the results being achieved in increasing production. He drew attention to figures compiled from the herd test program of the Ontario Department of Agriculture. These indicated that the major cost factor in producing milk was feed, and that the breeder who raised most of his own feed was the man who made the most profit.

Canadian Bill

OTTAWA, Dec. 1 (CP).—External Affairs Minister Pearson said yesterday he has no idea what the Commonwealth's co-operative plan for development of India, Pakistan and other parts of south and southeast Asia is going to cost Canada. Seven nations backing it are proposing to spent $5,200,000,000 during six years of which $2,200,000,000 will be put up by recipient countries.

15 Hurt In Crash

Eleven of the injured were treated at hospital and were released shortly afterwards. One of the motor-driven vehicles was reported to have speeded through an intersection against a red light.

Underestimation Of Chinese Caused Reverses

By HAL BOYLE.

WITH AMERICAN TROOPS IN KOREA, Dec. 1 —(AP)— Behind the crushing defeat of the American Eighth Army in northwest Korea are two great questions.

And some high-ranking officers believe the answers, when they come, will rattle a few skeletons in the American military establishment and perhaps force a revision in the American technique of waging ground warfare.

Big Questions

The questions they raise—and the fighting troops raise them too—are these:

1. Why, before launching its disastrous "end the war" offensive didn't the American high command know the enemy had massed such a force against it that victory was impossible?

2. Why was the enemy able unerringly able to pick the weak spots in the United Nations line while the allied attackers were unable even to locate with certainty the general areas where the Reds had concentrated their strength?

A number of officers gave this as a general answer to both questions:

"Our intelligence was faulty and we again made the mistake of under-rating what a well-trained Oriental foot army can do." The same classic error was made early in July when American troops first ran up against the invading North Korean army One officer said afterwards:

"We honestly believed that all we had to do was stand up and show out American uniform and the gooks would turn and go back across the 38th parallel."

On Foot

The Americans under-estimated the ability of the North Koreans then to compete successfully with a machine-conscious American force. They doubted the North Korean's ability to keep a war going long when they had to pack their supplies on human backs and move troop concentrations by foot at night. But they did it.

Why then did the Americans underestimate the ability of the even-more-veteran Chinese army to do the same things, and why didn't they discover the real number of the Chinese Reds in time to call off the ill-fated offensive?

The evidence is that front-line commanders, were more uneasy about the possible success of the allied drive to reach the Manchurian border, than was the general headquarters staff in Tokyo.

Firm Delays Launching Of Biggest Freighter

PORT COLBORNE, Dec. 1 —(CP)—A 654-foot freighter to be named Scott Misener will be the largest Canadian vessel on the Great Lakes when it is launched next March.

Capt. Misener also announced that the keel of a sister ship will be laid in January.

LOUIS JOHN SPARROW

Louis John Sparrow, head of the apprentice training system at the CGE in Peterborough, is seeking election for the first time to the Board of Education.

Mr. Sparrow's interest in education has increased through his seven years of working with boys and their parents and culminated this year in his election as chairman to the Ontario Industrial Education Council.

This council was organized at the spring meeting of the Ontario Education Association, and Mr. Sparrow is the council's first chairman.

Mr. Sparrow was born and educated in England, and served his engineering apprenticeship there after attending technical school. He worked as a designer with an electrical engineering firm until he was 23, when he left England for Canada.

He came to Peterborough CGE and worked under Dr. G. R. Langley as a switchgear designer for several years, and in 1943 transferred from the engineering department to the personnel department to reorganize the apprentice training system.

Eighteen years ago, he married a Peterborough girl, and today they have three children, two in public school and one at PCVS.

ADAM SANDS

"A city manager is the answer to a lot of the problems Peterborough has today," says Adam Sands, seeking re-election as alderman in the present election "We need more efficient administration and that can only be accomplished by that kind of administrator."

Two other planks in Mr. Sands' platform are low cost housing for pensioners and an industrial commissioner for the city to bring new industries here.

Mr. Sands is tied with Mayor Max J. Swanston for length of service on city council, both of them having served ten years.

His years on the council have given Mr. Sands a solid background of experience to draw on should he be re-elected.

During these years, Mr. Sands has been chairman of the board of works, the legal and reception committees and the special hospital committee. He is well known as a genial civic receptionist.

Formerly with the CGE in Peterborough, Mr. Sands went into the real estate business some years ago and at present is a partner in the firm of Sands and Bateman.

Mr. Sands was born in Scotland and educated at South Central and Central public schools and the Collegiate in Peterborough.

"I feel the time has come when labor should make its voice heard in public affairs," says Orville Martin, president of Local 599, IUE-CIO (CGE officeworkers). Mr. Martin is one of two labor candidates endorsed by the Peterborough and District Labor Council (CCL).

"It is a well known fact that when the industrial worker—or office worker—is getting a good wage the whole community benefits because more money is in circulation. Organized labor has done much to raise the standard of living in this city and the time has now come when it should make its voice heard in the community."

Mr. Martin denies that organized labor is seeking to dominate the council.

"I feel that labor representation on the council would not dominate the council; instead, it would stimulate it by bringing in new blood and a new point of view. That would benefit the whole community, not any particular group."

Mr. Martin was born and bred in Peterborough of third-generation Old Country stock. He was employed for 15 years as a customs clerk at the Western Clock Co., and for the last eight years he has been a production clerk at CGE.

He is now president of the newly-certified office workers' union, Local 599.

He advocates that the empty city buildings be converted into a low-rental project, subsidized by the provincial and federal governments. It would be an ideal place to accommodate old-age pensioners, veterans and disabled persons, he feels.

At present assessments are too far out of line, he believes. Some are too high and others too low If elected he intends to work toward "stabilizing" the assessments.

"As a representative of organized labor I believe I can make a worthwhile contribution to the municipality," said Mr. Martin. "I feel honored that the Peterborough and District Labor Council has nominated me for alderman."

"In a country such as Canada, a young country, it is the duty of its young men to take their place in the administrative business of civic affairs," said Grenville B. Lathangue, seeking election as alderman on the city council. Mr. Lathangue is a resident of Ashburnham.

Actively interested in civic affairs for several years Mr. Lathangue has been chairman of the Junior Chamber of Commerce civic affairs committee.

An employee of the Western Clock Company, Mr. Lathangue is vice-chairman of the social and athletic association. He is a member of the Boy Scouts group committee of Mark St. United Church.

Mr. Lathangue has a family of two boys who are attending Peterborough schools. Interested in industrial safety, Mr. Lathangue held the office of secretary, metal-machine group, Accident Prevention Association for Peterborough.

During his service with the Junior Chamber of Commerce Mr. Lathangue has held the office of director for two years, civic affairs chairman, and at present is vice-president.

NORMAN GRAHAM

Norman Graham is making his second bid for the office of alderman in the forthcoming municipal election. Mr. Graham was born and received his early education in Peterborough. At the age of 16 he enlisted in the First World War and spent three years and eight months overseas with the Queen's Medical Corps.

Mr. Graham was connected briefly with Peterborough Floral Co., and was for a time assistant manager of the Monarch Lumber Co., Tisdale, Saskatchewan. In 1924 he returned to Peterborough and worked with his father, the late James Graham, in the building contracting business. At Present he is operating the Graham Flooring Business.

A member of the Chamber of Commerce, Mr. Graham is also active in a club interested in beneficial social work.

"I want more industry and a reduction of taxes in Peterborough," Stated Mr. Graham in an interview. "I am also not satisfied with the present council's manner of spending the taxpayers' money, which I feel in a good many cases has been wasted."

PERCY J. HARRISON

A well-known figure throughout the city, Percy James Harrison, northend restaurant operator, is making his first bid for an aldermanic position on the city council.

As a businessman who meets tourists, travellers and the citizens of Peterborough Mr. Harrison feels that if he is elected to the council some action will be taken on the various civic complaints he hears throughout the year. Visitors, he said, criticize Peterborough and little action has been taken upon their suggestions for the betterment of the city.

Mr. Harrison (Perc to all his friends) was born in England 51 years ago and came to Peterborough when he was seven. When 14 years old he served as news agent for the 93rd Battalion in the First World War.

His interest in Peterborough's sports along with his 30 years as a northend grocer and refreshment stand owner has acquainted him with the citizens throughout the city. He has taken an active part in the organization of baseball, softball, hockey, basketball, track and field in the city. Mr. Harrison also served on the committee which helped to construct the Civic Arena. He is a strong supporter of the construction of the Memorial Centre.

ALFRED BARBER

"Organized labor has grown by leaps and bounds during the past seven or eight years and I feel it should assume its full share of responsibility in the community. That is why I am running as a labor candidate."

That is the reason for his candidacy in the coming city elections as stated by Alfred Barber, 39, president of the Peterborough and District Labor Council (CCL), and president of Local 210, United Packinghouse Workers of America (CCL).

Mr. Barber is one of two candidates supported by the Peterborough and District Labor Council. The other is Orville Martin, president of Local 599, International Union of Electrical, Radio and Machine Workers (CCL).

"We are the only ones who really know how much the workingclass taxpayer can afford for taxes and improvements on his home out of his pay envelope . . I am especially interested in the new sections of the city where the taxpayer is paying for light, water, sewers, and police and fire protection, but is not getting these services."

Mr. Barber was born in Belfast, Ireland, received his early education in Reading, England, Quebec and Cochrane. He has been a construction worker in northern Ontario, an employee of the Abitibi Electric Power Co., and a miner.

For the last 14 years he has been a resident of Peterborough and is employed as a maintenance mechanic at Canada Packers. He has been elected president of his local six times—four times in succession during the last four years.

He is also a member of the Peterborough Gladioli Society.

"If elected I will try to see that the people of the south end get a sub firehall and police station", said Mr. Barber. He also declared himself in favor of the proposed new collegiate.

However, he added, these municipal buildings should be constructed at the estimated cost submitted by the contractor. "We should not have the city council coming back and asking for more money to fisnish them as was the case with the Civic hospital.

MARY MOORE SAYS:

Custard Pie Can Cause All Kinds of Controversy

It is said that if you are at a place where conversation is lagging when there are guests for dinner, one can always get things rolling by starting a discussion on "What I like for breakfast." Everyone gets animated at once.

I can add my advice for getting a conversation out of control: get going on the controversial subject of "my mother's mince pies," "my mother's pumpkin pies' or "my mothers custard pies."

Any experienced hostess knows it is better not to serve any of the three kinds of pie mentioned to guests, since there are as many individual tastes for these nice pies as there are mothers who made them. Every family has its own idea of what a really good mince, pumpkin or custard pie should be. I will go further, and say there are as many tastes for the old-fashioned pies as there are individual palates to enjoy same.

At this writing we are trying to arrive at a "Custard Pie in Layers" for a Canadian gentleman, whose wife has tried to bring off this "layering" many times and failed.

He brought this grave matter to my attention some time ago and I knew at once that one of my greatest problems was to produce a custard pie in layers that would come up to the gentleman's expectancy, but to produce a custard pie in layers that would appeal to his adult, more squeamish and sophisticated appetite. His mother had only to appeal to the fresh non-critical appetite of a hungry boy.

Here is a bill to fill, wives of husbands, who had mothers who had cooking know-how.

I know for one thing that we would have to put some new ingredients in that pie that his wife had never thought of and perhaps some unorthodox flavouring. I was discussing the possibilities of what these might be with an old friend and she said "I bet his mother was of Dutch origin and made potato custard pie."

"Potatoes!" They were an unheard of ingredient. This same friend who had a Pennsylvania-Dutch grandmother produced an old recipe from which I started operations in my kitchen. There was plenty of trouble ahead for the recipe produced a substantial pie, but it did not come to our modern standards of a beautiful custard pie with the fluffy custard that was going to have eye—as well as taste—appeal.

The unorthodox flavour, we decided, must be lemon, fresh lemon, since the less piquant vanilla is the rule for the run-of-the-mill custard pie.

So here is our version of a

Custard Pie In Layers

that may not be an exact duplicate that our Canadian gentleman's mother brought fresh from her oven, but better according to present day standards.

Three-quarters cup freshly mashed or riced potato, 2 tablespoons butter, 1 cup sugar, 3 egg whites, 5 tablespoons lemon juice and grated rind 1 lemon, ⅛ teaspoon salt, 1½ cups milk.

Boil and mash or rice the potato. While it is hot add the butter and sugar to it. Then add lemon juice and rind, milk and salt. When cool add beaten yolks and then fold in beaten whites. Pour into 9-inch pie pan lined with crust with high fluted edges and bake at 400 deg. Fahr. for 25 minutes and turn to 325 deg. Fahr. and bake until custard is set.

It is in layers and we will wager it will perk up any jaded appetite. Now, you custard pie makers have I started a controversy?

SomePersecutions Of Missionaries Related to Circle

Miss M. Bowers, president of St. James' WMS Auxiliary, entertained members of Jean Wagar Mission Circle for their November meeting, at her home on Walkerfield Ave. An unusually interesting and inspiring program was enjoyed by a large number of girls and visitors.

President Gladys Langton opened with worship service based on the theme "The Spirit of the Cross," with Miss Bowers, Mrs. R. Booth and Miss C. Wagar assisting with scripture reading and prayers.

"Racial Tolerance" was the topic for the stewardship story ably told by Mrs. Booth, bringing a timely message to the Circle.

An innovation in mission study was introduced in a playlet, depicting "old and new ways in Japan" and ably presented by Miss Jean Hammond and Mrs. Grace Samson. Excellent acting and pretty costuming made this effective. The study period was introduced and closed by Miss Wagar.

"In a moving and stimulating address, Miss Grace Woodcock, missionary on furlough from Bolivia, brought a vivid picture of some persecutions met by those who serve there. With much first-hand information and intimate details of a missionary's life and work, she pointed out the ultimate triumph of the gospel message.

During the business session it was decided to hold the Christmas meeting on December 11. A letter from Miss Zetta Wood, a former member, expressed her gratitude for a parting gift from the Circle. A note of thanks for flowers was received from the family of the late Mr. May.

The record of books read was taken by the literature secretary Miss Shirley Potts and a fine display of books from the presbyterial library was on loan. Miss Jean Hammond aroused much interest with her fine book review of "Christ For All Japan."

The meeting closed with a happy social time when delicious refreshments were served by the hostess, assisted by Mrs. M. Hunter.

All Food Values Remain When Skim Milk Powdered

By KAY REX

OTTAWA, Dec. 1 — (CP) — The powdered skimmed milk now appearing on grocers' shelves is a good buy both from the nutritional and the economic point of view.

A Health Department official says that skimmed milk contains all the food value of whole milk and adds that the new powdered form is an excellent way for housewives to save money.

A package which contains enough powder for approximately four quarts of milk sells for about 30 cents a package, no small saving when milk now is selling about 20 cents a quart.

The health expert doesn't recommend the powdered milk for drinking—"unless you let it stand for a while."

However, he says that when it comes to baking cakes and making such things as cream sauces, it's ideal. It's also good on cereals. In fact he uses it himself to make the oatmeal porridge in the morning for his children.

✧ ✧ ✧

Children's Eyesight

A few tips to mothers about their children's eyesight is contained in a booklet recently issued by the Health Department's information division.

It recommends an eye examination for every child as soon as the youngster is old enough to walk and certainly before he starts school.

Signs of eye trouble: Squinting or blinking, marginal redness on the eyelids, clumsiness while playing.

All cross eyes can be straightened either by glasses or other medical means, or by operation. Cross eyes which develop between two and four years of age not only can be straightened but in most cases normal vision can be restored if the treatment is begun soon enough.

✧ ✧ ✧

Encourage Shy Ones

Another new Health Department bulletin deals with shyness in children. It urges that the shy child be made to feel more capable, adequate and important.

Parents should avoid limiting his experiences. They should let him help feed, wash and dress himself long before he is able to do the task faultlessly.

They should avoid keeping him tied to the family apron-strings, keeping such close check on him that he can't learn anything for himself.

They shouldn't expect too much from him in the way of manners, habits or cleanliness, nor should they laugh at his awkward attempts to learn new things.

Wedding Dolls Canadian Gift For Princess

BRANTFORD Ont. — (CP) — Authentically-costume figurines representing the principals in the Royal Wedding of Princess Elizabeth and the Duke of Edinburgh have been sent to their daughter, 3½-month-old Princess Anne.

Mrs. Nina M. Webb of Paris, Ont., made the nine-inch dolls—the bride and groom, bridesmaid Princess Margaret and the two pages, Prince William of Gloucester and Prince Michael of Kent.

Mrs. Webb had intended to send the dolls to Princess Elizabeth two years ago after exhibiting them at the Canadian National Exhibition. But she held them back in order to get a first-hand look at the wedding gown, which was scheduled to be exhibited in Canada, in order to perfect the gown of her doll-princess.

The other costumes were designed from Mrs. Webb's huge collection of Royal Wedding photographs.

"I decided to wait until their first child was born, hoping all the time it would be a girl," she said. When Prince Charles was born, she waited for the birth of a girl before sending the dolls as a Christmas present.

Brilliant Gowns

The doll-princess is dressed in a white satin gown with a long train containing 114 stars. Satin stars and brilliants adorn the net gown of Princess Margaret and the doll-groom wears blue naval uniform. The pages, holding the train, wear kilts and white silk blouses.

Mrs. Webb, who started her doll-making hobby during the depression years when she was unable to buy Christmas presents for her children, has also made a series of 10 figurines which she called "one hundred years of Royal Weddings."

Included in the series are the Duke and Duchess of Edinburgh, King George VI and Queen Elizabeth, King George V and Queen Mary, King Edward VII and Queen Alexandra and Queen Victoria and Prince Albert.

Women Urged Buy Vegetables

Prices of staple vegetables are getting dangerously low and the women of Ontario have been warned to do something about it.

At a meeting of the provincial branch of the Canadian Association of Consumers, it was stated that large surplus of potatoes and onions has flooded the market and lowerd eprices, creating a critical situation for producers.

CAC members throughout the province are being asked to buy more of these vegetables and thus help the farmer stay in business.

Mrs. Clifton Graban, of Ottawa, was elected president to succeed Mrs. A. H. Seguin, of Toronto. Mrs. Eugene Montgomery and Mrs. W. P. M. Kennedy, Toronto, were named new vice presidents, and Mrs. F. D. Moffatt, Hamilton, was added to the membership committee.

Single Service Suggested Deplores Disband

Formation of a single women's service for the armed forces, units to be attached wherever needed, is a suggestion put forward by Mrs. Phyllis Williams Arnoldi. Mrs. Arnoldi, during the Second World War was commandant of the Red Cross Transport Corps, served in the ATS in England and was commandant of the CWAC depot at Trinity Barracks.

The single service, as she pictures it, would be uniformed alike in a distinctive color, possibly dark green, and all ranks would wear arm flashes denoting to which branch of the armed forces they were attached.

Speaking yesterday as one who had seen the idea of women in uniform grow, surmounting difficulties and opposition, Mrs. Arnoldi deplored the fact that Canada had taken a different course than Great Britain and the United States in disbanding all services after the war.

Many officers in the women's branches at the close of the war had urged that a nucleus be retained and an emergency plan of expansion drawn up, she said.

While there is much on paper now that would facilitate organization, nothing can make up for the gap of trained women leaders.

She points out that, were the services reformed now, many on the reserve list of officers would not be free to rejoin and have had no opportunity to pass on their training and experience. This shortage of officer material led, in part, to Mrs. Arnoldi's putting forward the idea of a single service.

Multi-Yolked Eggs Greet Cake Maker

UNITY, Sask. —(CP)— Mrs. Bruce May of Unity says she can prove that one and one make five.

She started to make a cake that called for five eggs. She broke one egg, and got two yokes. She broke a second egg—and this time found it had three yokes.

She decided to defer baking the cake, and instead scrambled the eggs.

Lucile Watson In Films, Plays 50 Years, Quits

By FRED KERNER

NEW YORK, Dec. 1 —(CP)— After 50 years of constant success in the theatre, Lucile Watson feels the time has come for her to retire from the stage.

This gay-hearted trouper, still eager and hard-working at 71—she looks many years younger—currently is romping through her 200th play. The Quebec-born actress is starred in "Ring Round the Moon," which Christopher Fry translated from Jean Anouilh's "L'Invitation au Chateau."

As usual Miss Watson was acclaimed by the critics for her work in the play—the 50th in which she has appeared on Broadway. Getting good notices has become a habit with her ever since she made her debut here at the turn of the century Her performances have been so consistently excellent that she once was termed " a boom to bad authors."

About Enough

But a half-century of acting—"I don't know where my friends get the idea it isn't had work," she laughs—is just about enough. As soon as this play ends its run she plans to head for Ottawa, the city in which she was brought up and educated, to "relax for a while—except, of course, to make at least one motion picture a year."

Miss Watson, who has acted in countless movies since she first went to Hollywood in 1934, has never been able to figure out why anyone ever wanted her in pictures. Nonetheless the tall, sprightly actress has been in great demand in the film capital and made 20 pictures in the last seven years, three of which have just been released — "Let's Dance" with Fred Astaire, "Carriage Entrance" with Ava Gardner, and "Harriet Craig" with Joan Crawford.

Now she looks forward to settling down in Ottawa, more or less permanently.

"A shilling for your thoughts, dear!"

Girl Makes Fine Christmas Cards

LONDON —(CP)— An interesting young artist who has become prominent as a designer of Christmas cards is 19-year-old Anna John, grand-daughter of the famous painter Augustus John. She has been a student at the St. Martin's School of Art here for the past two years.

Anna specializes in painting animals in an imaginative way, and she created two greeting cards of this description for the Gordon Fraser galleries. One with a red background shows a lively colt surrounded by a group of stars. The other shows two plump white cats on a roof-top.

Miss John has been commissioned to illustrate a new book to be published shortly.

Work Only Cure for Widow Needs Something To Do

DEAR MISS DIX: Until I was 27 I lived at home with my mother who is a widow. When I got married Mother went to live with a widowed sisted. Several days a week, whenever I get a few hours to spare, I rush over and take Mother for a ride, or, if I am going on some business, I take her along for the drive. Whenever possible, I take her to a show or shopping and she comes to us one night a week for dinner and often on Sundays.

Dorothy Dix

She enjoys herself when I am with her or take my little girl out for walks, but if I fail to see her for a day or two she starts crying and gets sullen and when she can often won't speak to me. She has been a good mother to me, I love her dearly and it grieves me to think of her being unhappy. Please tell me what to do.

BEWILDERED SON

✧ ✧ ✧

ANSWER: Get your mother a job. What she needs is work, something to do that will take up her time, give her new interests and make her feel that she is of some use in the world. You see, all of her life she has been busy. She has been rushed with work keeping house and rearing a family. She has felt herself important because she was necessary to the comfort and well-being of her husband and children. She didn't have time to think about herself. Her days were full and she was happy.

Life Empty Now

Now all of that is changed. Her husband is dead. Her children married and gone from her. She has no longer even a house to sweep and keep clean and putter around in. She has nothing to do but kill time, and she doesn't know how to do that enjoyably.

Idleness is the curse of women. It makes them neurotic. It makes them unreasonable and peevish and fretful and complaining. You can't take the work out of the hands of a woman who has been busy for thirty or forty years and have her be contented. She doesn't know what to do with leisure. All she can do is to brood over her troubles and think unwholesome thoughts.

The only remedy for what ails her is to get her a job. Get her something to do, no matter how little it pays. She needs the work for work's sake. She needs to feel herself useful again and independent and to have something more cheerful to do than just to sit around waiting for the undertaker to come.

✧ ✧ ✧

DEAR DOROTHY DIX: I know a girl who is ordinarily very demure and retiring when in her usual home environment, but when a boy comes around she assumes a lot of extra giggles, grimaces and animation. When the young man is leaving she becomes very dramatic in her behavior and in a languishing sort of manner bids him to return to see her again soon. Do you think this girl's prospects of ever attracting a worthwhile young man are good? Won't discerning young men see through her efforts to seem what she isn't by nature?

CURIOUS

ANSWER: Surely they will and the girl will never know that she drove off young men by not being herself. You see plenty of girls putting on a show trying to attract men, and it makes you feel like weeping because the poor little dunces are doing the very thing that will kill their chances.

Men like simplicity more than any other quality in girls and they dislike affectation. So the girl who poses does the thing that is most obnoxious to the average man. And that explains why many a girl, who would be attractive to many men if she would only be natural, scares men off with her airs and graces so that they never come near her. I once knew a poor girl who lost her matrimonial chances in this way. In reality, she was a very intelligent, nice girl, industrious and practical and she would have made any man a good wife. She was thrifty, too, and could get at least 150 cents out of a dollar. She was a wizard with her needle, so she dressed beautifully on almost nothing at all.

Plenty of men would have been glad to have married her if they had known how economical she was, but she always posed as being rich when they knew she wasn't, and would casually mention that the dress she had made herself and that perhaps cost $5 was a little bargain se had picked up for $50. And she would boast that really she was the most helpless creature alive and that the very thought of a kitchen made her sick. And that did for her, no man wanting to marry a peacock, a moron or a liar.

✧ ✧ ✧

DEAR MISS DIX: I am 25. Have been going with a young man who is 29 for five years. He has no job. I have been furnishing him with money for several years. He wants me to marry him. Do you think it advisable?

MARIA

✧ ✧ ✧

ANSWER: Not unless you want to support and believe me, a woman can get mightly tired of having to make the dough and bake it, too. Tell your clinging vine he will have to show that he has backbone enough to stand alone before you walk to the altar with him.

Black Becomes Smart In London, Too

LONDON — (Reuters) — The Parisienne's favorite black is fast becoming the "smart" fashion in London, too.

Queen Elizabeth helped it on its way when she appeared in black at a number of functions during the fortnight's court mourning for King Gustav of Sweden.

The first appearance of the Queen in black—a rich velvet evening gown—instead of her usual pastel shades drew admiration from all who saw her. Subsequent appearances at daytime functions served to increase the general opinion that "black really suits her."

London's west end shops were quick to seize the cue. Black gowns for evening wear and black suits and dresses for the daytime are today the feature of window displays in the city's smartest streets—Bond Street, Regent Row and Oxford Street.

Black predominated also two Paris mid-season dress collections, by Paquin and Alwynn.

The second of these shows also made fashion history. For the first time, Londoners say a collection by a top Paris designer before it had been publicly shown in Paris. Little more than 24 hours after its private showing to the press in Paris, Alwynn's 1950-51 collection was given its world premier to a London audience.

Alwynn, 24, is the youngest member of Paris' leading group of couturiers and enjoys the reputation of being "the Dior of the younger set."

6—In Memoriams

DELONG—In loving memory of Mrs. E. J. Delong, who passed away Dec. 1st, 1945.
Five years have passed and gone
Since one we loved so well
Was taken from our home on earth,
With Jesus Christ to dwell.
The flowers we place upon her grave
May wither and decay,
But the love of her who sleeps beneath
Shall never fade away.
—Ever lovingly remembered by Edna, Olive and families.

JAMES—In loving memory of a dear wife and mother, Mrs. Orval, who died Nov. 30, 1949.
Her smiling way and pleasant face
Are a pleasure to recall,
She had a kindly word for each
And died beloved by all.
Some day we hope to meet her,
Some day, we know not when,
To clasp her hand in the better land,
Never to part again.
—Ever remembered by all the family.

Premier Frost Lays Foundation Stone Of New City Hall

In an atmosphere of grateful memories expressed with eloquence and dignity, the Hon. Leslie M. Frost, Prime Minister of Ontario, laid the foundation stone Friday afternoon of the city hall which William George Morrow dreamed as a gift to Peterborough. The extraordinary nature of this bequest was mentioned by Mr. James G. Hungerford of the National Trust Company, Toronto, executor of Mr. Morrow's will and trustee of his estate, in these impressive words: "I believe that this is an occasion quite unique in the history of this province, if not in the whole Dominion. I do not believe that anywhere else in Canada has a gift of this kind been made by a private citizen."

The figure of the emergence of the new city hall from the vision of one of Peterborough's citizen leaders during the last fifty years appeared in the speech of Hon. Mr. Frost as he stood within the steel framework of the finished form of Mr. Morrow's abstraction in some silent hour of looking into the inevitable end of his days in the community he loved and served.

In that assembly of citizens for the final event of the city's centenary of its municipal organization, attention seemed almost at once to be diverted from the materials of the building to the spirit of the man who had virtually planned it.

Engraved Stone

The engraved foundation stone which Premier Frost declared well and truly laid became the symbol of the building as it will be for a long future of Peterborough, and a reflection of the citizenship of the man, alderman and mayor years ago, who placed it within the acceptance of his fellow and succeeding townsmen.

Some hundreds of citizens were present for the ceremony which for all its preoccupation with the passing hour and its forward-looking, kept turning back to the lifetime of W. G. Morrow, his gift to the community and his deep attachment to Peterborough as suggested in the reference of Mr. Hungerford.

Many Present

Church and state and municipality were represented in the interesting program, members of this year's council and their wives, a few who were once associated with Mr. Morrow in his council terms, former mayors, and members of other civic bodies and those engaged in the work of raising the building.

Two relatives of Mr. Morrow were Miss Mae Needham of Millbrook and Miss Evelyn Morrow of Peterborough.

Ald. Adam Sands, chairman of the council's reception committee, was in charge of the proceedings.

Among those present on the platform with him were: Mayor Swanston and Mrs. Swanston, the city's Aldermen and their wives; Judge Sheldon L. Smoke and Mrs Smoke; Senator J. J. Duffus; Gordon K. Fraser, M.P., and Mrs Fraser; Hon. Harold R. Scott and Mrs. Scott; Mr. Vincent Eastwood, chairman of the City Trust Commission whose funds paid for the property; Mr. John MacRae, Toronto, assistant general manager of the Bank of Montreal with Mr. and Mrs. C. S. Cummer; Ian McRae; Mr. F. H. Marani and Col. M. F. Allan, Toronto, of Marani and Morris, architects of the city hall; W. G. Ovens and Mrs Ovens, James Hamilton, W. H. Thompson, W. H. Bosley, Toronto.

U.S. Production Shifting To Armaments

By CHARLES MOLONY.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 2 (AP)—Government reports are beginning to show signs of the predicted temporary minor misses in the American economic machinery as it shifts from civilian to military production.

They seem to indicate that:

1—The boom in strictly civilian goods is passing its peak—perhaps has done so already.

2—Controls applied to slow the civilian boom and so free workers for defence expansion are causing a slack a bit faster than it can be taken up by the budding rearmaments program.

Expect Disruption

Officials had long anticipated these developments. In fact, they expect things to get worse before getting better despite efforts to keep the shift-over disruption at a minimum.

There are several indications that the economy is undergoing some strain and transition, although first effects have been fairly faint. Among them:

1—The Census Bureau reported that a dip in factory employment contributed to a 300,000 increase last month in the number of jobless. The bureau said that "may have been due to temporary dislocations in industries affected by the defence program."

2—One automobile concern, Kaiser-Frazer, reported that the curbs on instalment purchasing have cut car buying so much that K-F has been forced to halve its production and payroll although it has not been called upon for any defence production.

3—The Commerce Department said private home building took a larger-than-seasonal 10 per cent drop in November, first month following adoption of the mortgage credit curbs aimed at deflating the housing boom to conserve materials for defence.

Farmers Predict Good Year In '51

OTTAWA, Dec. 2—(CP)—The annual Federal-Provincial Agricultural conference has generally agreed that 1951 may be a pretty fair year for the farmer—except perhaps for the man who produces Maritime potatoes.

While the two-day conference makes no concrete proposals for farm production, the 100 delegates appeared to be optimistic when their meetings ended yesterday.

They took home with them today a series of commodity reports from Federal agricultural experts reviewing 1950 farm production and plotting 1951 outlook. The reports indicate favorable conditions for the next year.

They took with them, too, official word that Britain is prepared to buy 130,000,000 pounds of Canadian bacon and 77,000,000 pounds of Canadian cheese in 1951 at prices which still are to be determined.

The announcements came from Agriculture Minister Gardiner and Sir Andrew Jones, head of the British Food Mission in Canada. Both said the prices still are to be worked out.

Lost Pay Envelope 36 Years Ago, Returned

LANCASTER, Pa., Dec. 2 (AP)—Thirty-six years ago Walter S. Leinaweaver lost a pay envelope containing $18.

"And $18 wasn't chicken feed in those days," Leinaweaver recalls.

Yesterday, in the mail, he received an unsigned letter containing $20. The letter said:

"Dear Sir: Long ago you lose box factory pay envelope with $18. I find it. Here it is—I give you $20. Forgive."

Commented Leinaweaver: "I do forgive. I hope that person has nothing but good luck."

French Heads Arrive For Meeting

Premier, Schuman To Discuss Korea With Prime Minister

LONDON, Dec. 2—(AP)—The Prime Ministers of Britain and France today discussed the critical world situation on the eve of Prime Minister Attlee's flight to meet President Truman.

Although it was the crisis in Korea which made a meeting of the Chiefs of State urgent, Attlee and French Premier Rene Pleven also talked over European defence and German rearmament.

The French leaders arrived this morning and went to the French Embassy and then to Attlee's official residence at 10 Downing Street. They got to work almost immediately and did not leave the building for lunch.

Non Confidence

The French Premier came to the conference with a strong parliamentary vote of confidence in his own parliament behind him.

Plevan's Cabinet won endorsement from the National Assembly last night by a thumping 347-184 vote. This is an usually large majority for the current Assembly, where Cabinets sometimes stand or fall by a few votes.

Only the Communists and a few extreme rightist followers of Gen. Charles De Gaulle finally voted against Pleven.

Attlee's office announced he would leave for Washington by plane at 9:30 p.m. (4:30 p.m. EST) tomorrow. If the weather is favorable he will go direct, otherwise a refueling stop at New York is planned.

May Fly To U.S.

Pleven is expected to decide at the end of today's discussions whether he too will fly to Washington for the conferences there.

Attlee will take 17 persons with him, including Sir William Slim, chief of the imperial general staff, and foreign office experts. His first meeting with President Truman is set for Tuesday. Afterwards Attlee will visit Ottawa.

British spokesmen today tried hard to erase any impression that the President's comment on the atom bomb Thursday was the prime reason for Attlee's hurry-up trip to Washington. They said the whole range of East-West relations is up for discussion in the light of the current crisis.

British Admiral, Wife Killed By Shotgun

LYMINGTON, Eng., Dec. 2—(AP).—Rear Admiral Isham Worsley Gibson, 68, once one of Britain's leading naval officers, was found dead in the kitchen of his country home yesterday with wounds in his head and a double-barrelled shotgun at his side. His wife, Phyllis, with similar head wounds, was found dead in another room. Both had been ill.

750,000 Vote For New Councils

By The Canadian Press

For upwards of 750,000 Ontario residents, Monday is voting day. In 23 cities and in scores of towns, villages and townships they will elect their municipal governments for 1951—in some cases for 1952 as well—and will pass on public works or other spending projects amounting to nearly $3,500,000. In six cities and six other centres they will decide whether to permit Sunday sport.

Across the province, the election picture varies sharply, a Canadian Press survey shows. In eight cities and the town of Brockville, as large as some cities, the mayors have been elected by acclamation. London has a five-way battle for the mayor's chair; five cities have three candidates and eight have two.

Cities voting on Sunday sports are Fort William, Guelph, Kitchener, Sault Ste. Marie, Sudbury and Waterloo. Other places with a similar vote are Brockville, Lindsay, Port Hope, Prescott, Whitby and Wolfe Island.

Soaring Prices Gobble Up Wage Increases Says CCL

OTTAWA, Dec. 2—(CP)—The Canadian Congress of Labor today said a survey shows higher wages in a large part of Canadian industry have been eaten away by higher prices.

The survey by the C.C.L.'s research department, a Congress statement said, shows that almost half the 1,000,000 industrial workers covered by Dominion Bureau of Statistics figures are earning, in real purchasing power, either less than or only up to a $1 a week more than in 1946.

The C.C.L. report said about one-third the workers covered in the D.B.S. reports now are actually worse off than in 1946.

The C.C.L. report aid about one-third the workers covered in the D.B.S. reports now are actually worse off than in 1946.

It said 23.4 per cent were earning from $1 to $2 in real purchasing power each week, while slightly more than 20 per cent were getting from $2 to $5 more.

The 6.7 per cent of the workers who were receiving between $5 and $8 a week more in "real" wages were largely in lower-paid categories. Almost one-third of them were still receiving less than the average earnings in their respective groups, mining and manufacturing.

1,500 Evacuated As Flood Starts

CALGARY, Dec. 2. (CP)—Some 1,500 persons were evacuated from their homes along the Bow River as flood waters caused by an ice-jam today swept the district.

The evacuees were housed in fire stations, hotels and private homes. Police supervised the moving of the families that started last night in low-lying areas on the city's eastern outskirts.

More than three feet of water covered some sections of the flooded area, about 12 city blocks on the south side of the river.

Evacuation was hampered by 14-degree-below-zero weather.

Get No Pay Increase Teachers Resign

SUDBURY, Dec. 2 — (CP).—F. W. Sheridan, chairman of the High School Board, said Friday he has received "a number" of resignations from secondary school teachers here.

"They have not yet been accepted, but will be discussed at a meeting of the School Board next Tuesday night," he said.

He declined further comment. However, it is reported that the resignations stem from a request by the teachers early this year for salary increases of $1,000. The only action taken on the request has been a recommendation that each teacher be given a $300 increase in 1951. There are two secondary schools in Sudbury.

Federal-Provincial Conference To Start

To Study Tax Agreements; May Extend Social Security Services

OTTAWA, Dec. 2—(CP)—A general federal-provincial conference, first of its kind in five years, will open Monday in the Commons chamber in the parliament buildings.

The heads of Canada's 11 governments, many of their cabinet ministers, and a retinue of officials and advisers will attend. Prime Minister St. Laurent will act as chairman.

For the last few months Mr. St. Laurent has been exchanging correspondence with the provincial premiers. He asked them to suggest matters they would like to see on the agenda. Some of the correspondence was made public during the session of parliament last spring.

Letters Made Public

Later exchanges are expected to be made public during the week-end. These are expected to give a better over-all idea of the topics that will come up for discussion.

The conference was called mainly to discuss renwal of existing federal-provincial taxation agreements and to study the possibility of extending social security services.

In the earlier correspondence some of the provinces suggested that the conference deal as well with such things as responsibility for unemployable persons, with federal aid to education, with a public investment program, and with clarification of the provincial powers of taxation.

May Last Week

No one knows how long the conference will last, but some officials believe it may continue a week. Then some of the issues might be referred to continuing committees.

The conference is to be followed by the third plenary session of the federal-provincial constitutional conference, which has been trying since last January to find a suitable formula for making all constitutional amendments in Canada without reference to the United Kingdom parliament.

The general conference will meet under conditions vastly different from those in 1945, when the federal and provincial governments met together to discuss fiscal and social security problems. That conference ended in failure.

The 1945 conference was called at a time when a serious post-war depression was expected. The federal government placed before the provinces a definite set of proposals which it believed would help the country to ease the shock of a major depression.

500,000 Chinese Troops Start Attack Against UN Force Army

Allied Troops Shoved Back 40 Miles
Force Trapped Near Reservoir
Reds Begin To Hammer Right Flank

TOKYO, Dec. 2—(AP)—Chinese Communists swarmed forth tonight for an attack on Pyongyang. Allied rear-echelon units and refugees streamed south out of the former Korean Communist capital ahead of the new Red wave. A spokesman said the United States Eighth Army, trying desperately to hold a defence line 30 miles to the north, "will not withdraw from any position or from anywhere until forced to do so by enemy action."

If forced to do so, he added, "the Army will destroy things of military value to the enemy."

"This military policy will apply if it becomes necessary to evacuate . . . Pyongyang."

Inside the city of 300,000 population, Communist leaflets appeared proclaiming, "you shall be free from the enemy soon."

Koreans in Pyongyang were exhorted to "break down transportation and communications systems, the trains and warehouses . . ."

Fifth Columns

Korean Allied sympathizers warned that a fifth column had infiltrated Pyongyang. Rigid controls were set up at the city gates.

Powerful Chinese columns from a 500,000-man force thrown into the Korean campaign were rolling southward in a thrust at the Allies' exposed right flank.

Red vanguards had thrust into Songchon but American foot troopers were fighting desperately to recapture the town and shore it up as the eastern anchor to the new Allied defence line.

In north central Korea, the US 10th Corps said 7th Division units trapped on the east side of Changjin reservoir "have fought their way back to Hagaru (Hakalwoo) with heavy losses of personnel and equipment."

Veteran Soldiers To Get Pay Boost

OTTAWA, Dec. 2 — (CP). — The Army is going to recognize —with a pay boost—the experience of Second World War soldiers who have gone back into uniform with Canada's Special Brigade.

Headquarters announced Friday night provision has been made to upgrade the veteran in the special force.

He will be graded as a private first class, if in the opinion of his commanding officer, he has reached a standard of training and military knowledge equivalent to that of a soldier who has completed 12 months' service as a private in the Canadian Army Active Force.

And he will get the extra money that goes with the boost—$79 a month as compared with $68 for the new recruit.

Say Scientist Blackmailed

Associates Can't Believe Pontecorvo Spy

CHALK RIVER, Ont., Dec. 2 (CP)—Canadian scientists who knew him well think Dr. Bruno Pontecorvo, missing British atomic physicist, was "blackmailed" by European Communists into going behind the Iron Curtain.

They can't believe the handsome, brilliant native of Italy who worked in Canada's atomic energy project here for several years is a spy.

Sent Postcard

They said yesterday during the first press visit to this atom plant that Pontecorvo sent a postcard to a friend here from France shortly before he vanished a couple of months ago. He was on holiday then with his family and said he was looking forward to getting back to work at Britain's Harwell atomic plant.

Nobody has heard from or of him since, but it is widely felt here he is somewhere behind the Iron Curtain, bearing with him vital secrets about this plant and the western atomic effort generally.

Offered Job Here

Scientists said Pontecorvo was offered a permanent job here when he announced about 18 months ago he was going back to Britain. He was well liked personally and his work was excellent.

He declined. He said he had promised the British scientists when he originally came to this continent that he would return to them, and he felt under a moral obligation to do so.

What happened on that mysterious European holiday "baffles us all," one scientist said. But it is known now that there were Communist links in his family background that in his youth in Italy's Fascist days he may have been Red himself, and the feeling, expressed separately by two senior officials, is that this was used in some way to blackmail him. That's the only way they can explain it.

9 RC Churchmen Convicted By Czech Court

By WILLIAM OATIS.

PRAGUE, Dec. 2 (AP).—Nine Roman Catholic churchmen, including a bishop and two abbots, were convicted today of espionage and high treason in an alleged Vatican plot to overthrow Czechoslovakia's Communist government.

The accused, who had joined the prosecution in condemning the Vatican as a spy centre for American capitalism, received sentences ranging from 10 years to life imprisonment.

Life Sentence

A seven-judge Prague state court meeting in gloomy Pankrac prison imposed the life term on Benedectine Abbot Jan Opasek of Prague's Brevnov Monastery. In addition, the 37-year-old cleric was fined 100,000 crowns (about $2,000).

Suffragan Bishop Stanislav Zela, 57, Vicar-General of Olomuc Archdiocese, was sentenced to 25 years imprisonment and fined 100,000 crowns. The court decreed a 20-year team and a 50,000-crown fine for Premonstrate Abbot Stanislav Jarolimek, of the Strahov Monastery in Prague.

The nine defendants, each between two khaki-clad policemen, rose to hear their sentence. They faced the tribunal slightly bowed and gave no outward signs of emotion.

The sentencing over, the convicted clerics were asked whether they planned to appeal. The nine conferred briefly with their lawyers, then each took the witness stand to say that he accepted the judgment.

Canada Storing Bomb Plutonium

By HAROLD MORRISON

CHALK RIVER, Ont., Dec. 2—(CP)—Plutonium — used in the production of atom bombs—is being produced and stock-piled in increasing amounts at this expanding $30,000,000 atomic project 125 miles northwest of Ottawa.

An offspring of Uranium 238, the precious plutonium is being turned out in a 3,000-ton, $5,000,000 heavy-water pile, considered by scientists as the best of its kind in the world.

So far the United States hasn't bought Canadian plutonium, and Canada is not making the atom bomb.

For the first time, this heavy-water pile and other hitherto-closely-guarded atomic equipment were thrown open yesterday for inspection by a group of 25 parliamentary press correspondents.

Drew Residence Answers Dream Of Perfect Home

By KAY REX.

(For Pictures See Page 16.)

OTTAWA — (CP). — It's the kind of a house to dream about.

Rich broadloom rugs on the floors, old Canadian prints on the walls, and a color scheme which fairly takes your breath away—that is Stornoway.

Mrs. George Drew says there is plenty of cupboard space in the 35-year-old mansion in suburban Rockcliffe bought last February by a group of Canadians as a permanent residence for the Leader of the Opposition.

There is even a specially built closet—a series of about 15 cubby-holes— where she can keep her hats.

A hundred and one other eye-catching items have gone into fixing up this 14-room grey stucco house purchased for about $75,000 including renovations.

Thirteen-year-old Edward has his own small study on the third floor where he can entertain his pals after school hours. There is also a playroom where Sandra, aged 10, can pass a rainy afternoon at "house" with her dolls.

Broadloom On Stairs

And the stairs throughout the three-storey residence are covered in turquoise broadloom brought from the Drews' home in Toronto.

Renovation of the old residence has just been completed. But it is two months now since the Leader of the Progressive Conservative Party, his family, plus two dogs and a white kitten, moved in from a small apartment in downtown Ottawa.

Their furniture from the Toronto house came too, and Florenza Drew is delighted that the new home is just about the same size as the old one. Everything has fitted perfectly and even the windows ar right.

"Most of my drapes were the proper length except for those in the guest-room which I had to lengthen," she said in an interview.

However, she has bought some new ones for the den, the family's "favorite" spot. A small room to the right of the broad entrance hall, it is panelled in pine and has a long foot-stool upholstered in material which matches the new drapes. They are of natural linen printed in red with scenes of early Canada.

Many of the furnishings are collectors' items picked up by the Drews on their travels. Some come from Mrs. Drew's birthplace, Italy, and others — such as the old grandfather's clock in the hall—from her husband's old home in Guelph, Ont.

But the main thing is, everything blends.

"George and I often give one another presents for the house, and we always choose things we know will go well with our other furnishings," she said.

Italian Lampshade

Mrs. Drew is particularly proud of a couple of parchment lamp shades she brought back from Italy this summer. They're decorated with old Italian prints and she has been experimenting to see whether Canadian prints can be used in the same manner.

She also has some heavy shell-shaped glass vases made into table-lamps. She finds the light shining up and through one of these makes excellent indirect lighting for the oil painting which hangs above it.

Artistic and ingenious, Mrs. Drew also has put to good use a French tapestry given by her father, Edward Johnson, from his office in the Metropolitan Opera Company in New York.

The tapestry now hangs on the first landing, an ideal covering for a "bare piece of wall which I couldn't figure what to do with."

On the second floor Mrs. Drew has her own sitting-room, far enough away not to be disturbed but still close to the children.

As for George's study — that's 'way up on the third floor, behind a closed door beyond the playroom. The "Black Hole of Calcutta," Mrs. Drew laughingly calls it. This is the one room in the house which is "out-of-bounds" because the leader of the opposition definitely will not permit any "tidying up" of his papers.

Girls Left Jobs Now On Outside

TORONTO, Dec. 2. — Labor Minister Daley informed Board of Control Friday that the girl employees of the Radio Condenser Co., were ill-advised when they left their jobs and he doubted whether he could do anything to help them. A deputation of the employees a week ago asked the board to intercede, claiming they were locked out.

Mr. Daley said the girls had left and according to the company the vacancies had been filled. The United Electrical, Radio and Machine Workers knew the requirements of the discriminatory dismissals he said, and had it properly advised its girl members no trouble would have occurred.

Cost of Living In Canada Higher—Expected Report

OTTAWA, Dec. 2 (CP)—Come Monday, Canadians will get another instalment in the history of the value of the Canadian dollar as the cost-of-living index tells what happened to prices in October.

Recent instalments in this history have been sombre, and there is no particular reason to expect that the new chapter will be any brighter, though the index progression may be easier to stomach than the 0.9-point increase shown in September.

The Oct. 1 index, reflecting September's price changes, placed living costs at an all-time high —a peak in the upward swing of the index level. That peak was 170.7.

This meant that it took more than $1.70 in September, 1950, to buy what $1.00 would purchase, on the average, in the years 1935-39.

September Jump

September's index was almost a full point ahead of August's, which stood at 169.8.

In September, prices were generally higher all along the consumer front, the one major exception being meat prices, which eased after a sharp summer upswing. But it cost more for eggs, butter, milk, coffee, fruits, coal and coke, fall and winter clothing, footwear, tires, some drugs and other household needs.

In its climb, the Canadian index is running somewhat parallel to that of the United States. The U.S. index, also based on 1935-39 equals 100, hit 174.8 at Oct. 15. This was an 0.2-per-cent rise over the previous peak, reached in August this year and in September, 1948.

MORE ABOUT—

500,000 Chinese

Gen. MacArthur said the Chinese had thrown 500,000 well armed troops into Korea. About half were arrayed against United Nations troops in battle and the other half were reported moving to the front.

"A state of undeclared war now exists between the Chinese Communists and the United Nations forces," MacArthur said in a public statement answering questions submitted by war correspondents.

Many Killed

Chinese generals were spending men lavishly to destroy the U.N. force before the issue of peace or total war is clarified completely."

Besides the blows against Allied forces in the northwest, Chinese were massing in North Central Korea for a drive on the east coast.

With the Chinese build-up rolling swiftly, the Eighth Army faced the prospect of finding itself outnumbered soon six or seven divisions to one.

New threats by swarming Communist forces were mounting hourly.

Eight Red divisions—more than 100,000 troops — were thrusting south Saturday in a drive to roll up the new defence line 30 miles north of the old North Korean capital of Pyongyang.

They surged toward the right flank in the same tactic that earlier this week crushed MacArthur's end the war" drive toward the Manchurian border and churned 110,000 U.N. troops into a maelstrom retreat on the northwest.

Overrun Songchon

Already the Chinese had overrun Songchon, 30 miles northeast of Pyongyang. U.S. 1st Cavalry foot troopers, after a counter-attack that gained nearly five miles were fighting within one mile of the city. Songchon is wanted as an eastern anchor to the new Allied line in northwest Korea.

Drive To Sea

East of Songchon along the main road to the east coast port of Wonsan, Red Chinese troops were reported massing for a drive to the sea of Japan. Forward elements already were moving toward Wonsan from Yangdok, 40 miles westward.

The fall of Wonsan would deprive the U.S. 10th corps in northeast Korea of its major base and cut off most of its scattered and slender columns.

MacArthur said more than half of the 500,000 Reds already are at the front, with the rest moving forward from bases near the Manchurian border.

UN Outnumbered

"This overwhelmingly outnumbers our forces," said the UN commander-in-chief. He did not disclose the UN strength.

The Allied strength, on the basis of divisional units, may be somewhere near 200,000 ground troops in Korea. The exact figure has bee nkept secret for security reasons.

MacArthur said the Chinese, well equipped "with modern and efficient weapons," have as much fire power as the UN man for man, but compensate for this with a smaller and less complicated organization.

Airmen claimed a kill of 3,800 Communists in the northwest sector Thursday and Friday, and again attacked the columns Saturday.

727 Air Sorties

An air summary said that planes in 727 sorties Friday blew up an ammunition train and maintained a "constant aerial umbrella" over U.N. rear guards seeking to check the Red advance.

Six Russian built MIG-15 jets swept down on a flightof B-29s near Sinuiju on the Manchurian border in Northwest Korea. The B-29s fought off the jets, damaging one.

Ammunition was dropped from the air to U.S. 1st Marine Division units and 7th Division infantrymen trying to fight their way out of the Changjin reservoir traps.

Flying Weather

Clear, cold weather enabled Allied aircraft to range from one end of the front to the other in support of ground forces. Waves of planes covered most of icy North Korea, from carriers and from land bases in Japan and Korea.

In the northeast, the Allied toll of enemy dead was placed at more than 6,000 in five days of fighting. But the losses have failed to stem the oncoming Chinese tide.

U.N. forces on the northwest front braced themselves tonight for the expected renewal of the Communist counter-offensive.

Two Die In Fire Engulfing Home

ANGERS, Que., Dec 2—(CP— Two persons were burned to death in a fire which destroyed a century-old farmhouse in this Papineau county town, 14 miles northeast of Ottawa, early today. Four others escaped. Dead are Miss Elmira Mongeon, 78, and her grandnephew, 13-months-old Germain Mongeon.

Jean-Baptiste Mongeon, brother of the dead woman, escaped with his wife and his son and daughter-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. Noel Mongeon. The child was the son of Noel Mongeon.

The fire started in a large, old-fashioned wood stove in the kitchen and within minutes the two-storey, tinder-dry building was a raging inferno.

Miss Mongeon and the child were trapped in their beds upstairs.

The two couples who escaped had just arisen and were preparing breakfast. They escaped with only the clothes they were wearing.

Costs Swallow

"Clearly, the earnings of these workers were at so low a level in 1946 that even such fairly-substantial increases are not sufficient to make up the difference," the report said.

Dealing with specific industries, the report said that in primary iron and steel the money increase of $17.39 was reduced to $1.90 a week in "real" terms; in the automobile industry, a weekly increase of $17.33 was worth $1.07; in petroleum, a money increase of about $16 dropped to less than $1.

Profits Up

Meanwhile, the CCL said, there had been substantial gains in corporate profits. Profits after taxes earned by industry in 1949 were about $1,241,000,000, about 65 per cent up from 19467.

The Congress said the "decline in workers' real earnings" points to the need for an immediate program of price controls "before workers' living standards are depressed even more."

13-Year-Old Girl Wed To Malayan Given To Mother

SINGAPORE, Dec. 2 (AP)—A pretty 13-year-old Dutch girl was taken from her Moslem husband today and turned over to a woman she says she hates—her mother.

Sobbing brokenly, Maria Bertha Hertogh stepped from the Supreme Court builting in a tropical rainstorm and into a surging mass of three thousand Malayans, Indians, and Chinese. Most of the crowd was on her side.

The Supreme Court had just placed her in custoy of Mrs. Adeline Hertogh, her 55-year-old Roman Catholic mother, who sued to uproot the girl from an eight-year life as a Moslem and Malayan. The high court also ordered Maria's marriage to a Malayan school techer annulled. The child, said Justice T. A. Brown, "is not in the eyes of this court a Mohammedan."

Will Appeal

He denied a defence request to delay putting the custody ruling into effect pending an appeal, but directed that Maria be kept within the court's jurisdiction until then.

Mrs. Hertogh had accused Maria's foster-mother, 55-year-old Malayan nurse Che Aminah, of stealing the child in 1942 during the Japanese occupation of Java, where the Hertoghs then were living. The nurse claimed Mrs. Hertogh had given her the child.

Maria, brown-eyed, brown-haired, and dressed in a native Malay sarong ignored Mrs. Hertogh and cried out to her Malay foster mother, "Mother, what will I do now? I hate her. I want to stay here."

Londoners Seek Traffic Reform Experts Baffled

By JEFFERY RYAN
Canadian Press Staff Writer.

LONDON — (CP). — Author Hailaire Belloc wrote that London was a "dying giant" and the way things are going he could be right.

The city is ailing, anyway, from a modern malady common to the many great cities—traffic jams.

Sprawling London, with its narrow, haphazard streets spread over 117 square miles, is becoming, at least in downtown areas, a place of three speeds—slow, dead slow, and wait.

Traffic moves bumper to bumper, causing grey hairs among drivers and pedestrians alike. It often takes up to an hour at busy times to travel from the bottom of the Strand to Piccadilly — a 30-minute journey on foot. It's even worse around busy Waterloo Station.

Traffic trouble is nothing new to London. It started when the horseless carriage began appearing in streets originally designed for horse and buggy. But it seems more crowded every year.

Two British newspapers are carrying daily stories in a campaign for traffic reform and have thrown their columns open to comments from readers.

Taxi-drivers blame the buses, bus-drivers blame the taxis and private cars, and the pedestrian blames everybody but himself.

Parking is agreed to be one main factor. Authorities tried a parking ban on most central roads, but motorists still had to park some place and the idea is not making much headway. Police issue as many as 27,000 summonses a year for street obstruction.

Here are some sidelights on the traffic situation:

1—Lord Lucas, representing the Transport Ministry, said he is at his "wits' end."

"If you slowed up London traffic any more, it would come to a standstill," he said. "And things will get worse—there's no doubt about that."

2. One London newspaper staged a "tortoise-and-hare" race among a taxi, a private automobile, a cyclist and a runner. Over a 3½-mile course from Liverpool Street to Piccadilly the man on the bicycle was first and the private motorist last.

3. Another newspaper noted that you can fly from London to Paris faster than you can travel from one end of the city to another.

One reader declined to believe that London's traffic conditions are any more clotted than those of Paris or New York. In a letter to the Evening Standard, he said the problem lies with the mental lethargy of the average Briton, who is "inevitably two seconds slower than American and French drivers in getting away from the green light."

Daring Engineers Still Seek Bombs of Wartime Blitz

By EDWIN S. JOHNSON,
Canadian Press Staff Writer

LONDON — (CP) — Ten years after Hitler launched his savage aerial blitz against Britain, special units of the Royal Engineers are still searching for bombs that came screaming down, but failed to explode.

Since 1940 central headquarters of the bomb disposal units has received more than 40,000 reports of suspected "UXBS", as the duds are known to the experts. Of this number about 25,000 have been dealt with, some 14,000 discredited and hundreds abandoned. But more than 100 suspected bombs are still marked on the operational maps—30 of them in the London Metropolitan area.

The task of burrowing under buildings or probing weed-grown craters has kept hundreds of men at work for years and cost the nation thousands of dollars. Every time a bomb-disposal squad is sent to investigate a report, it costs the country's exchequer about $1,000. If a bomb is located its removal will entail an additional outlay of approximately $5,000.

At the height of the campaign to pin-point the duds hundreds of reports poured into the bomb disposal centre. Since then there has been a sharp decrease, but even today an average of about six reports is received every week. Most of them, however, have been false alarms.

But nothing is left to chance by the men that risk their lives in the grim search. Every suspicious clue is thoroughly checked. If a bomb is located residents are promptly moved out of the danger area and the disposal squad goes to work.

"Gas Meter" Bomb

Should the delicate operation of removing the fuse start the delayed-action mechanism ticking, the explosion may follow anytime between 10 seconds and 80 hours.

Sometimes the "ticking" has been traced to less dangerous sources. Recently, investigators after working steadily for more than 24 hours came across a gas meter instead of a bomb. Occasionally the long-suspected buried bomb turns out to be a large piece of shrapnel, the nose-cap of an anti-aircraft shell or a slab of masonry.

Although the lessons of experience have introduced new equipment and techniques, the job of bomb disposal still holds plenty of danger. Officers in charge of operations, however, proudly point to the fact that not a casualty has been listed since January 1948. Before that date the "uxbs," ranging from 100-pounders to the huge block-busters, had killed 35 officers and 211 other ranks. In addition 155 were wounded.

Casualties have also occurred in other branches of the special unit's operations. Since 1943, when the job of clearing minefields was started, 151 lives have been lost and 55 injured.

Engineers regard mine disposal as one of their most dangerous assignments, but already they have removed more than 65,000 mines, strategically scattered in areas of southern England as defence against a possible German invasion.

Their task of mine-clearance will soon be completed, but they still have a few more bomb reports to tackle. Recently 125 marker flags were added to an almost clear operational map. These were bombs abandoned in isolated fields or marshy ground where an explosion could do no harm. The home office has decided these bombs now must be disposed of due to the likelihood of future building on the sites.

Make Love To Public Restaurateurs Urged

PORT ARTHUR — (CP) — George L. Wenzel of Austin, Tex., suggests Canadian restaurateurs should "make a little love to the public."

Mr. Wenzel, a restaurant consultant, conducted a two-day course here.

He said showmanship and a little knowledge of the science of cooking are necessary attributes in the successful operation of a restaurant.
